Port Rowan News:—Our fishermen sometimes get a sturgeon with fifty dollars worth of caviar in it. During the run each pound net will have time to six of these fish every time the net is emptied. In the old times, a hundred sturgeon were counted a good haul, and a hundred and twenty a nice catch. But these fish were worth only 5c to 75 cents each. One good fish at the present time is worth as much as a netful was to the fishermen of the past generation. The man who ate the first dish of caviar must have had some courage and great control over the volcanic actions of his stomach. It's a dirty stuff at the best, but there is a grim fashion in eating which commands it votaries not to revolt at slime. Caviar is a dish for men, although some women eat it. Some women also smoke strong pipes, but as a rule tobacco belongs to man and caviar also might reasonably be left to him.

The Canada Food Board has ordered a number of business places closed for violating its regulations.

A long distance phone call from St Catharines brought the wife of James Borres from Toronto and secured his release from custody after arrest for not carrying his marriage certificate.

His nose in his pocket, a soldier arrived at a casualty clearing station on the western front recently. In a hand to hand fight the man had his nose cut off. He picked up the member which had been clearly cut off, and put it in his pocket as a relic, but the surgeons insisted on sewing it on again, and it has now healed so well that the wound is scarcely visible.

An automobile party of six, equally divided as to sex, were stranded here on Tuesday. They claimed to belong at or near Kitchener. Their car was crippled, they had no gasoline, neither had they any money, and they were hungry. The relief committee had to provide bed and board. The young men should have been committed as vagrants.—Harriston Review.

Here is an interesting bit of philosophy from a writer in Farm and Fireside:—"I've been married twenty-six years, and I've never had what you call a sure-enough vacation. I never get two weeks for a vacation, so I just take ten-minute vacations. It's a wonderful help. Then I always wear rubber heels, keep my voice low, because there's nothing so wearing as talking in a high voice, and I try to sit and stand in the most restful way. When things go wrong and I'm getting angry or blue, I take a few deep breaths, hold up my head and practice a grin. It's the best tired-and-cross tonic I know of."

If You Lose Your Card

The law stipulates: "If the registration certificate of any person should be lost or destroyed, worn out or defaced, he may, upon establishing the fact to the satisfaction of the Central Registrar, Ottawa, obtain from him a fresh certificate." Being able to give the officials the series numbers as they appear on the cards helps considerably in securing a new one.

A Fake Hero

George Wearing, passing as a returned officer, has been wearing out the patience of Midland citizens. He posed as one of the original nine left out of the first draft of the Princess Pats, and with the influence of the Next-of-kin Society and other patriotic bodies was appointed night policeman for that town. He was lauded as a hero, and many a friendly clasp and happy clap he received for the heroic service he rendered his country. Men, women and children got news of battles from him, and extended hospitality. Wearing is now serving 3 months in Barrie jail, and is not wearing a military uniform. The military police nabbed him.

Back-Door Etiquette

It is back-door etiquette for a woman to send back the dish, in which her neighbor has sent her something to eat, full. As a result of trying to observe this rule two Atchison women are on the verge of collapse. The Globe gives the details:—"Sunday morning one of the women sent her neighbor a pan of string beans. Promptly the woman receiving the beans returned the pan filled with some plum butter. The other woman returned the pan filled with fresh doughnuts. Her neighbor sent the pan back with some raisin bread in it. The other woman fired the pan back filled with tomatoes. The neighbor quickly stirred up a cake, and it was no time until that pan was sent back filled with little hot cakes. The other woman was ready for the pan and sent it over filled with pickled beets. The other neighbor flew to her pantry and jerked up some sliced ham and sent the pan back, but the other woman's men folks met that pan before it reached its destination; there is not enough of it left for the junkman."—Capper's Weekly.

Wingham will vote on a by-law to loan $7,000 to a new industry, The Farmers' Fertilizer Co.

Lieut. Robert E. Lee, a grandson of the famous Confederate general, has been cited for the Croix de Guerre.

"Dear me, they tell us to live on fruit, to eat more of it," remarked a shopper, "but how can we afford to, with fruit the price it is?" The query remains unanswered.

Two citizens of Hespeler, Ont., were arraigned before the local magistrate on a charge of hoarding flour. They were severely reprimanded but allowed suspended sentence by paying the costs of the court. The magistrates said that in future absolutely no excuse would be accepted.

Under the Dominion Inspection and Sales Act a bushel of potatoes must weigh 60 pounds, a peck must weigh 15 pounds, and a gallon 7½ pounds. A bag of potatoes must weigh 90 pounds and a barrel must contain 165 pounds of potatoes. A purchaser of a bag of potatoes who receives less than 90 pounds may invoke the penalties provided by the Act—for the first offence a fine not exceeding $25, for each subsequent offence a fine of $50, with imprisonment in default of payment.

A Careful Witness

A farmer alleged that a freight train of the defendant company had hit one of his mules. "Now, Mr. Jones," said the attorney for the corporation to the farmer, "will you kindly tell the court whether or not your mule was on the track when hit by the train?"

"Well," replied the farmer. "This was a bright mule, and I reckon if that train had took out after him in the woods which fringe the track there where he was killed, he would have got behind a tree!"

Killed A Porcupine

Mr. Wm. H. Rehkopf of the 12th concession was surprised on Monday afternoon to discover a porcupine near his house. It wasn't long until Mr. Rehkopf's dog became interested in the prickly stranger, and opened battle. The porcupine's method of fighting, however was too much for an assailant, who had his face stuck full of quills in an instant. Harold Sauer happened along at the time, and he helped Mr. Rehkopf to put an end to the unwelcome visitor. A wire pincher was used to extract the quills from the dog's face, and it was an exceedingly painful ordeal for the dog. Porcupines are very rare in this section of the country, but occasionally one puts in an appearance.—Mildmay Gazette.

ADVERTISING A NECESSITY

In conversation with a successful business man of a nearby town a few days ago, the discussion turned on advertising and we expressed surprise at the amount which he explained he was spending on advertising in his local paper, suggesting that many small town merchants considered that they could not afford to spend much money on advertising. "I know that is the impression, but that is where they lose out," he said. "I have tried both ways and my experience has taught me that I cannot afford to not advertise." He went on to explain that unadvertised goods on his shelves waiting for a customer to come and ask for them kept his money tied up too long and resulted in loss from wastage as well. He had found that no well-bought goods were "stickers." If the people were informed about them, and the only way to tell about them is by newspaper advertising.

This is one of the points that is often lost sight of in preparing advertising. If a prospective customer reads in an advertisement that a certain merchant has an article for sale that will benefit the customer, either as a tool for use or as an article for wear, or consumption he will investigate and probably buy. If the merchant buys goods, put them on his shelf and says nothing about them to anyone he cannot expect to besieged with requests for that line of goods.

One of the commonest complaints is that the large department and mail order stores in the cities cut the heart out of the local merchant's business. These is food for thought in the fact that no business goes out of town to a department or mail order store that is not itself an advertiser. Through newspapers, catalogues, and circulars these city firms place the story of their wares right into the homes of the country merchant's customers, and order after order goes to these houses simply because the buyers do not know—they have not been told—that the same goods can be purchased to equal advantage at home.

As a rule people prefer to deal at home if they can get what they want or anything near what they want in the local stores, and the merchant who by advertising tells the people what they want to know about his goods has no need to fear mail order competition. —Ridgetown Dominion.

The Reason of It

Better Use For The Bend

In these days when the motor cuts down the distance between town and town, citizens are becoming more familiar with what other places are doing. Motoring through a town they mentally compare its streets, its business blocks, its residences, its parks, with those of their own home town. Citizens returning from cross-country tours these days express admiration at what many towns and cities are doing towards beautifying their unsightly spots, making parks of waste lands, and setting aside open spaces as children's playgrounds and parks for the people to enjoy. When they return home to Walkerton they are struck by a vivid contrast. Walkerton has one park, the Bend. But the public is not admitted to it. Its privileges are reserved for a select class of beings of the Holstein and Jersey breed. These superior beings have placed their seal, a promiscuous lot of seals in fact—as if to guarantee their possession—and as though this were not enough a barb wire bars the way to the public. Nature has made the Bend an ideal spot for a park and picnic grounds and only a small expenditure would be required to add a few conveniences. A bath house for the youngsters, benches and tables and a couple of swings would make the Bend a welcome oasis for mothers and children these hot summer days. At present the property yields the town a revenue of $10 a year, or is it to $7? The Council might surely forego this revenue without increasing our tax rate unduly.

Death Of E. T. Gibson

Following a lingering illness of several months' duration, Mr. Edward T. Gibson, an old and highly esteemed citizen, passed quietly away at his home on Yonge St. last Thursday afternoon. He was in his 71st year. Mr. Gibson first saw the light of day in the town of Guelph but removed to Clifford as a mere lad, his mother at that time being a widow with eight small children. By dint of industry Mr. Gibson established himself in business in the village but later gave up to go to the G. T. R. service. In 1881 he came to Walkerton as baggageman, a position he held here for 21 years. In the work of Knox Church Mr. Gibson made his influence felt. He was one of the oldest Elders, an active worker in the Sunday school and interested in all good work. He was a man of fine spirit, and in character essayed pure gold. Among the friends he made in his quiet way he was loved and admired. Besides his wife, who was formerly Miss Elizabeth Gordon of Clifford, he leaves one daughter and four sons. They are:—Mrs. M. St. G. Anderson of Youngstown, Alta.; Charles E. of Montreal; Lance-Corp. Gordon A. in France; C. M. at home. Three brothers and one sister also survive:—William of Mount Forest; Mrs. John Lee of Clifford; Robert of Heapeker; and James of Kitchener. The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon from his late residence to Walkerton cemetery. Service was conducted by Rev. Thos. Wilson and the following friends acted as pallbearers:—Messrs H M. Lay, Judge Klein, G. S. Schwindt, V. Fischer, N. Robertson and Geo. D. McKay.

Carrick Pioneer Gone

An old and highly respected resident was removed by the hand of death on Friday, July 26th, in the person of John McPhail, of Otter Creek. Mr. McPhail, who was in his 76th year, had been a patient sufferer from cancer the past three years. Born in Cape Breton Mr. McPhail, came when a lad of 11 years with his father and brother, the late Robert McPhail, to Carrick. That was in 1853, the first year that any settlement was made in the township. It was then practically all solid bush and Walkerton but a small settlement. Near the small stream which took its name from the animals that frequented it, they chose the homestead where Mr. McPhail has resided ever since. By dint of hard effort the land was cleared and transformed into a highly productive farm. Mr. McPhail was a man of industry and rugged physique and never until illness overtook him late in life had he known a doctor's care. A man of sterling honesty and neighborly spirit he was respected and liked by all who came in contact with him. He was a lifelong member of knox Church and a liberal in politics. Besides his wife he leaves a family of four sons and one daughter. They are:—Angus of Clifford; Robert of Detroit; John and Joseph at home; and Miss Bella at home. His youngest son Dan, was killed in action in France on Sept. 20th, 1917. A large concourse of friends and neighbors followed the remains to their last resting place at Walkerton cemetery on Sunday afternoon, July 28. Rev. Thos. Wilson conducted the Service and the pall-bearers were:—Messrs John Brillinger, Thomas Jasper, J. W. South, F. J. and John Wilton, and F. Latchford.

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT

Nelson Lambertus Loses His Life While Swimming In The River At Ottawa

A Walkerton home was plunged in sorrow on Saturday morning when a telegram was received announcing the sad drowning at Ottawa of Nelson A. Lambertus, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lambertus, Victoria St. Nelson, who was 28 years of age, and a graduate of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, was employed in one of Allan & Cochrane's drug stores at the Capital. On Friday evening he and another young man employed in the same store, named Alex. Armstrong, went down to the Westboro Swimming Club at Clarella Park on the Ottawa River. They went in for a swim and shortly afterwards the lifeless body of Nelson was brought out from the water. The facts are yet uncertain, and Mr. James Lambertus of North Bay left for Ottawa on Tuesday afternoon to find out full particulars. It appears that Nelson swam out to a raft but expressed the opinion that he could swim all the way back again. Some companions were to bring along a boat. Another companion suggested that he might swim part way to a stake but whether he attempted to do so or not, is not clear. When the body was found, there was not much water in it leading to the impression that heart failure may have been the cause of his death.

Nelson was a clever, industrious good-living young chap and his sudden death is a heart-breaking blow to the parents and family, who have the sincerest sympathy of the community. Of a family of ten children all grew to manhood and womanhood, and this sad fatality is thus the first break in the family circle.

The young man was born on the South Line, Brant, where his father farmed for many years, and was a graduate of Walkerton High School. Later he served as an apprentice in Sieveright's drug store. After graduating from the Ontario College of Pharmacy in 1913, he was engaged by his brother, Mr. James Lambertus, druggist of North Bay and remained with him until about a year ago. He had been at the Capital since early last winter. He liked his position, like the city and was getting along fine, preferring the advantages of his position to going into business for himself. In a few weeks, it had been planned, he was to take a holiday and spend a couple of weeks with his brother at North Bay.

Besides the sorrowing parents, he leaves four brothers and five sisters. They are:—Joseph of Cargill; Will of Dunkeld; Herman of Eden Grove; James of North Bay; Mrs. Henry Siegner of Brant; Mrs. Geo. F. Frank of Carrick; Misses Maggie and Selinda at home; Miss Annie of Walkerville.

The remains were conveyed promptly from Ottawa to Toronto by a representative of the Knights of Columbus and there taken in charge of Mr. James Lambertus of North Bay and brought to Walkerton on the Monday morning G. T. R. train. The funeral which was held on Tuesday morning was largely attended. Services at the church and grave were conducted by Rev. Fr. Hofferth assisted by Rev. Fr. Hiller. The pall-bearers were the deceased's four brothers. Messrs Joseph William, Herman and James and two nephews, Earl Seigner and Gordon Lambertus.

Among those who attended the funeral were:—Mr Albert Lambertus of Hepworth, Mr. and Mrs. John McCormick and son, Robert, and Mrs. James McCormick of Kincardine, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Creech and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Creech of Pine River, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lambertus, Mr. and Mrs George Lambertus, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lambertus and Miss Edna Lambertus of Teeswater, besides many from Mildmay, Hanover and nearby places.

Since the above was put in type the following particulars have been received in a letter from Nelson's employer:—The poor boy left the store Friday evening in the best of spirits and I little thought that four hours later I would get such news.

He in company with Mr. Armstrong, another employee, went out to Clarella Park which is just outside the city for a swim and after paddling around for some time he clung behind a boat until he reached a raft and was sitting on this for some few minutes. Meanwhile Armstrong, who had been swimming about for some time, swam over to the raft and told him to stay there and he would swim in and get a boat and bring him back as he knew he could not make the shore.

ON "CITY OF VENICE"

Walkerton Boy Had Thrilling Experience—Water Poured In Through Big Hole—If Anybody Thought Of Home It Was Then

One of the boys on the troopship, "City of Vienna," on which Arthur Donoahue, son of Mr. Thomas Donoahue, photographer of Walkerton, was shipwrecked near Halifax, sent the following interesting account of the experience:—

"I was sitting on my bunk, about —o'clock in the morning, putting on my life preserver when all at once the boat went smash into a rock. (You know we have to have life preservers on all the time, only when we are sleeping, and then we have them under our heads ready to pull on. We had practice the previous day to see how quickly we could get them on and get up on deck, and everyone had his own spot to stand, so we knew how to do it pretty well.) The impact knocked me down, but we were on deck in about three minutes. There was no one in full dress. I had my pants, coat sweater, running shoes, also cap. Some had neither cap or coat, and some hadn't any stockings; but once we got on deck we had to stay there. We did not know what had happened till one of the officers came along and said: "She's all right. She only struck a rock." At the same time the water was pouring in through a big hole. Of course they had pumps working all the time. We could not see fifty yards ahead for mist, but we were all standing there waiting. All the while the wireless was working and the signal gun was being fired. In a few minutes some fishing boats and yachts reached us, but they could do nothing. In about three hours a boat came along. We were glad to see it, believe me. You don't know what we felt or looked like when we knew the ship was sinking. If anybody thought of home it was then. But we all got off safely. We had to take our turns when the yacht started taking us over to the other boat. We had to crawl down rope ladders and the waves would bring the yacht up to us. We had to jump every time the waves came and brought the yachts. If we didn't jump in a second, in we went into the water. But everybody got off safely and in about thirty minutes after the last man got off, the ship sank. We didn't get anything to eat—only a little bread till half past nine that night, but we were all satisfied when things turned out the way they did.

LETTER FROM FRED JEWEL

Mrs. Jewell had the following interesting letter from her son, Fred, who is in Hospital in England:—

2 Canadian Command Depot
Bramshott Camp
July 5th., 1918

Dear Mother:—

I will write you a letter to let you know that I am still alive, but feeling just the same. I am out of the hospital again, was before a Board and got B. 2. I don't know if I will be able to go back to the front again as my trouble is pretty bad. I don't know what it is, but I think it is my lungs and chest, for I take spells now and again, and it pains me pretty bad. When I was sent here on June 24, I thought I was going to be sent home, but don't know when I will get home now. Well, mother I have always wanted to write and tell you about the time I have had since I left home, but have never had a chance, so will do so now. I landed here on Aug. 29, 1915, got 5 days leave and went to London where I had a nice time. When I came back I was put in a draft for the 18th., Batt'n and went to France. I had six months in the trenches and on the 7th. of April I was buried in a trench by a big shell. Was in there for an hour and a half, when one of the boys of the 27th. Batt'n came along and dug me out. He then carried me to a dressing station and from there I was sent to No. 3 General Hospital, 'France, later I was sent to No 4 General hospital, London, where I was for one month and a half and was then sent to the Canadian Hospital at Ramsgate. I was suffering from shock, and paralysis of the lower limbs. After nearly two months in this hospital, I was sent to 1 C. C. Depot and from there to the 4 Res. Batt'n where I was placed before another Board and was pronounced unfit for further infantry training so I put in a transfer for the artillery as a Driver, which I was given and was then sent to the 3 Res. Battery where I was for about two weeks, when I was sent to another Battery which was going to France so I went out again as a Driver, in March 1917 and came back on Jan. 28th. 1918. I can't tell you anything about the Front but I had 6 months in the trenches and 10 months and a half with the artillery so you can see I have had a hand in all of the games.

I think the war will be finished this year as the Americans are over here and they are all good big soldiers.

I would like to get into the Flying Corps, but don't think I can. I was up in one of the machines with one of our old Walkerton boys. He is a good flyer, and has been in a number of battles with the German Air-men.

Well, if I have to go back to the Front again I am going to try and get in the Corps in England.

I hope you won't forget to send me all the things I have asked for.

I hope this finds you well and happy. So good-bye.

From yourson,
Fred.

TRAINING FLYERS

An article in the World's Work gives a particularly interesting account of the use of minature range in the training of our aviaton students. It is this range, says Mr. Burton J. Hendrick, that gives the student that preliminary instruction in artillery spotting that is perhaps the most useful service rendered by the aeroplane.

On a huge table in a science hall at Ohio state University, where one of the ground schools are located, is an immense picture map of a section of Belgium. It shows the city of Ypres and all the surrounding country, including every farmhouse, barn, country road, open field, river and pond.

In a gallery about ten feet above this map sit several of our future aviators. They are supposed to be in aeroplanes, six thousand feet in the air. The scale of the map is so graduated that, as they gaze down upon it, the terrain appears precisely as it would look if these men were actually flying in the air at that height. Their business is to locate exploding shells and notify their own batteries by wireless of the accuracy or inaccuracy of the aim. Shell are exploding all the time on this minature sketch of Belgian territory below them—not real shells, of course, but representations that convey a complete illusion.

Under the map, which is of paper and therefore transparent to light are hundreds of little electric-light bulbs.

By touching the appropriate button, the instructor can light his selected bulb and cause a little flash to appear on the map, which gives an accurate representation of an exploding shell. The apprentice airman in the gallery selects the German battery that his men are attempting to destroy, and the instructor touches off his imitation shells.

As soon as each shell explodes, a tapping is heard up in the little gallery; the student is sending a wireless message to his friends, telling them how far they have come from hitting the object. His report may take such cryptic form as "Ten o'clock and three hundred yards." That would puzzle the uninitiated, but it locates precisely the spot where the shell has fallen.

For purposes of signalling, the German battery is taken as the centre of a clock, with twelve o'clock pointed due north. When the airman signals "ten o'clock" he means that the shell has exploded on an imaginary line that would represent the clock hand pointed due in this direction. The "three hundred yards" gives the distance between the exploding shell and German battery. The business of the student is to judge the distance of the exploding shells almost instantaneously. Unless he gains great proficiency in a short time, he has no future in the American Air Service.

OUR WESTERN LETTER

Nice rain and warm weather continues in this neighborhood. Grain is looking fine. Timothy and upland hay will be no crop hereabouts this year. Hay on beaver meadows and creek bottoms looks good.

Eastern papers I notice give good crop reports for the West, they say there are a few spots where it is a little dry etc. I have not been out to investigate, but I have half a dozen neighbors who took a two weeks auto trip to see the crop in the Wheat Belt east of here. They started east by way of Camrose and came back via Stettler. They tell me that after leaving Camrose they began to find it dry and from that until they neared Stettler there was practically nothing growing. They saw thousands of acres with not a blade of grass or grain to show. Yesterday I saw a man from Calgary way he tells me that from Calgary south everything is dried out. A neighbour moved down to about 100 miles east of Calgary this spring. I saw him on 1st July he says he sowed oats for cut hay the first week in June and up to date they had shown no sign of sprouting, it was too dry. On the other hand from here north the crops are looking fine. Some people from here took a trip through the Grand Prairie Country. They say you could not wish to see finer crops. The Wheat Belt south and east of here has had three fine crops which has started the usual boom. Half sections that could have been bought years ago for $500 sold this spring for from $50. to $100. an acre. I am one got bit on this crop.

A PSALM OF LIFE

Tell me not in idle jingle
Marriage is a blissful dream,
For the man is wise that's single,
Girls are not what they seem.

Girls are shrewd and dead in earnst,
And to wed's their only aim;
Miss that is, to Mrs. turnest,
Anything to change her name.

Smiles are sweet and glances killing,
And poor man—bewildered thing,
Thus hamboozled may unwilling
Pony up and buy the ring.

In the world's broad field of battles,
In the flirting match of life,
Be not like dumb driven cattle,
Be not humbugged with a wife.

Lives of bachelors all remind us
We can live our lives the same,
And departing leave behind us
No crusa kids to bear our name.

Then brothers, let us not be demented
Nor lured through Hymen's gate;
Still unmarried—still contented
Learn to let the dameels wait

PUBLICITY
Knows No Seasons

ADVERTISING, in spite of all the hard knocks it has received, continues to grow each year. It is essential. It is the power behind the selling organization. Take away the element of advertising and the business world would lie stagnant and at a standstill.

AND advertising knows no seasons—it just keeps everlastingly at it. the most efficient and persistent salesman on our payroll.

AFTER advertising all through your "regular season" you are losing mighty value publicity by discontinuing your "ad." People have now become accustomed to your store news and the time is coming when they are going to need something exactly in your line.

YOUR ad. is a constant reminder—if it appears regularly. The sign above your door is seen only by people who pass your store—an advertisement in The Walkerton Telescope—the paper that goes home, is seen and read by the majority of the people in Walkerton and vicinity each week. So don't make the mistake of advertising just in your particular "season"—keep your name before the public the year round.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS IN BRUCE

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

Pte. Harold Farr of Maple Hill who was home over the week-end last week was presented with a wrist watch by his many friends. The address was read by A. V. Cooke while J. W. Rogers made the presentation. Pte. Farr made a neat reply thanking them all for their kindness. The address was as follows:

Maple Hill, July 21, 1918.

Dear Harold:

We have come together to-day with both joy and sorrow in our hearts to express to you our regret at your departure, our good will and esteem in which you have been held amongst us. It is neither easy nor painless to sever ties with one who has grown up in our midst. To do this in any public way only increases the burden and intensifies the pain, yet we would be unworthy of the friendship of years if we permitted you to leave us without some tangible expression of our feelings toward you. It is with a feeling of pride and admiration we watch you go forth to do your bit, to fight our battles, to defend our homes and to keep the Union Jack floating triumphantly over us.

As a slight token of the esteem in which you are held we beg you to accept this wrist watch and in so doing we wish you Good Luck. May it remind you a warm welcome i ever waiting you at Maple Hill, you who have responded to the call of your Country.—John W. Rogers, T. Little, John C. Leach.

NEW POST OFFICE RULING

Private correspondence for destinations in territory occupied by the enemy—excepting enemy occupied Belgium and the enemy occupied parts of France—may now be addressed direct in the ordinary way instead of being forwarded through an authorized intermediary. Such correspondence, however, must only deal with private news and will be subject to censorship. Items which contain any information whatever in regard to military, economic or political conditions obtaining in Canada or in any allied countries or which contain undesirable information of any kind will be detained.

Business communications from Canada to destinations in territory which has been certified enemy territory under the Trading with the Enemy Proclamation require a license from the Secretary of State for Canada.

Correspondence intended for destinations in enemy countries (as distinct from enemy occupied territory,) or to those destinations in enemy occupied Belgium and enemy occupied France to which correspondence may be forwarded, may still be sent through the medium of Thos. Cook and Son, 530 St. Catherine St., West, Montreal. Application should be made to Thos. Cook & Son, Montreal, for information in this connection.

Mr. F. C. Ryan of Paisley has been appointed manager of the Standard Bank at Park Hill.

The factory in Detroit in which Ford is constructing submarine chasers is three-quarters of a mile from either end to the centre of the plant. It is anticipated that 30,000 men will be engaged in the construction of these chasers and the output is expected to reach one ship per day.

A Big Spider

When Mr. Louis Bondi, of Mount Forest, was delivering bananas to Mr. Geo. Walker one day last week, says the Harriston Review, he discovered a large tarantula or banana spider hiding in one of the bunches. A dealer was procured and the spider was very carefully forced into it. It has been kept on exhibition in the store, and is a large specimen of this species of southern spider, being nearly 4 inches from tip tip to tip when extended. It is said that their bite will cause death within 48 hours.

A Real Hog

Mr. W. E. Dickens, drover at Owen Sound, shipped to Toronto last week one hog which tipped the scale at eight hundred pounds. This was the largest individual of the swine species that has gone out of that neighborhood for some time, and was amongst a herd that Mr. Dickens has been feeding on the Robert Glen farm on the west bay shore. At the price prevailing, at the average of eighteen cents, it would have brought $144.00, but in all probability, because of its size, it would not bring a top-notch price, but even at fifteen cents a pound for a two year old, is better than raising horses.

MUST USE LESS SUGAR

A new order of the Food Board has just come into force by which every manufacturer of beer, ales, soft drinks, fountain fruits or syrups, dessert or jelly powders or marshmellow powders, and every proprietor of a soda fountain or ice cream parlor is limited in his use of sugar to 75 per cent. of the average monthly amount of sugar used by him during 1917.

Retail grocers are forbidden to sell sugar to any manufacturer unless the latter has obtained a special permit.

The order contains a clause asking proprietors of soda fountains to use fresh fruits wherever possible. Canners who have been making products for soda fountains must not use more than 50 per cent. of the sugar used by them last year.

The order makes illegal, unless under special permit, the manufacture for sale of icing sugar, icing powders, or any preparation of sugar used only for this purpose. No license for making the articles mentioned in the first paragraph will be issued to anyone who has not been in the business before and up to May 1st.

THE BIBLE FATHER USED

Dear old Book, thy labors ended,
Worn out we have laid thee by:
Thou art now a precious heirloom—
Faded guide-board to the sky!
From thy thumb-worn, well marked pages,
Father read from day to day
Precept, promise, law and Gospel:
And believing, knelt to pray.

Here he sought to find the treasure
That forever shall endure;
Wisely making both his calling
And election, doubtless, sure.
Here he found the Rock of Ages
Where the saved rejoice to stand:
And with vision clear, ecstatic,
He beheld the promised land.

Here the light divinely streaming
On the path the saints have trod,
Cheered him as in rapt communion
He pursued his way with God.
Here he found the Heavenly Manna,
Feasted on the boundless stock,
Drank from springs of Living Waters
Flowing from the Riven Rock.

Here the wisdom of the ages
Shone with constant light and clear
On the way the saints and sages
Of the Lord have traveled here.
Here he saw beyond the Valley
Of the Shadow, yonder host,
Conquerors of sin, the White-Robed:
Father, Sun, and Holy Ghost.

Here he gathered inspiration,
Faith to live and grace to die.
Blessed his loved ones, and in triumph,
Passed a victor to the sky.
Dear old thumb-worn, shattered Bible,
Father's Guide, Companion, Friend
Man-of-Council, Source-of-Comfort,
"Dust to dust" is not thy end.

O'er thy silent pages poring,
Faith discerns, as clear as day,
Things are transient, but no tittle
Of thy truth shall pass away.
Father's Bible, dear old Bible,
Doomed to feel the tooth of Time
But my Father's chastened spirit
Proves thy mastery sublime.

PROCLAMATION!

Civic Holiday!

At the request of a great many citizens of the Town I hereby proclaim as the Civic Holiday for 1918 and I ask all citizens to observe the same.

MON. AUG. 5

GOD SAVE THE KING

A. P. Johnston,
MAYOR.

There is complaint that a number of small boys amuse themselves by throwing stones promiscuously. It is a bad habit and parents should check children that indulge in it, as it cannot but lead to the injury of life or property some day.

When the Normanby farmers sent their delegation to Ottawa, their expenses amounting to about $160, was paid by the local council. One of the Normanby ratepayers however, objected to this being paid out of the township treasury, and threatened an action against the council. The farmers therefore reassembled, and decided to make a canvass of the township to reimburse the township treasury.

Sir Adam Chased Fishermen

The Dundalk Herald says: "Sir Adam Beck and party were up at Eugenia Falls on Saturday. The chairman of the Hydro Commission, observing some sports in boats and rafts fishing for trout on the reserve, charged them with trespassing and ordered them off the place. The fishermen claim they have rights on public property and that the place is not a reserve for anyone. For a couple of summers people from far and near have been enjoying fishing there and it has become a popular resort. There are an abundance of "speckled beauties." The Hon. Adam Beck is a smart man but he will become very unpopular in this neck of the woods if he tries to reserve the fishing at Eugenia for a bunch of high-salaried public officers or tin can politicians. Adam Beck has no more right to fish in that pond than anyone else who is a resident of the province of Ontario.

REGULATIONS FOR LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Much worry is caused families who have sons subject to the Military Service Act. When men are being called up suddenly it leaves some farms in rather bad shape, in some cases no one to take off the crop and in most cases only the father well up in years left to worry along.

As soon as sons are called from the farms it is quite proper that those concerned should want to know how harvest leave may be obtained. Farmers have been led to believe, in the first place that agriculture would not be interfered with, and with this understanding much greater preparation was made to have larger crops. Well, the crops have arrived, but in the meantime, through a new order, sons are being called up, regardless of conditions on the farms. Along with the new orders came promises that consideration would be given extreme cases.

Fathers and mothers having sons called up have doubts to whom to go in their trouble. In the early part of 1918 the Minister of Militia sent out a circular to Senators and members of parliament, as well as to military officers stating:

"Attempts to obtain favorable consideration of an application by the use of outside influence are forbidden, and, if resorted to, will be regarded as an admission on the part of the applicant that his case is not good on its merits, and it will be dealt with accordingly."

From the above it would appear that letters to members of parliament, petitions and such like, no matter by whom written, are of no consequence whatever.

But leave of absence is obtainable if the order-in-council means anything at all and those entitled to consideration are set forth as the following:

"The Order-in-Council of May 22nd 1914, authorizes leave of absence to be granted in extraordinary cases of extreme hardship, such as cases in which the man drafted is the sole support of a widowed mother, an invalid father, or other helpless dependents, or certain other helpless dependents, or certain other cases in which he is the only remaining son of military age (19 to 45), and other members of the family have been killed or disabled on service, are now serving overseas, are in training for overseas, are in training for overseas, or are under treatment after their return from overseas."

"All applications for leave of absence pursuant to these provisions must be made by the man himself at the Depot Battalion after he reports for duty. Such application cannot and will not be considered either at the head quarters of the Military district or at Militia headquarters at Ottawa. Correspondence sent to these headquarters will only result in delay and confusion.

"Every man applying for leave of absence must make a statutory declaration in a prescribed form, which may be obtained at the Depot Battalion, where an officer will be especially detailed to deal with such applications."

These are the provisions governing the grant of leave of absence.

BIG LOSS IN GRANARIES

Bad Weather and Mice Destroy Much Grain.

Concrete Structures Best — How to Make Old Granary Efficient—Flush Ewes to Increase 1919 Lamb Crop — Great Shortage of Fall Wheat Seed.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

No hard and fast rules can be laid down for the erection of a convenient and efficient granary. Each problem requires a knowledge of local conditions and requirements. Granaries, in the majority of cases, are built in enclosures on the bare floor, and constructed with too little regard for strength, durability and convenience. These structures should be located immediately over the feed room, each bin having a chute with a controlling slide, or a canvas distributor to convey the grain to the hopper of the grinder; or if the grain is intended for market, to a sack placed on the scales below the chute ready to receive it. To facilitate emptying the grain, the floor of the bins should be sloping.

The important consideration in the construction of granaries and bins for loose grain is to be sure that the structure is designed with sufficient strength to prevent bulging of the sides and springing of the floor, for grain, owing to its enormous outward thrust, corresponding somewhat to that of water, has a tendency to burst the sides unless well braced or supported. Timber construction requires frequent repairs to prevent decay and general depreciation from use. It is always liable to climate conditions. The boards will crack and shrink in the summer when the bins may be empty, and when the new grain is dumped into the bins an enormous quantity promptly disappears into the cracks and crevices and through holes bored, entailing considerable loss to the farmer, to the consumer and to the nation. Thousands of bushels of grain are, in this way, annually lost to the producers through sheer indifference to the condition of the granary. Yet this preventable waste may be easily remedied and made secure by lining the bins with sheet metal.

The watchword is "Conservation." Every grain is needed to feed the Empire and its Allies. It is, therefore, highly desirable at this time to bend every effort to eliminate all possible leakages and conserve our grain for the need of the Allied nations. While there is an annual depreciation on a timber structure varying from 4 to 5%, concrete construction grows better as it grows old; hence concrete properly reinforced, is the ideal material for granaries, because it is both damp-proof and rat-proof, two very essential factors in the construction of granaries.

Concrete properly made to suit existing conditions, is absolutely impervious to moisture, and can be kept as dry as any structure of wood ever built. The experience of many farmers is that grain, mature enough to be placed in storage, will not spoil on contact with concrete, nor will corn mold, provided there is good ventilation and the roof is tight. To get rid of rats and mice destroy their nesting place and to this end concrete is pre-eminently the best material and is recommended for all farm structures.

Under average present day conditions a reinforced concrete granary may represent an additional outlay of about 25% over that required to construct of timber, but the high efficiency distinctive of concrete quickly offsets this increased initial cost. Concrete construction has many in short, important advantages. The contents are safe from the depredations of rodents, is damp-proof, requires neither paint nor repairs, is dreproof, the grain is perfectly preserved under all conditions of climate and temperature, and the resulting structure is practically everlasting.—Prof. John Evans, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Care of Ewes After Weaning.

In order to avoid udder trouble it is necessary to keep a close watch of the ewes for a few days after they are separated from the lambs. Not a few cases of defective udders can be traced to the want of a little care in this respect. Milk out just enough to keep the udder soft the day after the lambs have been weaned. After two days' time they are again milked out. Some ewes do not need any more attention after the second milking. Such ewes may be marked to indicate that they are dry. Three more days should elapse before the next milking is done and this method followed until it is certain the entire flock is safe. In conjunction with the method outlined above the ewes should be separated some distance from the lambs, and be on scant pastures until all are perfectly dry. This is a good time to go over the flock and cull out all undesirable members. Non-producers and those with broken mouths and poor udders should not be retained. A good deal of the success of the subsequent lamb crop will depend upon the treatment the ewes receive from time of weaning until after they are bred. They should have good pastures and be given an opportunity of putting on flesh. This is what is sometimes called "flushing." Nothing can be better for this purpose than rape pasture. It is usually from six weeks to six months from date of seeding that rape is ready for pasture. If rape pasture is not available new seeding or second crop clover will serve fairly well. Ewes should not be turned on rape or fresh clover for the first time when the leaves are wet from rain or even dew, in order to avoid trouble from bloating.—J. P. Sackville, B.S.A., Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

THE V. A. D. CLASS

Girls Show Their Appreciation Of What The Doctors, Hospital Staff And Others Did For Them—Completed Home Nurse Training

The lecture on Wednesday evening of the Home Nursing Class was of special interest. The girls expressed their appreciation of the untiring interest Dr. Farewell had taken in the class by presenting him with a letter of appreciation and a doctor's leather bag, enclosing a ten dollar Bill. The fact that in spite of the hot weather and general summer out-door attractions, the girls attended the class faithfully, proves the excellent manner in which the class was conducted by Dr. Farewell. He thanked the girls for the letter and gift and disclaimed all credit for having done anything as he thoroughly enjoyed taking up the lectures with such an enthusiastic class. The Dr. congratulated the girls on the unselfish principle they had shown in taking up the lectures, the sole object of which was to be of service and help to others.

A treat of Ice-Cream and Cake was sent to the Supt. and Nurses of the Hospital who had given the class a practical demonstration on Bed-making at the Hospital.

The two young boys Elmer Kolpin and Harvey Paul has been so patient and good about being bandaged that the girls could not resist giving them an extra tip.

Mrs. Shaw, President of the Class and Miss Rowland Sec. Treas. were given a vote of thanks by the girls for the work involved in the duties of their offices. The V. A. D. Class was organized under the auspices of the I. O. D. E. on the suggestion of Miss Rowland who was enthusiastic about forming the class. Much credit is due to Mrs. Shaw and Miss Rowland for the splendid management and success of the class.

The Home Nursing Class was examined on Friday evening by Dr. B. Stalker who kindly offered his services motoring here from Hanover. Dr. Stalker made an excellent and thorough examiner and the girls showed their appreciation by presenting him with a letter and the gift of a pair of military brushes.

There were 28 girls tried the examination and all passed with high percentage.

There happened to be another party on the raft at the time, who he was nobody knows, but after Armstrong had just started out Nelson asked this party how deep it was and he remarked that the depth post which was about 25 feet in towards shore was showing 6½ feet of water and he thought they could cling to that if they became tired.

With that Nelson put his feet in the water and started off and had only gone a few feet when he went down. There were several fairly close at hand at the time and they dived several times trying to locate him but as it was getting dark they could not find him. Meanwhile the Police Department were telephoned to and the pulmotor was rushed out. When the people swimming found they could not locate him they rushed for grappling hooks and formed a line on the shore and inside of thirty minutes from the time he went down they had his body on the beach and the pulmotor and two Doctors working with him but it was too late.

A bunch of "Reds" from the Southampton Reserve have formed an encampment in their old quarters and are making ready to deluge the surrounding countryside with their special line of plain and fancy basketware, ahem!

Sunday was a sort of unlucky day for some autoists while motoring in the suburbs. In the a. m. one chap lost control of his machine with the result that the rudderless outfit wiggled off the road and it would be difficult to state which came in for the lion's share of the censored expressions—the car or the helmsman, while the big giant was being pushed back on the rural highway again, and Archie threatened to migrate from the breeze belt when the storm subsided.

The cool weather of the past few days is certainly a pleasant change from the sultry variety existing for several weeks previous.

Mrs. M. Clancy is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Cronin Ambleside.

Quite a number from here journeyed to the lakeside and spent the week-end enjoying the cool and refreshing breeze along lake Huron's shore.

Barney Spitzig, wife and family of the West, are on a visit to the former's home on the townline, after an absence of six years. Since leaving these parts Barney has made good, being manager of one of the largest grain elevators in that part of the country. He expects to return about the middle of August.

Making a football of some reporters of the Daily press seems to be a popular pastime with many these days. Quite true, some false rumors find their way to an Editor's desk and thence to the columns of his Journal. But why make a big fellow of oneself by assuming the role of a "kicker" when the false report is not of libelous character nor intended to injure? I am sure the informants do not profit thereby unless in a case where they are directly concerned. Moreover, in many more cases retaliation could be effectively administered as a means of justification as far as false reports are concerned, if the other party felt inclined to do the mean thing that his opponent has been wont to stoop to.

BRANT AVENUE

Some one remarked a few months ago please turn on more heat. Well we wonder what that some person has been wishing for the past few weeks, since his wish became fulfilled. If he isn't wishing to sleep in the ice house.

Our haymoods are certainly glad that haying is over as there was a lot of sweat wiped off their faces during these hot days. As Iote said oh how good a few drinks of 3 per cent lager would taste and not being obtainable it was handy they could fall back on a good cold drink of "Nature's" lager.

Our two cream haulers Messrs. Long and Johnston came getting nearly being roasted on their topless cream wagons, so they couldn't stand for that much longer so they got canvas tops put over their whole wagon thus helping to keep the cream from being butter before it reaches the creamery.

Pte. Wm. Slade was home on leave from London from Saturday till Tuesday and on Monday his neighbors made a surprise party for him at his home (on short notice) and invited about 30 or more folks. Owing to the haying season being on, there was only a small attendance at the presentation of medals to the boys who are employed on farms in this locality. Dr. Taylor acted as chairman and after short addresses by A. B. Currey and Mr. R. J. Ball, M. P., the medals were presented to the boys by Mr. Brock of Guelph who gave some interesting details as to the progress of the work, together with the sacrifice the boys were making in assisting the farmers.

SHEEP ON THE FARM

A official of the Dominion Government, who is at present at Lethbridge, Alberta, inspecting the grading of the wool in that district, announces that the clip of the Southern Alberta Wool Growers will be about a million and a half pounds. This is an increase for the association of twenty-five per cent. over last year. Although it is not yet early to make an estimate of the increase expected throughout the whole of the Canadian Prairie West, it is not expected that the average increase will be less than that of the Southern Alberta Wool Growers Association. In other words, an increase of approximately twenty-five per cent. is looked for in the wool clip of Western Canada over that of last year. Shearing has now begun and will be in full swing before the middle of June. The increase in the number of lambs this year has been a very satisfactory one, being between one hundred and one hundred and fifty per cent. of the size of the flocks.

The Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers Association, which was formed last year, is all ready to handle this year's clip. Two warehouses have been secured in Toronto, Ontario, to which the wool of the Association will be forwarded and stored for selling. A large majority of the Canadian sheep raisers are members of the association, but it is expected that much wool will be handled for non-members, so that several million pounds will be sold through this channel during the season.

The growth of the sheep industry among the farmers of Western Canada during the last few years has been a remarkable one. At least it appears so at first glance, especially to those who do not know the country. But it is not so surprising to those who know the natural advantages of the country. Speaking generally there is no part of the continent where a farmer can engage in sheep raising with greater prospects of success than in Western Canada. The climate, abundance of food and

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Absolutely Prevents This Dangerous Condition.

The chief cause of poor health is our neglect of the bowels. Waste matter, instead of passing from the lower intestine regularly every day, is allowed to remain there, generating poisons which are absorbed by the blood.

In other words, a person who is habitually constipated, is poisoning himself. We know now that Auto-intoxication, due to non-action of the bowels, is directly responsible for serious Kidney and Bladder Troubles; that it upsets the Stomach, causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Sleeplessness; that chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Pain In The Back, are relieved as soon as the bowels become regular; and that Pimples, Rashes, Eczema and other Skin Affections disappear when "Fruit-a-tives" are taken to correct Constipation.

FARM COLD STORAGE

Small, Efficient Plant Does Not Cost Much.

Simple and Efficient Running Water Systems for the Farm—How Full Directions Regarding Equipment and Installation May Be Secured.

Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

A COLD storage is a room or building, depending upon the size, cooled by ice or by some mechanical means. In short, it is a place for keeping food products cool in the hot weather. Since the farms produce the food and since the cooling of it should be done quickly and immediately after production, say milk for example, that in order to keep it in good condition as long as possible, would it not seem good business and economy to have the cold storage on the farm? This applies to our farms particularly since they produce such very perishable products as milk, butter, eggs, fruit and meat. If there was another advantage in having cold storage on the farm than that it provides a place in which to keep the dairy victuals cool and sweet, there would seem to be a good reason for including it in the farm equipment. There are many ways of providing a small cold storage on the farm, but with the exception of very large fruit and dairy farms, the same principle applies to all, namely, that ice is used as the means of cooling. The method of applying the ice to the best advantage constitutes the problem in each individual case. This is why no one system can be recommended for all cases. It is my intention to describe briefly below one or two which should give good service in many farm homes.

The particular name of this system is the Bunker system. It consists of a small room a few feet square with a bunker or box or rack at one side for holding the cakes of ice. It is separated from the room by a partition which is kept a few inches off the floor and likewise from the ceiling. The bunker has a slatted floor with pan just below to catch water which is disposed of readily through a drain. This arrangement provides a natural means of the cold air to drop down to the room, escape into the cooling room below and for the warm air to pass over the partition to the ice. So long as this bunker is kept supplied with ice there will be a natural flow of air through the storage room. The room be well insulated it will be possible to maintain a temperature of about 40 deg. Fahrenheit in a fairly dry atmosphere. Those desiring plans for constructing the type outlined or any other type may have them free of charge by communicating with the writer. Information and assistance will be freely given to all applicants. Write us.—J. Grahru, B.S.A., Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

The Conveniences for Country.

The desirability and importance of an ample supply of pure water on the farm can hardly be over emphasized. Perhaps more than any other single element it determines the healthy and robust development of the body. Inversely, deadly disease germs lurk in the impure waters of contaminated wells which may bring death with little warning into the family circle. Without great expense the water supply on the average farm may be so protected as to prevent contamination and it surely seems the part of wisdom in every case to have an abundant supply of pure water for man and beast.

Where the household supply must be drawn from a well or a stream some distance from the dwelling the physical labor involved is great. It may be assumed that when no plumbing is installed an allowance of 25 gallons per person per day for all purposes is necessary. With a family of figure someone—often the housewife — must carry 400 pounds of water a day, or over one ton a week. In the stable much the same conditions exist. The task of pumping water by hand for a large number of stock is slow and arduous—wasteful of time and trying to the temper. And in cold, stormy weather stock when driven to an outside tank or an ice-covered stream, will rarely drink sufficient for their best performance or development. Better systems in each case pay their cost in dollars as well as in convenience, comfort and health.

The question of cost is important. Many improvements may be made, however, such as safeguarding the well from pollution, installing a hydraulic ram, septic tank, gravity system, etc., which are not expensive and when the farmer has come to do a good deal of the work himself the cost is reduced to a point where thousands can afford the installations. With a practical working knowledge of the principles of farm water supply, water systems, equipage and sewage disposal few, indeed, who have now impure well water and are without household and stable water conveniences but can make improvements of the most beneficial nature and at a cost which, they can afford to expend.

To give such information is the purpose of a bulletin now presented to the farm public of Ontario by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Parliament Buildings, Toronto. Practical information, as complete as possible, and so arranged as to enable each reader to find quickly the particular problem he is most interested in, is given regarding every phase of the water question. To further assist those who may wish to make improvements or installations the author of the bulletin will gladly give personal attention to any question or problem which may be sent them.

A tradesman in a certain town put a box outside his shop one day, labelled "For the Blind." A few weeks afterward the box disappeared. "Hello! The garden party held on the lawn of Alex. Wilson last Thursday, under auspices of the Women's Institute, was a fine success. William McDonald, M. P. At the close of the program William Machegary, took the platform to sell the quilt donated by the institute. The total proceeds of $230 are to go to the soldiers' comfort fund.

Free Newspapers Thing of the Past

By an official order of the United States War Industries Board, which has the force and effect of a statute, all U. S. papers starting July 15th., must discontinue the delivery of free copies. It has been the custom for newspapers to exchange with each other, and now that is unlawful. Free copies have also been given to charitable institutions, and to men who handle newspapers to exchange with each other, and now that is unlawful. But now all these papers must be cut off. The discontinuance was neither prompted nor promoted by the newspapers, but it is a war measure. Any person receiving a free paper who has it stopped may charge it to the Kaiser, who is really the originator of it. It is a law which affects every publication and must be honestly observed by all of them.

Why Did He Leave Globe?

In an editorial comment on the resignation of J. F. MacKay from the management of the Toronto Globe to become treasurer of the Russell Motor Company, the Ottawa Journal-Press says: Surprise is due to the fact that Mr. MacKay is recognized to be one of the ablest newspaper men of this country. Why should another line of business be able to take from one of the leading positions in newspaperdom a particularly able man? The answer is simple, the other line of business pays more. We would imagine a good deal more for we know that Mr MacKay was proud of The Globe and his connection with it. Furthermore, being a man of highest personal character, and of a most likeable disposition there was every reason why The Globe Company should have been anxious to hold on to him. However, the newspaper industry in this country is not in the financial class of many of the big industrial interests and not able to offer such financial rewards to its workers.

Letter From Lieut. Harold Young.

Lieut Harold Young in a letter to Geo. H. Mitchell of Hanover, writes that he has been in England up to a month and a half ago, acting as instructor in the Royal Air Force. He is now in France. He Knew The Place

"Now, boys," said the teacher in the juvenile Sunday school class, "our lesson to-day teaches us that if we are good while here on earth, when we die we will go to a place of everlasting bliss. But suppose we are bad then what will become of us?" "We'll go to a place of everlasting blister," promptly answered the small boy at the pedal extremity of the class.—Brooklyn Citizen.

A handsome brass plate commemorating the death of a heroic Walkerton soldier, Corp. Gabe Haas, son of Contractor Alex Haas, is on exhibition for a few days in Mr. Con Reichenbach's jewelry window. The plate which is to be placed on the wall of Walkerton R. C. Church, bears the coat of arms of the 34th Overseas Battalion and reads:—"In memory of Lance Corp. Farmer Forced To Knees

The action of some young aviators in flying low over the Provincial Government lands at Willowdale yesterday seriously frightening a number of farmers has caused a great deal of indignation. It is stated that the farmers have been put to a great deal of inconvenience and in some cases have narrowly escaped injury. One young airman is said to have swooped so low to the ground that an elderly farmer was forced to drop to his knees to avoid being struck by the wings of the machine. It is probable that a protest will be made to the R. A. F. commandant.—Toronto Star.

Nothing Doing The First Day

Murphy left the church one Sunday after listening to an eloquent sermon on "The Day of Judgment," and sought out Father Kelly.

"Sure 'twas a fine sermon, father," said he, "but did you mean what ye said about all the nations getting together on the day of judgment—all of 'em?"

"I did that, Murphy," said Father Kelly.

"The Dutch, the Eyetalians, the Scotch, and all?" said Murphy.

"All of them," said the priest.

"And the English?"

"Yes; they will be there too."

"And the Orangemen?..

"Certainly, Murphy."

"And will all the Ancient Order of Hibernians be there too?"

"As sure as you are here now."

Well, father, dear," muttered Murphy as he walked away, "I'm thinking there won't be much work done the first day anyway."

Rev. Mr. Cosens At Palmerston

Says the Palmerston Spectator:—Rev. C. W. Cosens, the popular pastor of the Methodist Church, Walkerton, was in town on Tuesday, the guest of his cousin, Mr. Albert Cusens. The Rev. gentleman after serving the interests of many congregations during the past is still youthful, for no man can be regarded as advanced in years, while his eyes are still set on the course before him and in whose heart still lies the hope of better and greater things to come. Few men in the Methodist ministry possess a richer stored mind and can furnish a congregation with more original matter. It is to be regretted that the Palmerston Methodist Church, although anxious on several occasions to have him as their pastor, have never been able to secure his services. His last year with a congregation is usually his strongest year and if all his clerical brethren had the same broad outlook and been inspired by the same Christian spirit the narrow sectarian spirit so prevalent in many communities, would not be so conspicuous in every day life. The Rev. gentleman enjoyed his visit here very much.

Chief Justice Falconbridge granted the town of Wiarton an order of foreclosure under mortgage with six months to redeem or for sale after three months against the Canada Casket Company, Limited, against whom the town claimed $19,980,63 due on principal and $1,811,44 interest on money advanced by way of bonus.

To-day you're husky, sound and hale, and fit to gather in the kale. To-morrow you may have disease, or break your legs off at the knees. To-day you have a job that's good, you whistle as you saw your wood; to morrow you may be informed you've lost the place you long have warmed. If hard luck hands you thus, a poke, what will you do if you are broke? You cannot borrow fifty cents from any easy going gents, for in these times of grief and groans each guy requires his stock of bones. Be prudent now and put away some guilders for the rainy day!

Former Walkerton Boys

Both sons of Mr. D. C. Wilson, who was here from Toronto last week, are still Overseas. Jack, who has been twice wounded, is still in England recovering from wounds but expects to return to the Front soon. Alex, who was badly wounded, has returned to the trenches again after eight months in a hospital in England. The boys both enlisted early in the War and have been in a lot of the worst fighting.

Hot Weather Maxims.

Dr. Hastings, M.O. H. of Toronto, advises people to drink lots of cold water, not iced water, during the hot spell. Frequent baths in tepid or cold water will be most refreshing. Alcoholic beverages should be avoided, also all forms of animal food. Fruit, vegetables and cereals will be found far more beneficial and less food than usual should be eaten. The doctor said everyone should keep in the shade as much as possible and avoid overexertion. If this advice is carefully followed there will be few cases of heat stroke or collapse. Babies should be allowed as much freedom as possible and be clothed with the lightest of garments and no more than absolutely necessary.

Suspended Sentence

Palmerston Spectator:—On Wednesday afternoon of last week, one of a party of returned soldiers who were soliciting newspaper subscriptions, entered the home of Mrs. Fred Langton at Kenilworth and helped himself to her diamond ring and gold penant which she had left on her dresser in her bedroom. Mr. Langton, who was at work in a field near the house, saw the man and told him Mrs. Langton was not at home and thought no more about it until his wife's return, she discovered that the theft had been made. She also found that a box in which the trinkets had been kept, was dumped out on the dresser and some money which it contained was taken. Constable Green of Drayton was notified and the man who committed the theft was arrested the following morning at a Palmerston hotel. He was wearing Mrs. Langdon's ring at the time and was taken to Drayton where he appeared before Police Magistrate Woodman and pleaded guilty to the charge of theft. The Magistrate sent him to Guelph for sentence. On Monday he appeared before Judge Hayes. He informed the Judge that he had served in France and was wounded and gassed at the Somme. He blamed his physical and nervous condition for his having yielded to the crime and was allowed to go on suspended sentence.

SONG OF THE NON-ADVERTISER

That the non-advertisers should get together and sing the following because that is really what they mean when they do not take advantage of the Telescope for increasing their sales:

Please go away and let me sleep.
Don't disturb my slumbers deep.
I don't want to advertise,
Open while the people's eyes,
Beat my business, help my sales,
Work and worry 'bout the "sale"
So just pike it to, and leave;
LET ME SLEEP.

I don't want to fuss and splutter,
Handle eggs and mess with butter,
I don't want to spend a dollar,
Helpin, business with a holler,
If I'd buy a space in the paper,
Trade would make me cut and caper
Leave me be. I'm tired. G'wan
AND LET ME SLEEP.

Death, they say, is swift and certain.
Just a few years, then the curtain.
That don't scare me, 'tis to smile,
I've been dead a long, long while.
'Course my heart beats and I'm walk in'
But I'm really dead. See! G'wan
AND LET ME SLEEP

HOG PRODUCTION

It is a matter of the greatest importance that Canada should increase her production of BACON HOGS and other live stock as there is at present a world-wide shortage of meat. Good markets for some time to come are assured.

THE CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE will gladly make loans to assist farmers in good standing to acquire live stock. 201

Borrow to Buy Cattle

"Mixed Farming" is the big money-maker today. Of course, grain and fruit and vegetables pay well—but beef and bacon, butter and cheese, are piling up the profits for the farmer.

Milk more cows—fatten more cattle—raise more hogs. If you need money to do it, come to The Merchants Bank. We are glad to assist all up-to-date farmers.

Berry-picking Popular

Many town people have been through the country picking wild raspberries the past week. The crop is good and the high price of the tame variety of berries which have been selling around 25¢ a box makes sufficient inducement. The Food Board issued a bulletin recently urging the public to conserve the wild raspberry crop for food.

A Second Mishap

Mrs. Malcom Thompson of Brant met with an unfortunate accident on Saturday. About ten weeks ago her right limb was fractured and she had been able to get around a little lately with crutches. On Saturday while supporting herself at the back of a chair she by some means lost her footing and fell over, fracturing her right wrist badly. Mrs. Thompson was taken to the Bruce county Hospital where her many friends hope she may have a speedy recovery.

The Keystone Trophy, that coveted bit of silverware which Bruce County bowlers are constantly contending for, rests snugly in Mr. Sieveright's Drug window since Friday last, when a rink of local bowlers entered over to Teeswater and captured it after a spirited contest on the green. Fuel Controller Named Chief Ferguson was appointed Fuel Controller for Walkerton at a special meeting of the Town Council held on Monday evening. The Chief's salary is $50 and if fuel is going to be as scarce as present conditions indicate it will certainly earn his money. It is currently reported that some people have more than their share of diamonds stored away in their cellars and it will be the Chief's job to see that these citizens divide up with their less fortunate brethren. It is reported that the 70 per cent rule is to be abolished shortly by the Dominion Fuel Commissioner and probably after Sept. 1st the amount to be allowed any consumer will be a very small one.

Stirring Address at Public Prayer

Those citizens who attended the public prayer service at the Town Hall on Sunday afternoon to commemorate the 4th. anniversary of the War, enjoyed an out of the ordinary treat in the address of the day which was given by Rev. Dr. A. M. Currie, an able pulpit orator from New York City, who was supplying Knox Church pulpit for the day. Dr. Currie is a Canadian, a graduate of Toronto University, and still believes that Britain is the most democratic nation on earth. He showed how our men in this war are revealing the Christ spirit of Sacrifice. He expressed the belief that we are coming to the time, when international lines will be removed, when old dogmas of religion will be thrown aside, when the Christian civilization which has been transforming the world shall come into its own, when the Sermon on the Mount shall be our philosophy and "Jesus shall reign where e'er the sun doth his successive journeys run." His message was given with an eloquence and beautiful word-painting that made it a masterpiece. Rev. C. W. Cosens ably filled the chair, a short address was given by Mayor A. P. Johnston, and Rev. R. Pardoe and J. W. Sanderson also took part in the service. A good feature was the choral singing under the leadership of Prof. E. R. Lessem, Miss Steinhoff, a young lady with a beautiful voice who was the guest of Miss Whitehead sang a solo that was much appreciated.

Good Crops In France

Writing to his brother, Harry, from Somewhere in France, Philip Denny says he never saw crops in Canada look better than the fields in France do at present. The war, he writes, is coming good now. Sells Grocery Business

Mr. W. G. Searle disposed of his grocery business this week to Miss Grace Padbury, of Chatham, taking a 100 acre farm on the outskirts of that city on the deal. The new owner, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Billings, the former a prominent real estate man of Chatham, arrived here on Monday, and after taking stock, are starting a big thirty days' sale beginning this morning to dispose of the entire stock. Mr. Searle has not settled on definite plans but it is probable that the change will mean the early removal of the family from Walkerton. Mr. Searle has been an active leader in the work of the Methodist Church, being on the Quarterly Official and Trust Boards and serving as Steward. In the Sunday School he has been a valued teacher and the Assistant Supt. for several years. Mrs. Searle has also been active in church and patriotic work and altogether the removal of this estimable family will be a loss that will be keenly felt in the town.

Major Moffat's Scheme

The Bruce Preparedness League has asked the Dominion Gov't to send an agricultural expert along with Major Moffat to pick out a tract of land in the West for Bruce Soldiers returning from the War. Major Moffat has a further scheme to start a co-operative community on the tract of land that is to be chosen. We understand the Major believes he is going to have the backing of the Bruce Preparedness League for his community scheme. During the past week we have seen Major Moffat's prospectus. It is an elaborately worked out affair covering four large printed sheets. It is drafted in the Major's usual thorough way of doing things in which he forsees and provides for many contingencies. There is perfection of detail and the scheme certainly looks plausible and attractive on paper. It is so attractive in fact that it should be framed and hung on the wall and left there. As a mural decoration it might be of some value. The cream of Bruce's manhood went Overseas and now we are asked to encourage a scheme to settle them in some far-off part of Canada when they return. The boys themselves will decide where they want to go. But where they would be most welcome would be right here in Bruce where we have the best agricultural land to be found anywhere and plenty of room for any of the boys who want to settle in their old home county. Will the people of Bruce support a scheme to send their heroic sons to some isolated portion of the West? Not much. Major Moffat's scheme is to pool the soldiers' interests in the land, share their profits etc. It is so idyllic that it should have been written in the form of poetry. Human nature being what it is, this way of sharing all things is thoroughly impracticable and indeed it has proved so whenever such a scheme has been tried. There are a lot of prominent people on the executive of the Bruce Preparedness League but if they swallow Major Moffat's scheme and attempt to put any of the County's money in it we believe they will speedily forfeit whatever confidence the people of Bruce may have had in their good judgment.

Lieut. Mel. Wilson Writes Clever Letter Describing the Role Played by Our Machine-gunners. "Over There."

Lieut. Mel. Wilson writing from the Canadian Machine Gun Depot, Seaford, Sussex, Eng., to a friend here, says:—

Sunday morning it. camp—nothing to do, hence the following

Do you sometimes wish to picture us in our life in France—those of us whom you know? If so, I should like to be of help but it is but very little life and activity in France that any one account, however full, can give. Our life changes from season to season, from front to front, even from day to day, for each of the four fronts in the British line on which I have been, trench life is—or was—quite a different thing. On one, in fact, there was no trench life—we could not "dig in" in water-soaked ground. It was shell hole life.

And the change from offensive to defensive, from passive to active fighting will change overnight the whole cast of trench life or work.

And then too, something new is forever appearing to turn us upside down and start us over again. Gas was one such surprise. The new tactics of aeroplanes is another. Only recently have they really bothered us—"the foot sluggers." Of course they have always fought each other in the clouds and distracted the other fellow's artillerymen but only with their cameras did they bother us and that being a painless operation for the time being, we hardly noticed it. But now they fly low, bombing and machine gunning us in our trenches, or hawk-like, follow to see where we're going with that machine gun, or turn their artillery on to our modest little batteries. Such a menace demands new measures of protection, so many old habits disappear and new ones take their place.

And to even the changing mood of the Hun artillerymen, we must adapt ourselves or suffer. If he shells trenches we hunt shelter where trenches are not. If he shells the open, we bie to the trenches again. If he fancies villages, villages we avoid, woods he is almost sure to "strafe," so woods are approached with respect. The A B C of trench reconnaisance is to learn what the enemy shells most and what least and the more adaptable we are to his fancies, the better for our skins. On one front we were told by our predecessors that shell dodging was hopeless—the Hun shelled everywhere. And the truth it was—it was an awful front.

But despite all this, there are some outlines of trench life that remain fixed. There is always a front zone of defence consisting of a network of trenches a mile or so in depth and protected by wire entanglements. Five or six miles behind are the transport lines, where the front line units come out of the trenches periodically for rest. These are out of howitzer range and can usually escape attention from Hun aeroplanes. Here we clean up, refresh our training, play games and hold excursions to the French towns behind, to spend money because it is a burden in our pockets. We also flirt furiously with the ladies if we speak French, or silently if we do not.

But here generalizations end. I must talk of machine gunnery alone, for each arm of the service has its own task and its own tale. The war is so large, our little part so sufficient for us that we know probably less of the other fellow's doings than do you.

Our gun, as you know, fires rifle bullets at a greater rate than seventy-five rifles can maintain. Though one man can carry the gun quite easily, half a dozen mules cannot carry the ammunition it will use up in an hour. This enormous "fire power" makes the machine gun the most dangerous of all small weapons, the great filler of graveyards and the back-bone of defence.

So our supreme job is to stop Huns when Huns get that westward impulse and since a gunner can hide with his gun in a shell hole or a few tufts of grass or in a mere shadow, the Huns fear us "muchly."

But rarely do we catch droves of Germans asking to be killed, and our long vigils in shell-tattered trenches are weary ones at best. By way of diversion therefore, we regularly shoot up his roads and paths by night and if we are really venturesome, we enfilade his trenches or liven his villages by day.

In a "show" our job is to put down a curtain of fire over the heads of our advancing infantry cutting off or killing the fated Huns and when the objective is gained, some of us get on to it to stop Fritz's counter attack which is sure to come and just assure to fail.

These then briefly are the roles we play in the drama and together with other letters you may get from friends who are, or have been at the front, will help to reveal our work to you.

Yours Sincerely,
Mel. Wilson.

"Bruce Girl" writes The Telescope a Splendid Letter—Proud of what Bruce and Canadians have Done

Many old friends in Bruce will be glad to hear from Mrs. J. S. Brown of Cashmere, Washington, U. S. A., formerly Miss Ada Teasdale. Her bright newsy letter in which she tells of conditions across the Line, and something of what our neighbor brothers, the Yanks, are doing should prove highly interesting to our readers.

My dear Mr. Eedy:—

Please find enclosed the renewal of of my subscription to the "Telescope" When one is a couple of thousand miles away the old home paper is surely appreciated. My husband is not a "Bruce boy" but he says "we couldn't get along without the Telescope "

I wonder if a little news from this far West would be of interest to your readers.

I spent a very pleasant day a week or so ago with an old "Bruce Girl" Mrs. John Godfrey of Wenatchee. We had lived in adjoining towns for several years without being aware of the fact. Mrs. Godfrey, before her marriage was Miss Dando, of Dunkeld and well be remembered by many of your Dunkeld and Cargill readers. Mr. Godfrey was G. T. R. agent at Cargill and Clifford a number of years ago. He has been for a number of years city Treasurer of Wenatchee. We spent a very busy day recalling friends and acquaintances of long ago. Mrs. Godfrey was well acquainted with Lieut. Col. Meltae of 'In Flanders Field' fame. So many of our boys are shedding lustre on the name of Old Bruce that one is more than ever proud of her birth place.

We found it very difficult to consider ourselves neutral, in the early years of the war, but of course had to compromise by keeping our mouths shut, but now we feel that, as far as our boys have gone, they are making good and it rather puffs one up to hear a good loyal American say "why shouldn't they do as well as the Canadians?" Personally I cannot see any reason why they shouldn't. Your reputation is something to conjure with over here now!

We have in Washington the biggest cantonment in the States, both in capacity and in the number of states whose troops will be housed here. Camp Lewis about 18 miles south of Tacoma on the Northern Pacific has accommodation for 48,000 men and stables for about 15,000 horses. It is training ground for the National Army forces of the States of Montana, Wyoming Idaho, Washington, Oregon California, Nevada and Utah and has long been considered the finest military training ground west of the Rocky Mountains. It lies in the Puget Sound Basin between the coast and Cascade Ranges, and North Mt. Rainier in the immediate vicinity affords training facilities for the men from sea level to unbroken snowy wastes. They surely are rushing our boys east now, they were sending forward from six to eight troop trains daily about 3 weeks ago. It was rather trying to the parents of local boys who, after waiting for hours to see the boys from here as they went through, to have the trains go by at full speed.

There is one thing where I feel that the women have bear the hardest part of the burden, and that is in the matter of conservation of wheat and sugar and the intelligent use of substitutes. I see that you are being broken in to the use of all manner of unheard of things to make "good" bread and eatables generally but they are giving you a great margin. We have to use 50-50 mixture, and get it so our families say they like it. The other day my husband said, "Say Ada, I don't often kick, but this bread is no good". I replied: "James, it is very improper for you to talk in such a manner, but I am prepared to second your motion." It surely is hard for a Canadian who wasn't brought up on corn to take kindly to it in her old age and we women not only have to struggle to make things palatable but also to eat much of the strange and wonderful decoctions that result from our experiments.

We have had a very peculiar season. The early spring season was very cold and dry, we had no spring rains and a very light snowfall last winter, consequently the storage of water in the mountains, for irrigation is much below normal. Then we have had two cloudbursts, in the immediate vicinity which did much damage but we feel that that was minimized by the advantage to gardens and grain. The hay crop is light, but the fruit crop in the valley is in a promising condition and from present outlook prices promise to be fairly good. Of course there is the ever present menace of labor difficulties and transportation embargoes but these things are "in the lap of the Gods" and all we can do is to go on doing our best from day-break until after the last of the chores are finished by lantern light about 10. 30 p.m. I think every man in the valley is attempting to accomplish the work of three men. Just now we are thinning and box making, irrigating etc. The days even with the addition of all those thousands of hours saved by the "Daylight saving" plan are all too short for what is to be done and the nights too short for the requisite amount of rest.

Wishing you good success,
I am yours Respectfully,
Ada Teasdale Brown.

THE WEISHAR CASE

Editor Telescope
Walkerton, Ont.

Dear Sir,

My attention has been called to a statement in your issue of the 18th of July headed "Police Court case" which would imply that I have been wilfully guilty of a breach of the Military Service orders. The case was tried before Messrs. Tolton and Richardson who after the evidence was given thought it would be a hardship under the circumstances to fine me even if I were technically guilty of any offence and they sent a copy of the evidence to the Minister of Justice at Ottawa and with his consent I have been allowed to go free upon payment of costs.

As a matter of fact, Kraemer when hired by me was a stranger. He told me that he had been examined in the West where he had been and that he was not liable to Military Service. Later I was aware that he got a notice and I advised him to report. He refused to do so. I was not aware of the order requiring me to discharge him under such circumstances or I would have done so.

Yours truly,
Henry Weishar.

BRUCE PREPAREDNESS LEAGUE AND FARMS FOR SOLDIERS

(Port Elgin Times.)

A short time ago the Bruce Preparedness League meeting in Southampton appointed a committee to investigate a scheme of community farming for returning Bruce county soldiers. The big sheets of explanation of the scheme had the name of Major Moffat stamped on them in two or three places, and a great many people might have believed for a time that he had laboured and finally brought forth something which would be eagerly sought.

After the first publication of the idea, it at once dawned on Bruce county people that it was one which had for its object the settlement of the boys who might return from France, in some isolated part of Canada, either in New Ontario or the West.

But Bruce people want their boys back home after this war is over. They won't need further leadership from the major, and the latter will receive very little support for a scheme which might have much in store for the major and his friends, but very little for the men and their folk. It seems, that at a meeting in Walkerton the executive, although it isn't stated who the executive is, apparently appointed the major to go west and spy out the land, and also passed a resolution to ask the government to send a man along with him. Then, too, it seems that the sum of $1,500 from the funds of the disbanded 160th has been handed over to the Walkerton branch of the Bruce Preparedness League.

There isn't enough light on the idea for it to look well to the average resident of the county of Bruce. There is quite a difference of opinion on the scheme, and we doubt whether a dozen men of the county, who have given very little time or thought to the organization or workings of the Bruce Preparedness League, should be allowed to start out on an expensive campaign in which there is little interest. The returned men will want their land, they are entitled to it, but we doubt very much if they want a few men to tie them up to some half-baked arrangement like the community idea.

Major Moffat is back from England after two and a half years with the 160th battalion. The Major may know all about soldiering and how to win the war, but this arrangement whereby he is to spy out land for the boys who are in France doing their bit is a little far fetched.

(The Times concludes its article by repeating Mr. Frank Rennie's letter from the Walkerton Telescope.)

PUBLICITY Knows No Seasons

ADVERTISING, in spite of all the hard knocks it has received, continues to grow each year. It is essential. It is the power behind the selling organization. Take away the element of advertising and the business world would lie stagnant and at a standstill.

AND advertising knows no seasons—it just keeps everlastingly at it; the most efficient and persistent salesman on our payroll.

AFTER advertising all through your "regular season" you are losing mighty value; publicity by discontinuing your "ad." People have now become accustomed to your store news and the time is coming when they are going to need something exactly in your line.

YOUR ad. is a constant reminder—if it appears regularly. The sign above your door is seen only by people who pass your store—an advertisement in The Walkerton Telescope—the paper that goes home, is seen and read by the majority of the people in Walkerton and vicinity each week. So don't make the mistake of advertising just in your particular "season"—keep your name before the public the year round.

THE CROPS IN BRUCE

Special Representative of the Toronto Globe Tells of the Fine Crop Prospects in the Best County on the Map

There are few sections in which fall wheat has done as well in this particularly trying year as it has in Bruce. In a run of 60 miles over this county, covering parts of Brant, Carrick, Elderslie and Greenock townships, it was hardly at any time out of sight of fall wheat ready for harvest. Occasionally, as in other counties, this was in strips along the lines of fences or in the shelter of bush, but whole fields that looked good for 20 to 25 bushels to the acre were to be seen in all directions.

Heavier Snowfall in Bruce

Why has fall wheat done so much better in Bruce county than elsewhere? One reason is probably found in the fact that snowfall was more abundant there and lay longer on the ground. The chief reason is probably found in the thorough tillage which is given to wheat land in Bruce in advance of seeding.

Outside of southwestern Ontario there is probably not a farmer in the Province who will this year have more fall wheat to thresh than will Mr. Conrad Hossfeld of Carrick. He has two fields, of ten acres each, that give promise of 25 bushels to the acre. Since Mr. Hossfeld has never had a failure in this crop, when following a certain line of cultivation, it will be worth while to tell of the method followed by him.

Unique Wheat Cultivation

Mr. Hossfeld takes two crops of hay from his fields after seeding down and then pastures in the third spring. He starts hauling manure to these fields as soon as spring seeding is over and commences to plough down in June or July. Part of the manure is ploughed down with the sod; the rest is disked in after ploughing. Whenever there is a spare day or half day the harrow or cultivator is kept going on these fields. Mr. Hossfeld was harrowing one field with a three horse team when I called on him. He said it was the fourth time he had been over the field since ploughing and that he would probably go over it four or five more times before seeding. By this means weeds are killed and a perfect seed bed secured.

Produces Good Results

That there is no special virtue in the Hossfeld farm itself is shown by what is seen in a third field on his place that was sown with wheat last Fall. This field was in barley last year and the cultivation for the succeeding crop of fall wheat was of necessity not as well done as is usual on the Hossfeld farm. Furthermore, the same amount of humus was not in the soil as when sod preceded the wheat crop. On this field this year's wheat, but for the barley drilled in last spring, would not give a quarter crop. And yet the field is more favourably located than the other two fields, where sod was ploughed under in June or July of last year, that are showing an almost perfect stand.

"In almost every case where fall wheat has done well in Bruce this year, the land was summer-fallowed last year or was handled in the Hossfeld way," said District Representative McKay.

Sweet Clover Before Wheat

Not far from the Hossfeld farm is the home of Mr. J. Holm, whose father came from Denmark. At the time of my call Mr. Holm was about through hauling manure to a field of eleven acres which was covered with sweet clover a foot in length. The limited length of the clover in this case was explained by the fact that 17 cattle had been constantly on the field since spring and that three horses had been on it at night during the same time. A tractor is to be out on the field at once to prepare it for fall wheat. As the roots of the clover form a bulk equal to half that of the top, and as the field has received a liberal dressing of manure, the soil will be full of humus by the time it is ready for seeding with the fall wheat to be sown there.

In speaking of the pasturing of sweet clover, Mr. Holm said the mistake generally made is in not turning enough cattle on to keep the pasture crop well eaten down. Mr. Holm did not make this mistake. Twenty head on a field of eleven acres would seem to be crowding things fairly well, but the condition of the field when I saw it proved the wisdom of what was done. There was no coarse woody fibre in the clover, but an abundance of succulent feed.

The number of fields already in course of preparation for seeding indicates that Bruce farmers intend to put in at least their usual acreage of wheat this Fall, and they will have sufficient home-grown seed for less fortunate neighbors.

Clover Everywhere

In Bruce as well as in Grey one can not but be struck with the large acreage in all kinds of clover—sweet alfalfa and red. On all sides luxuriant fields of alfalfa are seen. Mr. Holm has a ten-acre field which has given excellent crops in four successive years. From that field Mr. Holm took 21 loads of hay this year, and as he has big horses it may be accepted as a fact that the loads were not small ones. When I was on the place the field was covered with a thick mat 12 to 18 inches high, and cattle are to be turned on this for pasture because there is no room in which to store the second cutting.

Mr. Alex. J. Lamont, in Port Elgin district, has a much larger area in this crop—69 acres. Mr. Lamont facetiously says he stacked all there was room for outside and then put the rest in the barn and stables.

Home-grown Alfalfa Seed

Speaking of alfalfa, it is worthy of note that both in Bruce and Grey reliance is placed mainly on home-grown seed. For a beginning in producing this seed the two lime-stone counties are mainly indebted to two men—Mr. Lamont in Bruce and another farmer in Beaver Valley, Grey county. This home-grown seed is true "variegated" and much superior to that obtained from other sources. The truth of this statement was demonstrated in Mr. Holm's ten-acre field. The whole of that field is in good condition, but a little strip sown with other than home-grown seed is not nearly equal to the rest of the field that was seeded with seed produced in the country.

Result of One Man's Example

In Grey county silos are largely built of wood. In Bruce the prevailing construction is of concrete. Mr. W. A. Howand of Brant township is credited with having built the first silo in Bruce. That was put up some 20 years ago. To-day look where one will, silos can be seen in all directions in the county. That is one illustration of the beneficial work one man may do by starting a whole community on the right line.

A Ranching Section

Up about Paisley and Port Elgin a good deal of land is given to ranching. There are holdings of 200 to 500 acres and some holders have. District Representative McKay tells me, as many as 200 cattle on grass now. The extent of the beef interest in this section is shown by the fact that in one year 365 cars of cattle were shipped from Paisley alone. The cattle fed are, too, as a rule, of prime quality. There has been very little nondescript kind of breeding so much in evidence in some sections.

In this county, too, a beginning has been made in co-operative marketing. There is one co-operative shipping centre at Greenock Gore, with Mr. Wallace Megraw in charge of the work. This organization in the 18 weeks since beginning operations has shipped 700 hogs and 20 sheep from Paisley.

An Insurance Fund

In this case an insurance fund of one-half of one per cent of the proceeds of sales is deducted. This meets not only the payment to Mr. Megraw for his services, but covers unforeseen expenses as well. For instance, in one case a shipment of hogs had to be held over for a day and the feed bill was met out of this fund. On another occasion, when more than a car of hogs was in sight, some of the shippers were asked to hold theirs over for the next car. Meantime the price dropped 75 per 100 lbs., and this loss was made up to the men who held their hogs over out of the insurance fund.

Greenock Gore shipments of hogs are sold at a f. o. b. price. Mr. Megraw gives each shipper a ticket showing the weight of the hogs shipped by him and this is cashed at the bank, thus enabling each shipper to take his money home with him on shipping day. The bank is recouped by a draft on the firm, with shipping bills attached, to which the hogs are sold.

Potatoes and Tomatoes

There is a considerable potato district about Hepworth. In that district, Representative McKay informs me, ten to fifteen acre fields of potatoes, largely of the Empire State variety, are common. There is some little leaf trouble in the district, but prospects are for a 75 per cent crop at least.

That part of Bruce lying near Walkerton may almost be considered in the banana belt, as Mr. A. E. Sherrington has some tomatoes ripening now. These are from seed produced by Mr. Sherrington himself. That seed has been saved by Mr. Sherrington ever since six years ago when he was in truck farming before, and still this seed gave better results than did some seed ripened last year.

Killing Out of Cherry Trees

There was a good deal of yellow leaf in Bruce cherry orchards last year. This weakened the trees and last winter's severe cold put a further strain on them. As a result one Bruce orchardist had to tear out 200 cherry trees this spring.

In Bruce, as in other counties, orchards show the effects of labor shortage and the trying conditions of last winter. Bruce orchards, as a rule, however, show much less winter-killing than may be seen along the Lake Ontario front.

Creditable School Buildings

There are few counties in which the average standard of farm buildings is higher than in Bruce. There are still fewer counties in which such a good showing is made in the class of school buildings. No. 8, Greenock, a purely rural section, has a brick school house which would be a credit to a town. A windmill pumps water to a tank and furnishes water for flushing inside lavatories.

Bruce farmers, like their brothers of Grey, are promised a prosperous year. In a 60-mile run crops all showed up well, some of the oats being level with the fences. The clean appearance of the fields was particularly noticeable. There are very few dirty farms in Bruce.

AHMIK.

THOSE COPPER TOES!

This town's just full of shoe salesmen, a new one every week — they're showing youths and maidens fair and matrons old and sleek.

But why, forsooth, do all these stores that cater for our trade forget to stock the slickest boot that ever cobbler made? We gaze and shake our heads again, 'taint those, nor those, our those, we were looking for the little boots that had the copper toes.

When we were kids — dear bless my soul, but that was long ago — we wouldn't think of wearin' boots without a copper toe.

Why, them there boots with copper toes, they make my eyes grow dim a-thinkin' how we used to kick an empty salmon tin. We'd scuff the soles out in a month, we'd wear the heels away, and the observance of the blackin brush would keep 'em kind of gray.

The strings would burst [illegible] tie them up in ways born of d[illegible] but that strip of copper on the toe, by jing, 'twas always there.

The youngsters nowadays no doubt, are dressed in ways more fair from the patent leather on their feet to the ointment on their hair — but just as sure as mountain stream into the ocean flows, they've never made a thing to beat them with copper toes.

MAKING OF ICE CREAM

Food Control Board Permits But 10 Per Cent. Fat.

A Recipe That Has Proven Successful —Stake Vines and Trim Leaves to Grow High-Colored Tomatoes.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

A GREAT many inquiries have recently come to the Dairy Department of the Ontario Agricultural College regarding the new regulation from the Canada Food Board with reference to the manufacture of ice-cream, and also, as to methods of testing ice-cream for fat.

Order No. 34, section 8, issued by the Canada Food Board reads: "On and after May 1st, 1918, no person in Canada shall use in the manufacture of ice-cream more than 10 per centum of fats, whether of animal or of vegetable origin; or more than six pounds of cane sugar, to eight gallons of ice-cream."

As a result of recent investigations made in the Dairy Department of the O. A. College, by Messrs. McMillan, Parfitt, and Miss Miller, of the Dairy Staff, we can recommend the following formula or recipe, for a batch or mix which will produce about eight gallons of plain ice-cream of good quality and which will come within the regulations as laid down by the Food Board:

44½ lbs. (4½ gallons) cream testing 13% fat.
1½ lbs. skim milk powder.
6 lbs. cane sugar—1½ lbs. sugar may be replaced with 2 lbs. corn syrup.
4 ounces vanilla extract.
8 ounces gelatin dissolved in 6 lbs. (½ gallon) skim milk.

The cost of the ingredients in this formula will range from 32 to 42 cents buying in small quantities. If bought wholesale, the cost would be less.

If whole milk and cream are used, mixing equal quantities of these will produce an ice-cream testing not over ten per cent. fat, assuming that the milk and cream are of average fat content—3.5 and 18 to 20% fat respectively.

Three Methods of Testing Ice-Cream for Fat.

It is necessary for the ice-cream maker to test his ice-cream occasionally, and the following methods will give satisfactory results if carefully carried out:

1.—The Glacial Acetic and Hydrochloric Acid Test.

A representative sample of the ice-cream is taken and melted and thoroughly mixed; a 9-grammie sample is weighed into an 18-gramme Babcock cream test bottle. A mixture is prepared using equal parts of glacial acetic acid and concentrated hydrochloric acid. Twenty cubic centimeters of this acid mixture is added to the 9-gramme sample of ice-cream in the test bottle, and is then all well shaken. The bottle is placed in a water bath of 120 to 130 deg. F., and shaken at intervals until a brown color appears. It is then placed in the Babcock centrifuge and the test completed in the same way as for testing cream and the reading multiplied by two.

2.—The Sulphuric Acid Test.

To make the test with sulphuric acid, a 9-gramme sample is weighed into an 18-gramme test bottle. About 9 cubic centimeters of luke-warm water is then added to dilute the sample, in order to have about 18 cubic centimeters of mixture in the bottle. The sulphuric acid is then added slowly, a little at a time, at minute intervals, shaking well after each addition until a chocolate brown color appears in the bottle. No definite amount of acid can be stated, as the quantity will vary with different ice-creams. As soon as the chocolate brown color appears in the ice-cream a little cold water may be added to check the action of the acid. The bottle is then placed in the centrifuge and the test completed in the usual way. The reading is multiplied by two.

3.—Acetic and Sulphuric Acids.

Weigh a 9-gramme sample of ice-cream that has been thoroughly mixed. About 9 cubic centimeters of water is then added to dilute the sample. Add 5 cubic centimeters of acetic acid and then add carefully 6 to 8 cubic centimeters sulphuric acid. Centrifuge, and then add water the same as in other tests. If using an 18-grammme bottle multiply the reading by two to obtain the per cent. fat in the ice-cream. A 9-gramme bottle which is radiated to give the percentage of fat directly needs no correction when reading.

To Grow Tomatoes Most Successfully.

If you are growing tomatoes to a single stem, be sure to remove all side shoots before they become of any size. All the extra food which is used in their growth is wasted and the breaking off of large shoots injures the plants. When August 15th comes it is well to nip off all growing ends so that the fruit will finish ripening, also open out the plant, if very thick, to allow the sunlight in.

When first fruits begin to ripen, apply nitrate of soda,—a teaspoonful in a watering can, fill of water,—to the plants twice a week to make a liquid manure and use it instead. These are more especially valuable after the growth has been stopped.

Keep a dust mulch around the plants. If the weather is very dry, soak the ground around them thoroughly in the evening, then make a new mulch in the morning.

When the first fruits in staked tomatoes are beginning to color, remove one-half of each leaf. This will hasten the ripening. Sunlight is necessary for rapid ripening.

Leave only growth enough on your plants to carry what fruit will ripen before frost. There is no use in allowing more to set than will be of use to you and the fewer you have will be larger. — A. H. MacLennan, Ontario Vegetable Specialist.

Knife Severed Artery

Mr. Frank Wilhelm, of Brant, had the main artery in his thumb severed while whetting a cradle on Tuesday night. The handle slipped to the ground causing the blade to give his thumb a bad jab.

Postage on Parcels

The cost of postage on parcels to the boys at the Front is quite a heavy burden on some people, and an exchange asks if arrangements cannot be made with the Imperial postal authorities to decrease that cost. In case this could not be done our exchange suggests that the government defray all postage above a purely nominal rate from the consolidated revenue fund.

Milling Firm's Policy

Although The American Rolling Mill Co. has been unable to supply the demand for its product for over two years and a half, the company purposes to continue its advertising. "We are building," said the manager in explanation, "a permanent business edifice, and some day we would have to spend millions of dollars buying back the business and good will of our clients if they are forsaken in this emergency."

Just A Note Of Warning

Many boarding-house keepers and others engaged in the restaurant business in a small way, particularly in the small towns and villages, have not yet taken out licenses as they are required to do by the Canada Food Board. These parties are therefore liable to the penalty required by the regulations. It must be borne in mind that a public eating place subject to license is, according to Food Board No. 46, "any place whatsoever where meals to the number of fifteen or more per day are served or sold to others than members of the family or household of the proprietor or caterer." Persons supplying meals to the number as stated must obtain licenses, otherwise they are liable to fine or imprisonment, or both.

Regret His Going

Rev. Roy Kain's pastorate at Thamesville is referred to by The Thamesville Herald in highly complimentary terms on the occasion of his leaving to go Overseas as a Chaplain. The Herald says:—With the leaving for Overseas of Rev. R. J. Kain, Thamesville loses a most valued citizen. Altho only a member of our community for two years there is a general regret at his going. Both he and his good wife have been active workers, not only in their own church but in the whole community, and we shall all be the poorer for their leaving us. Mr. Kain who is young, athletic, full of energy and strong in faith, is yet kindly and tolerant and withal very human. We believe that R. J. Kain has chosen wisely and that on the battlefields of Europe he will be able to do splendid work for the soldiers, and for the Great General in whose army he has enlisted for life. Although deeply regretting his leaving The Herald wishes him every success in his new work.

EDEN GROVE

Of all the words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these "back again". Not but what I am personally glad to be back among you but I am very sad that I, all unwittingly, brought tears to the eyes of the young ladies by causing our Rel'g agent Mr. Brown to leave their sympathetic presence.

Privates Alexander and Kincard were home over the week-end.

Messrs. Dave Cargill, James Watson Mike Driscoll and James Keyes have invested in Ford Cars the last while back. Let's all buy one or two.

Two per cent John has secured a new driver. I am not positive—not being much of a horseman but I think it's a holstein.

There were some Eden Grovites at Guelph at the time that carload of whiskey was seized. They tell me their tongues were hanging out so far that they could have used them for Watch chains.

To be a successful farmer requires more brains, experience and skill than is required to be a success in any other industry or profession. You laugh! Very well. Laugh if wish—a hyena can do the same—but listen.

If a horse or cow takes sick on a farm and the owner thereof drives to town, secures a Veterinary and has him attend the beast, he loses not only a considerable sum of money but also practically a day's work. If he is a successful farmer and onto his job, he will cure that animal himself and have on hand the necessary medicines to do it. He must be somewhat of a Vet.

If his binder loses a bolt, he cannot afford to go to town—wait around till his turn comes to be attended to—get his new bolt and return. He must have a machine repair shop on his premises with all the necessary tools and to be able to turn out his own repairs thus saving both time and money. In fact he should be able to take any machine on his premises apart, repair it and put it together again. He must be somewhat of a machinst.

For his own supply or if he can secure more for dressed beef or pork than for live weights, he must be able to kill and dress his own meat. He must therefore be somewhat of a butcher.

If he has an orchard—and he should have one—he must be capable of pruning and looking after it. The art of grafting should be his (not the same kind you are so expert in) as it saves time and betters the fruit. He must study his grounds and its needs. He must be somewhat of a horticulturist.

If the farmer needs a driving shed, tool house, machine shop, or barn, he cannot afford to pay big wages to carpenter. Twould make too big an inroad on his prospective earnings. He must understand and be capable with some help from his neighbors to do the job himself. He must be somewhat of a carpenter.

Then consider a moment his investment. There is not only the considerable amount that represents the value of his land but there is also the cost of his machinery and the successful farmer has an enormous amount of it. Then there is his stock. If you wish an idea of how quickly they run into money, go out and try to buy a cow today. Indeed I dare say very few farmers but would be farther ahead if they sold their farms and loaned out their out their money thus received at seven per cent.

Besides all this he must work—work hard and systematically—not as your city man does from eight till six but from Cock crow till dark. With this knowledge and application anyone can be a successful farmer. Do you want to try it? Come now you laughed at my opening statement. You've always regarded farming as the only job on earth requiring neither knowledge nor brains. What's your opinion now, Mister?

Hiram.

In The Eastern Townships

(1) A Group of Girl Campers at Waterfall, Knowlton's Landing.
(2) Scene on Magog River, Sherbrooke.

THERE were troublesome times for loyalists of British stock in America at the close of the eighteenth century; they saw the influence of their beloved motherland dwindling in the new world; they witnessed the defeat of their cause, saw the triumph of George Washington, and their anxiety culminated in despair when, in 1783, the signature of the American declaration of independence threatened to destroy the last tie to that mother country. Wearying of life amongst those who had torn down the Union Jack and hoisted a newer emblem the loyalists of Vermont and New Hampshire left their ancestored grounds and emigrated to the neighboring country where the British flag was still found.

They were a hardy race, these British-Americans who settled in the Eastern Townships of the province of Quebec. They were mainly of English or Scotch birth or of English or Scotch descent, and they came across the border to ensure. Many of them forsook comfortable homes, and there were few who had brought many earthly possessions with them but they were well equipped with indomitable courage and persevering industry. That part of Canada to which they came was then but scantily explored. They knew little of what it offered, yet they were not dismayed as they came through the rugged hills and valleys and past immense forests. They pitched a camp wherever they found a fertile tract of land. Every responsible United Empire Loyalist, who by his loyalty to Great Britain had suffered was given a substantial acreage. Forty settlers made what was called a township, and a township covered about ten square miles. Each township elected an agent, or representative, to negotiate with the Canadian Government. A Constitutional Act was passed in 1791 whereby the settlement of the district was [illegible]

The United Empire Loyalist pioneers of the Eastern Townships soon became attached to the new country into which they were welcomed, and those who had been driven from their homes by their ancestors. Beautiful scenery surrounded them everywhere; there was plenty of big game in the woods, millions of fish dwelt in the lakes and rivers, and virgin soil awaited the request of the plough and spade to yield wholesome crops. Log built houses made sturdy homes, and log fires made cosy hearths in the chilly winter days. But the course of life cannot be all smooth in a new and rough country. There were no roads, and members of families had often to travel long distances through wilderness in search of some of the necessities of life. It is recorded that Henry Lawrence, a youthful lad, travelled forty miles for fifty pounds of salt. A traveller discovering himself lost in the woods was no unusual person in those days.

About the year 1867 the settlement of the Eastern Townships was begun by the Pycock Canadians. They multiplied rapidly, and now they form the greater portion of the population of the locality. Some years ago when opportunities for success in Western Canada were being widely advertised, many of the English-speaking inhabitants of the Townships sold out their holdings, and proceeded to take up larger homesteads in the West.

Some of the towns in the Eastern Townships are centres of prosperous manufacturing industries and considerable traffic. The towns and many of the villages also provide accommodation for holiday folks in the summer months. The beauty spots of the Eastern Townships are much frequented by residents of Montreal, who, on account of their proximity to them, can conveniently go there for week-end holidays.

Forethought and Good Judgment Used

Travellers show preference for Scenic Route: Many Meal and Night Trains

Nowadays, forethought, and a lively sense of public appreciation play an important part in the construction of a railroad. The Canadian Northern made a happy choice in the selection of its route between Toronto and Ottawa: skirting the shorelines of Lake Ontario and the Bay of Quinte; over the height of land between Napanee and Sydenham, and through Rideau Lakes region, adds zest to the daytime journey de Soeing ou Sommeil. Commodious day and night trains, stopping at principal intermediate stations, have made the route very popular.

NEW OATS HURT HORSES

Fall Threshed Crop Must be Fed Judiciously.

Sudden Changes of Feed Particularly To Be Prevented—Waste of Farm Machinery Often Spells Difference Between Profit and Loss for Farmer — Have Corn Machinery In First-Class Order.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

EACH year brings a certain amount of trouble through the feeding of new grain to live stock, and in seasons like the present when food is scarce and the supply of old grain has been exhausted before the freshly-threshed grain is ready there is a likelihood that more new grain than usual will be fed to the live stock and consequently greater care should be exercised to avoid digestive derangements.

The horse is generally considered a little more susceptible to digestive troubles following changes in feeding practice than are other classes of farm live stock. It is always well to make changes very gradually and carefully. The main grain feed of the horse in this country is oats, and new oats should always be fed with great care. Hard-worked horses should, if it is at all possible, be fed old oats and the new grain left to dry and cure for a few weeks after threshing. At any rate to avoid colic, acute indigestion and inflammation new oats should at first form only a part of the grain ration, being mixed with old oats and possibly a little bran and the percentage of the new grain gradually increased until the horses are on full feed. Sudden changes from old to new grain are especially dangerous with the horse and particularly with the horse at heavy work and on a heavy concentrate ration. There is, of course, a difference due to the time of threshing. Grain which remains in sack or mow for several weeks and thus becomes dry and cured is not so dangerous as that threshed directly from the field or immediately after harvesting.

As a rule heavy feeding of grain is not practiced with cattle and sheep on pasture. Where such is the case, however, changing from old to new grain should be done with care and the substitution should be, if possible, gradual. If the ration must, of necessity, be composed entirely of newly-threshed grain it should at first be comparatively light and increased very gradually.

Pigs usually handle newly-threshed grain without much trouble, although if on very heavy rations when finishing for market a little care should be taken that they be not thrown off their feed. Newly-threshed grain is difficult to grind fine and is not easily stored and large quantities of the ground grain may not be stored in bulk as heating and musting will result in lowering the feeding value of the grain by rendering it unpalatable and less digestible. Musty grain is more dangerous than clean, new grain.—Prof. W. Toole, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Get Corn Binder In Shape.

To handle the corn crop expeditiously, economically, and successfully some kind of a corn harvester is an absolute necessity, and it must be in good working order. Various cheap machines have been tried and found wanting, but the corn binder has become a permanent fixture on a large number of farms in this province.

There are several kinds of corn binders on the market, and while each kind may have its special merit as to the arrangement of the essential parts trouble must arise if these parts are not properly cleaned, oiled and kept in alignment.

The advancing part of the corn binder consists of two diverging jaws which may be raised or lowered by an arrangement of levers. Attached to each jaw are two or three travelling chains, furnished with fingers. Their function is to convey the stalks to the binding deck in an upright position as the machine advances. The chains should not be too loose or they will ride the teeth of the sprocket and slip down the teeth. Machines having packers,—to prevent ears being knocked off by jamming the stalks behind the needles—so to it that the packers yield slightly while the bundle is being tied. Too many bundles crowding the carrier will interfere with the binding attachment properly freeing itself. The knotter and the needle cannot do their work efficiently when covered with rust. Polish them with emery cloth. If the knife of the knotter is dull sharpen it or it will cause trouble by pulling the twine from the hook before the knot is made. As it requires considerable power to cut the sappy stubble, and not tear it up by the roots the knife should be thoroughly keen, otherwise it will clog with grass and weeds. The stubble-cutter should also be kept in good condition. It is a useful device, and when rightly sharpened and adjusted does not add very much to the draft.

Do not depend on a superficial examination of the machine to acquaint yourself if it needs repairing, because if you do, you will surely see some small, but vital part needing attention, if not replacing. If no break during the busy season you will cause greater breakages and serious loss.

Clean the machine thoroughly with benzine, gasoline or kerosene. Go over every part of the machine, and while doing this you will locate loose bolts and worn or broken parts. Oil-holes and wells should be cleaned out, and new waste, if required, put into the wells. Refill the grease cups; in short, renew and repair anything and everything that requires attention. — Prof. John Evans, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

The "B" on the Oats

Mrs. Henry Damper writes to the Guelph Mercury: "I would like to say I am 67 years old and my husband is 76 and we both have seen that "B" on the oats ever since we can remember. So "don't worry," you can tell them. We live at Crewson's Corners. The people around here felt quite troubled about it."

Sure Poison 'Tis Said

According to a Toronto paper a favorite trick of bootleggers now adays is to cut out the bottoms of whiskey bottles, leaving the official seal on the cork intact, then fill up the bottles with a cheap and poisonous concoction and cement the bottom tight. Those who buy and drink that "whiskey" might as well drink carbolic acid and be done with it. The imitation whiskey may be a bit slower, but it is no less sure a poison.

The Spotless Town

Alvinston Free Press: We read in many of our exchanges, agitations by the editors for the various towns to clean up the streets. In this respect Alvinston leads many of the surrounding towns, as every Friday morning (weather permitting) the merchants get out on the street and sweep into piles all refuse which may have collected during the week, this being then hauled away. This makes a very presentable looking street and should be an example to other towns.

And Next Winter People Will Freeze

A great subterranean fire has been raging for more than thirty years in south-eastern Ohio, according to "Popular Mechanics," It has been fed by fifteen million tons of the best soft coal, which has been on fire since the labor troubles of 1884 in this region. All attempts to extinguish the fire have failed, though at one period water was pumped on it continuously for three years. "One can stand on a high hill in the middle of the fire district," it is said, and see smoke issuing from the ground as far as the eye can reach in every direction."

Handling Gasoline

Many automobile owners do not fully realize the danger connected with the careless handling of gasoline. In a general way they recognize the explosive power of the liquid but few of them know how great that explosive power is. A writer in one of the magazines devoted to the auto trade seeks to make this clear and more impressive by comparing the explosive power of gasoline with that of dynamite. He points to the fact that gasoline, even at low temperature, constantly develops an explosive vapor. Five gallons of gasoline will generate 8,000 cubic feet of gas which, if ignited, expands 4,000 times. One gallon of gasoline, properly mixed with air and compressed, is equal to about 83 pounds of dynamite in explosive force. What makes gasoline particularly dangerous is the fact that it is more rapidly ignited and exploded than dynamite. One can never be too careful in handling gasoline under any and all circumstances.—Popular Science Monthly.

MAN

Man that is born of woman is small potatoes and few in a hill.

He riseth up today and flourisheth like a rag weed, and tomorrow or the next day after, the undertaker has him in the ice box.

He goeth forth in the morning warbling like a lark, and is knocked out in one round and two seconds.

In the midst of life he is in debt, and the tax collector pur-ueth him wherever he goeth.

The banister of life is full of splinters and he slideth down it with considerable rapidity.

He walks forth in the bright sunlight to absorb ozone, and meeteth a bank teller with a sight draft for $267.

He cometh home at eventide and meeteth the wheelbarrow in his path, and the wheelbarrow riseth up and smiteth him to the earth. And falleth upon him.

In the gentle spring-time he putteth on his summer clothes, and a blizzard stayeth him far away from home and filleth him with woe and rheumatism.

In autumn he putteth on his winter trousers and a wasp that abideth in them filleth him with intense excitement.

He buyeth a watch dog, and when he comes home late from the lodge the watch dog treeth him, and sits beneath him until rosy morn.

He goeth to the horse trot and betteth on the brown mare and the bay gelding with the blaze-face winneth.

He marrieth a red-headed heiress with a wart on her nose, and the next day her paternal ancestor goeth under with few assets and great liabilities and cometh home to live with his beloved son-in law.

Mr. Milton Dierlam, at one time a salesman with Whitehead & Huether, was in town last week representing the Brook's Oil Co., of Cleveland. Milton makes his home at Hamilton.

Train Men's Shift

The reduction of train service on the railroads and the consequent laying off of a few crews, has resulted in a good deal of "tumping" lately, the senior men who have been laid off claiming jobs held by junior men and getting them. This has resulted in a good deal of shifting from place to place among the train men.

Broke Traffic Law.

Mr Henry Schmidt, a local liveryman, will bring an action against an automobile driver resident near Paisley for an infraction of the traffic law. It appears that our townsman was motoring to Port Elgin on Sunday morning, and overtook another car south of Paisley. Henry wished to pass, but the other fellow is alleged to have poked along for nearly two miles, and, blocking Mr. Schmidt's every attempt to get ahead. This was more than Mr. Schmidt could stand, and he is determined to teach the offender a lesson in good manners.—Mildmay Gazette

Now Dead and Buried

The Ontario West Shore Railway (the one-time proposed electric railway from Goderich to Kincardine) which at one time promised so much to the municipalities it was designed to serve, later became the subject of much litigations and of heart-ache to those interested in it, has now become a thing of the past. It is not only dead but buried—or if not buried its parts have been so dissipated and distributed that it, as a thing in itself, it no longer exits. The final scene of destruction was enacted a couple of weeks ago, when the effects—wood and iron—between Kintail and Goderich were sold by public auction. J. J. Hunter, of Kincardine, wielded the hammer, and the sum of $220 was realized from the old ties, bridge timbers, scrapers and other junk. The most valuable item was the timber of the big trestle at Port Albert. It brought $155.00. For several years the material has been disappearing—farmers and others helping themselves to such things as they could make use of. There is little left now but the cuts and the grading which for years will remain as a monument to one of the greatest swindles ever pulled off in Western Ontario.

IT MAKES A DIFFERENCE

(From an Exchange)

That it pays to keep your subscription to the home paper pain up is a long-established fact. Take the case of John Jones and his neighbor, Abe Smith, for instance. Both were well known citizens of the community; both had lived the average sort of a life, but when they passed from out this vale of tears John was paid in advance, and Abe was some six or seven seasons behind the lighthouse. Their funerals are held; mourners in equal numbers follow them to their last long resting places. The editor is alone in the sanctum. He sums up their careers in his mind, and after looking at their subscription accounts he tal es the office typewriter on his knee and this is what he says:

John Jones:—Our heart is a tumult of sadness, our life's way has been darkened. A familiar form has gone from our midst that the coming years will be unable to replace. To know our neighbor and friend, John Jones, was to love him. He was the soul of generosity and kindness, and his sad leave-taking has cast a pall over the entire community. As a husband and father he was the personification of all that was good and noble; in his business dealings with his fellow men he was the acme of honest and upright-ness. He has gone out over the vine-clad hills of time to wait the coming of his loved ones on that other shore. His life was ideal, an inspiration to better citizenship; and we know that his shall be the reward of the faithful—a seat on the right of the throne in place in glory through all the eternal ages.

Abe Smith:—In the due course of events Destiny finally came to its senses. And last Wednesday night reached out and yanked old Abe Smith into the unknown. We don't know where he has gone and care a damsite less. So far as this community is concerned we can spare him with pleasure. He was a boulder upon the rails of progress; he was "agin" everything that stood for the betterment of the town in which he lived. He was parsimonious, low-down, and foul mouthed, and it must be a relief to his family to be rid of him. He died leaving a widow and eight small children, no estate, and an unpaid subscription account at this office, for seven dollars. We are human, we are forgiving, and just before the undertaker screwed the lid down we put in a seersucker suit, a palm-leaf fan, and a thermometer. We hope he'll have a darn big lot of use for them.

It's all ill wind that blows no person any good. As a result of the recent registration of the man and womanhood of the country, a Strathroy man and his son, who had not been heard from for many years, were accidentally united. The boy, out West wrote to a Strathroy party for a certificate of his birth. Inquiry was made, and it was found that his father was still living there. To his delight, the father was given the address of his son, who was lost track of many years ago.

Death of Mr. Adam Sieling, Sr.

Death removed one of the oldest residents of this district on Friday July 26th at Neustadt when Mr. Adam Sieling, Sr passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Conrad Helwig at the advanced age of 91 years, 9 months and 7 days. Death was due to a general break down owing to old age. He had a remarkable constitution and as recent as May last walked from Neustadt to Hanover in about an hour and a half. Deceased was retiring in disposition and was highly respected by all who knew him. He was born in Wippershain, Hersfeld, Kurhessen, Germany, on October 19, 1826. He came to Canada in 1847, being then 21 years of age. He made his first home in the town of Salem where he met and married Miss Elizabeth Derbecker. Later the family moved to Normanby township where they lived a short time returning to Salem for three years. They then moved to Carrick township where he farmed until he was 83 years of age. He then lived in Neustadt for 2 years and then moved to Hanover. The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Sieling was blessed with 11 children of whom 6 survive, as follows: Harriett, (Mrs. John Collinson) of Monroe, Mich; Elizabeth (Mrs. C. Diebel) of Hanover; Christine (Mrs. John Stephan) of Logan township; Sarah (Mrs. Con. Helwig) Neustadt; Adam of Hanover and William in Saskatchewan. Mrs. Sieling passed away eight years ago. The deceased gentleman leaves numerous descendants, there being 41 grand children and 22 great grand children. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon July 29th, from the home of Mr. Helwig in Neustadt to the Hanover cemetery. The funeral service was held on Mr. Helwig's lawn, being conducted by Rev. J. Leypoldt, assisted by Rev. W. Papenhausen.

MALCOLM MacBETH WRITES FROM WEST

Malcolm MacBeth, an old Walkerton boy, now Postmaster of Milverton and publisher of the Milverton Sun, writes from the West where he is at present on an extended trip with his family:—

We arrived in Winnipeg on Monday night, after a train ride from Fort William, and spent Tuesday and Wednesday forenoon in that city. We toured as much as we could in the time. It is really a wonderful place and considering the amount of waste land to the east of it, one wonders from what it draws its source of prosperity. The most interesting historical place about it is the gateway of old Fort Garry, which was built in 1850. Only the gateway of this famous old fort, built in the days of the Red River settlement, remains, the remainder of the structure having been entirely demolished in the 80's. Had the Hudson Bay Company foreseen what this country is destined to be, it is possible that this fort, which would have proved one of the most historic points in the West, would not have been erased. However, on its ruins towers in stately grandeur the Fort Garry hotel, just recently completed by the C. N. R. This building is about the last word in hotel architecture and is about twelve stories in height, and its equipment is up to the minute. There are no memorials here commemorating the life of the late Lord Strathcona, who for so many years was such a picturesque figure in the West, but the regard was mutual, as Lord Strathcona, who did so much for Montreal and other places by lavishing his wealth on their public institutions, did not contribute a farthing to any of Winnipeg's institutions. The cause is said to have been due to this constituency refusing to return him as a candidate to parliament in the early eighties, when he was plain Donald Smith. Lord Strathcona's prejudices and resentments were strong even to vindictiveness.

The trip from Winnipeg to Regina was uneventful. The crops of Manitoba looked to be fairly good and will undoubtedly, be up to the average. The wheat is not of very great height but is heading out well. A considerable quantity of rain has fallen of late and, while it will help considerably, the benefits will not be nearly so great as would have been had it fell earlier in season.

A remarkable thing about Regina is the amount of ground you see in potatoes—almost every vacant lot is planted in the sustaining tuber. Even in front of the Normal School they grow in the stead of lawns and shrubbery.

WALKERTON CHIROPRACTOR

This branch of Medical Treatment has steadily grown in popularity because it has shown good results.

New Road to Health

A subluxated vertebrae causes pressure upon nerve, interrupting normal nerve supply. This will weaken the tissue or organ supplied and the result is disease. A chiropractor adjusts the offending bone relieving the pressure on the nerve, thus removing the cause so nature can restore health.

CHAUTAUQUA WEEK

A Splendid Success In Walkerton
aughters of the Empire An-

For Next Year

The word "Chautauqua" signified little or nothing to the average citizen of Walkerton a week ago. To-day it means something. It leaves a pleasant taste on the tongue. It has brought us a feast of goodnchings, which in the ordiffary course of events our people would never have the opportunity to enjoy. The Chautauqua program proved edocative, entertaining and inspiring to the last degree. Its music was provided by artists of more than national reputation. Its dramatic production was given by players of the highest distinction. The addresses brought to our doors the best thought of the times in a series of inspirational orations of the highest order. The large audiences were pleased and profited. "Chautauqua" may now be reckoned as an established institution in Walkerton and to the local Chapter of the Daughters of The Empire is e the credit for pioneering the move- here. Killed In Action.

Word has just been received that a former Walkerton boy, Lieut. Clark Ostle, son of Mr. W. D. Ostle, now of Toronto, was killed in action on August 9th. Clark left the Bank at Collingwood early in the war to enlist. He was a clever chap and a fine type of young Canadian manhood.

Fell Off Ladder

Mr. Archie Tolton's little four year old son, Morris, climbed a ladder out in the barn one day last week and fell through on top of the hay loader. One of the tines of the loader pierced the little fellow's left thigh about an inch and a half inflicting a nasty wound which required the doctor's services.

Quarrel Over Berry Patch

Two women living near, Hanover quarreled in a berry patch and came to blows. One struck her neighbor over the head with a berry pail inflicting injuries which required the doctor's attention. As a result Mrs. Jos. Francis charged Mrs. Wightman in Court here with assault. Mrs. Wightman claimed the other woman was trespassing on property rented by her husband but the boundary line is not marked and Magistrate Tulton assessed Mrs Wightman $7 on two charges, $5 damages, together with costs which brought the bill up to $30.64.

The heaviest rain in several months accompanied by lightning and wind visited this section Tuesday evening. CAPT. MALC. McKECHNIE

Walkerton Boy Who Went To France With Medical Corps Fell In Battle On Aug. 8th

A telegram to Mr. and Mrs. D. McKechnie from Ottawa on Monday morning bore the sad intelligence that their son, Capt. Malcolm Archibald McKechnie, had died of wounds in France on August 8th. No further word has been received yet but doubtless he was one of the first gallant Canadians, who fell in the Offensive last week in which the Canadian Divisions won back a wide strip of ground from the enemy. Dr. McKechnie, who has been serving with the 6th Can. Field Ambulance Corps, was a young man of attractive personality and high ideals of life and service. The noble spirit which has won the respect and admiration of the world, and which in future years will be Canada's richest heritage was his, in full measure. His last letter to his mother before leaving Camp Hughes, Manitoba, for England, on Oct. 24th, 1916, shows what manner of young man he was. He recalls the joy of childhood when sleigh riding down gentle slops. As he grew older the steeper hills were the attraction. These too lost their charm but the steep hill near the Exhibition Grounds was always a joy. Arriving after a climb over the crusted snow, the start downward was slow at first, then faster and faster, shooting over hummocks and attempting to fly, and on through a piece of swamp out upon the icy river where the sleigh glided gently and then stopped. Then all was excitement and how glad they all were and yet sorry for those who did not come along and take the trip, and so the desire came to him and he hoped to travel far and swiftly and safely along life's pathway and when the speed slackened and the sleigh begin to slow up he would look along the river and up to the grand old hills towering far above, emblems of his mother's devoted love and the eternal Father's care which enabled him to take his bumps over the hummocks and arrive safely at the river and then he would be happy, oh so happy. In his last letter, received last week, he speaks about transfusion of blood which starts a new life which had almost flickered out, and how keenly he was interested and rejoiced in its success. The equipment apparatus had to be invented and made from any material at hand and the men contributed a great deal in making these articles. Noble chaps, they were, always anxious under all conditions to do their utmost to help those who were wounded and gratified at the results, and realized that it is one thing to put a dressing on a wound and send the case on to the casualty clearing station, often beyond help when taken there and what a different feeling they had when the case under circumstances was almost beyond hope and yet they succeeded in bringing the patient around and then sent him on. They, themselves were transfused with the desire to help the other chap when in dire distress.

Dr. McKechnie was born at Gillies Hill, on Jan. 11th, 1889, died of wounds August 8th, 1918. He came with his parents to Walkerton in 1892 when his father received the appointment of County Gaoler. He graduated from the Walkerton Public and High Schools and in Medicine from Queen's University in 1914 and was registered in the University of Alberta at Edmonton. He was associated with Drs. McKentie & McKenzie as a physician for the Canada Northern Railway until he enlisted in 1916 and went Overseas from Camp Hughes as Medical Officer with the 17th Cameron Highlanders of Winnipeg. For a time he served in England on a Medical Board, classifying convalescent soldiers. He went to France in March 1917 as Captain of No. 6 Canadian Field Ambulance C. A. M. C. On August 8th he made the Supreme Sacrifice. We bow our heads and pay our tribute of respect to the memory of a heroic character. Such fallen heroes have left a serious bequest to the coming generation of Canadians. It is ours to catch the torch thrown by dying hands and to hold high the principles of Canadian citizenship.

WHERE THE CANUCKS LIVE

Average Town in France Where Our Soldiers are Quartered Ruefly Described By Well-known Canadian Writer, W. Lacey Amy.

When you see a red tabbed officer gravely examining a stand of notions you know a button has come off his shirt. Tommy patronizes the market because it gives him a chance to air his French and develop his sense of comparative values. The French people attend for the time it saves, the freshness of the produce, and the opportunity for gossip. I haven't discovered that anyone goes because it is cheap—which reminds me of prices at St. Lawrence Market in Toronto in the days before the war.'

A carefully devised scheme in connection with the French town is the condition of the streets. They are paved with cobblestones, sidewalks and roadway. You may travel at fifty miles an hour up to the out-skirts, but there you must slow down in self defence to six or eight, or lay up for repairs. They have signs if the suburbs establishing a rate of ten miles—then the man who hung the signs goes behind a post and delightedly watches you try to exceed the limit. The ordinary warning to pedestrians—most of whom are sooner or later in their peregrinations forced into the road—is the dislodgment of your car flittin a on to the stones.

Towns Kept Clean

French streets are usually clean. I do not know whether that is their nature in peacetime, or because when the soldiers are in town they are bound by the regulations to clean the streets themselves. To be sure the women and girls of the homes are out at eight a. m. scrubbing the cobbles almost to the middle of the road. But the first half hour's traffic undoes all that. The unsightliness is the day's wash up within doors. Whether it is a factory a stable, a blacksmith shop or a house, the scrubbings find outlet into the street, and the khaki street gang come along and see that they do not block the traffic. It is all a clean sort of dirt.

Another result of cobbles is that street sauntering is reduced to the minimum. It is too hard on shoe leather and ankles and muscles. That is why the soldiers favor inch soles to their shoes, so that they may cover a French street without feeling more than the larger unevenesses or falling between the stones. Not every soldier temporarily missing is a prisoner of war.

The houses are quaint. There is a similarity of design, but no symmetry of line. Each house and store has its own walls and roof, its own height, its own finish and color, though the prevailing tone is white. The roofs are always steep; and I am informed by the Canadian artists now attached temporarily to the force that this is artistic. It is at least effective in France. One or two towns have gable ends facing the street, like ours. But usually the peak runs parallel with the street. A burglar has little chance of escape either by French roofs or French Streets.

The French town about which the Canadian force is centred—or rather splashed—has little distinctive from its fellow products of the common mould. It is so typical that a sketch of it should bring every mother in Canada over to France—if she can do it justice—to see what surrounds her boy so many months of the year.

A Jumble of Streets

Picture a spilling of uneven lines from a celestial balloon and you have the plan of the streets. The man who charted them must have been out late on a fete night and have felt the necessity of an unlimited uncertainty of direction. His most convivial evening would never leave him at sea on the streets of a French town. Always there would be a twist ahead to fit into his course.

Having got that thoroughly in mind, one may add to the houses. Once the street lines were laid down, builders came along with competitive sizes of residence in mind (though seldom of plan) and pointed roughly to the location they desired. The size thought not fit into the space, but such a trivial obstacle was overcome by jutting the corner into the already zigzag street line. It cut in so seriously on the sidewalks that they completely disappear at unexpected moments and oppose a blank wall. And to protect the obstructing corners from passing traffic, stone posts were stuck in the edge of the roadway—which the wagons struck at their peril.

Roughly speaking the town centres round the square. The French town without a square flanked by the hotel de ville (in ordinary English, the town hall) isn't yet on the map. The square provides a place for the market, public proclamations, evening gossip, and a temporary storeroom for things in general—usually, during the war, lorries and motor cycles. The idea is that the mayor may look from his official window an dsatisfy himself that his flock is behaving in a comely manner.

Market Like Department Store

The market is weekly, with monthly editions de luxe to encourage the idea that bigger things are possible on effort. The weekly market is a department store, a live stock farm, and a rummage sale combined. You can buy anything from face powder to live pigs, from rope-soled slippers to cherries. The Caledonian market in London, plus the Farrington street market in the same city, added to the farmers' market in the large cities of Canada might produce something resembling the cosmopolitanism of a French town market. We go there for buttons, shaving soap, and fresh eggs for the mess. We pay, but we get thrown in a foreign flavor and a Cook's tourist atmosphere not to be obtained in the available ordinary and cheaper forms of commerce.

Dress of the Civilians

One grows accustomed to the peculiarities of the French civilian dress, but it still retains some novelty for me. Small girls dress normally enough, but the small boys wear large aprons with yokes buttoning down the back and resembling at a distance the garb of certain religious orders. The women vary as they do elsewhere, with quite as good an average. Just now the fit men are in French grey, which makes a sightly uniform. The trousers of the others are peculiar. They are loose at the top, ending at the ankle in a cuff. The volume of the top establishes the home and origin of the wearer. Some require a whole road to pass each other; others use patience and perform the feat on the sidewalks by turning sideways.

Everyone is kindly and pleasant-faced, despite the war. The children are full of life, but not tough or disturbing noisy. The Canadian soldier takes to the people, and they to him, with a camaraderie which makes a real pleasure of a rest camp.

When the Mayor wishes to speak to his people he sends round a crier with a brass plate and a wooden mallet. At the clanger the people gather round and receive instructions. There may be a distribution of sugar at the town hall, or a warning to deliver in connection with the war. And like the boy with a new whistle, the crier does not stint his job.

Just now two or three stores are estaminets or tea rooms or restaurants, some reserved for officers. There are no street names, and the only visible numbers have been put there by the military for billeting purposes. Many signs are in French and English. Any Canadian soldier in France learns enough French in a fortnight to prefer the French signs as a step in his education. By the way they flock to the stores, I suspect that they make purchases at times largely to extend their French vocabulary.

Horns for News Boys

The news vendors announce themselves by horns, except when selling the London papers. These they shout with all the pride of English-speaking Frenchmen. In a certain French city I heard a score of young lads shouting the papers in true London accent—"Pulpuh! pulpuh, suh!" And the speed of their sales is proof of the popularity of their wares and their English.

When the army comes into possession their are others offices besides street cleaning assumed by the military. At every corner where traffic crosses and traffic men, whose uplifted hands are command for private or general. There is no confusion and very little delay, though the corners are sharp, blind and narrow, and the passage of war impediments is ceaseless. The get-there-by policy that makes a road-hog of a man in Canada, and the give-and take that introduces almost incredible amenities into the traffic of London, are unknown in the French town in the military areas. You take your place in the line as laid down by the uniformed arm of a simple private with a black hand on his arm. It saves time, temper and rolling stock, and incorporates into the foreign flavour of strange streets and architecture and language the strong, visible arm of British law.

Futility of Hun Viciousness

There are other signs of war in these towns. With the commencement of the futile German push in March the enemy opened a further demonstration of futility. Most of the towns within twenty miles of the fighting lines have been shelled with varying intensity. A few have been viciously knocked about, others subjected to the German idea of frightfulness as a peace incentive. To say that it has effected nothing of what was intended is to repeat a known truth. Almost every house bears a small sign with the information, Cellar for 5," or perhaps as many as twenty or more, the location of immediate refuge and their capacity.

LETTER FROM FRED JEWEL

2 Canadian Command Depot,
Brumshott Camp,
July 8, 1918.

Dear Mother:—

I will write you a few lines to let you know that I am still alive but feeling just the same. It has started to rain and this is the second day of it and it is till pouring. The rain over here is much colder than that which we have in Canada. I have been talking to nursing Sister Lizzie Rennie and also Miss Wilson, who invited me in to her quarters and gave me a cup of tea and some cake. I also met John Russel while I was at London on leave, and Mr. Martyn while I was in Bexhill Hospital. Well mother you won't need to keep any of my clothes as they will be of no use to me when I get home as I have grown so much taller. I was 4 ft. 8 ins. when I joined the army and I am now 5 ft. 6 ins. high, so you can see how I have grown. I just wish you could see me now.

Well I hope this letter finds you all in good health and spirits.

Write soon and tell me all the news. So Good Bye.

From your son,
Fred.

PUBLICITY Knows No Seasons

ADVERTISING, in spite of all the hard knocks it has received, continues to grow each year. It is essential. It is the power behind the selling organization. Take away the element of advertising and the business world would lie stagnant and at a standstill.

AND advertising knows no seasons—it just keeps everlastingly at it: the most efficient and persistent salesman on our payroll.

AFTER advertising all through your "regular season" you are losing mighty value publicity by discontinuing your "ad." People have now become accustomed to your store news and the time is coming when they are going to need something exactly in your line.

YOUR ad. is a constant reminder—if it appears regularly. The sign above your door is seen only by people who pass your store—an advertisement in The Walkerton Telescope—the paper that goes home, is seen and read by the majority of the people in Walkerton and vicinity each week. So don't make the mistake of advertising just in your particular "season"—keep your name before the public the year round.

Chances In War

Based on the mortality statistics of the allied armies, a soldier's chances, according to the New York Times, are as follows: Twenty-nine chances of coming home to one chance of being killed. Forty-nine chances of recovering from wounds to one chance of dying from them. One chance in 200 of losing a limb. The element of chance was put in a different way on a post card circulated among the Canadians overseas. In this case the number of chances was limited to two: You may be drafted and you may not; if drafted you may get overseas and you may not; if you go overseas you may go to France and you may not; if you get to France you may be wounded and you may not; if you are wounded you may be sent to England and you may not; if wounded you may die and you may not. You still have two chances.

WHAT A GOOD BAND MEANS TO A TOWN

In speaking about bands, and town bands in particular, we sometimes hear people carelessly say. "What good is a band in town, anyway?" Well first take inventory of the fellow who makes the remark. You may have reason to allow the silly question to be unanswered. But regarding the remark more seriously, let us say that a good band is one of the most useful things a town or community can possess. It is one of the best advertisements a town can have. Emerson says something about the world making a beaten path. Well, a good band will make all the roads leading to the town beaten paths, even though the town's other attractions be not enormous. Every merchant is benefitted by a good band. Many people come to town to attend the delightful entertainments and they combine shopping with this pleasure. The promoters of business and municipal enterprises always have the satisfaction of knowing that their civic demonstrations from time to time will be successful, because they have a first-class band to lead the way and attract the crowd.

The churches are provided with orchestras and special musical numbers on anniversary and jubilee occasions. The social functions of a community are more satisfactory and decidedly more pleasant because musicians equal to any occasion are just close by. A band, composed of able players, is a tower of strength to any town or section of country. It cultivates the public ear to a high class of music and does it right at your door, too. Every enterprising citizen will boost the band of his town wherever he goes.—The Canadian Bandsman

THE BEST OF MEDIUMS

You may talk about your posters and your ads upon the fence,
But they ain't the kind of mediums that appeal to common sense;
You may talk about your dodgers, and your circulars and such,
But I calculate they don't assist an advertiser much;
And especially in the winter, when the snow is on the ground,
I wonder where your posters and your dodgers can be found?
But within the cosy homestead when the parlor stove's aglow,
The local paper's read aloud to everyone we know.
The farmer sees the painted sign upon the barn and grins;
Two dollars yearly for the space he usually wins.
And there his interest in the ad begins, and there it ends,
And the same is true of nearly all his neighbors and friends;
But they read the local paper from start to finish every week,
And in its welcome columns all their information seek,
And you may be quite certain that the ads therein displayed
Are always read with interest and are sure to make some trade.
It stands to reason anyhow, that what a fellow buys
He's going to read and get his money's worth, if he is wise
The father, mother, uncle, aunt, the daughter and the son,
Are going to read the local sheet, and so is every one,
So it also stands to reason that a local merchant's ad
Will there attract attention, be it either good or bad,
And the newspaper as medium leads all other kinds with ease,
For that is where the multitude the advertisement sees.

Buttons! Buttons!

It is reported that the stock of buttons for military purposes is running low, and that the government will take over the stock needed for the clothing of the soldiers. This includes buttons made of metal, horn and "vegetable ivory." The manufacturers will not lack customers for all the buttons they are able to turn out, and the government pays a good price. Buttons will thus become a war industry.

Faith In Home News

Down in Renfrew county trustees of various schools by one act do two things, namely, show their faith in the local newspaper and give the home young teacher a chance to do his or her best without going to distant points. They advertise for the teachers required in the home newspapers in its last issue, for example the Mercury, published in the town of Renfrew, carried thirteen advertisements under "Teachers Wanted." The course of the Renfrew education people is to be commended and might well be followed in other places. The home brew is often the best, yet owing to the policy of rushing city ward so frequently followed it remains undiscovered and does not get a chance. Every good thing is not elsewhere but in the home community.—Collingwood Bulletin.

Whiskey As "Baled Hay"

The biggest seizure of whiskey ever made in Guelph or even in Western Ontario, was pulled off at Guelph by License Inspector James O'Brien on Saturday morning, and had it not been that the head of one of the barrels broke open the liquor would have been safely delivered to the parties for whom it was intended. The result of the breaking in of the barrel head while being handled is approximately $8,000 worth of Gooderham & Worts whiskey now lying on the C. P. R. tracks under guard. The whiskey came to Guelph on Friday hidden in a car labelled "baled hay," and addressed to the Imperial Mattress Company, a concern that has no legal existence so far as is known. It was billed from a suburb of Montreal and the whiskey was in 40 barrels, containing ten dozen quart bottles apiece, so far as can be learned, for only one of the barrels was opened. To the casual observer who might open the car all it appeared to contain was baled hay

CALDWELL OF KASLO

"The Ledge," of Greenwood B. C., in a recent issue published the following sketch of a familiar character in British Columbia affairs:

Charles F. Caldwell of Kaslo, is one of the most optimistic, energetic and enterprising men connected with mining and morals in the great and glorious west. He was born under the folds of "Old Glory" and during the mud period of his earthly career spent many days amid the wild scenes of the Coeur d'Alenes in Idaho. He was never a quitter, and usually stayed with everything unto the finish. At Mullan one time, he sat into a poker game in Jack Lucy's saloon, and in 36 hours was broke. He sent to a friend up at the mines for $50 and lost it. He sent time and again until his friend quit his job and came down hill to borrow money in order to keep Charlie in the game. About this time Jack Lucy took Caldwell to one side, and said, "Charley, you're the best poker player west of the Missouri river, but you can't beat this game. These fellows are cold decking you." Sitting in the game again, Charley laid his six-shooter on the table, exclaiming, "I will shoot the first guy full of holes that colddecks me!" In about two hours, he had all the money, and the enemy were so badly routed that Jack Lucy had to spray them with whiskey to brace up their shattered morale. In those bold days Charley was a hard poker player, a desperado, and a dealer in Montana sheep-dip, Arizona chlorides and ancient Bourbon. But, eventually the Lord waved a wand of good over this strong, impetuous man, and he began to follow the trail that Jesus blazed in the early days.

Becoming an evangelist in the church of his choice he has gone over the top after the devil for many years. He has stood pat against Old Nick every time, and made him fall further back into the darkened trenches of hell, vice misery and suffering. While chasing the Evil One, Charley has at the same time been diligent in business, and has done all in his power to advance the interests of his community in the material things that provide work, comfort and prosperity to his fellowman. As a champion for the mining industry he has done noble work, and always aims to have nothing but a square deal alike for mines, smelters and railroads. Some do not like Charley, thinking he is too much of a spot light hero, but he does things just the same, and somebody always throws stones at the man who, falling out of line, jumps on an eminence and points the way to better conditions. At the same time the world loves a brave man who has the courage of his convictions, even if he has some faults left. If he had none left Charley would just evaporate, and be folded into the heavenly formation without the formality of cremation, or a slow funeral tucky orator, gave an address rich in wit, wisdom and eloquence. The tenor of his talk was uplifting and inspiring. The Tschaikowsky Quartet (Pronounce it any way you like) are a remarkable company of artists. Their leader, Mr. Leon Weltman, formerly led the Russian Court Orchestra. He is ranked as one of the world's leading violinists and has played by command before King Edward Seventh. The Orchestra was very generous, practically repeating its entire program at the free concert on Sunday night. Their blending of instruments in the ensemble playing of the Overture from Wilhelm Tell was perfect. The perfection of their technique as well as their beautiful coloring showed each member to be a wonderful artist. Miss Farner, a beautiful light soprano of peculiar fullness and sweetness, was greatly enjoyed. Her whole work was very dramatic, probably due to her Grand Opera experience. Ben Greet's players in "The Comedy of Errors" were enjoyed to the limit. Mr. Greet's idea is to have his players so well trained that they do not depend on the setting and the scenery. Their reputation is world-wide and their interpretation of Shakespeare's plays is almost in a class by itself. On Sunday afternoon a sacred concert was given in the big tent. Rev. C. W. Cosens presided and gave an interesting account of the Chautauqua organization. The singing was under the capable leadership of Prof. E. H. Leeson, members of the local choirs occupying the front seats. Lieut. Hearst, son of the Premier of Ontario, a young officer who was severely wounded in the Somme Drive and is at present recuperating, came down from Muskoka and gave an address on the War, in which he expressed high appreciation of the war work done by the women and the sacrifice made by them here and beyond the seas. His speech was well received and the ladies of the I. O. D. E. appreciated very much his kindness in coming here on their behalf. The collection was taken at the Sunday services amounted to about $150.00 all going to the Daughters of the Empire. Probably the apex of good things was reached in the last evening when Dr. Russell Conwell of Philadelphia gave his fascinating, informing and stimulating lecture; "Acres of Diamonds". The point to the lecture is that there is a literal acreage of jewelled wealth at the door of the man who has eyes to see it. For generations the diamond fields of Golgonda lay pleading their promises before the dull minds of people who had no eyes to see precious stones. Taking that as his text, the brilliant lecturer develops his theme by a great array of suggestive illustrations. No need to leave Walkerton your home town to win success he told his hearers, the greatest opportunities in the world are right here. Practically every millionaire in the United States made his commercial success in a town of less than four thousand population and nearly everyone started as a poor boy. Western Ontario he predicted, would be the hub of the continent and the home of untold millions of people. The speaker did not deal with other phases of his subject as the storm made it necessary to conclude his talk. The musical program in the last evening maintained the same high standard of the earlier part of the week. In thanking the public on behalf of The Daughters of The Empire in a neat speech, Mrs. Wisser said the affair had been a financial success for the ladies, and they had arranged to have Chautauqua again next year.

The heavy thunderstorm Tuesday evening threatened to cancel the concluding concert. About 7.45 p.m. the wind almost blew the big tent over. In spite of everything there was a large crowd present. On account of the wet the tent was not taken down until the morning, being shipped to Peterboro by G. T. R. yesterday afternoon.

THE WALKERTON RACES

Were A Fine Success—Program Of Speedy Events Last Thursday Was All That Could Be Desired

The Walkerton races held here last Thursday under the auspices of the local Turf Club were a success in every respect. "The best races I have seen in years" was an expression frequently heard. The crowd was good, the weather ideal, the track in fine condition, a good lineup of fast horses present and every event keenly contested.

Twenty-one horses in all faced the the starter and there would have been more only for a train running off the track at Acton, which resulted in several horses being sent in other directions. Mansfield, owned by O'Connel of Mount Forest who was headed this way, went to the Butchers' Picnic at Toronto and there scampered off with first money. Town Hall, owned by Harry Lit, of Guelph, went to Simcoe instead and got first money there.

A lot of hard work had been put on the track here before the races under the direction of Mr. Andrew O'Neill, and the Committee was certainly to be congratulated in getting it into such good condition.

The star event of the day proved to be the 2.18 race which took five heats to settle and was a fight to a finish for first place between Free Bond and Dr. Hall.

The arrangements for the races were under charge of Sec. Geo. D. McKay and a live executive headed by:—President, Robert Irwin; Vice-Pres., Dr. A. G. Fortune; Treas., A. E. McNab.

The officials in charge of the races were:—Starter, Mr. S. Burns of Palmerston; Timers, Walter Burnside of Kincardine, A. G. Fortune of Walkerton, and Roy Brothers of Stratford. Judges, James Farrell of Kincardine; John Adams of Kincardine; and W. G. Goodrow, Hamilton. Clerk of the Course, A. E. McNab, Walkerton.

One half of the net proceeds of the races will go to the Walkerton Chapter of the I. O. D. E. for Red Cross work. What the amount will be, will not be known until after the Committee meeting to-night but it will likely amount to a snug sum.

The summary of the events follows:—

Death of Jos. Cunningham

His many friends through out the district were shocked to learn of the death on Sunday of Mr. Joseph Cunningham, Glamis' highly esteemed postmaster. Mr Cunningham had been poorly for some months. Of late he appeared bright and hopeful of recovery but this was due largely to his buoyant and courageous spirit. He had never been ill in his life and he fought bravely against the forces of disease. Gradually however his strength was failing and on Sunday he very quietly passed away to be with his Maker. Death was due to uraemic poisoning. Mr. Cunningham was a man of sterling character, upright, sincere, and kindly in all his relations with his fellowmen. His death is a sad loss to his sorrowing family and throughout the community he is deeply mourned. The deceased was born in Trafalgar Twp., Halton County, on Feb. 12th, 1849. He came to Bruce County in 1872 and for four years ran a sawmill in Greenock Twp. He removed to Glamis in 1877 and the following year he started store-keeping which occupation he continued until his death He had been postmaster for about 15 years, having been appointed under the Laurier Administration. He was a member of the Baptist Church and an active faithful worker in that body. Mr. Cunningham was married in Oct. 1874 to Miss N. Elizabeth Hemstreet who survives him along with a family of two sons and four daughters. They are A. B., A. of Melville Sask., J. Charles of Regina Sask. Mrs. R. W. Burgess, Cabri, Sask., Misses Mina, Laura and Lila at home. Mrs. Wm. Atton, Gallivan, Sask., and Miss Lizzie Cunningham of Milton West, are sisters and Mr. Wm. Cunningham of Alliston an only brother. Funeral service will be held in the Baptist Church, Glamis, on Friday morning, interment to be made at Purdy's Cemetery. All the surviving members of the family are present for the funeral except his son, Charles of Regina, who was detained owing to sickness in his home. Just a year ago (Aug 15) his youngest son, Ernest Hall Cunningham, made the supreme sacrifice and sleeps in Flanders' Fields.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Holm and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Widmeyer motored to Ayton on Sunday and spent the day with friends there.

Mrs. A. J. Paddington and children, left on Monday for their home in Stratford, after spending a week with Mrs Albert Fennel.

Mrs. Bert Courtney and child, who have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Walford, returned home to Windsor on Monday.

Mr. R. H. Halbert, president of the United Farmers of Ontario addressed a large gathering of farmers at Chesley last week. Mr. J. Walter Findlay of North Brant was chairman.

Two Hanover young men, Hilbert Clark and Elmer Wendorff, who have been patients at The Bruce County Hospital following operations, returned home on Monday.

Reports For Service

Mr. Wilfrid Damm, who has been a valued member of the Egg & Dairy Co. staff the past five years, leaves today to report for military service at London to-day.

Good Crop of Oats.

Mr. James Crawford brought to this office a choice sample of oats of the Golden Grain Variety which he got at the farm of Mr. John A. Hogg of Carrick. Mr. Hogg had a seven acre field of as nice oats as were to be seen in these parts last week. They were about 5½ ft. high and well filled out.

Keen to Serve

Mrs. Fred Bannister had a visit this week from her young brother, Cadet Charlie Murear of Paisley who has recently been discharged by the R. A. F. owing to defective eyesight. Charlie is only eighteen years old but very anxious to fight and he is now trying to get into another branch of the service. His elder brother, John, has been Overseas for some time.

Three Chums Fallen.

There is a strange coincidence in connection with the first three Walkerton boys whose names appear in the Casualty list following the big offensive last week. All three were officers, all three were close chums in the old town. All three led by a common impulse enlisted early in the war to fight for King and Country. And strangely enough all fell in battle at the same time. Capt. Roy Whitehead is reported wounded, it is not known how badly. Capt. Malcolm McKechnie and Lieut Clark Ostic now fill heroes' graves in Flanders.

BORN

CASLICK—In Brant, on Sunday, Aug. 11th, to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Caslick, a son.

ALLAN—At Walkerton, on Friday, Aug. 9th, to Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Allan, a son.

SCHAUS—At Stratford on August 10th, 1918, to Mr. and Mrs. Ted. Schauss, (nee Emma Ernest) a daughter.

Mr W. B. Beatty B. A. Sc., O. L. S. of Creighton Mine, spent the week-end, at the home of Mr. Wm. VanHorne and left Monday with his wife and babe for a visit to his parents at Sarnia.

Visited U. S. Cities

Rev. and Mrs. G. C. Rock arrived home on Saturday from a three weeks' holiday during which they visited Toronto, Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit and other cities, going mostly by water. They spent some time at the home of their daughter at Cleveland and were much impressed by the enthusiastic way in which the people there are taking hold of war work and showing their earnestness. Everybody speaks in high praise of the Canadian soldiers and only hope that their own boys may do as well over in France.

IN MEMORIAM.

In proud and loving memory of Ernest Hall Cunningham, Killed in Action Somewhere in France, Aug. 15th, 1917.

We think of him in silence
His name we oft recall,
But there's nothing left to answer
Only his picture on the wall.

Sleep on, dear Ernie, in your foreign grave,
Your life for your Country you nobly gave,
No loved ones stood near you to say "Goodbye"
But safe from all troubles now you lie.

DUNKELD

Some are anxious to know how Lieut. Col. McRae the famous author of "In Flanders Fields" was so well known in this vicinity. We shall be glad to enlighten them right now. Col. McRae's mother was before her marriage Miss Eckfrid, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Eckfrid, who for many years resided on the property now owned by Mr. Geo. Waechter, which is situated near what was then known as Rose' Siding.

Also the Dando family referred to by by a lady writing in the Telescope last week formerly resided on the place now occupied by Mr. Wm. Reid.

Mr. R. H. Halbert, president of the United Farmers of Ontario, addressed a huge gathering of Agriculturists in Schuler's hall on Friday evening the 20th inst. Long before the meeting was called the quaint old kerzone-lighted structure was placed to capacity, scores of farmers having motored from distant points to hear the man who thrilled an audience of over 5000 people at a similar event held in Forest Ont. about a month ago. After giving a brief outline of the object of the association the speaker dealt entirely with agricultural matters and all present declared it a very eloquent and impressive lecture. The band which furnished the music and the orderly manner in which the meeting was conducted throughout were among the other pleasing features of the program The Dunkeld branch of the association commenced the work of organization the first week in July and has now about 40 of a membership.

A sad case, which would be better, calculated to describe the plight of a war-stricken Belgian family, was, when a young widow of a neighboring town and her little girl aged 8 and a babe in her arms passed through this locality last week, soliciting alms such as provisions, money clothing etc., in support of herself during the coming winter. All the stranger possessed of this world's wealth was apparently a nicely worded recommendation in the form of an appeal, signed by some members of St. Paul's Mission Society of her own home town and which resulted in the recipient of many generous contributions from the local charitably disposed citizens.

Manitoba Makes Another Record in Butter Expt

MANITOBA expects to export butter to the value of over $1,000,000 this year. When it is remembered that up to a very few years ago, it was necessary for this province to import butter for its home needs, the growth of the dairy industry there is remarkable. In 1916 fifty-eight cars of butter were exported. Last year the number was increased to ninety-six cars. Up to June 1st this year, with the grass season only well begun, fifty-six cars of butter had been sent out of the province. This number compares with twenty-five cars in the corresponding period of last year. The butter is made up in fifty-six pound solids and four hundred boxes make up a carload, so that, at present prices each carload is worth $10,000.00. There is every indication that the present rate of export will be maintained, if not accelerated, during the year. All the exported butter from Manitoba is being sent to Montreal for shipment to the Allied nations in Europe.

The cheese industry is also progressing. It is only so far back as 1916 that fifty to fifty-five car loads of cheese were brought into the province for local consumption. With the output of the provincial factories increasing continually, the quantity of cheese imported was considerably reduced last year, and now for the first time in the history of the province a full carload of cheese is on its way for consumption elsewhere. The consignment left Winnipeg a few days ago for Montreal, where it will be graded and shipped overseas.

Although still in its infancy and capable of considerable growth yet, the dairy industry in Western Canada has been developing rapidly during the last few years. A high standard of quality is striven for, the aim being to produce butter of the best flavor with long keeping qualities, that the efforts in this direction have met with some measure of success is evidenced by the growing demand for butter from these provinces—a demand which is far greater than the output.

Pasteurization is almost universal in the creameries of Western Canada, and more than ninety per cent of the butter made in Manitoba this year will be from pasteurized cream. The application of the Storch test has been very satisfactory in enabling the dairy officials to determine whether this process has been properly carried out. rural points cream is test the creamerie a travelling ctor; in the lat tories of the irtment of Agri ture the te applied to repre tative samp butter. When Department tests and grad ear load of it, it can, to all tical purp ell just how lo can stand ld storage witho terioration.

PROCLAMATIOI

GEORGE the FIFTH, by the Grace of God of the ited Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas, KING, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of Ind.

To all to whom these presents shall come or whom t same may in an wise concern,—GREETING:

A Proclamation of conditional amnesty respectin men belonging Class I under the Military Service Act, 1917, who ave disobeyed o Proclamation of 13th October, 1917, or their orde to report for du or are deserters or absent without leave from e Canadian Expe tionary Force.

E. L. NEWCOMBE, Deputy Minister of Justice, Canada.

WHEREAS considerable numbers of men belonging to Class I under our Military Service Act, 1917, called out on active service in our Canadian Expeditionary Force for the defence of Canada under Our Proclamation of 13th October, 1917, although they have thus become by law soldiers enlisted in the Military Service of Canada,

Have failed to report for duty as lawfully required of them under the said Military Service Act and the regulations thereunder, including the Order in Council duly passed on April 20 last,

Or have deserted,

Or absented themselves without leave from our Canadian Expeditionary Force,

And it is represented that the very serious and unfortunate situation in which these men find themselves is due in many cases to the fact that, notwithstanding the information and warning contained in Our Proclamation aforesaid, they have misunderstood their duty or obligation, or have been misled by the advice of ill-disposed, disloyal or seditious persons.

AND WHEREAS we desire, if possible, to avoid the infliction of the heavy penalties which the law imposes for the offences of which these soldiers have thus been guilty, and to afford them an opportunity within a limited time to report and make their services available in Our Canadian Expeditionary Force as is by law their bounden duty, and as is necessary for the defence of Our Dominion of Canada.

NOW KNOW YE that we in the exercise of Our powers, and of Our good will and pleasure in that behalf, do hereby proclaim and declare and cause to be published and made known THAT THE PENALTIES OF THE LAW WILL NOT BE IMPOSED OR EXACTED as against the men who belong to Class 1 under Our Military Service Act, 1917, and who have disobeyed Our Proclamation aforesaid; or who have received notice from any of Our registrars or deputy registrars to report for duty on a day now past and have failed so to report; or who, having reported and obtained leave of absence, have failed to report at the expiry of their leave, or have become deserters from Our Expeditionary Force, PROVIDED THEY REPORT FOR DUTY ON OR BEFORE THE TWENTY FOURTH DAY OF AUGUST 1918.

AND WE DO HEREBY STRICTLY WARN AND SOLEMNLY IMPRESS UPON ALL SUCH MEN, and as well upon all who employ, harbour, conceal or assist them in their disobedience, that, if they persist in their failure to report, absence or desertion until the expiry of the last mentioned day they will be pursued and punished with all the rigour and severity of the law, SUBJECT TO THE JUDGMENT OF OUR COURTS MARTIAL WHICH WILL BE CONVENED TO TRY SUCH CASES or other competent tribunals: and also that those who employ, harbour conceal or assist such men will be held justly accountable as offenders and subject to the pains, penalties and forfeitures in that behalf by law provided for their said offence.

Provided however that nothing contained in this Our Proclamation is intended to release the men aforesaid from their obligation to report for duty as soon as possible or to grant them immunity from arrest or detention in the meantime for the purpose of compelling them to perform their military duty; Our intention being merely to forego or remit the penalties heretofore incurred for failure to report, absence without leave or desertion incurred by those men of the description aforesaid who shall be in the proper discharge of their military duties on or before the said twenty-fourth day of August, 1918.

Of all of which Our loving subjects and all others whom these presents may concern are hereby required to take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, We have caused these Our Letters to be made Patent, and the Great Seal of Canada to be hereunto affixed. Witness: Our Right Trusty and Right Entirely Beloved Cousin and Councillor, Victor Christian William, Duke of Devonshire, Marquess of Hartington, Earl of Devonshire, Earl of Burlington, Baron Cavendish of Hardwicke, Baron Cavendish of Keighley, Knight of Our Most Noble Order of the Garter, One of Our Most Honourable Privy Council, Knight Grand Cross of Our Most Distinguished Order of Saint Michael and Saint George, Knight Grand Cross of Our Royal Victorian Order, Governor General and Commander-in-Chief of Our Dominion of Canada.

At Our Government House, in Our City of OTTAWA, this FIRST day of AUGUST, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eighteen, and in the ninth year of Our Reign.

By Command,

Under-Secretary of State.

You like many of our boys heard the

We were all glad to hear of your reassured that our best wishes will go h you all the way through, and we e you may safely return after the ace has been restored.

Many of our boys who went out like ourself we know will never return.
ey have given their best to the life of rvice, and their young lives full of e and of possibilities have been ced upon the altar as a sacrifice for the cause of freedom, of justice and of right. Their blood seals the freedom the weak against the strong, of the pressed, against the oppressor.
To-night as we meet here with you et us to-night honor our boys and girls by letting our sympathies go out to them. Let us think of some of the things that they have suffered for our country, and our homes, and for our selves and have we suffered or sacrificed anything for them, are we denying ourselves anything because the boys and girls are away? Do we realize that our Canada is at war? Let us think of this and let us arise and do our part. There can be real service at home as well at the front, if we but put our minds and hearts to the work.

There should be sacrifice as well.
And now we ask you to accept this purse as a slight token of our respect for you and again we give you our best wishes, and we ask the blessing of God to rest upon you and upon the cause for which you are giving your service and upon all who are engaged in that cause.

Two young men from Meaford came over Saturday and that night took a couple of young ladies out for a motor ride. Outside the village their engine stopped, and they could not discover the cause. They got busy on the telephone and Geo. McTavish went out with his car and towed them to the garage, where few minutes investigation disclosed the fact that some joker had merely turned off their gas supply —We mean gasoline supply. Judging by language used their gas supply tube was not at all choked.—Flesherton Advance.

TOWN AND DISTRICT NEWS

In other wars ten to fifteen men died from disease to one from bullets; in this war one man dies to every ten from bullets.

The Owen Sound Sun tells its readers "that a rink of Owen Sound bowlers attending the Orangeville tournament bowled for 17 hours without sleep or a square meal." This record is only beaten in the "big game" in France.

Mrs. Arch. McCannel, mother of ex-warden Alex McCannel, suffered a fracture of the hip. Mrs. McCannel, who is 85 years of age, was sitting in a chair at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Craig, at Burgoyne, watching the men at the haying. When she rose from the chair she must have twisted her body, for it was then the fracture occurred. The old lady is resting comfortably, but naturally at her age recovery is not expected.—Southampton Beacon.

Soft coal and coke are recommended as anthracite, but there does not appear to be much of a rush with either of the three. If somebody who has authority, would speak out and state exactly where we are at on the coal question an untold amount of good would be accomplished, whether the news was good or bad. The uncertainty that marks the whole business is perplexing and discouraging as folk don't know what to do. If there is going to be coal they don't want to buy wood but if the black diamonds are not forthcoming why of course there must be a hustle to get the next best. Who has the desired information? Time is wearing along, to-day will be August 1st.—Brussels Post.

The story is told that one farmer near Toronto who grows beautiful strawberries of a famous variety, declares that they are not worth more than ten cents a box, and in spite of disaster to one new patch which has turned out quite barren— insists on selling them for that, while his neighbors on each side argue and chafe without effect and sell their berries for twenty cents. This story is a reminder of a case nearer home. A farmer near Picton, who has beautiful honey, sold it last year at the same price as previously, even though some of his fellow dealers considered it necessary to advance the price, for, said he— "It costs me no more today than it did before the war." Doesn't it seem good to hear of some people who do not use "the war" as an excuse for making enormous profits"—Picton Times.

Cat Catches Snake

Constable Ablett is the owner of a well-trained cat, which, after capturing all the mice around the premises went to the bush and carried home a chipmunk the other day: and later brought a live snake. In carrying the reptile the snake would coil its body around the cat's neck in none too loving embrace.—Dundalk Herald.

Cattle Poisoned

Carelessness in leaving Paris green where his stock could drink the poison was responible for killing one cow belonging to Charles Gates, of con. 8 Amabel, and two others are dangerously ill. Mr. Gates had been sprinkling his potato patch with the Paris green and unfortunately left it out in the yard where the cattle were grazing. Dr. Thomas is endeavouring to save the two that are suffering from the effects of poison.—Tara Leader.

Help Needed For Western Harvest

Information of value to harvest hands is given in a leaflet entitled "Harvesters Work and Wages" to be had from any C. N. R. Agent.

When Speed Was Speed

Alexander Wells, an old citizen of Wellsville, Ohio, has a copy of an interesting and novel document issued by the school board of the town of Lancaster, Ohio, in 1828. The question of steam railroads was then in its incipient stage and a club of young men had been formed for the purpose of discussing their value and feasibility. They desired the use of the school house for purposes of debate. This was looked upon by the school board as an innovation bordering upon sacrilege as indicated by the reply to the request, which is the document in the possession of Mr. Wells. It reads as follows: You are welcome to the use of the school house to debate all proper questions in, but such things as railroads and telegraphs are impossibilities and rank infidelity. There is no word of God about them. If God had designed that his intelligent creatures should travel at the frightful speed of fifteen miles an hour, by steam, He would clearly have foretold it through His holy prophets. It is a device of Satan to lead immortal souls down to hell."—New York Railways Magazine.

A transcendental preacher took for his text "Feed my lambs." A plain farmer very quaintly remarked to him, on coming out of the church. "A very good text sir; but you should take care not to put the hay so high in the rack that the lambs can't reach it.

Don't Be a Knocker

Hide your little hammer. What is to hinder you from speaking well of your own town on all occasions? It is just as well to tell your visitor that our town is composed of as good people as inhabit the earth, but there are some fault knockers that do not seem to have any other employment. You will break none of the Ten Commandments in saying this.

Like A Pretty Woman

Why is a newspaper like a pretty woman? To be perfect, it must be the embodiment of many types. Its form is made up. It is always chased though inclined to be giddy. It enjoys a good press; the more rapid the better. It has a weakness for gossip. Talks a good deal. Can stand some praise and is awfully proud of a new dress.

Ready For The Job.

A dashing Lieutenant-Colonel, ex-member of the general staff, was approached by a recently drafted man.

"What might your name be?" Do you belong to the bunch?"

"I'm the colonel in charge."

"Wal, I see the balance of 'em busy around here, and I don't see you doin' anything. How do ya a fellow go about gittin' your job?"

Operation For Blood Clot

A number of children were playing on the bandstand at Tecswater Sunday afternoon of last week when one, Hoss Thompson, fell over the edge. Though there was no outward cut or bruise, he was unconscious for hours, and when he did come to, he was unable to speak. He was hurried off to Toronto, where an operation resulted in the removal of a clot of blood from the brain. It is hoped here that the little chap will recover his speech and soon be well again.

A Hot Dream

This is the story told of the discovery of coal in the Schuylkill region. A hunter built a fire on some rocks and then went to sleep. He thought he had dreamed himself into the torrid zone, and then he sat up and rubbed his eyes in amazement. The rocks on which he had built his fire were burning. He told his story to friends, and an enterprising merchant dug out a wagon-load of coal and took it to Philadelphia, where he tried to sell it. He would have better success to-day.

Rev. Roy Kain Honored

At the conclusion of the service in the Anglican church Sunday night, Warden F. M. Syer called Rev. Mr. Kain from the vestry, and in a brief speech Mr. John Howatt expressed on behalf of the people of Thamesville their regret at his going away, but the pride they felt that he was going "over there" as another representative of this community in the great struggle for liberty and asked him to accept the token which was handed to him by Mr. Syer as a slight appreciation of his services to the community during his residence here. The purse handed to the rector of St Stephen's by Mr. Syer, contained $105.00. In a few words Mr. Kain thanked Messrs. Howat and Syer on behalf of the people of Thamesville, and spoke again of the warm place which Thamesville holds in his heart. Mrs. Kain was then asked to come forward, and on behalf of the Ladies Guild of St. Stephen's Miss Anna Coutts read an address expressive of the regard the ladies of the church felt for Mrs. Kain and Mrs. Agnes McFarlane presented her with a pretty pearl brooch. Mr. Kain left Sunday night for Toronto, where he had to report Monday morning, and we understand that he will be stationed at Niagara camp for the present.—Thamesville Herald.

A GOOD JUDGE

For many years, an old laborer had been engaged by a farmer to dig potatoes at a fixed sum per acre. When he died, the farmer engaged another man, and a day or so after he had started to work, the farmer thought he would go around and see how the new man was progressing. At one end of the field, to his astonishment, he discovered a large heap of stones. "Here, wot's this mean?" he demanded. "Well, sir," came the reply, "we thought we'd save ye a bit of trouble next seed-time, so whenever we finds a one in the taties, we just dumps it down here." "Ah!" said the farmer sadly shaking his head, "I'll never find another man like Jim." The new hand was naturally somewhat nettled. "Why, old Jim was almost blind," he said, "and didn't know a stone when he seen one!" "Mebbe he didn't and mebbe he did," answered the farmer scrowfully, "but he warn't so particular about keepin' 'em out of the taties, and they weighs."

A Pound of Honey

When you eat a spoonful of honey, you have very little idea us to the amount of work and travel necessary to produce it. To make a pound of clover honey, says the Presbyterian, bees must take the nectar from 62,000 clover blossoms; and to do this requires 2,750,000 visits to the blossoms by the bees. In other words, in order to collect enough nectar to make one pound of honey, a bee must go from hive to flower and back again 2,750,000 times. Then, when you think how far these bees sometimes fly in search of those clover fields, often one or two miles distant from the hive, you will begin to get a small idea of the number of miles one of the industrious little creatures must travel in order that you may have a pound of honey.

Marooned Thirteen Days

Marooned on an islet in Lake Rimy 60 miles west of Cochrane, without food, without means of catching a fish or shooting a passing bird, even without matches, Joe Pelletier and George Imbau, settlers, suffered the agony of slow starvation for thirteen days. After landing on the island, their canoe floated off. When rescued by a search party, they were in a state of collapse and unable at first to tell their story, but the state of the shrubbery on the island was an eloquent testimony to their sufferings. The leaves were plucked off. The twigs broken, even grass on the shallow soil had been torn up for food. A few day's care partially restored the men, and Pelletier is now on the way to complete recovery. Imbau, unfortunately, ate a big meal of moose meat before he was able to endure such heavy diet, and he died from the effects.

PROFITABLE BUYING

THERE'S NO QUESTION that Merchandise bought from present stocks is a profitable investment, take it all along the line from the smallest to the largest article from the cheapest range cottons to the highest grade of silks, present wholesale prices are in most cases double or more, than our selling prices to-day. As a comparison of Samples of Dress Goods from Manchester, England, shows clearly that every yard of new goods must be bought at surprising advances. For instance a line of Wool Serges, which will cost us $3.09 a yard, does not nearly equal the cloth we sell for $1.50. Fancy Tweeds, Suitings and Coatings that we are selling for $1.00 and $1.50 are priced to cost us from $1.76 to $2.29 and besides are from six to ten inches narrower. These items are a fair representation of the whole range and show clearly the wisdom of buying from present day stocks.

All Wool Dress Serges

Good weight, 42 inches wide, colors, Navy, Brown, Copenhagen and Black, Per yard, $1.00 and $1.25.

All Wool Suiting Serges

Navy and Black, fast dyes, thoroughly shrunk, 50 to 56 inches wide. Per yard, $2.00, $2.75 and $3.50.

Colored All Wool Serges

Navy, Copenhagen, Nigger, Wine, Grey, Sand, Taupe and Green. No need to worry about these fading as they are the best product of the Bradford Dyers. 44 inches wide. Price $2.00.

Fancy Colored Plaids for Skirts

In three rich designs of Navy, Green and Brown tartans. A grand cloth for a separate skirt. 56 inches wide. Price per yard $2.00.

Wool Gabardine

A heavy dress fabric of fine even weave and fine twill finish. Looks well and wears the very best. Colors Navy, Brown, Myrtle, Wine, Rose and Black. Price per yard, $3.50.

Shepherd's Checks

Small, medium and larger checks in three qualities, 40 to 56 inches wide. Per yard, 50c, 75c & $1.00.

White Flannelette at 35c a Yard

And particularly good value at the price. Let us tell you something: its appalling, but true-the Fall price for white flannelette of this quality will be double. We have a limited quantity to offer at last season's price. The quality is soft and pure. Get all you are likely to need for the winter. It's a chance not to be missed.

George Fox Was Chautauquan

Walkerton has just had its first taste of Chautauqua but quite a few years ago a Walkerton boy, the late George Fox, distinguished Canadian violinist, was actively identified with the Chautauqua in the Western States. In fact one of his old colleagues on the Chautauqua platform was here last week in the person of Mr. Hartwell De Mille the famous Baritone, who delighted the audiences here on Thursday afternoon and evening.

A Sudden Stop

On Saturday afternoon a lady from the country was bringing her butter and eggs to town when she had a somewhat unusual experience. Coming down Bilkie's Hill her horse went at such a speed that it couldn't stop, so it chose the verandah of Mr. Tuckey's residence as a convenient place to take a little rest. In the process of stopping it fell on the verandah broke the shafts of the buggy and most of the eggs. The lady was badly frightened and didn't exactly appreciate that method of coming to a stop.

Sergt. Vickers was up from Toronto over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Billing, who have been assisting Miss Padbury, returned home to Chatham yesterday. Mrs. Billing will return to Walkerton in a few days.

Messrs Herb Flach, Ed. and Frank Mosack accompanied by the latter's sisters, Mrs. Dave Ornazek of Kitchener and Mrs. Leo Caskanette and children motored up from Preston and spent till Monday at their home here.

Mrs. Robert Wilson returned on Wednesday from a three weeks' visit at North Bay. She was accompanied by her two daughters, Misses Beth and Anina Wilson, who will spend a few weeks' holiday at their home.

Nearly Fit Again

Mrs. Beechie had a letter from her son, Herb. Van Hatten last week written from an English Hospital, in which he states that he expects to be back on duty again in a few of weeks. The last time he was hit in no less than five places but only one wound was serious.

Wounded In Hospital

Mr. S. Tucker, a young returned soldier who is here from Toronto on a visit to his aunt, Mrs. Geo. Carbert, has had a strange war experience. It is now a couple years since he enlisted at Toronto with a city battalion for Overseas and while he has never actually got to the firing line he has been doubly invalided and bears on his body the marks of the enemy's shrapnel. While in England he was taken down with a bad attack of rheumatic fever and it was while lying in a hospital cot that a bomb from a German airplane came through the roof, causing several casualties. Mr. Tucker was hit in the leg with shrapnel as he lay there and this of course did not help matters any. It was only a short time ago that he had sufficiently recovered to return to his home Canada, and he is now taking a quiet rest.

CHILDREN'S AID WORK

Editor Telescope

Dear Sir:—

Replying to the question: why not have organized Branch Committies in connection with The Children's Aid Society before now. With your permission I beg to answer by saying that we did organize Branch Committees early in the history of the Society and in the following places viz—Cargill, Paisley, Port Elgin, Southampton, Chesley, Tiverton, Lions Head, Lucknow, Wiarton, Meaford, Tara, Hepworth and Hanover, and that a number of neglected children was largely owing to the information given by those Committees which led to the investigation and treatment of such children. This should have been added in my recent report of the work done during my time as agent and secretary of the society.

D. McLennan, Walkerton.

TREASURER HASN'T RECEIVED CHEQUE.

(Port Elgin Times.)

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir:—You have an article in your last issue in which you say that "the sum of $1500 from the funds of the 160th, has been handed over to the Walkerton branch of the Bruce Preparedness League."

I beg to say that this is a mistake. Our branch has never seen the money nor does not control one cent of it. The money, I believe, is at the disposal of the Bruce County Preparedness League outside Walkerton Branch.

R. Perdue, Sec'y-Treas.
Walkerton Branch B. P. L.

(The Times regrets it presumed that this $1500 went to the Walkerton branch. It presumed it on the ground that the money had not then, or has not up to now, reached the treasurer of the Bruce County Preparedness League, although it was reported by The Walkerton Telescope to have been paid in nearly three weeks ago—Editor Times.)

Bombed In Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. A. Swanston had a letter last week from their son, Walter, who has been in a French Hospital since April recovering from a shrapnel scalp wound. He had been unable to write lately on account of the knock out he got when the Germans bombed the Hospital several weeks ago. A bomb knocked the number off his bed and one of the boxes he had received from home was blown to pieces. All that saved him was the fact that he was lying on the floor. His wound, he said, was getting along alright.

All Four Sons Serving

Probably no family in Bruce has a prouder record than that of Mr. Robert Bryce, East Ward, whose fourth and youngest son, Leslie, went to Toronto Monday morning and signed up with the Royal Air Force. Walter is in France with the Canadian Artillery. Chester is in the United States Cavalry the past four years and now holds the rank of lieutenant, expecting to go Overseas in a few weeks.

Miss Marie Weiler a graduate of the Walkerton High School who passed her Normal School Examinations this year has been engaged to teach at the Ambleside Seperate School. Miss Edna Bilger another High School Graduate has accepted a school in Carrick.

Killed In Action

Tuesday's casualty lists contained the name of Capt. J. L. Richards of Calgary as killed in action. This is likely Lester Richards, a former Walkerton boy who enlisted at Calgary as lieutenant. He was a grandson of the late John Richards of Carrick and his father was at one time employed in J. Lee & Sons' mill here.

Getting Steadily Better

Mr. C. A. Fox continues to make steady improvement. He now sits up in a chair most of the time in the bright sun room and takes a few steps about the room occasionally. A chat now and then with some old friend has proved diverting and many kind messages of enquiry coming from friends at a distance have helped to brighten the long days during convalescence. Mr Fox's trying illness has at least served to show him that he has more friends than he ever imagined.

Wounded In Left Hand

Mr. Con. Reichenbach had a telegram from Ottawa on Monday that his son, Pte. Joe Reichenbach, had received a gunshot wound in the left hand, on August 10th and is now in No. 3 Australian General Hospital at Abbeville, France. Joe was one of the first men of the 160th to get to the firing line, reverting from the rank of Sergeant in order to make the grade. This is his second knockout. Last Easter he was the victim of concussion but managed to keep out of the Hospital.

They Made Money

The ladies of the I. O. D. E. will have a net profit of $240 on the Chautauqua after paying all expenses. They intend inventing this amount in Red Cross materials thereby doubling their money again through the County grant. It has been learned that Walkerton is the only place on the Dominion circuit where the Chautauqua has been handled by women alone and the ladies are naturally a bit proud to think that they are the first women's organization to tackle the proposition and what is more to make a success of it.

Joins The Bobbin Co

Capt. Farquhar Shaw has become associated with his brother, Mr. W. M. Shaw, in the management and ownership of the Canada Spool & Bobbin Co. and will be actively connected with this growing concern. Before the War Capt. Shaw was Western Manager of the Canada Furniture Manufacturers Ltd. with headquarters at Winnipeg but he resigned to go Overseas as Paymaster of the 160th Batt'n. Recently he returned home because the authorities transferred him back to England from the fighting Front. Capt. and Mrs. Shaw have taken the old Shaw property, Viewfield, for the summer.

Home From Rome

Rev. Father Edward Waechter, son of Mr. John F. Waechter of Formosa, arrived home last week from Rome, where he was ordained into the priesthood. In company with another young priest, Father Reitzel, he sailed via the Mediterranean Sea and had an uneventful trip. In Italy he found that the recent success of the Italian forces on the Piave had a most heartening effect on the populace and the determination to win the war was never stronger. Rev. Father Waechter celebrated his first mass at Formosa on Sunday. Among the large congregation present were a number from a distance including Father Waechter's uncles, Rev. Fr. A. J. Fischer, C. R. and Mr. Geo. Fischer of Kitchener, Mr. and Mrs. John Schwartz of Kitchener, his aunts, Sister Rita Paul and Sister Irene, and cousin, Sister Rita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McNab all of Buffalo.

Break In Pipe Fixed

East Warders are getting their supply of town water through the regular main, the big pipe which was broken during the flood last winter having been fixed by Mr. W. J. Hermeston. Fortunately the break was found to be near the shore where the water is not very deep and it was made right by Mr. Hermeston in short order.

Wounded In Seven Places

It appears that Wesley Voelzing, the young Brant soldier who was reported seriously wounded on July 13th, had a very close call. A letter from the Chaplain received last week stated that for two weeks after being brought in he was in an unconscious state but was at last coming around. A letter from Wes. himself to his mother, Mrs. Con. Voelzing of Hanover received this week, states that he is doing nicely but has no less than seven wounds on his breast.

Severely Wounded In Thigh

Mr. James Whitehead sent a cable last week to the Canadian Red Cross, London, Eng. asking for particulars regarding his son, Capt. Roy Whitehead, who was reported wounded on August 9th. when the Canadians made their big drive forward. On Monday he received the following reply:—"Capt. Whitehead gunshot wound in thigh severe. Making further enquiries." By some strange ommision Mr. Whitehead has not yet heard the name of the Hospital where Roy is located and he has cabled for that information.

Plucky Young Girl

One of the first farmers in this part of the country to finish harvesting is Mr. J. G. Lambertus who lives just south of the town. Mr. Lambertus has no hired man and no boys in the family but he has a capable young daughter, Miss Alma, a student of the First Form of the High School, who showed she knew a thing or two besides Latin roots by stepping in and taking a man's place in the field the day after school closed. Day by day she stayed with the job and finished up in record time. Alma isn't a "suffragette" but she is an exceedingly capable young person who deserves a lot of credit for her pluck.

Invents Winter Bike

Mr. Francis X. Frank, a young machinist employed at the Knechtel Factory, has invented a clever device which will enable the owners of bikes to keep right on riding when summer turns to winter and the snow appears. The invention is called the "bicycle-sled" and is adapted from the ordinary wheel by removing the front wheel and replacing it by a small runner and interchanging the rear wheel with a runner attachment and a smaller wheel with cogs around its outer surface. The invention has been patented in the United States and patent in Canada has been applied for. Mr. Frank has already received one good offer for the sale of the patent and it looks as if his invention may bring him good returns.

Gallant Young Officer

Lieut. W. Clark Oatic, whose death in action was reported in last week's Telescope, fell during the Canadians' victorious drive on August 9th and 9th. The official word came to his father, Mr. W. D. Oatic, of Toronto, in a message from the Prime Minister on August 13th. Clark, who was a fine specimen of young Canadian manhood, was born at Walkerton 29 years ago. He spent his boyhood years here, his father being in business here at that time and after graduating from Walkerton High School he entered the Traders Bank at Cargill. Later he was transferred to the head office at King & Young Sts., Toronto. After the amalgamation of the Royal and Traders Banks he was sent by the Royal to Collingwood as accountant. In the Spring of 1916 he answered the call of King and Country, enlisting with the 177th, Simcoe Batt'n and after being in training some time was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant. On April 4th of that year he left his native land for Overseas. While at Bexhill-on-Sea, England, the 177th was broken up and he was then drafted into 3rd. Canadian Batt'n with which he had been on the firing line about a year. He fell gallantly carrying on in one of those splendid incidents that will emblazon the pages of Canadian history; and the lives of those left behind are enriched by his precious memory. Besides his parents, Lieut. Oatic is survived by one sister, Cora Mae, graduate nurse of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

MAJOR MOFFAT'S SCHEME

What the Newspaper Men of Bruce Think of the Major's Colonization Scheme for Our Soldiers.

SCHEME NOT POPULAR

(Mildmay Gazette)

Major Moffat's scheme to start a co-operative farming community for the Bruce County soldiers returning from the war, is being pretty generally knocked in this county. The people of Bruce are objecting the idea of sending their boys to some far off part of Canada to farm when they come back preferring to have them settle down right here in Bruce where conditions cannot be excelled. Major Moffat has succeeded in interesting the officers of the Preparedness League in his scheme but it is doubtful if the matter will be seriously considered.

LOOKS WILDCATTY

(Kincardine Reporter)

The scheme of settling returned soldiers out west, now being boosted by Major Moffat, formerly of the 160th Bruce Battalion, looks rather hair brained. We stated at a meeting of the patriotic league in Southampton in June that was not feasible. We still contend that it is not workable. We know men who left their farms right in this section to enlist. If they come back we presume they will want to look after their interests. Living in an isolated section of the great west will hardly appeal to the soldier. Another side of the case is this. Why should the Bruce Preparedness League try to arrange to have former citizens settle in the west. When the war is over we will need our own people at home. Their places are here waiting for them, and we do not take kindly to Major Moffat's wildcat community scheme. There are a lot of fellows when they get out of khaki will probably tell some officers what they think of them. Major Moffat might have gone to France with the boys. To say a man 37 years of age is too old to go to France won't go down with those who know.

MAJOR MOFFAT'S SCHEME

(Paisley Advocate)

Before going to spy out land for the project, the men authorized to do so might do a little investigating as to what part Major Moffat proposes to play in the scheme. It can be safely said that among the soldiers who have already returned from doing their bit on the fighting line there can be found men who will be better judges of land and farming question than the major who has just arrived back from the training front, and would be more entitled than he is or can be to any easy money that might be expended in connection with the scheme. There may not be two score Bruce County Soldiers desirous of accepting land as their reward for services, and in that case the Government would have no right to insist upon them taking to farming. Every man who enlisted and stays in the fight until he becomes incapacited or sees the finish of the campaign is entitled to some choice as to the compensation he is to receive at the hands of the country and people for whom he went out to fight. By all means give the returning boys all the land they want, but don't force it upon them. And let the conditions be the most favorable that can be secured for all who prefer farming for the future, but don't allow the good things to be hand-picked by those who have done no fighting.

MAJOR GETS A TRIP TO THE WEST

(Port Elgin Times)

Report has it that Major Moffat is away to the west to spy out lands for the boys of the 160th battalion. The Major just can't bear to have the boys come back to their old homes and friends again. He has lead them for 2½ years all the way to England and now that they have gone over to France to do some of the big jobs the major hurries home to prepare a place for them out in Northern Ontario, it is said, where he will be head of them again and lead them to glorious victories on the farm through the "community" plan.

You see in this community scheme the boys who came back will all be together, work together, marry one another, build up homes, raise lots of fine grain, put it all in one big heap to sell and put the cash in the community bank.

It is just as easy as that. The Major's scheme is so clear to the committee in charge, Messrs. W. D. Cargill, M. P. P.; C. M. Bowman, M. P. P.; Wm. McDonald, M. P. P.; Sheriff Jermyn, A. E. McNab, C. J. Mickle, and W. D. Bell, that they just can't wait to see whether the soldiers have any particular interest in it.

We read how the Doukhobors tried it, and the Russian Mennonites too, in the west, and why cannot our 160th boys?

So they can, if the want to, but just why, when our lads get into the thick of the fighting, the major should return home and get a few civilians together to spend the people's money on a scheme that hardly an hour's thought has been given to is more than the ordinary mind can grasp.

Why not the major and the committee try the scheme on some of the Bruce County soldiers who have already done their bit, who are home now and are much better qualified to look after the soldiers' needs than Major Moffat? Bruce people are indebted to every soldier who went from this county not only to the 160th, but to all, and it's about time the men on the committee understood that a little more information would be welcomed Bruce County residents.

The Times, in an issue immediately after the announcement was made concerning the scheme, took exception to spending the people's money without first making a clear statement of what was intended, and we are still of that view.

If land grants are to be given to all soldiers by the government, what the soldier does with it is his own business. The Times has always credited the men whose names appear as boosting the community scheme, with better judgment. They would serve the county better in endeavouring to have the government give the soldiers money grants to settle on farms in the county of Bruce, that they might raise up their homes among their kith and kin.

If Major Moffat and others are away on trips to the west at the people's expense they should be called home at once and asked to go to work on a community farm.

After they have shown by practical demonstration the advantages of their Scheme it will be quite time enough for them to induce others to follow.

TELESCOPE LETTER BOX

MAJOR MOFFAT'S SCHEME

Editor Telescope

Sir—

It is true that at the meeting of the Bruce Preparedness League held at Southampton in June last it was by no means unanimous on Major Moffat's Scheme for settling soldiers on land. Still there was a stirring sentiment that something should be done along this line and a committee was appointed consisting of W. D. Cargill M. P. P. C. M. Bowman M. P. P., Wm. McDonald M. P. P., Messrs. A. E. McNab, C. J. Mickle, W. D. Bell and Sheriff Jermyn to look carefully into the matter. This is a committee of strong representative men, one that the county has confidence in that they will not run away with any wild scheme proposed by Major Moffat or anyone else. Would it not be well to wait till they deliberate on the matter and look carefully into it before we turn the whole thing down especially when between 200 and 300 of the men have asked for it. The community part is good and should be commended. Large parts of the West were settled years ago by whole sections going into one district and we know as far as Bruce people are concerned they have made good. Co-operation is all right. The boys will work that out themselves. Pooling their interests I don't think would work. It would not last one year among the farmers but it is said we want to keep those men at home, that there is lots of land in the county for them. That sounds alright. The father's farm awaits the boy but what about the boy who has no farm awaiting him. They can't buy land for the simple reason they haven't the money. The Government has no land to give them. The only possible way would be for the Govt. to loan them the money at a loan rate of interest that would be a mighty big proposition at the price land is in Bruce to day. And further it is said it would be unfair to send our boys to some isolated place in the west. People from Bruce have done this before and have made good. I know of many young men that would have been farming in the West to-day if it had not been for the war. It should be kept in mind that this is only intended for the man that will come back in physical condition and wants to go on the land. There are hundreds of others who will have to be provided for in some other way. It is the biggest question the people of Canada will have to deal with. But, sir, it has to be grappled with. Can we not get in behind this committee and try and work out something that would be a credit to the county and pleasing to the boys when they come home.

Yours truly

G. Christie.

Sangeen, Aug. 12th, 1918.

WHAT IS CHAUTAUQUA?

What's this racket all about?
Turns the whole town inside out,
Folks a pushing 'long the street,
Treading on each other's feet;
Autos whizzing everywhere,
Horns a tootin out. Take care,
Horses kicking up the dust,
Got to get somewhere or bust;
Pretty girls with cheeks aglow,
Rustling round to get a beau;
Dames from every walk of life,
Spinster, maiden, widow, wife;
Men of every shade and size,
Joy asparkling in their eyes;
Little boys and older chaps,
Madly turning flipper flaps,
Rushing, jamming up and down,
When Chautauqua comes to town.
What's Chautauqua anyway?
Looks some like a circus day;
Banners flying everywhere,
Music floating in the air,
Big brown tent and folks I guess
Fifteen hundred more or less.
Well, Chautauqua is a'maze
Of about seven joyous days,
Fraught with wisdom, music, fun,
Something good for everyone.
Gives me hope, gives me cheer,
'Nuff to last a full grown year,
Brings the weary bit o' rest,
Puts new zeal in human breast,
Braces up discouraged man,
Makes him want to try again,
Gives him ginger, gives him pep,
Keeps him moving 'long in step
With his stronger fellow man,
In life's greater, broader plan.
When you get right down to biz
That's 'bout what Chautauqua is.

Seven thousand dentists met in convention in Chicago last week. They adopted a win-the-war policy and began drilling right away.

"If I were asked to give advice to a group of young folks who wanted to get ahead in business," said a successful manufacturer the other day, "I would simply say: Make friends. As I sat here before the fire the other night I let my mind run back, and it was with surprise that I learned that many of the things which in my youth I credited to my ability came to me because I had made influential friends who did things for me because they liked me. The man who is right has the right kind of friends, and the man who is wrong has the kind of friends who are attracted by his wrongness. A man gets what he is."

PUBLICITY Knows No Seasons

ADVERTISING, in spite of all the hard knocks it has received, continues to grow each year. It is essential. It is the power behind the selling organization. Take away the element of advertising and the business world would lie stagnant and at a standstill.

AND advertising knows no seasons—it just keeps everlastingly at it: the most efficient and persistent salesman on our payroll.

AFTER advertising all through your "regular season" you are losing mighty value publicity by discontinuing your "ad." People have now become accustomed to your store news and the time is coming when they are going to need something exactly in your line.

YOUR ad. is a constant reminder—if it appears regularly. The sign above your door is seen only by people who pass your store—an advertisement in The Walkerton Telescope—the paper that goes home, is seen and read by the majority of the people in Walkerton and vicinity each week. So don't make the mistake of advertising just in your particular "season"—keep your name before the public the year round.

NEWS OF BRUCE CO.

America's war bill has reached $13,935,877,000. The war is costing the United States nearly $2,000,000 an hour.

Great Britain's financial outlay every day of the war is $31,930,000. Her national debt has increased from $3,225,000,000 to 29,900,000,000.

A government order for 99,560,000 pounds of bacon and 131,000,000 pounds of canned meat for the army was received at the stock yards in Chicago. This is what puts the "pep" into the live stock market.

A novel baseball game was that played recently at Bridgeport, Connecticut, between a nine made up of sailors who came from their sea base in submarine and a nine of soldiers who came from their camp in airplanes.

Church choirs are shown by the Port Hope Guide not to be the most agreeable organizations. In support of its argument it quotes from a diary of a Kingston man who died the other day with the record of having sung in the choir of one church for forty years. His record shows that during that period he had witnessed tilts between sopranos and altos, 7165; ditto, tenors and bassos, 5326; leaders resigned, 895; organists fates for practice, 650; members married 1560; friction with ministers, 4 230; discord among the members 1137.

Now It's the Bowman Trophy

The bowling prize known as the Bowman trophy was lost to Bruce county for a considerable time, but has been brought back by the northern men, Batchellor's rink at Owen Sound winning from Guelph, and then losing to McAuley, of Southampton. On Monday evening skip Shoemaker went up to the lake town, supported by T. Muir W. Rae and J. H. Glover, and wrested the tall silverware from the fishermen. An Owen Sound rink is to make a try for it to-day.—Paisley Advocate.

Scheme Didn't Work

Harriston Review—It is almost a miracle that two lads of the town are not sleeping in their graves, instead of running about enjoying the last few weeks of their holidays. These two boys whose homes are just across the road from each other got it into their heads that they would construct a private telephone from one house to the other. With this end in view they proceeded to string wires across the street above the 4,400 volt high tension hydro wires. They had climbed a high maple tree and were proceeding to reach the wire across by means of a fishing pole, when their wire touched the hydro wires; instantly there was an explosion and the two wires dropped to the ground burning holes and scorching the cement walk. If the ground had not been so dry as it was, one of the lads would have, no doubt, been instantly electrocuted. The hydro people may institute proceedings for damages.

He Built A Dam

All kinds of animals do wonderful things without ever being taught. Each in its own line inherits an education that, in common language, goes by the name of instinct. A college professor in Maine tells how he convinced a friend who did not believe that beavers could build dams. He bought a baby beaver of a hunter and sent it to his skeptical friends. The creature became a great pet in house, but showed no signs of wanting to build a dam until one Monday morning a leaky pail full of water was put on the floor of the back kitchen. The beaver was there. He was only a baby, to be sure but the moment he saw the water oozing out of a crack in the pail he scampered into the yard, brought in a chip and began his work. His owner was called and watched the little fellow, very much astonished at what he saw. He gave orders to have the pail left where it was, and the industrious beaver kept at work four weeks, when he had built a solid dam all around the pail.—E. Tarriase in The Visitor.

Indisputably a Phenomenon

"What is a phenomenon?" asked one workmen of another. This enlightening definition is quoted in Young's Magazine:

"It is like this: Suppose you were to go out into the country and see a field of thistles growing."

"Yes"

"Well, that wouldn't be a phenomenon."

"No, that's quite clear," agreed the other man.

"But suppose you were to see a lark singing away up in the sky."

"Yes."

"Well, that wouldn't be a phenomenon."

"No; that also seems clear."

"But imagine there is a bull in the field."

"Yes."

"Even that wouldn't be a phenomenon."

"No"

"But, now Bill, look here. Suppose you saw that bull sitting on them thistles and whistling like a lark—well, that would be a phenomenon."

Mr. G. E. Morrow, a Grand Valley druggist, was fined $50 and costs for failing toaffix a war stamp to an article purchased in his store.

Missed Their Clothes.

A group of village lads who went down to the beaver meadow to swim on Monday afternoon, got into a rather embarrassing predicament. Leaving their clothes on the bank, the boys plunged into the water, and did not notice a herd of cows that were pasturing near by. When they got out of the water to look for their apparel they were surprised to find that many articles were missing. The innocent looking bovines would never have been accused of the theft, but for the fact that one of the animals was seen struggling with the remnants of a bright colored sweater, all of which had been swallowed but the sleeve. The half clad boys made their way home by the back streets.—Mildmay Gazette.

Major Moffat Scheme

The Executive of the Bruce Preparedness League was called together here on Monday afternoon to receive from Major Moffat his report of his visit to Northern Ontario in connection with his community Farming scheme for Bruce County Soldiers. The members who attended were:—W. D. Cargill, Chairman,' Messrs. W. D. Bell, J. McEwen, and W. M. McDonald, M. P. P. of Chesley, John Rowland of Walkerton and Frank Ronnie of Brant. Major Moffat and Mr. J. McEwen told of the proposed site of the Colony in Shackleton Township, about fifty miles west of Cochrane and five hundred miles north of Toronto. The site is on a small river along the Transcontinental railway. It is there that Major Moffat proposes to locate his co-operative colony, the men pooling all their land together, as well as their govt. loans, profits etc. The Ontario Govt. is very anxious to get settlers and their offer as reported by Major Moffat was to set apart any unoccupied land that might be chosen as a site, to build roads through it, give the settlers the use of the implements etc. at a moderate rental based on actual cost of maintenance erect camp building, provide foreman, loan each settler $500 under the terms of the Settlers Loan Act etc. Mr. Frank Rennie, Pres. of the Brant Preparedness League, attacked Major Moffat's scheme. The community idea and pooling of profits etc. was not at all feasible. If any scheme could be worked out to the Boys' advantage it should be done by a real veteran. Major Moffat had been a soldier all his life but had never been known to do any fighting. He asked whether Major Moffat was a British subject or an American citizen. No action was taken by the meeting on Major Moffat's report. There was only a few members of the executive present and some of these left before the meeting was over. But a number of returned men who had been summoned to the meeting by Major Moffat met and appointed three of their number to go to Northern Ontario at the Govt's expense and report on the land selected by Major Moffat. Major Moffat also nominated one, making a committee of four composed of:—Sergt. Garfield Reddon, London; Sergt. B. Kennedy and Carrick of Whitechurch; and Pte. Herb Fenton of Port Elgin. While the people of Bruce are anxious that the Boys from this County shall get the full benefit of all government grants, believing that nothing is too good for them Major Moffats "community" scheme does not appeal to the common sense of the folks here. There are a lot of reasons which have been already outlined in the Telescope and the other county papers why it won't go down.

OUR TEACHERS' SALARIES

Walkerton, Ont. 19th Aug. 1918

Editor Telescope

Dear Sir:—

In a recent issue of the Montreal "Standard" I came across an article on the New Minister of Education, The Hon. Dr. Cody. In answering the criticism as to why a minister of the gospel was chosen the writer mentions the fact that the post was held in the past by five or six men from the same profession, and apparently they made good.

The article deals mainly with teachers' salaries and the writer shows that a good cook gets more than the average Public School teacher. He goes on to say that if Dr. Cody does nothing more than give the teachers a salary that will enable them to live in a manner befitting the responsible position they occupy, he will deserve of the people of Ontario a statue of gold.

I cut out the article and sent it to Dr. Cody and he assures me that one of the great objects he will keep before him will be the giving of the Public School Teachers of Ontario "a living wage."

I feel absolutely certain that one of the acts of legislation will be the giving a substantial increase to the salaries of our Public School Teachers, and God knows they deserve it.

Now would it not be a graceful act of Justice on the part of our Public School Board, if they would of their own free will recognize the valuable work of our teachers by giving them a substantial increase at once. In my opinion there is not a class in the community worse paid, nor is there a classdoing more noble work, more thankless work, than the Public School Teachers.

I earnestly commend this suggestion to the attention of the Walkerton Public School Board.

I am, Yours Truly,
E. Perdue.

Hurt In Threshing Machine

A young man named Freiberger from Waterloo, was badly hurt while helping his cousin, Mr. Jos. Freiberger, thresh at Mr. Fred Zettler's in Greenock, on Monday afternoon. His elbow got caught in the blades of the thresher severing some of the cords. He was removed to the Bruce County Hospital but after having his arm dressed was able to return home again.

Recovered From Gassing

Mrs. Fred. Bannister had a letter a few days ago from her husband, stating that he had practically recovered from the effects of the shell-gassing which he received at the Front on July 23rd and by the time that the letter would reach her he expected to be back on the firing line again. Pte. Bannister, who has a wife and three young children, enlisted with the 160th Batt'n on Christmas Day, 1915, and on the breaking up of the Batt'n in England, he went to France with a draft to the 75th Winnipeg Grenadiers. After fighting several months he developed blood-poisoning in the right hand and narrowly escaped having it amputated. He had only been back in the trenches a week or two when a gas-shell from the enemy sent him to the hospital again.

Mildmay Veteran Sent Down

Four months at the Jail Farm was Magistrate Denison's sentence on Pte. Wm. Herringer of Mildmay, veteran of three years of treach fighting, in Police Court at Toronto on Monday, for taking part in the riots of August 2.

"Why were you rioting?" demanded the colonel. "What grievance had you against these restaurants?"

"I went in and had a piece of pie and cornflakes, and was charged 40 cents."

Col. Denison: "That is the reason you wanted to smash the place?"

"Yes."

Four constables testified as to Herringer's activities on the Saturday morning. His battle cry was "Over the top, boys; we'll show them what we went to France for."

Constable Peacock said Herringer was throwing catsup bottles and dishes.

"I threw only oranges," declared Herringer. "I had just come from Mildmay and walked up Yonge street."

Mr. Cowley: "Were you throwing catsup bottles?" "No, sir, I didn't have a catsup bottle in my hand."

"He's had three years' service, your Worship," said Mr. Corley, "and he has been shell-shocked and gassed."

Magistrate Denison: "That's commendable, but no justification for smashing up restaurants."

Again death has entered this neighbourhood and removed another of the old pioneers in the person of Mr. Roderick McSween, in his 77th year, passing away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Thompson, con. 2, Bruce, on Sunday morning, August 18th, 1918, after several weeks' illness. The deceased was born in Scotland, came to Canada when a young lad of about 12 years and resided on 2nd con., Bruce, on the farm now owned by his son-in-law, James Thompson, where his death occurred. Mrs. McSween predeceased him 15 years ago and he has since been residing with his daughters. Mr. McSween has been a cripple for a great many years from severe injuries received and was unable for any active work. He was highly respected by every one and had a disposition that was kindly and courteous. The following family survive:—One son, Alex, now in Superb, Sask., and three daughters, Mrs. Beaton of Toronto, Mrs. Dan Cameron, Armow, and Mrs. James Thompson, 2nd con., Bruce, Glamis, and two brothers and two sisters, all residing in British Columbia. The funeral takes place from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Thompson, on Tuesday afternoon to Purdy's Cemetery. To the bereaved ones we extend heartfelt sympathy.

EDEN GROVE

A most appalling quietness reigns over the Grove at the present time. From the slums you can hear someone up on Quality Hill creaking his jaws chewing 'tatie cakes' and from the Hill you can hear quite plainly someone phoning long distance—Yes, and catch the reply. It's something desperate this intense solemnness. I fear I shall go mad unless my "threshing machine" returns shortly.

Mrs. Pearson and son Melville returned from Brantford last week.

Miss Gertrude O'Reilly, graduate nurse, who has been visiting at home for some time returned to Guelph last Monday.

Miss Jennie Millen has secured a position handling nursery stock at Wesley Overend.

Miss Martha Fordyce has been successful in securing an important position at the home of Robert Dalgarno.

A sad accident took place on the G. T. R. train from Paisley the other day when Miss Trace Desmond lost her slipper.

We are glad to report that Richard Connor who had a hemorhage a week or so ago is under the capable hands of Nurse Desmond doing as well as can be expected.

Our shrewd neighboring farmer, Herman Lambertus, traded his Ford car to Joe Schuett for a second hand panio and an unknown amount of cash last week. If Herman had let me know I had a couple of coal scuttles, and an old shovel and a certain amount of money myself to trade for it.

Mac Scott is busily engaged getting his threshing machine ready for use. Sure sign that the summer is almost melted away.

Town and District

One's station or position in life does not matter so much as the way in which one fills it.

"There are many Americans," says Mr. Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, "who are eager to get their bite."

—A grasshopper hopped into a Keppel man's ear and caused a great deal of pain before it was removed by a physician.

Give your trade to the merchants who keep store the year round. Buy of the man who stands at your side at the tax collector's counter. Buy of the man who is your neighbor, your acquaintance, your friend. Buy of the man who is a factor in the town you live in, who helps to make a market for the things you have to sell. Buy of the home merchant that advertises in this newspaper.

If there is one enterprise on earth that a quitter should leave entirely alone, it is advertising. To make a success of advertising, one must be prepared to stick like a barnacle on a boat's bottom. He should know before he begins that he must spend money—lots of it. Somebody must tell him that he cannot hope to reap results commensurate with his expenditures early in the game. Advertising does not jerk: it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the jerk is steady. It increases day by day and year by year until it exerts an irresistible power —John Wannemaker.

The Canadian editors now touring Britain have been to see the King and Queen and one western man has expressed his surprise at the democratic attitude of the King and Queen. We infer from the western man's remarks that instead of having to lie prostrate on the rug in the throne room, they just sat around in the kitchen and told yarns while the King prepared the crackers and cheese. But pshaw, we are getting used to democracy in high places. Didn't the Duke of Devonshire drink out of an ordinary cup at the Toronto fair once, and didn't the Toronto papers devote a column space to us tell about it? Tish, tush on this democracy talk. We wouldn't have been surprised to have heard that before they parted the King and Mr. Jennings were just plain Geo and Milt to one another.—Thamesville Herald.

My neighbor's working every day to plow his corn and make his hay; he's toiling in the sunshine now, to get the clover in the mow. He'd have a fit or two, I'll bet, if any of his crop got wet; he cures it all up nice and green, the finest hay you ever seen. That fellow's always on the hop a-chasing after some old crop; his labor he can never cease he doesn't get a bit of peace. He's fertilized his crop so much he has to work to beat the dutch to harvest crops of hay and grain before they're spoiled by dew and rain. He'll get a sunstroke I'm afraid, while I rest here beneath the shade. I'd rather not get my work done, than sweat away out in the sun. I've got one on him anyway, for I don't raise much clover hay; my soil is sour I ain't got time to sweeten up the farm with lime, so I can rest and take my ease and fan myself to make a breeze, while neighbor's bringing in the hay; I'd rather feed straw anyway. If I feed clover to my cow she gives too much milk anyhow. Mirandy's got enough to do without that extra milking, too. A man that's thoughtful of his wife sure gets more pleasure out of life!

Rats Costly Eaters

Experts have estimated that one rat will consume 40 to 50 pounds of food in a year. It has also been figured that it requires the continuous work of about 150,000 men with farms, agricultural implements, and other equipment to supply the foodstuffs destroyed annually by rats in the United States. In addition, rats destroy other property, mainly of agricultural origin, the production of which requires the work of about 50,000 men. This gives a total of 200,000 men whose economic output is devoted solely to feeding and otherwise providing for rats.

CANADA'S RANK AS A SHEEP PRODUCER

COMPARED WITH OTHER NATIONS ON THE BASIS OF THE NUMBER OF ANIMALS TO THE HUNDRED ACRES OF LAND IN FARMS

FOR APIARY BEGINNER

Description of the Equipment Required to Insure Success.

CLUBS FOR THE FARMERS

Outline a Summer Program Now and Have Everything Well Organized —The Club Picnic Is a Very Successful Feature of the Year's Work.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

EXTRACTED honey production is the most satisfactory for beginners. Start with three colonies and sufficient equipment and then make the bees pay their way. One colony does not give the beginner an opportunity to right mistakes or accidents profitably. Three colonies can be managed by devoting one evening weekly to the apiary.

Avoid many troublesome pitfalls by starting with the right hive. The 10 fr. Langstroth hive has given the best satisfaction in Ontario. All bee-keepers' supply houses carry this hive and its parts in their regular stock. Buy your first hives from a good manufacturer. It is very necessary to have all hive parts interchangeable so that they may be used in any colony in the apiary. Uniformity and accurate workmanship alone can ensure this need.

One complete 10 fr. Langstroth hive consists of:—

(1) A bottom board.

(2) A hive body with self spacing frames and wire.

(3) A telescoping metal roof cover.

In addition the beginner should provide for each colony one queen excluder; two extra hive-bodies complete with frames; and 7 lbs. of medium brood foundation, which runs 6 sheets to the lb., to fill the frames with a guide and foundation for the future combs.

It is advisable to commence with a 2-lb. package of bees and queen; a swarm or a nucleus. Less danger from disease attends the buying of pound packages than the buying of swarms and nuclei. Pound packages may be secured for delivery from May 1st to June 30th. Early packages will yield a surplus if carefully handled. Enquire of the Provincial Apiarist as to disease in your locality before buying swarms, nuclei or colonies.

The accessory equipment for the beginner should consist of:—

(1) A veil of black cotton tulle.

(2) A standard bee smoker.

(3) A hive tool.

(4) A spur wheel wire embedder.

(5) An uncapping knife.

(6) An uncapping box.

(7) A complete set of Department bulletins, Bulletins 213, 223 and 231, is a good reference bee book.

(8) A small honey extractor.

With the exception of Nos. 6, 7 and 8, it is advisable to acquire the material needed from a supply firm at once. The uncapping box can be made at home, and the beginner could probably co-operate with another beekeeper in securing the use of an extractor. With the increase of colonies to six, it would then be advisable to provide a storage can to assist in handling the crop.—W. A. Ontario Agricultural College.

I hope they land safe as the Pond is a big one. We were 19 days at Sea but the weather was grand. We were inspected by Premier Borden and Gen. THE TOWN COUNCIL

Will Likely Buy A Team of Horses for Corporation Teaming and Fire Purposes—Special Meeting To-Night to Deal With Estimates.

The Town Council held its regular monthly session last Thursday evening, those present:—Mayor, A. P. Johnston, Reeve Douglas, Couns. Lettner, George Truax, Pletsch, Vogan, Lippert.

Fire Inspector Reports

Mr. John A. Robertson, Sec. Fire Underwriters Association, sent the report of the inspection on June 24th. The inspector reported that the Brigade got working in 54 minutes. The report expressed satisfaction that the Fire Company re-organized since the inspection. Several recommendations were made: That a by-law regulating the storage of oil etc. be passed by the Council. That the water distribution system needs remdieing and that this be undertaken gradually. That several hydrants not in good order be attended to at once. That the Town acquire a team of horses and keep one man at the Fire Hall day and night. The team might be be used for town work about the streets, being always kept within call. The report was turned over to the waterworks committee to look into and bring in a report.

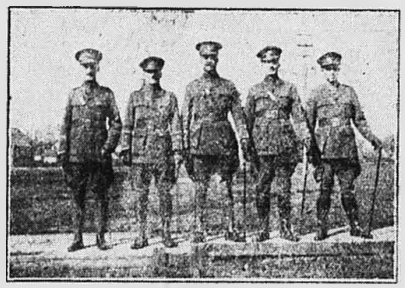
Mr. John W. Crawford asked for 4 months rebate on water rates, something being wrong with the pipes on the street near his property.—Granted.

Engineer Dan Wilton asked for his week's holidays the first week in Sept.—Granted.

An invitation was read from Premier Hearst asking the Council to send delegates to a convention at Toronto on August 30 to discuss means of overcoming the tremendous fire record in this Province.—Filed.

Coun. Lippert Kicks

Coun. Lippert who was not present at the special meeting called last week criticized the action of the Council in granting $100 to the Turf Club before the races. It was a wrong course, he said, simply adding to a surplus. He also thought the Chief of Police had enough to do already without having to act as Fuel Controller.



Objects to Paying

Reeve Douglas objected to a bill for war bulletins. He said the bulletins had not been ordered by the Council and they came at a time of day when they were no use to the working man. He was against the expenditure. Coun. Lippert said that when the recent Big Drive was on, he as Chairman of the Finance Committee had ordered the service until the Council would meet. These were anxious times, he said, and it was in the public interest to have the service. The bill amounting to $5.70 was passed.

Will Likely Buy Team

The Council discussed the advisability of buying a team of horses for use on corporation work and for fire purposes. Coun. Geo Lettner, Chairman of the Streets Committee, spoke strongly in favor of a team. He had figured out that it would mean a big saving every year. Other members of the Board also spoke favorably. Coun. Lettner was asked to get his figures ready for the special meeting Thursday evening (tonight) when the proposition will be dealt with.

Officers From Bruce County

LIEUT. PARKER, second from the right in the picture, has been reported "Killed in Action" in France the past week.

The professor regarded with an eye of suspicion the small, yellow cube the waiter had brought him. "I take thee," he murmured, "for butter—or for worse."

Takes A Partner

Mr. Wm. McDonald, M. P. P. publisher of The Chesley Enterprise, has sold a half interest in his paper to Mr. A. V. Nolan, a practical printer and linotype operator of Toronto. The new firm has already invested in a new linotype such as is used in the city offices. The Enterprise announces that in due course it will discard the patent inside sheets and become an all-home print like The Telescope. We trust that the new firm will reap the success that its enterprise deserves.

THE PSALM OF LIFE

(Revised Version)

A Saskatoon reader of The Telescope read "The Psalm of Life" by a Bachelor, in this paper a couple of weeks ago. It stirred her up so that she immediately got out her fountain pen and produced a "revised version" which we publish below. You have to be careful what you say about the women these times, Bachelor!

Tell me not, oh jealous Bachelor,
You're contented with your lot,
Sounds as though the grapes were sour
Looking from your garden plot.

Girls are shrewd, and dead in earnest,
Why not men be just the same,
When they ask a girl to marry,
Leave her home and take his name.

Smiles are sweet and glances killing
Well they may seem so to you
But a smile is a glimpse of Heaven
To a Soul that's pure and true.

In the world's broad field of battle
Flirts have but the fowler snare
With a shriveled heart like you have
A wife would surely be a care

Lives of bachelors all remind me
Of a lovely fire place,
But which could be brightened nicely
By a smiling baby's face.

To the Bachelor that's so grouchy
That he put his soul in print,
You can change your silly notions
For I know your heart's not flint.

Shocking Dissipation

"My dear, you mustn't let anybody read that letter from Cousin George at the front. I'm surprised that he'd write such things."

"What's the matter with his letter? It's mighty interesting."

"Some parts of it are, but his confessions of his disgraceful conduct are dreadful. I wouldn't for the world have any one know of his doings."

"I don't get you at all."

"Didn't your read that part of his letter where he says he was out with a British tank last night and they rolled all over the place?"—Detroit Free Press.

PROFITABLE BUYING

THERE'S NO QUESTION that Merchandise bought from present stocks is a profitable investment, take it all along the line from the smallest to the largest article from the cheapest range cottons to the highest grade of silks, present wholesale prices are in most cases double or more, than our selling prices to-day. As a comparison of Samples of Dress Goods from Manchester, England, shows clearly that every yard of new goods must be bought at surprising advances. For instance a line of Wool Serges, which will cost us $3.09 a yard, does not nearly equal the cloth we sell for $1.50. Fancy Tweeds, Suitings and Coatings that we are selling for $1.00 and $1.50 are priced to cost us from $1.76 to $2.29 and besides are from six to ten inches narrower. These items are a fair representation of the whole range and show clearly the wisdom of buying from present day stocks.

All Wool Dress Serges

All Wool Suiting Serges

ancy Colored Plaids for Skirts

In three rich designs of Navy, Green and Brown tartans. A grand cloth for a separate skirt, 56 inches wide. Price per yard $2.00.

KILLED IN ACTION

PTE. LEONARD HARRINGTON

Walkerton Soldier who fell in the Canadians' big drive on August 8th.

Another name was added last week to the list of gallant Bruce boys who fell in the Canadians' recent big drive. "Leonard Harrington killed in Action August 8th," was the message received by his mother, Mrs. C. Channing. Leonard was barely eighteen when he enlisted in the 160th. Batt'n. He had tried several times before to enlist but was not accepted on account of his age. Prior to that he was employed at the Canada Spool & Bobbin Co. He was a bright-faced cheery lad and everybody liked him. For three years he was a member of St. Thomas Church choir. All of Mrs. Channing's four boys joined the King's service and her husband is in Scotland with a Canadian Forestry Batt'n. The eldest boy, an electrician by trade, is now serving in the Royal Air Force in England. Philip served in the Royal Navy for three years and had to be invalided out on account of varicose veins. When war was declared he went to Tobermory with the Wireless Guard for six months and is now in a munition works. Reginald, the youngest, left home recently at sixteen years to join the Navy at Halifax where he is now a boy signaller. On Monday Mrs. Channing received a cablegram of sympathy from her husband in Scotland.

The memory of those boys of the 160th Bruce Batt'n whose bodies rest in the old churchyard at Bramshott, Eng. was honored on the fourth anniversary of the war by the decorating of their graves with flowers. This thoughtful act was performed by a Walkerton young lady, Nursing Sister Jessie Wilson, daughter of Rev. Thos. Wilson, former pastor of Knox Church. Miss Wilson is at present on the staff of a Military Hospital at Bramshott.

Killed In Action

Mr. T. H. Hickling of Con. 12, Carrick, received a telegram on Wednesday of last week announcing that his gallant young son, Pte. Henry Steven Hickling had been killed in action. Steven was a fine young fellow 21 years of age. He enlisted on March 2nd, 1916 with the 160th Bruce Batt'n and went overseas with the Battalion in October of the same year. When the 160th was broken up he was transferred to the 47th Batt'n and went to France in March last. On August 18th he with others of Canada's noblest young sons, made the Supreme Sacrifice and now fills a hero's grave somewhere in France.

Howard Granados Killed

A former Walkerton boy, Howard Granados, is reported to have died of wounds in France on August 20th. Howard was raised by his aunt, Mrs. John Foster of the Durham Road East, now of Tara, and enlisted early in the war as soon as he reached military age. Howard was a nice young chap and the news of his death was heard with deep regret by many old friends in Brant. His brother, Austin, who worked as a blacksmith in Walkerton a few years ago, is also Overseas.

Roy Oberle Gassed.

Mr. Andrew Oberle received a telegram on Tuesday from Ottawa informing him that his son, Corporal Roy Oberle, had been gassed and had been taken to the Hospital at Etaples, France, on Sept. 2nd. Roy has been on the firing line over two years with the 10th Trench Mortar Battery, 4th Division. Although engaged in very hazardous work this is the first time that his name has appeared on the casualty list. In fact he is the last of the seven Walkerton boys in the Battery to be wounded, four of the seven having been killed in action.

Expensive Rowdyism

A Cargill young woman, who came home from Guelph over the holiday, brought with her a friend, a returned soldier. On the arrival of the late train at the village a party of young hoodlums started a charivari and made things as disagreeable as possible for the pair. The result was that the young lady laid information before Magistrate Tolton, charging six young men with disorderly conduct and using grossly insulting language. The Magistrate fined them $1 and costs each, amounting in all to $24.90. One of the offenders was a returned soldier in uniform who is home on harvest leave.

Souvenirs Of The Drive

Mr. Con Reichenbach has received from his son, Joe, some interesting souvenirs of the big Canadian drive. The collection includes the ribbons from two Iron Crosses, a two mark banknote, some iron tenpenny bits which have replaced the nickel coin owing to the scarcity of metal in Germany. But the most highly prized souvenir is an official receipt in which the officer in charge of the Prisoners' Pen acknowledges receipt from Joseph Reichenbach of a batch of German prisoners composed of 1 officer and 18 men. This small document should make a great hit when Joe's grandchildren will ask him some day what he did in the great war. Joe is at present at Base Hospital, No. 45, recovering from a serious wound in the hand which he got on the second day of the drive. A piece of shell ripped his coat from elbow to wrist and would likely have taken his hand off, if the buckle on his wrist watch had not deflected its course slightly. His letter gives no particulars of the wound.

Heavy Fines For Aliens

Dominion Police Officer Stanley Russell, son of Ex-Reeve Rout. Russell and another officer have been up here the past week or so rounding up alien enemies who have not registered under the Alien Enemies Act. The first charges were laid against two Hanover men, Herman Mies and Otto Bleyer, employees of the Knechtel Furniture Co. of Hanover. They are both about 26 years of age. Magistrate Tolton fined them each $250. It is reported that the Knechtel firm is to be prosecuted for having men in their employ not registered. Rev. Ernest Denef, pastor of the Brant Lutheran Church was fined $250. and Wm. Huenemoeder, farmer of Brant, $200. Henry Oathoff of Hanover, was taken before the Magistrate at Hanover for not having his registration papers on his person and fined $50. He was then tried at Walkerton under the Alien Enemies Act and assessed $250. The arrests have caused quite a panic among aliens who had not registered. Yesterday three aliens came to Chief Ferguson to get their papers. Chief Heimrich of Hanover is said to have taken a special trip to Ottawa to get the necessary forms to enable them to keep out of the clutches of the law. In the case of prosecutions under the Alien Enemies Act the fines go to the municipality where the charge is laid. This means that the Town Treasury has been swollen to the extent of about $2500.00 the past week by alien fines.

TOWNS SELL CHEAPER

Than The Big City Stores—Should Take Full Advantage Of Their Present Opportunity

The town merchant is being told every day by travellers, wholesalers, and observers of retail trade conditions that he can and does undersell the city departmental store at every turn. To most cautious and careful buyers this fact has been known ever since the departmental store reached out for rural business. But the method of the mammoth store was to iterate and reiterate its superiority and going into the homes of the people with its daily as well as semi-annual message it soon convinced buyers that its statements were authentic because these statements were seldom or never challenged by the provincial town merchant. The man who confined himself to one or two lines of merchandise, or even conducted a general store business, either could not or would not take up the issue so brazenly laid down in the catalogues of the departmental stores. Even now, when the mammoth store is encountering difficulty at every turn and is doing business under the greatest stress, the country merchants are not all taking advantage of the opportunity which is staring them in the face. In the years before war conditions arose the departmental store buyers went to Europe and there made bids in the open market for very large purchases of manufactured goods. The largest wholesalers did not place heavier orders than the departmental store buyers placed. The result was that when the enormous overhead expense of the big store had been included in the profits necessary on these foreign purchased goods the selling price was not any better than the country merchant placed on his goods after purchasing them from the wholesaler. But the big store offered variety, and it also issued colored plates which went into the homes of the people and under the evening light at leisure the new gowns and the new things in wearing apparel were viewed. Now, it is no longer possible for the departmental store buyer to go to Europe to make his purchases; he must buy on the continent of America and he is forced to take his proportion of available goods along with the smaller merchant who has long been a customer of those manufacturers and who gets the preference. This is more than probably the reason for an existing condition which is evoking comment all over the country, namely, that the town and country stores have nicer, better made and better quality wearing apparel for man, woman and child than the mammoth city stores are showing. Probably many of our readers have heard this comment: It has been made in our office more than once and the merchants are hearing it every day. Yet the big city stores are issuing their catalogues the same as usual and are doing the best they can in the way of substitutes to hold the trade. The merchants throughout the province all know this, and many of the buyers know it. But there are hundreds of thousands of buyers who do not know it and unless the merchants take some means to inform the buying public the purchasers of goods are not going to be made aware of this existing condition. The merchant is the vitally interested one and it is he who must institute and prosecute the publicity campaign. Unless he does so his greatest competitor is going to retain the custom and the greatest opportunity to expand that the town man has had in a century will be lost.

Col. Bain Stricken

Col. George W. Bain, the Veteran Kentucky orator whose lecture at the Chautauqua here was so greatly enjoyed, was stricken with paralysis while addressing a large crowd at Sarnia last week and removed to the General Hospital. For forty years the colonel has been one of the foremost lecturers on the American platform and his life-work counted strongly in the interest of good citizenship.

Speaks For Labor

Mr. Frank Morrison, son of Mr. Christy Morrison, East Ward, in speaking at Washington before a Committee of Congress on behalf of the American Federation of Labor, opposed the work-or-fight provision on, saying:—

"It would make the world and our Allies believe our men are slackers," he said. "It is not asked by the Government, which is not exercised over the Industrial conscription. Who is asking for this legislation? Is it the Colorado Fuel Company or the great Steel Trust?

"Labor has kept faith. Labor conscription is not asked by the Government, and is not necessary. This is the United States; not Germany. "If enacted the amendment would be used by every unfair profiteering employer. It is being used to-day by the Bethlehem Company. Understand, I want it made clear that we do not protest against the men going back to fight, but against placing an employer in a position to brand his employees as slackers."

SOLDIER HERO HONORED AT MEMORIAL SERVICE

"I feel more than ever before, out here in the turmoil of battle, the realization that the Lord God is my refuge and that beneath me are the everlasting arms."

The foregoing was an excerpt from the last letter written home by Capt. Dr. Malcolm McKechnie, of this town, who died of wounds in France on August 8 and which was quoted by Rev. G. C. Rock at a memorial service in the Walkerton Baptist and Christian Church. Capt. McKechnie was a member of the Baptist Church and was preparing to leave for the foreign field as a medical missionary when the war broke out.

The service was most impressive and the church was crowded, every seat being occupied. The church was beautifully decorated in purple and white and there were many floral decorations as well.

Rev. McLennan who had known Capt. McKechnie since childhood, sketched his career very feelingly, and Rev. J. W. Sanderson also assisted in the Service. Capt. McKechnie was only 29 years old, and was beloved by all classes of people.

PRESENTATION TO PRIN. RANKIN

(Port Elgin Times)

In the Oddfellow's Hall on Monday evening a very pleasant affair took place when the members of the lodge presented Bro. Thomas Rankin with a very handsome Past Grand regalia on the eve of his removal to Walkerton where he has been appointed principal of the public school.

The presentation was made by Noble Grand Bro. E. Fisher in a few well chosen words. Bro. Rankin made a very suitable reply. A number of the brothers present expressed their appreciation of Bro. Rankin's many years of untiring service to the lodge, as recording secretary and other offices and their regret that he would not be able to be with us for a time.

Then, on the invitation of Bro. Rankin all the brothers present adjourned to Bro. McMurray's ice cream parlor and partook of the good things there.

"ACRES OF DIAMONDS"

It was a curious, but not less happy, coincidence that on the very day between two and three tons of departmental store catalogues were spread around Owen Sound Dr. Russell H. Conwell was here to warn the people, in his lecture "Acres of Diamonds," against succumbing to the temptations of the far off field. The lessons of his talk, that there is danger, while seeking wealth or greatness far away, of overlooking and losing the equal or greater opportunities that lie at our doors, may well be applied to the case of the departmental store. It sends out its bait in the form of a tempting catalogue, and many a buyer, imbued with the mistaken idea that nothing local can be as good as what comes from outside swallows the hook—sends his order and his money to the outsider. The lesson for the buyer is plain—it is let not the glamor of the big town store, with its fancy catalogue, blind him to the fact there are, only a few blocks away, merchants just as able and just as ready to serve him.—Owen Sound Advertiser.

Will it be the swords or pistols of the old fashioned fisticuffs when the doughty Major Moffatt and that horny-handed son of toil, Frank Rennie, meet when the three soldiers return from New Ontario and give their report on Shackleton Township, the Soldiers' Paradise? If the Major accepts that offer from the American Army to get into the larger scrap, Frank will be satisfied and the local war will be over.—Chesley Enterprise.

Knocked on the Head

The Owen Sound Sun knocks the old legend that if it rains on St. Swithin's Day it will rain every day for forty days. It rained that day in Owen Sound this year, says The Sun, and has not rained one day in ten since. So with many other superstitions, that can have no basis in science or common sense.

Suggestion For Prep. League

One of the things which should concern the Bruce Preparedness League is the return to the county of many wounded soldiers, the number of which will increase weekly until the war ends. Up to now the only consideration given by the League has been to a visionary scheme advanced to settle returned soldiers on "community" farms in Northern Ontario. This scheme may concern a few of the soldiers who come back strong and able. There will be many return disabled in various degrees. These men need special consideration, and the League's good offices will be required to help these men get back into their former positions or into occupations for which they are fit. The government is prepared to give them vocational training but the League could be of good service in finding suitable positions for Bruce boys in Bruce County.—Port Elgin Times.

BECOMING A BIGGER MINDED MAN

What is the difference between some men you know and others known to you? Why are some men earning $3,000 a year and some $30,000? You can't put it down to heredity or better early opportunities, or even better education. What, then, is the explanation of the stagnation of some men and the elevation and progress of others?

We are reminded of a story. A railroad man, born in Canada, was revisiting his home town on the St. Lawrence River. He wandered up to a group of old-timers who sat in the sun basking in blissful idleness. "Charlie," said one of the old men, "they tell me you are getting $20,000 a year." Something like that," said Charlie. Well, all I've got to say, Charlie, is that you're not worth it."

A salary of $20,000 a year to these do nothing men was incredible. Not one of the group had ever made as much as $2,000 a year, and each man in the company thought that he was a mighty good man.

Charlie had left the old home town when he was a lad. He had got into the mill of bigger things. He developed to be a good man, a better man, the best man for certain work. His specialized education, joined to his own energy and labor sent him up, up, up. To put it in another way; Charlie had always more to sell, and the world wanted his merchandise—brain, skill and ability. Having more to sell all the time he got more pay all the time.

Charlie could have stayed in the old home town; could have stagnated like others; could have been content with common wages. In short, Charlie could have stayed with the common crowd at the foot of the ladder. But Charlie improved himself, and this type of man the Goddess of Fortune likes to take by the hand and lead onward and upward.

Almost any man can climb higher if he really wants to try. None but himself will hold him back. As a matter of fact, the world applauds and helps those who try to climb the ladder that reaches towards the stars.

The bank manager in an obscure branch in a village can get out of that bank surely and swiftly if he makes it clear to his superiors that he is ready for larger service and a larger sphere. The humble retailer can burst the walls of his small store, just as Timothy Eaton did, if he gets the right idea and follows it. It is not a matter of brain or education so much as of purpose joined to energy and labor. The salesman, or editor, or manager, or bookkeeper, or secretary, can lift himself to a higher plane of service and rewards if he prepares himself diligently for larger work and pay—all can become enlarged in the nature of their enterprise and in the amount of their income—by resolutely setting themselves about the task.

No Meat Restriction For Threshers

The farmers in the neighborhood of St. Thomas in response to a telegram sent the Chairman of the Food Board, for instructions have been advised that the regulations governing public eating houses are not intended to apply to threshing gangs. The farmers desired to be informed if they might serve meat to the threshing gangs on Wednesdays and Fridays under the same conditions as other days. The gangs comprise some fifteen men and their work being long hours and strenuous they felt the need of meat.

The Local Merchant's Best Weapon

A writer in The Furniture Journal dealing with the question of "Meeting the Mail Order Man," says:

"The only way to meet him is to meet him on his own ground. This the small town merchant sometimes feels is difficult when it comes to prices, but if you will take a mail order catalogue and go over it carefully you will find the prices, are not so tempting, on the whole, as the people have in mind. And it is well that you should acquaint yourself with the prices, so that if you can you may meet them. There will always be a leader or two or a feature article that the mail order house may use that may be hard to meet; still it will be possible to make some kind of a compromise, even though you may have to cut your price on that article pretty fine.

"But the greatest weapon with which to meet the mail order man is ADVERTISING. And you should look upon advertising as a service to the public. If you have value to offer and sell to the public you should consider it your duty to acquaint the public with that fact, and the only way to do that is by advertising. I have always contended that the professional ethics of the physician which prohibits him from advertising is wrong. If a doctor has a remedy for some ailment and there should be a man suffering around the corner near him, does he not owe it as a service of duty to make that fact known to that man for humanity's sake if not for business reasons? It is claimed by the profession that advertising promotes fakirs. Not so, any more than advertising of merchandise promotes fakirs. If all advertised, only the reliable would survive."

Pile up the Surplus

TO win this war every ounce of the strength of each of the allied nations must be put forth to meet the organized, trained and disciplined efficiency of the Central Powers—that gigantic, ruthless force which is the result of fifty years of planning and preparation.

And every ounce of every allied nation's strength is in the hands and brains and hearts of the individuals of each nation, because they are free peoples.

Now the individuals of each nation must live as well as fight, therefore a proportion of the effort and material of each nation must be diverted from war purposes to living necessities,

So the less each individual takes for himself or herself for personal use the more effort will there be left for fighting and winning the war.

Every cent you spend represents that much effort because somebody must do something for you in order to earn that cent—somebody's effort must be given to you instead of to the war.

Therefore the less you spend—the less of somebody's effort you take for your individual use—the more will you leave in the national surplus for war effort.

The war can be won only by the surplus strength of the allied nations. The money each individual saves represents that surplus strength.

So the truly loyal Canadian will use less, spend less, and save more, to help to win the war.

SUCCESSFUL TOURNEY

Forty-Seven Rinks from all parts of Western Ontario in the Big Annual Bowling Feature

Walkerton's big Tourney which has come to be recognized as an important annual fixture among the bowling fraternity throughout Western Ontario was as usual a splendid success. No less than forty seven rinks participated, and thanks to choice weather, a good green, and good management the bowlers found conditions pretty nearly ideal and all appeared to have an Al time. The chief prize of the tournament went to Corcoran of Mount Forest. A feature this year was the way the home club, which in the past have been consistent losers got in on the prizes, both Benninger's and McBurney's rink scoring.

The prize-winners were as follows:—Trophy, Corcoran of Mount Forest; 2nd, McDonald, Hensall; Association, Albert Benninger of Walkerton; 2nd, Scott, Port Elgin; Consolation, Moffat, Owen Sound; 2nd, W. H. McBurney, Walkerton.

President H. G. Hunter and Secretary C. S. Stephan were well pleased with the success of the tourney. The arranging of the drafts were in the capable hands of Messrs A. Collins, Geo. D. McKay, and L. H. McNamara. The scores are published on page 3 of this week's Telescope.

Both feet and his hip are mentioned as being in the path of the exploding mine. At eight o'clock a. m. he was brought into a hospital in a serious condition and at half past ten o'clock he passed away. One of the letters states he was quite bright but sent no message. Just the day before he wrote his parents a few lines saying he was very busy and did not say when he could write. "Hope to have grand news soon," he concluded.

Death Of Willie Damm.

The death occurred on Sunday morning, Sept. 8th of Willie Damm, the eighteen year old son of John Damm, formerly of Walkerton. He had been suffering since last June from catarrh of the stomach. The trouble was caused by a blow in the stomach while playing football at the Deaf & Dumb Institute at Belleville. A bad attack of scarlet fever when he was two years old left Willie deaf and dumb, but the past four years he had been attending the Institute where he made excellent progress. He passed his High School Entrance Examination and was about to start learning a trade when illness overtook him. During his course he recovered his speech and was very quick to learn, and gave promise of a useful career in spite of his handicap. His death is deeply mourned. EDEN GROVE

Who never you meet a man that ac- complishes things you meet a man who makes mistakes. No man is perfect. Next to myself the most perfect man I know is Dr. Bricker of our suburb Cargill. Tis a fact. Yet even he is troubled at times with errorsyplus. Need yes. I remember a case in point, sad as the tale is, some of you may be inclined to laugh so I will sketch it for you.

Scene I—A little boy—Dr. Bricker—A broken toe—Splints—Grief.

Scene II—Invalid chair—Same poor little boy—Same cosy splints—No better—More grief.

Scene III—(2 weeks later)—Anxious mother of same boy with same toe and same splints—No bet- ter—tears and lamentations.

Scene IV—Anxious mother—Dr. Brick- er—Re-examination—Splints re moved—Sliver withdrawn—Boy better—Dear, Oh Dear first time I ever knew splints used to remove a splinter—Laughter.

A bunch of naughty bad boy children created quite a disturbance in Cargill a week or so ago at an attempted Chivaree. An Eden Grove little boy who wears his pants quite long now decided to stop such bad children from misbehaving but an officer of the law misunderstood the good little boy's in- tentions and as a result he together with the bad little boys was fined $4.10 in Walkerton by a mean old judge who didn't understand children very well.

Miss Sarah Little, daughter of Mr. John D. Little of Brant, who has been teaching out West the past year, has been engaged to teach at Commerce, Alta. at a salary of $1,000. This is a top-notch salary which would not likely be paid to anybody but a highly efficient teacher.

Town Of Good Streets

Mr. E. H. Leeson, who returned last week from a visit to his old home town of Aylmer, was much impressed by the fine appearance of the roadways there. The main street has been paved with brown vitrified brick which makes a great roadway. The heavy traffic now gravitates to the main thoroughfare, instead of wearing out the back streets.

Invest In Advertising

Advertising is an investment—not an expense—and should be treated as such. Because it has been the habit of some merchants to look upon it as an expense, a wrong view has been gained. Perhaps the misconception arose from the fact that in book-keeping it has been the habit to charge advertising to expense. Advertising produces new business—it swells the volume of business and profit—therefore it is an investment. Only the man who looks upon advertising as an expense, who is afraid of it, prejudiced against it, loses money in advertising. The man who treats advertising as an investment required—knows that every dollar rightly invested in this direction yields compound interest—and more.

The Silent Heroes of the War

THE men of the Merchant Marine—do you ever give them a thought? The whole submarine campaign is aimed to frighten this non-combatant force off the seas. For then—

Britain, France, Italy would face staroation.
Our armies could not fight.
Canada would be wrecked commercially.
The fight for liberty would be lost.

Yet governments make no official recognition of this heroic body of 300,000 men who toil day and night in danger of death. No provision is made for pensions, or relief for their dependents.

We must admit our debt to the widows and orphans of the 15,000 men of the Merchant Marine, who have gone down, victims of the U-Boat. Our cry must be—

"They Shall Not Want"

In his famous speech of August 8th, 1918, Premier Lloyd George said:

"During the past two years Germany has made two distinct attempts to force a decision—one on the land and one on the sea. The land offensive might have been disastrous, but the sea offensive, if it had succeeded, would have been final. If the submarines had succeeded, our armies in France would have withered away. No Americans could have come over to assist us and the French troops Ammunition could not have been shipped and we could not have sent the necessary coal and material to enable France and Italy to manufacture munitions.

"If France, Italy and Great Britain were threatened with starvation the war would have been over before this stage had been reached."

THE soldier is rightly remembered with gifts, separation allowance and pension. He is honored, as is his due.

The men of the Navy are provided for and their dependents are not allowed to suffer want.

But the seamen of the Merchant Marine—facing death in a hideous form at their daily work, risk all at the call of duty.

It would be a lasting disgrace to allow the widows and orphans of the noble 15,000 to suffer hardship, other than the loss of their dear ones. Those who died on the sea are calling to you now.

Rumors From Vienna Are Explained.

[illegible] Asked Austrian Diplomat Well [illegible]heir Country Would Make a [illegible] and th[illegible]ate Peace and When Answer [illegible]studies [illegible]Evasive Boer Statesman [illegible]weekly [illegible]"Then, Good Night."

[illegible]folks [illegible] April 8. — Geb. Smuts, [illegible]ing [illegible]frican delegate in London for [illegible] British Cabinet, was, according [illegible]so [illegible]Martin, the "figure high in the council of the Entente allies" referred to by Premier Clemenceau in his statement of April 5th denying the assertion of Count Czernin that the French Prime Minister had sought open peace negotiations with Austria-Hungary. The representative of [illegible]hual Monarchy who met Gen. [illegible] in Switzerland was Count [illegible]ndorff-Pouilly-Dietrichstein, Austro-Hungarian Ambassador at London [illegible] when the war broke out. [illegible]ediately upon being introduced [illegible]ant Menadorff, says the newspaper, in relating the interview, Gen. [illegible]uts, taking the initiative in the conversation, bluntly said: [illegible]"Is it true that you wish to make a separate peace?" This direct query brought [illegible]too much for the trained diplomat's [illegible] and the count began a long, would-be reply.

[illegible] or no?" reiterated the British [illegible]tive.

[illegible]ming no direct reply, Gen. [illegible] said:

"Then, good night!"

The interview lasted barely three minutes, Vienna was shocked. La[illegible]ain says, at the boorish manner of the old Transvaal warrior.

Alexander Ribot, who was Premier [illegible] on March until September, 1917, [illegible]efused to make any statement [illegible]ning the incident, saying:

"The present Government is perfectly competent to give such explanations as are deemed necessary."

Premier Clemenceau in the course of his statement in answer to Count Czernin's charge, said:

"It would be too easy to recall to what extent Austria has importuned Rome, Washington and London with solicitations for an alleged separate peace which had no other aim than to slip upon us the yoke which she [illegible]esses to find to her taste. Who [illegible]not know the story of a recent [illegible]e, [illegible]g (in Switzerland, of course) [illegible]mer Austrian ambassador and [illegible]s high in the councils of the [illegible] allies? The conference lasted [illegible]a few minutes. Here, again, [illegible] not our ally who sought the [illegible]w. It was the Austrian Gov[illegible]t."

[illegible]o Overtures to America.

[illegible]SHINGTON, April 8.—Emphatic[illegible]al that any overture looking [illegible]o discussions have been made [illegible] American Government by representatives of the Central Powers [illegible]made at the State Department [illegible]. If any come forward, it is [illegible]they will be ignored.

[illegible]nerous occasions unauthorized peace workers have hinted to [illegible]s that negotiations might be [illegible]me to the enemy Governments [illegible]have suggested that they had [illegible]n to believe a basis for negoti[illegible]t might be found easily. These [illegible]ations have been given no con[illegible]ation, it is stated.

[illegible]mier Clemenceau's repulse of [illegible]a's advances will serve to force [illegible]option of other tactices by the [illegible] in the opinion of State De[illegible]t officials and entente diplo[illegible]ere, but will not entirely stop [illegible]vement.

French statesman's repudi[illegible] of Austria's claim that it was [illegible]who made overtures is regarded [illegible]blow that will make the diplo[illegible] drive of the Teutonic Foreign [illegible] comparatively harmless, but it [illegible]ered similar efforts will be con[illegible]in one way or another to cre[illegible] the minds of the peoples at [illegible]ith the Central Powers the im[illegible]n that the blame for the war's [illegible]uance rests wholly on the allied [illegible]ments.

[illegible]NADA'S SLAVS LOYAL.

[illegible]lized Citizens Have Asked To Be Conscripted.

[illegible]TAWA, April 8.—On Saturday, [illegible]gation representing the Slav or [illegible]n population who have emi[illegible] from portions of the Austro[illegible]arian Empire to Canada waited the Prime Minister and strongly affirmed their warm support of the [illegible]d cause and of their utter de[illegible]ation of the purpose and methods [illegible]the Central Powers. They affirm [illegible] since the war broke out many [illegible] their immediate relatives and [illegible]ds, resident within the Austrian [illegible]pire, have been persecuted, im[illegible]oned and even murdered by rea[illegible] of their well known sympathy [illegible]n the allied cause.

[illegible]The delegation also expressed the [illegible]rm desire and hope that the Mili[illegible]y Service Act might be applied to [illegible]ir men of military age and that [illegible]se men, although born within the [illegible]stro-Hungarian empire, might be [illegible]mitted to fight with other Cana[illegible]ns in the battle line. As one mem[illegible] of the delegation expressed it, [illegible]y claim the privilege of fighting [illegible] the country of their adoption and [illegible]y would feel humiliated if they [illegible] no part in the final victory, [illegible]ich must come to the allied cause.

[illegible]The delegation was introduced by [illegible] Harry Larner Chapin, of New [illegible], who has taken a warm interest [illegible]in these people. Mrs. Chapin's [illegible]rother enlisted in the American Air [illegible]vice and is now a prisoner in Ger[illegible]y. The members of the delega[illegible]n were: Rev. Archimandrite Adam [illegible]Chippovsky, Victor P. Hladyk, T. A. [illegible]Charchuk.

Foodstuffs For the Allies.

Washington, D.C., April 8.—Foodstuffs shipped from the United States [illegible]Canada to the allies during [illegible]arch exceeded February shipments [illegible]by 380,000 tons, the Food Administration announced last night. The month's total was 1,100,000 tons.

The First Food Controller

Ezekiel was the first food controller, for he warned the disobedient children of Israel that during the siege of Jerusalem they would have to eat "war bread" thus: "Take thou also unto thee wheat, and barley, and beans, and lentiles, and millet, and fitches, and put them in one vessel, and make thee bread thereof."—Ezekiel IV: 9. He came close to being the originator of meatless days, too, for the Biblical record shows that he ordered the children of Israel to eat their meat by weight, and even thus only from "from time to time."

It is alleged apparently on sufficient authority, that eighty per cent of the cattle killed by lightning, were struck when standing near wire fences. Protection from this danger may be had by running wires into the ground every three or four rods.

When using the telephone, speak clearly. Do not shout. A conversation in a room can often be heard when the person speaking into the phone cannot. Keep your mouth about two inches away from the sound receiver (not ten, with your head turned so as to see what is going on in the room) and there will be no difficulty in even a person somewhat deaf hearing what you have to say. Speak naturally in your usual conversational tone of voice.

Removing To Town

Died Of Wounds

Lieut. Charles A. Grant, a former Walkerton boy and brilliant young Edmonton lawyer, has died of wounds in France according to a message received by his mother, Mrs. Grant of Toronto, widow of the late Rev. Dr. Grant, formerly pastor of Walkerton Baptist Church. Lieut. Grant was 38 years old at the time of his death and is said to have been the youngest K. C. in Canada to plead before the Supreme Court of Canada. He drew up the Temperance legislation which passed the Alberta Legislature.

A Hint To The Farmers

A few years ago there was an agitation to have the farmers place their names on the front gates or other convenient places so that travellers could learn while passing who lived on certain roads, increasing their knowledge of the localities and enhancing the pleasure of their ride through the country. Then rural mail delivery was inaugurated and boxes erected at nearly every farm, and on these were stencilled the names of each of the box holders, so that all one had to do in driving past was to take a glance at the mail box and it told the story. Time has effaced the names from nearly all boxes, very few being legible, and this means of learning "who's who" on the concession is removed. What pleasure it would give travellers if the box holders would only go over their mail boxes and paint the names on again with some weather defying paint.

Everybody Is Sentimental.

The truth is that we are all sentimental at heart, whatever our culture, says Robert M. Gay in the Atlantic Monthly. Even though we appreciate Brahms, shall we not find some pleasure in the repertory of the hand organ, and, though we admire Botticelli, shall we utterly condemn "Darby and Joan?" There are moods in which Jean Ingelow and Mrs. Hemans are not mawkish. The thousands still weep over the death of Little Nell, though the critics sneer.

Submerging a Submarine.

A submarine submerges by admitting water to various tanks, making it so heavy that it will not float. When it desires to rise powerful electric pumps empty these cylinders. Breathable air while submerged is insured by many cylinders containing compressed pure air or oxygen. In the latest submarines there is machinery to purify breathed air, the carbonic acid gas being absorbed from it by potash and the purified air being cooled and reoxygenated.

Making Salt.

Great improvements have been made in the methods of making high grade salt both by the grainer and vacuum pan processes. The mechanical graniers in which the brine enters the plant and is not touched by human hands until it is almost ready for shipment are marvels of ingenuity. Fine table salt is now made almost exclusively by vacuum pan processes. These evaporators have so greatly reduced the cost of making fine salt that the old time methods long ago passed into history.

Just Wanted to Know.

"Say, pop, is it true that a shark has to turn over before it can bite?"

"Yes."

"And do you think it has to turn over to drink, too?"

"I don't think so. Why do you ask?"

"I was just thinking of Uncle Henry."

"What about Uncle Henry?"

"I have often heard you say he drinks like a fish, and I was just wondering if it is because he throws back his head until he nearly lies on his back."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Aroused His Curiosity.

"John," exclaimed the nervous woman, "there's a burglar in the house!"

"Do you mean to tell me that after I tried every door and window in my effort to get into my own home, just because I happened to mislay my latchkey, a burglar comes along and wakes you up at the first rattle of the doorknob? I'm going down to see him."

"What are you going to do?"

"I'm going to interview him and see if I can find out how he did it."—Washington Star.

Blueberry Bushes.

Under such favorable conditions as exist in the vine barrens blueberry culture is to be classed as to the age of its first bearing not with the slow fruiting apple orchard, but with the quick fruiting peach, with this important difference, however, that while the peach tree remains in vigorous fruiting condition for comparatively few years the blueberry bush with suitable pruning bids fair to last a man's lifetime and even longer.—National Geographic Magazine.

Are New Yorkers American?

The most New Yorkish of ladies, who, after an excessively brief, gay winter at home, habitually betook herself to the Riviera, to London, to Paris and to the usual spring, summer and autumn haunts of European elegance, was once asked by an intelligent and curious foreigner some question concerning the habits and customs of her compatriots. She paused, meditated prettily, says Harrison Rhodes in Harper's Magazine, and then made a profoundly significant reply.

"I'm not sure," she said, "that I'm the best person to ask. You see, I'm a New Yorker, and I know so few Americans."

American Homes.

Before I came to America I fancied that I should find one long row of apartment houses extending from New York to San Francisco, some of them palatial, but mostly, others lowly and some squalid. This idea was partially formed from reading in your own journals of your lack of home life as compared with our preponderance of it in England. On the contrary, I found in the localities I visited much that we can learn from you Americans of homemaking and of home living. The amazing ability to make what your women accomplish in the actual building of their homes, and that, too, with small means.—Lady Inez Stuart in Countryside Magazine.

A DAY'S RECORD.

Let every dawn of morning be to you as the beginning of life and every setting sun be to you as its close. Then let every one of these short lives leave some sure record of some kindly thing done for others as well as some goodly strength or knowledge gained for yourselves.—John Ruskin.

COMBS

¶ Have you noticed what a difference there is in Combs?

¶ Some are comparatively crude and the sides of the teeth are rough and jagged—no wonder you think your hair is coming out. It's the rough teeth of the comb that's pulling it out or breaking it off.

¶ Then there are combs that have every tooth molded and finished off smooth. That is the kind we have and recommend.

¶ Cost more of course but worth the difference many times.

¶ Let us show the difference to you.

BRUCEMAN'S IMPRESSIONS

Rev. Dr. Johnston Talks To His Montreal Congregation About What He Saw Overseas.

"Never through all the long and glorious period of Britain's splendid history, has the Mother-Land been so worthy as she is to-day, of the confidence and devotion of her sons and daughters in the Colonies of her far-flung Empire," said Dr. Johnston. "Always great in her unselfishness and in her service for the world, she is greatest to-day when she stands unassailable in the integrity of her high purpose, as the heart and bulwark of the Alliance that has made the cause of world-liberty its own."

Speaking upon "The Brightening Horizon" from the text "Behold I create new heavens and a new earth," Dr. Johnston traced in brief outline the growth of the idea of a world-brotherhood, as glimpsed by prophets, more fully realized by the Apostles "whose narrowness both in religion and in national conception was transformed by the light that streamed from the Cross," and which found its realization in the life and teachings of Jesus Christ who was "Son of God that He might save all, and Son of Man that in Him humanity might find a common Brother."

For A Larger Brotherhood

In the movements of history such as the fall of the Roman Empire before the invasion of our ancestors the Goths, the overturning of an established order of society in the French Revolution, the hand of God could be traced preparing the world for a larger brotherhood.

To-day, with the hammer of the sword, and upon the anvil of the artillery-strewn battle-field, and in the fires of a world-conflagration, the nations of the world are being prepared for the welding process of the Gospel which shall make the nations truly one in spirit.

Cairo, he said, had always been called the cosmopolitan city of the world, but to-day, every road in France was a Cairo, where men from all the corners of the earth meet under the fusion of a mighty common purpose and aim. At the heart of it all stood Britain the only nation of the world under whose trusted and inspiring leadership the East and the West could be thus drawn together in a mighty sacrificial effort.

Dr. Johnston will preach next Sunday morning a second sermon on "The Brightening Horizon" dealing with "the Larger Consciousness of God" in evidence in the religious life in Britain and at the Front.

THE SCOTCH OF IT

Two old Scotsmen sat by the roadside talking and puffing away merrily at their pipes. "There's no muckle pleasure in smokin'," said Donald. "Hoolae ye make that out?" questioned Sandy. "Well," said Donald, "ye see, if ye're smokin yer ain bacca ye're thinkin' o' the awfu' expense, an' if ye're smokin' some ither body's, yer pipe's ramm't ase tight it winna draw."

A WISE MAN

There was a man in our town,
And he was wondrous wise;
He bought his wife a new silk gown
In way of a surprise.
He paid just nineteen ninety-eight,
He told his wife in glee,
She looked at him in deep disgust,
And then she said, said she:
"I could have bought that dress down town
For seven eighty-two
Why don't you read the ads, my dear,
As really wise men do?"

NEW NEWSPAPER REGULATIONS

The following radical regulations have come into force in the United States and will be adopted shortly, it is expected, in Canada:—

Here is a summary of the official order:

"No publisher may continue subscriptions after three months after date of expiration, unless subscriptions are renewed and paid for.

"No publisher may give free copies of his paper, except for actual service rendered; except to camp libraries and huts or canteens of organizations recognized by the government.

"No publisher shall give free copies to advertisers, except not more than one copy each for checking purposes.

"No publisher shall accept the return of unsold copies from newsdealers.

"No publisher shall print extra copies for stimulating advertising or subscriptions, or for any use other than those specified in these regulations, except 1 per cent. of his circulation, with a minimum of ten copies.

"No publisher shall send free copies in exchange except to such other publications as are printed within the county, or within a radius of forty miles from his point of publication.

"No publisher shall sell his publication at an exceedingly low or nominal subscription price.

"No publisher shall offer premiums with his publication unless a price is put upon the premium for sale separately and the combined price is at least 75 per cent of the individual prices.

"No publisher shall conduct voting or other contests for the purpose of obtaining subscriptions; subscriptions obtained in this way will not be considered bona fide subscriptions.

"No publisher may issue holiday, industrial or other special editions.

"Publishers of papers of more than eight pages in size will reduce the pages in excess of eight pages 25 per cent. This reduction shall be an average reduction over one month's period.

"No newspaper may be established during the period of the war, except those for which arrangements had been made and plants purchased previous to the issuing of this order, or unless it can be shown that a newspaper is a necessity.

"A sworn statement will be required from each publisher on Nov. 1st as to how many of these rules have been put into effect by him, and what results in the matter of reducting paper consumption have been obtained.

Motor cars were first licensed in Ontario in 1903, when 220 vehicles were registered. Up to and including 1918 the registration advanced to 87,000 vehicles and Canadians prominent in automobile affairs say that despite the war and its burdens the close of the present year will see the 100,000 far exceeded.

Editor Gets Into Trouble

They tell lots of tales on the editors, but this is a new one: The editor of a Kansas paper went to attend a party given by one of his neighbors where just a few weeks before the home had been blessed with a new baby. The hostess met him at the door and, after the usual salutation, he asked after the baby's health. The lady was hard of hearing, had a bad cold, and thinking he was asking about herself, answered that although she usually had one every winter, this was the worst one ever had. It kept her awake at night a great deal, and at first confined her to her bed. Then noticing that the editor was acting very strangely, she said she could tell by his looks and actions that he was going to have one just like hers, and she asked him to come in out of the draft and sit down.—The Ladies' Home Journal.

The Proper Way

When using a telephone, speak clearly. Do not shout. A conversation in a room can often be heard when a person speaking into the phone cannot. Keep your mouth about two inches away from the sound receiver (not ten,) with your head turned so as to see what is going on in the room and there will be no difficulty in even a person somewhat deaf hearing what you have to say. Speak naturally in your usual conversational tone of voice.

Waring - Gowanlock

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Gowanlock, East Ward, on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 18th, at 4.30 o'clock when their daughter, Miss Jennie, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Wm. Waring of Bruce Township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Burgess, B. A., B. D., pastor of Knox Church, Walkerton. The bride who looked pretty in a gown of white crepe de chene, with bead trimmings, and bouquet of white roses, was given away by her father, Mr. James Gowanlock. At the conclusion of the ceremony, after a dainty repast had been served, the happy young couple left for their home in Bruce Township, where the groom is an owner of a fine farm. The Telescope unites with their many friends in extending to Mr. and Mrs. Waring best wishes for a happy and prosperous journey through life.

Solving the Nation's Shoe Problem

A LARGE section of the Canadian public depends upon this company for shoes. Our financial resources and buying power are greater by far than those of any other Canadian manufacturer of shoes; our volume of output is more than twice that of any other. Our sales organization covers the nation from coast to coast, not merely a small section at a time.

Our six branches maintain adequate stocks within the reach of every dealer in Canada, and are now serving more than 5,000 dealers, enabling them to fill orders quickly and to cut down the amount of idle stock on their shelves.

We are making every effort to use this power to help solve the big problem of providing enough good quality shoes to go around. In the face of an actual scarcity of leather, it is difficult; but it can be done if you will co-operate with us. Buy wisely, for service rather than merely for style, and see that the shoes you buy are stamped with the manufacturer's trade-mark.

Saves Money For The Farmer

PRICES of farm products have reached a high level. The farmer can take full advantage of this situation only by adding to his equipment of time and labor-saving machinery. Time and labor are money. When time and labor are saved, money is saved.

Time and labor-saving devices for working the land do not produce complete results in themselves. The farmer must have rapid and dependable means of placing his products on the market.

News About Town

Consider saving as a service rather than a sacrifice. You will gain rather than lose by it.

Mr Robert Fullerton of Paisley has disposed of his famous black show horse, which became widely known throughout Bruce and neighboring counties as a prize-winner.

Recent advices from Ottawa seem to indicate more surely that the Canadian Government will follow the lead of the United States authorities in requiring newspaper and magazine subscriptions to be paid in advance. The purpose of this measure is the conservation of print paper.

Pte. Fred. J. Waechter, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Waechter of Culross, was among the local soldiers recently wounded in France. He was engaged as butcher until a short time ago when he was transferred to France as a member of the mounted rifles. He was shot in the shoulder while riding his horse, but no further particulars concerning his condition have been received.

The closing down of a local laundry because of insufficient patronage causes the Haileyburian to rise up and speak some truths, some of which are equally applicable to other places. Walkerton not excepted. It says: "But every town has its so-called public spirited citizens, who would rather patronize a Chinaman than any Canadian concern, who would rather patronize Eaton's than their local stores, who send out of town for almost everything they wear or eat. They don't subscribe to their home paper, don't go to their own theatre, and kick at every improvement or enterprise that is apt to come When every citizen of a town makes up his mind that he will trade at home, support every home industry and boost for his town,—then, and not until then, will his town prosper as it should.

Early Monday forenoon Inspector McCool, with his son Bryan as chauffeur, drove into Chesley in his big car with Miss Gibson, of Wroxeter, who has signed up as preceptress of Tobermory School, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. McKay, of the 4th con. Eldernie, who was on her way to Barrow Bay to start the juveniles of that part of Eastnor on the way towards acquiring a greater thirst for knowledge. The car drove to the home of W. T. Ross, and Helen with her valise was placed in the back seat along with the other two disciples of Herbert Spencer. They had lunch with them for a picnic along the way on this national holiday. We expect the quintette had a happy, free-from-care trip and that the Inspector was just as jolly as any of the others. If they happened into a bear or ran over a few rattlesnakes on the trip we will give their thrilling experiences later. It certainly shows the deep interest Inspector McCool takes in providing teachers for the children in his inspectorate when he will undertake to deliver the lady teachers right at the school doors.—Chesley Enterprise.

FALL FAIRS PAY WELL

Prepare Now to Harvest and Store Root Crops.

Best Mixtures and Methods of Making Bread With Flour of Various Cereal Grains

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

TO the general farmer who grows good grain for seed, to the specialist in garden and truck crops, and particularly to the live stock man the Fall Fair offers an opportunity. It pays to advertise and the Fair is the place where the people see the goods produced, and seeing is believing. Moreover, the papers report the winnings and through these the exhibitor gets a large amount of advertising free which would otherwise cost him a considerable amount of money. Winning in close competitions under a competent judge adds dollars to the value of stock shown and increases the market price of any commodity as well as giving the exhibitor a standing not only in his own community but over a section of country corresponding to the size and influence of the show at which prizes are won. The Fair is a good place to make sales. Prospective buyers see the good exhibits made and enquire about the breeding stock at home. Stockmen show at Fairs largely to make sales rather than to win prizes although the latter is a factor in the sales and they are not disappointed as evidenced by the growing interest in the Fall Fair. Showing at the Fair, coupled with a judicious newspaper advertising policy, which should never be neglected, is good business. The two go together and work hand in hand. It pays to let others know of your good stock. Use printers' ink and show at the Fall Fair.—Prof. Wade Toole, O. A. College, Guelph.

Hints on Harvesting Root Crops.

Root crops should be taken up before the weather becomes too wet and disagreeable in the fall if in any quantity. It is slow work at any time and becomes much more so under cold damp conditions. Lift the roots with a digging fork and twist off the tops, putting them in piles and covering with the tops. If a large area is to be lifted, and one is expert with a sharp hoe, he can very quickly remove the tops, but they will not keep quite as well. The roots should be ploughed out, throwing them as much as possible on the top. Bins with slatted sides and bottom should be used for storage where possible, as this gives the roots a chance to sweat. If the storage room temperature is above 40F. cover them with sand. Carrots should not be deeper than two feet in a bin, others may be four feet. Where cellar storage is not available use pits. These should be three feet wide, two or three feet high and of any length. Run the pits north and south where possible, and have them on well-drained ground. Put a layer of straw on the ground and cover first with straw 8 inches deep then 6 inches earth, and as the frost gets harder cover with fresh strawy manure. Have ventilators every 15 or 20 feet, as all roots sweat in storage. These may be filled with straw during cold periods.

All roots should be as free from dirt as possible when put in storage. It is often advisable to leave a few days in small piles so that at the second lifting any adhering will be removed.—A. H. MacLennan, B.S.A., Ontario Vegetable Specialist.

Cereal Grains for Bread-making.

On this continent and in Europe we use wheat in much larger quantities than any other grain. This is because the flour made from wheat contains the constituents necessary to form gluten. Rye contains a similar substance to a lesser extent, while the other grains do not have any of this material. Gluten is a tough, elastic, tenacious substance, capable of considerable expansion. Consequently, when the gas liberated through the action of yeast seeks to make its way out of wheat flour dough the gluten expands, retaining the gas and causes the dough to rise. When the bread is baked the gluten is "set" or coagulated, and this accounts for the light porous structure of wheat bread. When surrounded by a proper crust the moisture is retained and the bread may be kept for several days and still be an attractive article of food. Rice, oats, corn and barley cannot be used alone to prepare bread of this type. They cannot be expanded by means of yeast for their is no cohesion in the mass. They may be used in making biscuits and cakes or quick breads, which breaks easily, dries out readily, cannot be safely transported, and must be consumed within a few hours after being prepared.

On the other hand, there is comparatively little difference in the composition of the various cereal grains and, consequently, one will furnish about as much digestible nutrients as another. If, then, in a time of wheat shortage like the present, we substitute some of the flour of corn, oats, barley, buckwheat, etc., for wheat flour in making bread, we do not decrease its nutritive value. We do dilute the gluten and thus limit the power of expansion of the dough and we make the bread darker, but we have retained the desirable features of bread. Silkiness of texture and whiteness of crumb were counted points of excellence in the bread of the old high patent flour, but under the present conditions of longer extraction of the wheat grain and the introduction of substitutes, it is wrong for the consumer to place a high valuation on these points.—Prof. R. Harcourt, O. A. College, Guelph.

SELL COCKERELS NOW

How Fall Fairs Can be Made a Great Success.

Attend Your Local Fair to Improve Education and to Have a Good Time.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

THE marketing of thin chickens is not conserving our meat supply nor is it the most profitable method to the producers. Present prices of market poultry admits of the liberal use of feeds and the marketing of well-fleshed birds.

The best birds to flesh or fatten are those of the heavier breeds, such as Wyandottes, Rhode, and Rocks. The light breeds, such as Leghorns, seldom pay to fatten unless they are very thin in flesh.

The birds intended for fattening should be confined to a small pen or slatted coop. The process is not difficult if you will but pay attention to a few points that are essential.

Do not feed the birds for the first day they are shut up. You should give them something to drink, but it is best to give no feed. After the first day feed very lightly for two or three days and then gradually increase the ration, being very careful not to overfeed. We usually start chickens on very finely ground grains at the rate of three-quarters of an ounce of grain per feed to each bird, feeding twice daily. This can be increased gradually to two or three times this amount. Generally the most profitable gains are made during the first fourteen to sixteen days feeding. Such birds will not be excessively fat, but should be fat enough to cook and eat well. Some markets demand a fatter bird.

The most profitable gains are made on birds weighing from three and one-half to four and one-half pounds when put up to fatten.

The grains fed should be finely ground and, if at all possible, should be mixed with sour milk. Mix the feed to a consistency of a pancake batter. The more milk the chicken will take the better bird you will have in the end. Milk appears to have no good substitute for fattening chickens. If you cannot get milk then add ten to fifteen per cent. of meat meal to the ration and mix with water. The addition of a little green food daily will help matters. Many people get better results by feeding a little salt. About one-half pound to one hundred pounds of dry grain is sufficient. This mixes best by being dissolved in water and adding a little at each feed. Be careful not to use too much.

The best grains available now are a mixture of ground barley, cornmeal, finely ground buckwheat, and shorts. Oats are good if part of the hull is sifted out, as are also ground brewers' grains. We have used with good results a mixture of two parts of ground barley, two parts cornmeal, and two parts shorts, mixed with twice the amount of sour milk. In general feed about one-third shorts and then whatever finally ground grains you may have about the farm.

If at all possible mix the ground grains with sour milk.—Prof. W. H. Graham, O. A. College, Guelph.

Importance of Attending Exhibition.

Fall exhibitions are a permanent feature in the life of Ontario, and are of particular interest and import to the farmer and his family. True, many of the smaller shows might be greatly improved by the introduction of more new educative features, and some of the larger exhibitions have been criticized in the past for tardiness in placing agriculture in its due place, but at the present time, with things agricultural to the fore-front as they are, exhibition managements realize the value of a strong agricultural and live-stock department and are making this a leading feature of their work. In fact, no fall fair, large or small, could exist let alone prosper, without the products of the farm well represented.

Bearing this in mind, it is important that all attend their local fall fair and their nearest large exhibition. A well-managed fair is an education. The best live stock of the various types and breeds, the highest quality grain, roots and vegetables, the newest devices to aid the farmer and his wife in their work, and the most up-to-date special attractions are all there and each has its value to those who attend with the purpose of improving their knowledge. It is worth while to watch the judging being done to get an idea of approved type and to have one's interest stimulated that he may go home and do better work in breeding live stock or in the production of farm crops. Study the work of the judges. It helps to fix in the mind the proper type of live stock of the various breeds and the requirements of all farm crops. The boys and girls should be taken to the exhibition and encouraged to study and learn as well as to enjoy themselves.

Exhibitions also have their place in the social welfare of the people. It is profitable to get away from work for a few days and mingle with others, there to discuss matters of interest to all, and to see what progress is being made in industry other than that from which the fair-goer gets his or her living. It makes for bigger men and women with a wider viewpoint. A little clean, wholesome amusement is necessary in order to get the most out of life.

Go to the exhibition with the idea of improving your education and at the same time to have a real good time. It is profitable to get away from work occasionally and the exhibition offers not only an opportunity for pleasure but also for profit. —Prof. Wade Toole, O. A. College, Guelph.

RURAL SCHOOL FAIR

Was Not The Success It Might Have Been Owing To Bad Weather Last Thursday—Fair Is Doing a Grand Educational Work.

Bad weather interfered considerably with the success of the Brant and Carrick School Fair which was held here last Thursday. It was a cold raw day. The attendance was comparatively small and the exhibits about two-thirds of what might have been expected.

The School Fair is really the climax of the real work that had been going on through the summer months. There are competitions in oats, barley, potatoes, chickens and cows, cooking and fancy work. Not only that, but there is also a competition for essay writing, telling how they grow their crops, how they raised their chickens and in addition to all this an oratorical contest has been established and the efforts on the part of twelve or thirteen year-old boys, who have given learned dissertations on the causes of the war and the financial and economic status of the various European nations, would compare favorably with speeches of those many years older. The pupils are all of an enquiring and experimental turn of mind. The whole trend of this work must necessarily be to give agriculture a fair start with those who are chosing a vocation. The Rural School Fair is calculated to combine the use of one's brains with manual labor, and it will make boy or girl more efficient no matter what line of occupation he or she may take up. From a modest start of twenty-five School Fairs in 1912, gradually year by year they increased to about three hundred throughout the Province, embracing 2,281 rural schools, taking in 43,386 pupils who grew their grain and vegetables on over 51,000 plots. 6,858 settings of eggs, aggregating over 75,000 eggs altogether mostly of the Barred Rock strain were given out from the Department. There was an attendance of 72,000 children and 84,000 adults, and the entries totaled 11,500. The educational value of the Fairs is wonderful.

The full list of prize winners will be published in next week's Telescope.

Mr. Eli Myles, the local furniture man, made several shipments out of town the past two weeks including a consignment of household furniture to a citizen of Toronto. THE PINKERTON FAIR

Was Well Up To the Standard Of Previous Years—Exhibit of Cattle was the Best In Years

Pinkerton Fair, always one of the best of the smaller shows, drew good weather on Friday although a downpour of rain early in the day somewhat interfered with the attendance In the afternoon the sun came out and smiled blandly as if to make up for its earlier deficiencies. The school children werent course all there and their sporting events were as usual an interesting feature, with Inspector McCool as judge, and Mr. Amsey Greig as starter. The exhibits on the whole were very good. Fruit, vegetables and grains were an excellent sample and the other classes in the Hall were pretty well filled The cattle classes were much better than usual, some animals of real class being exhibited. Considering everything the success of the day must have been pleasing to the enterprising President and Secretary, Messrs. John Clancy and David Pinkerton.

Home From Peace River

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Schurter of Chepstow received a pleasant surprise on Tuesday when their son, Charlie, who has been absent in the Peace River country the last thirteen years, dropped in on them unexpectedly. Mr. Schurter is located at Sawridge, Alta., on Lesser Slave Lake, 300 miles north of Edmonton. He started off this summer on a trip to the Arctic Ocean via the McKenzie River but when the party got as far as Fort Resolution, 1200 miles north of Edmonton, the engine of the boat gave out and they were forced to return. At that northerly point he saw a good crop of wheat in the fields. The wheat is not sold up there on account of the expense of shipping it out but everything is fed to stock. Sawridge is a centre for fish and timber trading. Last year no less than one and a half million pounds of whitefish was taken out of Lesser Slave Lake. Mr. Schurter's business is selling boats, engines etc. to the fishermen, and during the past year he has equipped about 200 boats. He has great faith in the future of the Peace River Country and likes it immensely. He intends returning after a short visit to the old home.

LIVE NEWS OF NEIGHBORING VILLAGES AND COUNTRYSIDE

:-: Happenings of the Week Collected for the Readers of The Telescope by a Staff of Wideawake Correspondents :-:

DUNKELD

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Merchant attended the Mildmay Fair last week.

BORN—To Mr. and Mrs. John Keyes, (nee Margaret Barry) at Clifford, Ont., a son.

The Misses Olive and Mary Knoll visited friends in Guelph and Kitchener last week.

Mr. Andy Long, has purchased the Mrs. Telton farm on the East Line, the price involved being reported as $4,000. John Finch, who has had the above farm leased for the past ten years or more, will as a consequence, be obliged to remove from our midst. During his long residence here, John has by his jovial disposition and courteous neighborly dealings, proven a highly esteemed citizen and although regretting his departure we wish him success in his next venture.

A party of five Harriston farmers were here on Saturday with a big threshing outfit, which a Threshing Syndicate had purchased from Mr. McKenzie of Bruce Twp. They started out on the trip of moving it from Bruce to Harriston on Monday morning and only reached here by Saturday noon, several breaks having occurred prior to landing here. An auxiliary gang was rushed here by motor that day for the purpose of lending a paw to the weary travellers who had already been "roughing it" a whole week on that slow and tiresome voyage.

A young Brant soldier whom we reported as slain last week, was only wounded, apparently. Mistakes are bound to occur in war times. For instance a Cargill soldier was listed in The Star as wounded and in The Globe as killed in action. A little mistake often resulting in doubt and confusion.

There is a certain bad piece of road in this locality. Two automobiles have already been broken while passing over it. Several cars have run off the road at the dangerous spot. It should be brought to the attention of the municipal authorities. Negligence in the matter of road repair is liable to result in a fatality. A Guelph motorist informed the writer on Saturday that he witnessed nothing like it 'twixt here and the Royal City. It does not come under the Good Roads' System but is about the most travelled road in this part of the county.

PINKERTON

Miss Alma Reid of Toronto is visiting at her home here.

Mr. R. L. Garland of the G. T. R. staff Palmerston, spent Sunday at his home here.

Pte. Russell Birrell of the Army Medical Corps of Toronto spent a few day's leave at his home here.

Mrs. Wm. McFayden of Michigan renewed acquaintances in the vicinity last week.

Only a small crowd attended the Annual Exhibition on Friday last owing to the disagreeable weather.

The exhibits were larger than usual especially in the live stock classes and keen competition resulted. The concert in the evening was under the auspices of the Red Cross. Harry Bennett was an excellent entertainment in himself. Miss Cunningham of Walkerton gave two excellent recitations and the Misses Pinkerton rendered several piano duets.

HANOVER

Rev. Dr. Ross, a former pastor of the Hanover Methodist Church, has been invited to attend the anniversary services of the church here in November, and has accepted the invitation.

Another Hanover boy, Pte. Edward Lobsinger, son of Mrs. Catharine Lobsinger of 16 Lawrence Avenue, Guelph and recently of Hanover, has laid down his life on the battlefields of France. Word was received that the young man was officially reported killed in action on August 30th.

A sad death occurred in Hanover on Sunday Sept. 15th. when Mrs. Herbert Merklinger passed away at the early age of 28 years, 8 months and 2 days. Death was due to brain fever after a few days' illness.

Pte. Alfred Wright of Hanover is recovering in a French hospital from an accident to his foot which afterwards became poisoned. This information was received in a letter sent by Pte. Wright himself to his home here and the injury is not believed to be of a serious nature.

Mr. J. C. Devlin of Hanover was doubly bereaved last week. On Friday he received the fateful message from Ottawa advising him of the death of his son Earl in action and the following day the death of his only living brother, Benjamin, of Collingwood was announced.

Roscoe H. Helwig, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Helwig of Hanover, has enlisted in the R. A. F. He held a good position in Toronto previous to enlistment. His older brother, Lieut. Norman Helwig now a Flight Lieut. in the R. A. F. who went overseas as a lieutenant with the 147th. Greys, has been recognized for bravery for his work in France.

Willie Herd, the 11-year old son of Mr. Robert Herd of Allan Park met with a serious accident Tuesday morning of last week as a result of which his left hand is badly injured. The evening before he picked up a box of blasting cartridges on the road and early on Tuesday morning he proceeded to examine same. On opening one of the six cartridges in the box one suddenly exploded and literally blew off the first two fingers and thumb of his left hand and injured the third finger and palm as well. The little fellow is doing as well as could be expected.

MILDMAY

Rev. A. W. Guild of Ponsonby conducted the memorial Service in honour of the late Pte. Henry Stephen Hickling in the Mildmay Methodist church, Sunday evening.

Honor Roll services were held in St. Pauls Evangelical Church last Sunday. The services were very impressive. The decorations were very pretty. A piano was used for the occasion and during the unveiling National anthems were played, while the Congregation joined in singing God Save and Guide our men. Mr. Robb, bass soloist from Clifford, was present and gave several pleasing selections.

The many friends of Dr. J. A. Willson will be pleased to learn that he in recovering nicely from his recent illness.

A quiet wedding took place at the Evan. parsonage here last Friday 13th, where Miss Ruby Finn of Carrick, and Pte. Otto Jahann of Howick were united in marriage, by the Rev. E. D. Becker. They have taken up residence on Mr. Johann's fine farm on the Howick townline. Best wishes.

KLEIN—In Carrick, on Sept. 15th, to Mr. and Mrs. George E. Klein, a son.

EDEN GROVE

Alas and Alack! Pinkerton Exhibition is over. Every year for forty five years Pinkerton has made an exhibition of itself and something tells me next year will be the forty sixth. In spite of inclement weather the fair this year was well attended. Mr. Fred Gibb and the Rev. Mr. Gale both being present. Substantial and numerous prizes were presented to many exhibitors. I understand one of the gentlemen mentioned above felt slightly peeved because though he entered for a prize the ignorant clod hopper of a judge never having seen the large eared type of horse before examined the one between the shafts only. Also I do not consider that favoritism should have been shown the other gentleman who was quite illegally given a second prize the day before the fair opened. Seiler & Co. captured several prizes including one first and one second for butter and first for the best hen. I'd have taken a chicken and tried to gather a prize but I was afraid my wife would hear of it and be jealous. When all is said and done however I too am a little peeved. They gave a prize for the one that came the longest distance and so why didn't they give me one for being the most absent one.

The concert in the evening was enjoyed by everyone. Even the moaning and groaning of the foggy storm? at the start was most enjoyable.

Baisdon ex-Chief of Police has my sincerest sympathy. Strangely enuf I have always felt a little sorry for Fred. Mostly perhaps on account of his small puny appetite. However his underfed condition is not the primary cause of my swollen sympathy at the present time.

Poor Bill is no more and in his loss of poor Bill brother Baisdon ex chief of police has, I am sure, the tears of a host of friends at his service. Poor Bill, Poor Baisdon.

One year ago Friend Baisdon happy and full of hope, was elected to his high office as chief of the County police department. To-day, sad and full as ever, he is jobless and without hope. He has had to get rid of Bill—"Telephone Bill" as we loved to call him. It cost fifteen cents to bury Bill and the county in whose interest Bill was born never even sent a wreath. Poor County, Poor Baisdon, poor Bill.

A PLEA

The owner of the Hall at Eden Grove is fighting for his country. So is his son. As near as we can learn he is not well fixed financially. The building is the only one that is used or can be used for entertainments of any kind and in its present condition is a disgrace to every man woman and child in the Grove. It is used freely and free of charge for Red Cross purposes.

Seven Dollars worth of glass, one sash, putty and a little volunteer work will put the Hall in shape. I consider it is up to all of us to raise the money and make the place fit for entertainments of all kinds this winter.

The Secretary of the Red Cross advises me that they are almost at the end of their present finances. My suggestion is this. Let us pull together for fun once. Hold a meeting at which we can plan a dance and an organization which will fix up the the Hall and aid the Red Cross. Then this Winter give dances—hold card parties and entertainments so that by Spring the local Red Cross will be in decent financial circumstances. I am sure you are patriotic to Canada—Can you not also be patriotic to the Grove.

Then show it by attending an enthusiastic meting to be held in Ward's Hall on Friday evening Sept 27. Everybody—Men and Women come and help organize.

CARGILL

Mr. and Mrs. Zeigler and children left for Wiarton on Monday where they will reside in future and where Mr. Zeigler has secured employment in a Grist Mill.

Mr. Fred Grice was in Toronto the first of the week.

A foot bridge is a much needed addition to our bridge. During the recent rains our villagers were compelled to walk through mud and water, which was standing on this structure, and which was as bad almost as walking up the middle of the road. A foot bridge would remedy this state of affairs.

Quite a few from here attended the Pinkerton Exhibition on Friday afternoon also the concert in the evening.

One of our motor enthusiasts was trying to run his "Peace Ship" on Sunday, with the gasoline turned off. That is one way to conserve gasoline, but the best way is to leave it in the Garage on Sunday.

The Methodist Church held very successful anniversary services here last Sunday when Rev. C. W. Cousins of Walkerton preached very able sermons morning and evening to good congregations. A Rally day service of the Presbyterian and Methodist Sunday Schools was held in the afternoon at which Mr. Cousins spoke also.

A very successful Bowling Tournament in aid of the Red Cross was held last Thursday when over $115.00 was raised. Our Bowlers are to be congratulated on the success of this their second Tourney for the Red Cross this year.

Mr. Jas. Alexander who has been working in a hardware at Bruce Mines Ont. is home.

Mr. F. Mawhinney received word last week that his brother Pte. Mawhinney of the 160th. had been killed in action. The 160th. are being hard hit but they will give a good account of themselves.

In a letter received from Sergt. Loughleen who was wounded on August 26th. and written since entering the hospital, he says his wound is only a slight one inflicted about 5.30 in the morning. He is doing nicely and tells folks not to worry as he is "Jake".

Mrs. Buhler and son Clifford of Maidstone are visiting at the home of her brother, John Deehan.

A number from here attended Kincardine and Pinkerton Fairs on Friday.

Mrs. Abbott and son of Riversdale spent over Sunday at James Beggs.

Owing to Memorial Service in Baptist Church on Sunday morning and Rev. J. E. McCauley's farewell Sunday evening both Services were cancelled in Presbyterian and three Methodist Churches. The both pervices were largely attended, the Church being full.

The Ladies Missionary Meeting of St. Paul's Church was held at the home of Mrs. James Thompson.

Mrs. J. B. McCormick received official notice last week that her youngest son, Pte. Thomas McCormick had been gassed. No further particulars have been received. His many friends here sincerely hope he is not serious. Tom has been serving in France for some time. In a letter received by his sister Mrs. A. Kitchen a few days ago he stated he was soon to be returning to England to take a course, but in the meantime he had been gassed.

Build up the Mighty National Force

FOR fifty years the Teuton peoples have been trained, disciplined, whipped, into servile cogs of an implacable military machine, by which is maintained the Prussian doctrine of might, and the Kaiser's autocracy. The Teutons deny themselves, they make sacrifices, because they are trained or forced to do so, but they do it.

The peoples of the Allied nations must make great sacrifices and tremendous efforts in order to defeat the enemies of freedom, but because they are free peoples it is left largely to the individual to say what or how much self-denial each will practice.

So if freedom is to prevail individuals must make voluntary sacrifices which in the aggregate will be greater than the forced sacrifices of the enemies of freedom.

THE measure of your love of freedom is your willingness to deny yourself so that the strength of the nation for war effort will be increased.

This self-denial must take the form of money-saving—thrift. Each person knows in what way he or she may save.

The national need says you must save, but free Canada leaves it to you to say by what means and to what extent you will save.

NOW, it is for you, each of us, everyone of us to say how much patriotic endeavor, how much loyal sacrifice we will make by saving our money, by "doing without" so that each day will see a surplus to add to our own and the nation's strength. No matter how small the surplus it is important because each saving is an effort made, and many small individual efforts make the mighty national force.

EVANGELINE'S LAND TO HAVE A SHRINE

A giant of the orchard in full bloom, Memorial Park, Grand Pre, N.S. The fisherman doing his bit.

A new Mecca is beckoning to devotees of art and religion. Its name is Nova Scotia. Already the artists have made their pilgrimage and returned with charming pictures of Evangeline's Land. A collection of sixty paintings, the work of six New York men, known as the Nova Scotia Group, were exhibited recently in New York and elicited much praise.

The pioneers of Nova Scotia have blazed a trail for which a brush and [illegible] army will follow in search to come. They will come to paint the gentle beauty of apple-blossoms when the great Annapolis Valley is covered with a fragrant pink and white veil. They will come in cherry time to paint the rich red fruit and the happy people enjoying the Cherry Festival, a time honored custom. They will come in autumn to transfer to canvas the mad riot of brilliant coloring with which Nature gabbits the woods and hillsides and when the orchards groan beneath their heavy burdened boughs of ripened apples. They will come at all seasons to picture the quaint fisherfolk and their quainter surroundings.

The Dominion Atlantic Railway that swings you around a half-circle from Halifax to Yarmouth, takes you through a Land of Romance, the Land of Evangeline. At the little station of Grand Pre you will find a wide meadow which is soon to be transformed into a shrine. Here previous to 1776, stood the Roman Catholic Church of St. Charles, the church of the Acadians. To-day a massive stone cross marks the site of the old burying ground that surrounded the church and nearby is Evangeline's Well, with its long sweep.

The French Acadians have always cherished a reverence for this spot and now through the generosity of the Dominion Atlantic Railway Company they may call it their own. The railway company has purchased this meadow and will make it into an old-fashioned garden surrounded with a rustic fence and has deeded a portion of the ground to the Societe L'Assomption, composed of French Acadians, of whom the Rev. C. V. Landry of Eutoche, N.B., is President. The only consideration for this transfer is the promise of the Societe to erect a chapel. This they are eager to do and plans are now under consideration.

With the dedication of the new shrine, large numbers of French Acadians from Quebec, Montreal and Upper Canadian points, will make pilgrimages to Grand Pre similar to those made yearly to Ste Anne de Beaupre. Their numbers will be swelled by many others who cherish a fondness for the gentle Evangeline and who will be eager to visit the scene of her story and to walk under the ancient willows that still guard this storied spot.

A MERE ACQUAINTANCE

The young man was calling on the daughter of the household. He stepped into the next room, where her father was seated.

"Mr. Jones—er—ah. That is, can I—er—will you"—

"Why, yes, my boy; you may have her."

"How's that? Have whom?"

"My daughter, of course. You want to marry her, don't you?"

"No sir. I just wanted to find out if you would indorse my note for $100."

"Certainly not. Why, I hardly know you."—Exchange.

THE HOME LETTERS

Write a sunny, funny letter
To the boy somewhere in France,
Happier it is the better,
Make it cheer him at first glance,
Tell him of the latest winning
Of the team from Homeville High,
All the [illegible] jokes they're spinning;
Let not even doleful sigh.

We must keep the home fires burning
Bright within each khaki breast,
If we drown our fears and yearnings,
His courage will do the rest.
Let not the nation's battle
Our work, and watch, and pray
The guns have ceased to rattle
And shall have come to stay.

If unparaffined wooden packages are used, these should be soaked several days in salt water to prevent "woody" flavor in the butter. A better plan is to coat the inside of the tub or box with hot wax, then line with heavy parchment paper, before packing the butter. Glazed crocks which are clean, need no lining.

When the package is full, preferably all from one churning, smooth the top of the butter, cover with parchment paper or a clean cotton cloth, then tie heavy brown paper over the top and place in a cool cellar or in cold storage. Sometimes a salt paste is put on top of the cloth or paper and this is kept moist by sprinkling on water from time to time. This excludes the air and helps to keep the butter.

We recommend packing the butter in solid form which is to be kept for some time, rather than molding the butter in prints, even though these may be submerged in brine.—Prof. H. H. Dean, O. A. College, Guelph.

Select Seed Corn Now.

Unless every precaution is taken this autumn the supply of good seed corn of the desirable varities will be inadequate for the requirements of 1919. The autumn of 1917 saw the corn crop harvested with an excess of moisture. Wet cold weather followed, during which time the corn did not cure, consequently, when the very cold weather of December set in the corn was frozen and germination was reduced to a very low percentage. This situation which caused the agricultural authorities of North America so much anxiety during the winter and spring of 1918, and which was described by them as "a national calamity," is not yet averted. The problem, which that committee had to face was one of supplying North America with seed which would give a fair germination. To secure this seed was no easy task and recourse was made to districts in the United States hundreds of miles to the south of Ontario which produce large, late maturing varieties. In bringing this seed into the country there was little expectation that it would produce much grain, but it was hoped it would produce fodder. The situation in Ontario was so acute that an embargo was placed on the seed grown in Kent and Essex counties prohibiting the exportation from those counties to other districts in Ontario. Some of this germination was available but not sufficient for all their local needs, and as those counties located in southern and western Ontario furnish the chief source of seed for the remainder of the province it was felt that such action was justified in order to conserve those varieties for seed purposes which had proven themselves adapted to Ontario conditions.

There was never a time in Ontario's history when it was more necessary to take every precaution in the selection of seed corn than at the present time. The most satisfactory method of seed selection is that of selecting in the field. The grower can go up and down his rows and select those ears which are early, well developed and possess all the varietal characteristics. When selecting in the field the grower has before him the standing plant. He can select from those plants which possess the height, strength, leafiness and earliness desired. When once the desired type is established in the grower's mind good progress can be made in selecting the ears. This method offers many advantages over that of selecting from the shock or from the crib. The crib is the least desirable, in that it offers only husked ears to select from. With the shock, when husking, the grower has the wilted or matured stalks, while the field selection has everything in its favor, the whole plant and its environment which may mean normal or abnormal conditions for development.—Dr. C. A. Zavitz, O. A. College, Guelph.

What Causes A Town To Die

More towns die for want of confidence on the part of business men and lack of public spirit than for the rivalry of neighboring towns or adverse surroundings, says a writer in a Western paper. This is true. When a man in search of a home or a business location goes to a town and finds it brim full of hope and enthusiasm over the prospects of the place and earnestly at work to build up the town, he soon becomes imbued with the same spirit, and as a result he dives his takes and goes to work with the same interest. When, however, he goes to a town, and everyone expresses a doubt and apprehension of the prosperity of the place, moving about and indulging in mournful complaints about imaginary evils which are likely to befall the town, he feels that it is no place for him, and shakes the dust from his feet, while he departs with town. Try to make a live, enterprising, progressive town out of the one in which you live. When you are working for or saying a good thing for your town you are accomplishing a good thing yourself.

Dandy Dusters

Use dusters which have been wrung out of a solution of two tablespoonfuls of coal oil to a quart of warm water. Hang them up dripping and allow to dry. The use of these prepared dusters and an oiled mop and carpet sweeper will do a lot to keep the house in order with little effort.

Died At Vancouver

The death occurred at Vancouver recently of a former highly respected Brant lady, Mrs. John Rothwell, who before her marriage was Miss Eliza Bell of Brant. For many years the Rothwells lived on the farm just east of the town, at present owned by Mr. John Ernest. Her death took place at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Brown of Vancouver. A grown up family survives.

Should Use Dimmers

Complaints are continually being heard of the negligence of a great many motorists, especially on the country roads, to use their dimmers, if they have them, or if they haven't, to slow down their engines when meeting other cars or vehicles. One man was just telling us of meeting as many as nine automobiles recently and only one motorist dimmed his lights. This is a condition existing either out of ignorance or arrogance on the parts of the drivers and no law would be more welcome here than the compulsory adoption of non-glare headlights. Such a law is in force throughout the United States and good results are reported. Another all too frequent occurrence is the failure of many local motorists to give warning at the street crossings. If only offenders' lives were endangered by this, no one could object but many seem to delight in taking pot-luck in turning a corner without warning and rushing into a collision with some perfectly law abiding and harmless pedestrian or horse and buggy.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

MANUFACTURE OF CIDER

Winter Rhubarb Can be Produced Cheaply and Conveniently.

Turnips Grown on Dairy Farm Best Fed to Dry Cows, Young Stock and Pigs.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

SWEET cider is unfermented apple juice, and hard cider is fermented apple juice. To get the juice the apples are either crushed or ground in a cider mill and the juice expressed from the pulp.

The fermentation of apple juice, or any other fruit juice, is brought about by the development in it of yeast. Yeast cells are microscopic plants invisible to the naked eye and are always present on the surface of fruit. When the fruit is crushed to get the juice many of these yeast cells get into the juice and if these are not destroyed they will induce fermentation.

Consequently, in the manufacture of sweet cider we must destroy the yeast cells that are present and prevent others from getting in. The surest way of doing this is to pasteurize the juice immediately after it is obtained from the fruit and store away in well-sealed containers. In the case of cider the pasteurization process means heating the juice to 170F. for ten minutes and then filling into containers that have been scalded and can be tightly corked. Care should be taken not to let the temperature get above 170F. during pasteurization or the character of the juice will be injured. The juice is then stored away at a low temperature to allow it to clear.

Hard cider is produced by allowing the fresh apple juice to ferment in the cask. The fermentation is naturally induced by the activity of the yeast cells that get into the juice from the surface of the apples. As, however, there are various kinds of yeast cells, and also many mould spores liable to be on the fruit which may injure the quality of the cider, spoiling the flavor, it is a good plan to control the fermentation either by first pasteurizing the juice and then adding a good yeast or simply by adding a good yeast to the raw juice as soon as obtained from the apples.—Prof. D. H. Jones, O. A. College, Guelph.

How Winter Rhubarb Is Produced.

The production of rhubarb in winter has become of considerable value among gardeners. It is easy to do if certain methods are followed. If one is making a permanent business of rhubarb forcing, it is necessary, each year, to set out a new bed as plants once forced are of no further value. In the spring large roots should be dug, split in one bud sections and replaced in rich moist ground. During the growing season they are kept cultivated and free from weeds. In the fall they are covered with manure. Next spring a second bed is planted as before. That fall a large part of the first bed is taken up leaving sufficient to replant another bed the next spring. The roots are taken up the last thing in the fall before the hard, freezing weather comes and are placed in pits in a shed where they can easily be got at during the winter, but will remain frozen. About Dec. 1st take in a sufficient number of roots, place these bud side up on the floor of a warm cellar—about 65 to 70 degrees—and cover with an inch of sand. Be sure to fill in all interspaces. Keep this sand moist. About a week later the buds will begin to swell, and in from four to six weeks, depending upon the heat of the room, the cooler the slower growth starts—you should have rhubarb ready for market. After these roots are exhausted throw them away and put in more. If a constant supply is required make a new bed every two or three weeks during the winter. Be sure to keep all lights dimmed. Put burlap or brown paper over the windows to get the bright pink color so much desired.—A. H. MacLennan, B.S.A., Ontario Vegetable Specialist.

Should Cows Be Fed Turnips?

This is an old question about which considerable difference of opinion exists. If my reader is Scotch, he or she will likely answer the question by saying, "Yes," as Scotchmen, turnips, and good farming are three things usually found together on farms in Ontario.

There was a time when butter buyers were not so particular about the flavor of butter as they are at present. It is common to hear women purchasers on city markets, say to farm butter-makers, "Your butter is turnipy," which is sufficient to cause a loss of the sale. Creamerymen object very strongly to "turnipy cream." While it is doubtless true that some careful feeders are able to feed quite large quantities of turnips to cows giving milk, without causing any serious trouble, there is always danger, which can best be avoided by not feeding these to milking cows. If they are grown on the dairy farm they are best fed to dry cows, fattening cattle, young stock, pigs, etc. However, if they are fed in the stable where cows are milking, and more especially where the root house opens into the stable and where the turnips are pulped in the stable or in a feed-room adjoining, the odor of the turnips fills the air, which is carried into the milk pail at the time of milking and thus the milk, cream, and butter become tainted from the stable air, even though the milk cows may not be fed any of the turnips.

The safest plan is not to grow turnips on a dairy farm. Grow mangels, or sugar beets, and corn for silage. These crops will give as good returns as turnips, are no more expensive to grow, and are much safer.

"Safety first" is a good motto on a dairy farm.—Prof. H. H. Dean, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Accident At Threshing

William Craig, West Ward, who has been threshing with Harry Denny this season, was badly hurt at Lang Bros., con. 6, Brant, on Friday morning. The machine was about to stop when a heavy square timber, which extended across the middle of the floor broke in the middle. The end of a piece about 16 feet long hit him as he was standing beside the separator and hurled him back against the scaffolding. When Harry dug him out of the straw a minute later it was first thought he was dead and he was unconscious for about half an hour. Medical examination indicated that no bones were broken but his arm and shoulder were so badly bruised that he will likely be laid up for the balance of the season.

Gets Important Job

The new hospital will be in the buildings of the Provincial Agricultural College near the city which are being given over entirely for hospital purposes. At the first there will be 2,000 beds, with probably further extension of the capacity later on. Dr. Fraser has been in charge of the medical department at Petawawa Camp since his return from the Front and looks stouter and fitter from his rest after three strenuous years in France. Before leaving for the West he intends spending a couple of weeks inspecting the various Military Hospitals in Ontario. Needless to say, the Doctor's many friends in town are greatly pleased at his excellent appointment. It's a man's job alright but just the Doctor's size.

Celebrated the Victory

Wallace—Sutherland

A quiet church wedding took place at Knox Church, Bradford, at four o'clock on Monday, September 30th, when Miss Lulu Edna, youngest daughter of Mr Donald Sutherland of Bradford, was united in marriage to Mr. Herbert Holmes Wallace, son of the Thomas and Mrs Wallace of Pembroke. The Church was prettily decorated for the occasion. The bride, who was unattended was given away by her uncle, her cousin, Mrs F. C. Ryan of Park Hill, formerly of Paisley playing the Wedding March. The bride wore a becoming travelling suit of navy blue, with a small hat to match. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace motored from the church to Toronto intending to visit Montreal and Petawawa on their wedding trip, the bride's brother being in training at the latter place. On their return they will reside at Pembroke where Mr. Wallace has a business college. During her year's term here as Supt. of the Bruce County Hospital Mrs. Wallace made many warm friends who wish her and Mr Wallace much joy and a very happy journey through life.

All three of Mr. Robertson's sons are officers in the Canadian service.

Distinguished Speaker Coming

A treat is in store for the people of Walkerton in connection with the Teachers Convention. On Thursday night Lieut.-Col. (Rev. Dr.) Johnston who has returned from visiting the various battle-fronts at the request of the British Foreign Office, will give an address at the Town Hall. Dr. Johnston was given an exceptional opportunity to get an inside view of things. He was a guest of the British Admiralty on a visit to the North Sea Fleet and the battle-lines on the Western and Italian Fronts, and had fresh hand experience with the tanks, aeroplanes and submarines. Don't miss hearing this gifted speaker tell what he saw at the Front, at the Town Hall, next Thursday night. Admission 25 cents.

Death Of Mrs. McKinnon

The death occurred quite suddenly on Friday noon, Sept. 27th, of Mrs. Sarah McKinnon, wife, of Donald McKinnon, Yonge St., in her 77th year. She had been taken quite ill the previous Sunday but had apparently recovered and her demise was unexpected. Mrs. McKinnon was born in Scotland, coming to this country at the age of three with her parents. They settled at Mount Carmel, near Park Hill but practically all her married life was spent at Lucan. Two years ago the family removed to Walkerton. She was a cheerful, motherly soul, with a kind word for everybody, and her death is deeply mourned. Besides her husband, she leaves a family of six sons and two daughters:—John and J. A. of Walkerton, Angus of Detroit, Dan of California, Mary (Mrs. John Ward) of London, James, Signaller Overseas, Jessie (Mrs Martin Bester) of Cargill, and Duncan of Walkerton. The funeral took place from her late residence on Tuesday morning, service being held at the R. C. Church and interment in Walkerton Cemetery.

Removing To Niagara Falls

After having resided about thirty years in Walkerton, Mr. C. W. Cryderman, Collector of Inland Revenue, received a telegram from Ottawa on Friday instructing him to report in three days at Niagara Falls, Ont. Mr. Cryderman left for his new post on Monday and Mrs. Cryderman and Eileen will follow later. His elder son, Surg. Probationer Wilbur Cryderman R. N. who has been at home since Spring left this week for Toronto to complete his course in Medicine at the University. Mr. Cryderman came to Walkerton in the eighties and for many years before receiving a Gov't appointment, was actively connected with the public and municipal life of the town. He sat at the Council Board for a number of terms and as Mayor of Walkerton showed administrative ability. In debating municipal issues on the public platform he had few equals. With three of their children serving King and Country, the last few years have been anxious ones for Mr. and Mrs. Cryderman. Their departure from Walkerton is deeply regretted by their many friends here, who however are glad to learn that it means a promotion for Mr. Cryderman and trust the happiness and prosperity will attend this esteemed family in their new home.

COMBS

¶ Have you noticed what a difference there is in Combs?

¶ Some are comparatively crude and the sides of the teeth are rough and jagged—no wonder you think your hair is coming out. It's the rough teeth of the comb that's pulling it out or breaking it off.

¶ Then there are combs that have every tooth molded and finished off smooth. That is the kind we have and recommend.

¶ Cost more of course but worth the difference many times.

¶ Let us show the difference to you.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN

Rev. Charles W. Cusens went to Arthur on Sunday night to take part in a memorial service to Capt. Arthur Brocklebank, a clever young officer and former parishioner of Mr. Cusens, who was killed when the Canadians drove forward over the Hindenburg Line. The evening service at the Methodist Church was taken by Inspector John McCool, who gave a clean-cut and thoughtful discourse on "The Religion of Elijah", taking for his text the words: "Choose ye this day whom ye shall serve."

A dangerous condition of things existed in Chesley for a short time on Monday of last week. A telephone wire broke and fell across a hydro wire and also lay partly on the street. The hydro wire carried 22,000 volts, and, of course, charged the telephone wire to the same extent. A team of horses drawing a cream wagon touched the wire and were knocked down but not killed. Another team also touched the wire and both team and driver suffered a severe shock. Repairs were soon made, and all concerned felt lucky that no deaths had resulted.

New Collector Named

Five applications were received for the position of Tax Collector for Brant, at Monday's Council meeting. Ed. Threndyle asked $145, Thos. Berry $140 Walter R. Spong $125, Robt. Smith of Hanover $115, Joseph Monk, the former Collector wanted $175. The job was given to Mr. Spong, he being the lowest tenderer living in the Township.

Lambastes The Chautauqua

Mr. Thomas Mulvey, Undersecretary of State, Ottawa, has addressed a circular letter to people prominent in patriotic work, calling attention to organizations which are going about the country giving "Win-the-War" concerts, lectures and dramatic productions under the auspices of local patriotic societies. Apparently the Chautauqua is meant. Mr. Mulvey points out that only a small proportion of the money taken in goes to the local society for patriotic work. It is unfortunate, he says, that the patriotic spirit of Canadians should be capitalized for the purpose of promoting entertainments such as this, however worthy these entertainments may be in other ways. The use of the Win-the-War sign, while not illegal, is an evasion of the principle underlying the War Charities Act 1917, and he calls upon patriotic workers to use their influence against the employment of organizations under such colors.

Hanover's Strong Man

A couple of years ago "Bill" Berry of Hanover gave the natives of this neck of the woods a real "thriller" when he stood on his head on the top of the ball of the stand pipe, says the Hanover Post. "Bill" did this stunt on a wager "for the cigars." Well he has been at it again, though being a versatile chap, he has changed the scenery somewhat. We now find him as the strong man of the vicinity. Down at the cement works recently he showed "the boys" what he could do. First he lifted a steel ging weighing 111½ lbs. with his right arm and part of body stroke. But this was only a "warming-up" stunt—sort of prelude to the main performance as it were. He then placed a plank on top of the ring and got four men on top of the outfit. The net weight was 1805½ pounds. He used both arms this time and put his back into it—and lifted the whole business. No, we didn't see it done but "Bill" claims he can furnish witnesses. We would laugh at the story were it not for the high balancing feat referred to above. Anyhow it would seem that "Bill" is fooling away his time around here. He should be with Ringling Bros.

Good Fair At Paisley

The Paisley Fair held on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, was the most successful in many years. Favored with fair weather, the attendance on the second day numbered more than two thousand persons. The number of entries in some of the departments was not as large as in previous years, but very superior in quality. A splendid showing of potatoes and other vegetables, a fine display of fruit especially apples, both fall and winter in many classes were exceptionally good. In the women's department there was a large and beautiful exhibit of all kinds of needlework, paintings and pencil sketchings, a fine showing of penmanship and drawings by the school children showing exceptional talent. In the outside show the list of entries in the rule of carriage and roadsters was well filled. The heavy draft class in the agricultural classes was slightly below the mark, owing no doubt to the scarcity of help required to put them in the condition for show purposes. Prizes were awarded for public school competition in physical exercise drills and club-swinging, and the singing of patriotic songs. A concert in the evening was greeted by a bumper house. The total proceeds from the concert were $215. Tags were sold under the auspices of the Women's Patriotic Society amounting to $100. The Chesley [illegible] of music.

Miss Gertrude Garner has joined the local Bell Telephone Staff.

Mrs. H. Heffernan and daughter, Mrs. I. T. Griffiths arrived home last week after a three weeks' visit to Toronto and Hamilton. Mr. Griffiths returned with them.

Editor E. Roy Sayles of the Port Elgin Times leaves to-day on a three weeks' trip to the Maritime Provinces in the interests of the Canadian Press Association.

Inquest At Chesley

An inquest is being held at Chesley Wednesday into the death of John Hetherington, an employee of the Royal Milling Co., who was killed when the chopper burst and a large piece of the plate, weighing about 30 pounds struck him, smashing his right leg and inflicting other injuries. The unfortunate man was carried home and lingered for a few hours when he passed away.

Death of Miss Logie

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Logie of North Brant were sadly bereaved by the death on Monday Sept. 30th. of their eldest daughter, Elizabeth. She was cut off at the age of twenty-seven years after an illness which lasted about a year. Previous to that she had been in training at Kitchener Hospital and was about to graduate as a nurse when ill-health overtook her and a bright young life that bespoke a career of promise, was sadly terminated. A large cortege of sorrowing friends followed the remains to their last resting place at North Brant Lutheran Cemetery on Wednesday. Service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Henkel.

Cottage Looters Discovered

A Saugeen Indian, named Peter Moses, who was brought in to Walkerton jail last week, charged with breaking into a widow woman's house at Hepworth and stealing eggs and money, has confessed to High Constable Briggs that he and his brothers were the culprits who burglarized the summer cottages at Sauble Beach last Spring. About June 1st, Dr. Barnard of Owen Sound reported to Mr. Briggs that some person had broken in to his summer cottage at Sauble Beach and stole a quantity of household goods and a boat. Briggs investigated the matter and a short time afterwards got a clue when the home of Widow Johnston at Hepworth was burglarized. He found that suspicious-looking Indians had sold eggs to a storekeeper at Park Head. He had warrants issued and had two Indians arrested at Drayton by High Constable Green and went to get his prisoners. The Indians were in the Lock-up where they had two planks and bed-clothes. With the planks they smashed a hole in the wall and escaped and are still at large. The third Indian was arrested at Owen Sound last week and is now in the County Gaol here on remand. High Constable Briggs had search warrants issued and went through some of the houses on the Saugeen Reserve and found some of the goods stolen from the cottages. The Indian in goal then confessed that he and his two brothers, who escaped from Drayton lock-up, had broken into the cottages. The Indians that had stolen goods in their possession will be prosecuted and steps are being taken to apprehend the two missing redskins. The boat, which was taken from the summer cottages is located in the swamps by the County Constable at Cheesman Hill and R. Thompson of Sauble.

"PAY IN ADVANCE" ALMOST SURE TO COME

We Wish To Prepare For It

Recent advices from Ottawa seem to indicate more surely that the Canadian government will follow the lead of the United States authorities in requiring newspapers and magazine subscriptions to be paid in advance. The purpose of this measure is the conservation of news print papers.

The increased cost of everything used in the production of a newspaper make it imperative that The Telescope should have no unpaid subscriptions on its books. Please examine the label on your paper. If you find that you are in arrears do not delay but make your remittance at once, either by express or postal note. If you are too far away to make a personal call at The Telescope office.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN

When local merchants advertise that they are selling certain lines at prices, it will surely pay you to study their ads in the Telescope. Read the advts. in the paper carefully.

Apply For Naturalization

A number of alien-born residents of this district have applied for naturalization during the past week or so to Mr. Thos. Dixon, Clerk of Peace. Application is made under a recent order-in-Council which provides for the naturalization of people who came to Canada in their infancy grew up believing themselves to be British subjects, and are known to be good loyal citizens. The number includes:—Gustav Scholtz of Brant, John Spring and Ezra Pfohl of Chesley; John H. Giesel' of Elmwood; Peter Zettler, Leonard Fischer, and Henry Stelnhagen of Carlsruhe, Philip Stroh of Clifford, George W. and Edward Albert Tiede of Formosa and Annabelle McLeod of Kincardine.

Soldiers' Land Meeting

A joint meeting of the Bruce Preparedness Executive and the Coun. appointed to deal with Major Moffatt's Land Scheme was held here on Tuesday, on the suggestion of Secretary A. McNab, a committee of five was appointed, composed of Mr. C. J. Mickel, Sheriff Jermyn, Major Moffat, and two soldiers to be raised by the returned men, to decide what form the scheme shall take. This will probably mean the shelving of Major Moffat's Community idea and the following of a regular govt. plan. Major Moffat reported that the Govt. would pay returned $3.25 a day for a month to build shacks in the Northern Ont., property preparatory to getting out pulp-wood. The Ontario Govt. wants $60 a man to guarantee their sincerity. It was decided to get in touch with the Dept., on this point and try to have the $60 requirement removed.

Won Military Honors

Mr. Thos. Desmond of Eden Grove has had a letter from his son's officer, Lieut. Horham, telling how the gallant young soldier, Pte. Dan. Desmond, met his death in France. It was on the morning of August 30th, when the Battalion had received orders to go over the top at 4.40 a. m. that a huge shell burst in front of them instantly killing him and others. His friend, Pte. Albert Groves, son of Mr. John Groves of Glamis, was killed by the same shell. Lieut. Horham referred to a matter which Dan never mentioned in his letters home. It was that three weeks before he was killed in action Dan received Military Honors for gallantry on the battlefield at Amiens on Aug. 8th. The nature of the Honors awarded to Pte. Desmond the officer does not state in his letter.

DIED OF WOUNDS

A life of brilliant promise was sacrificed for Liberty's cause in the death at the Front of Capt. Stanley Brocklebank D.S. O. of Arthur, Ont., a cousin of the Brocklebanks of Brant Tp. and young man well known in Walkerton. He died of wounds in No. 3, Gen. Hospital, Letreport, France on Sept. 20. He was a student at Osgoode Hall before enlisting and a chum of the late Lieut. Les Young. In Dec. 1917 he was mentioned in despatches and later recommended for the D. S. O. What manner of young man he was, may be judged from the following extracts from his diary and from a letter written home. This from his diary:—"Obey your orders, cling to your posts, don't grumble, stick it out."....."And think of the men with wives and children at home that were the biggest things in life to them. For fellows like us to shirk would be black cowardice. It's small credit for us to stick it out, but when these fellows shut their teeth and went forward, they were blessed heroes."

Here is one of his parents' most prized letters:—

France, October 3, 1916.

My Dearest Parents,—

We are going into the line tomorrow and expect to see some hard fighting. My friend Les Young suggested that I take a letter for him to his sweet-heart and he would do the same for me, and if either one of us didn't come back the other would post the letter. So this is my sweetheart, my mother. I shall do my best, and God willing, I hope we shall post our own letters.

East, West, Home's best.

Each hearth some wanderer's goal
For, as at night, the wild bird seeks its nest
Home flies the soul.

And I who may not come;
Though dear ones call
Send home my heartiest wish.

God bless you all.

I've only done my duty, father. My prayer is that we may meet where parting is no more.

Au revoir,
Stan.

A Farewell Party.

About twent-five young people gathered at the home of Miss Jean Miller on Thursday evening for a farewell party to a popular young lady Miss Carrie Mosack who is leaving shortly for Preston. During the evening Miss Mosack was presented with a nicely-worded address from a few of her friends which was read by Mr Garfield Kramp of Hanover, also a large cut glass fruit bowl which was presented to her on behalf of her friends by Miss Jeane Miller. The rest of the evening was happily spent in dancing and music.

The four young boys, who were sent up for trial last week by Magistrate Talton charged with stealing goods from the merchant at Belmore appeared before Judge Klein yesterday and pleaded guilty. Three of the boys who are under 14 years of age the Judged allowed to go on suspended sentence after receiving some good advice from the Bench The older boy was ordered to report on Dec. 30th for sentence. In the meantime he will have a chance to show how well he can behave and will be expected by the Judge to attend Sunday School every Sunday.

CHILDRENS AID WORK

Inspector Gives Report Of His Half Year's Work it Bruce County

On winding up his work as Children's Aid Inspector this week, Mr. W. H. Elliott presented the following report of his work during his half-year of service here, to the directors of the Society:—Report of Agent for the Children's Aid Society from April 1st to Sept. 30th, 1918. 16 Applications for children, 7 children brought to the Shelter (not wards), 5 children returned to parents (not wards), 107 children involved, 6 children made wards, 41 complaints, 71 investigations, 261 mail received, 316 mail sent out, 16 meetings attended, 2524 milage (approximate) covered, 48 office interviews, 137 phone interviews, 99 places visited outside the town, 5 Police Court attendance, 7 wards in foster homes heard from direct, 9 wards placed out, 5 wards returned to the Shelter, 41 wards visited, 30 warnings given, 3 Branch Committees organized, 2 Lantern Lectures given, 6 children in Shelter on Sept. 30, 1918.

In all the work during the six months in which I labored in Bruce County there has been a desire to meet the needs of the children and to improve the conditions of the unfortunate and neglected. It was my ambition to lay a foundation during these six months for this noble work. This has been done as far as possible, but as the winter months are more suitable for meetings, we only held two illustrated lectures, which were not so well attended.

We received $72.20 from the Branch committee at Kincardine as well as $20.00 from Teeswater. The town of Walkerton had a collection day for the Society in which they realized about $250.00.

The Agent has also installed a complete up-to-date system to take care of each case which is second to none in the Province and all the work is written up to date. I trust the work may grow and widen its scope of usefulness so long as the appeal of a neglected child is heard in our land and so long as the Lord's little ones need a human friend.

OUR WESTERN LETTER

Written by An Old Bruce Boy Now Farming in Alberta.

Grain is all cut here now, stacking and shock threshing are in full swing. So far the weather has been ideal but on Sunday 23rd. it started to rain and is still "a doing of it" This has put back threshing.

It was thought threshers would have great trouble in securing crews for their outfits. In this district the threshers seem to have all the men they need. I have heard of no shortage. I saw a man recently who had been all through Southern Alberta and I asked him if the crops were as bad as reported. He replied "No, it is just like this, the careful farmer has got a crop. The farmer who shoved his grain in any way (the majority) has got none or a very poor one. "But on the whole there is more grain than was first estimated." I think in this immediate neighbourhood crops look better than I have ever seen them. Our green aspects all summer and fine crops have brought in a lot of would be land buyers from the dried out district. Some farmers have changed hands and at good prices.

Some people seem hard to please. I have two neighbours (brothers.) They came in here ten years ago and took up homesteads on 320 acres of rough land. They had between them $100, that was their start. They bought a pair of cayeuses, some old machinery, put up hay off the natural hay meadows on their land, trapped muskrats worked on threshing machines etc. They have worked for no man but themselves for the last six years. They own some 40 head of cattle ten or more horses, besides hogs and poultry. Their land is free from debt, they have the necessary machinery to work the farm a small threshing machine, gasoline engine and a new Ford car. It seems to me those young men have done exceptionally well, but they are not satisfied. They say they have wasted the last ten years in Alberta, are going to clear out this fall after their grain is threshed. If they can not sell their farm they hope to rent, but sell, rent or neither they are off for pastures new. It is to be hoped they will waste the next ten years as advantageously as they have done the last ten.

I see the Walkerton barbers have raised the price of a hair cut to 25 c. Out here a barber charges 35 c. if he looks at you and 50c. if he does any more.. I saw an old Englishman who had come here to visit his son. He lamented the high cost of everything. At Montreal he bought a box of wax vestas, price at home two boxes one penny, price here one box ten cents. But what got his goat most was the barbers charges. "Why" he said "I 'ave gone to the very same barber for twenty years to get my 'air and head trimmed and he charged a penny. I went to the barber 'ere to 'ave my 'air and beard trimmed and he charged me sixty cents. Just think of that! 'Arf a crown for what they go at 'ome for two cents. oh! the charges 'ere are simply hortful."

ADVERTISING

Advertising! Bradstreet's statement that 84 per cent, of all failures are among non-advertisers is significant. Intelligent advertising has become an essential in every modern industry, but what shall the advertiser do in the face of the war situation when he finds it difficult to get goods to fill his orders? First of all, it should be remembered that the foundation purpose of judicious advertising is to fix indelibly the trademark in the public mind. A let-up in that campaign must be fatal to any product. So we find Mr. George H. Charles, vice-president of the American Rolling Mill Company, declaring the company's purpose to continue its advertising although for two and a half years it has been unable to supply the demand for its product. "We are building," said he, "a permanent business edifice, and some day we would have to spend millions of dollars buying back the business and good will of our clients if they are forsaken in this emergency." Unless advertising is kept up without a break, the advertiser loses the results of the initial effort. Here is a warning to the advertiser who neglects the dull season in summer. When advertisements are fewest is the very time when a message to the public will get most attention. It is good "psychology" to push the advertisement of a winter product in the summer and of a summer product in the winter.—Leslie's Weekly.

Walkerton Girl Going Overseas

Miss Garabelle M. Wettlaufer, who has been nursing at Philadelphia, was accepted for Overseas and reported for duty on October 1st. She is now located at the United States Army Hospital, Fort McPherson, Georgia.

Next Thursday

The Fire Prevention League which was recently formed at Toronto by representatives of the various municipalities of Ontario to combat the tremendous fire losses in this Province has named Thursday, Oct. 9th, as Fire Prevention Day. Mayor Johnston is asking the citizens of Walkerton to observe the day—next Thursday—by having a general clean-up of their premises and removing all material that might cause a fire. The seriousness of the present fire losses, at a time when every resource of the Country must be carefully conserved, is a matter that cannot be ignored and every citizen can help a bit by acting on Mayor Johnston's suggestion.

An Advertisement by Charles Dickens

CHARLES DICKENS is one of the world's great teachers. Here is what he has to say in one of his books;

"My other piece of advice, Copperfield," said Mr. Micawber, "you know. Annual income £20, annual expenditure £19. 19. 6—result, happiness. Annual income £20, annual expenditure £20. 0. 6—result, misery. The blossom is blighted, the leaf is withered, the God of Day goes down upon the dreary scene, and—and in short you are forever floored. As I am."

The saving of a part of one's income was always a good policy.

Prudent men and women have always maintained a margin of saving.

But to-day we must go farther in our efforts to save than ever before.

To-day it is a matter of the gravest importance that each Canadian seek ways and means to economize by cutting down expenditures for unnecessary things, saving the money he spends on things he could do without, so that when the Nation needs to borrow money he will be in a position to do his full duty.

There is war-shortening work waiting for every dollar that can be saved.

IF Charles Dickens were writing to Canadians to-day he would probably give us advice to this effect:

"My other piece of advice, Canadians, you know. No matter what percentage of your annual income you have previously saved, your efforts to-day should be to save more. The advantage of so doing is threefold: By the practice of economy you conserve the material and labor which must be devoted to the grim task before us; you cultivate the priceless habit of thrift; you gather more and more money to lend to the Nation for the prosecution of the war to a quick and certain Victory."

THRIFT? HAVE WE BEGUN IT?

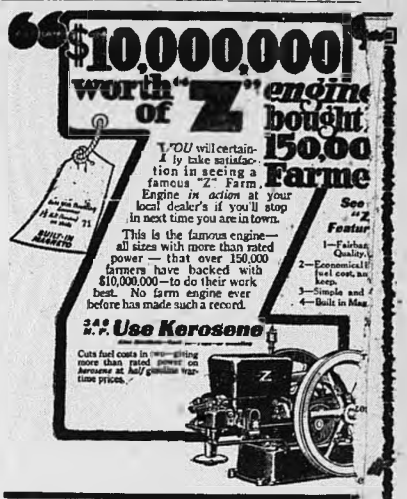
By Edmund Vance Cooke

Thrift? Have we yet won it?
Nay, have we begunit?
It pops up its head and we sop it or stun it,
But while we are raving,
Of salving and saving,
Who of us is conscious of cutting a craving?

We still go hotelling,
And swanking and swelling,
As if war were pastime and seldom compelling;
We go restauranting,
And jaunting and flaunting,
With little denied that is wanton or wanting.

If you're doing the limit, keep hitting on wood
And ask: "Have I thrifted as much as I could?"

Some go profiteering,
And on the high gearing
They hit the high spots with a rollicking cheering;
And day-working Dooleys,
Are suffering patchoulis,
While over the ocean they're living like coolies.



Aye, aye, there they buckle
Their belts as they knuckle
Hard down to their work, while refusing to truckle,
And Punches and Pierrots
Are starving like horses,
While our self-denials still is hitting the sorrows.

As you pillow your conscience at bedtime to-night,
Ask this; "Have I thrifting as much, as I might?"

NEWS ABOUT TOWN

East Bruce Teachers' Association is meeting at the Public School building here to-day and to-morrow.

Corporal Bob. McGregor of Pettewawa spent the week-end on last leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. McGregor, prior to leaving for Siberia.

Back From the West

Mr. E. J. Skelton arrived home on Friday night from an extended business trip through the Canadian West. He found business very good. Crops in many sections Mr. Skelton visited turned out immense, wheat running 25 to 40 bushels. In the district where his farm is located in Southern Alberta wheat was a failure although his son, Crawford, who has since joined the Royal Air Force, had enough wheat this year to pay expenses.

Husband And Both Brothers Fighting

Mrs. Fred Bannister had word on Friday that her nineteen year old brother, Charlie Murcar of Paisley, had enlisted with the Royal Engineers at Brockville and is going overseas soon. Her other brother, John Murcar, is now in France. The same day she received a letter from her husband stating that he was back on the firing line again after a spell in the hospital recovering from a gassing.

Home From The West

Mr. John O'Neil arrived home last week from an enjoyable trip through the Western Provinces. On the trip out he saw the West at its best, the broad prairies being laden with their waving stretches of golden grain. The endless panorama was most impressive. He visited principally the Moosejaw and Regina districts and spent a few days at Rolla, Sask. By an odd chance he struck those sections which this year had the West's best crops, wheat in many instances running as high as 40 bushels. He was impressed by the substantial appearance which many Western towns have developed. The broad paved streets and solid business blocks are model for Eastern cities. The last traces of wild-and-woolyness having long since disappeared, almost the only distinguishing mark of the Western city now is the appearance of the oddly-garbed foreign-born, especially women, in their fantastic old country garb with shawls about their heads. Their outlandish appearance forms a vivid contrast to their up-to-date surroundings on the paved streets.

Misses Ella and Mae Hyslop of Kitchener are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hyslop.

Mr. Henry Hossfeld bought the west section of the Exhibition Building from the Town Council for $415 and has removed the timber to his farm in Carrick.

John Lundy of Brant lost forty dollars in bills on the street one day recently. A High School girl, Miss Ethel Reilly, found the money and promptly restored it to the owner.

Ted Wilhelm has returned from Windsor where he went to take a job in a shell factory recently. He found that his wounded arm was not yet strong enough to stand machine work.

Sunday School Convention

A program of more than usual interest and helpfulness has been prepared for the Annual Convention of the East Bruce S. S., Ass'n to be held at Mildmay next Thursday. Rev. T. A. Halpenny, Prov. Supt., is coming personally and will speak on "The Challenge of the Present Crisis to the S. S. Workers," at the afternoon session, and at night on "A Plea for personality in the S. S. Teacher." Rev. W. H. Burgess, B. D. of Walkerton, S. S. Convenor for the Pres. Synod of London and Hamilton, will deal with "The Teen Age Period," and Rev. Mr. McCaulley of Glamis will give an address on "The Place of Teaching in Sabbath School Work." The Convention will be held in the Evangelical Church, Mildmay.

Scouts, "Alert":

We had another good meeting of "The Scouts" last Friday evening. Two patrols were formed "The Stork" led by Patrol leader N. McCartney which is completed and another led by Patrol leader J. McConnel who has not chosen his patrol a name yet. The boys are shaping well at their "Tenderfoot" work and will be finished in the course of a few weeks when I hope the well known Scout Badge seen worn by every Scout will appear in Walkerton. We want to form two more patrols and invite the boys from 12 yrs. upwards to come and join us on Friday evenings, you have no home lessons to do and you will find the meetings interesting and instructive. The "Wolf Cubs" last Wed. commenced to learn their howl. As they are only learning they started with a squeal which will soon develope into a regular Wolf Club "Howl" The youngsters enjoyed the proceedings also the story of the "Old Wolf" in far off India. Don't forget to bring your subscription next week, we shall soon have enough to get a bugle, which I hope shall be a beginning towards a bugle band which will waken up Walkerton once more. We invite boys from 9 yrs. to 12 yrs. to come along next Wed. evening and you will enjoy it: there will be lots doing by and by.

Yet he found a hero's grave,
Sometimes I think he will come back,
When this fearful war is o'er,
You know I cannot realize
My brave friend is no more.
I picture his safe returning,
I long to clasp his hand,
But God has postponed the meeting,
Till we meet in a better land.

TWO MILLION DOLLARS

Will Be the Objective For Bruce in Victory Loan Campaign To Be Launched Shortly

Bruce County organized for the coming Victory Loan campaign at a meeting held in the Council Chamber, Walkerton, last Thursday afternoon at which the majority of the municipalities throughout the County were represented by one or more delegates.

County Chairman David Robertson K. C. briefly dealt with some salient features of the Victory Loan, giving points which will come useful in the Canvass.

Bruce County's share this year will be $2,000,000, just double last years objective. As last year's total reached $1,800,000 it will be seen that the two million mark should not be out of reach, and with a thorough organization and an enthusiastic band of workers on the job, it is a sure thing that Bruce will make a good showing on the fourth Victory loan.

Mr. Geo. D. McKay who was responsible in a large measure for the successful handling of the last Victory Loan, is again on the job as secretary, and Mr. Brown of Toronto will be county organizer.

Last year the towns and villages of Bruce outdid themselves in the way they subscribed and it is hardly to be expected that their performance will be repeated. Some of the country districts which failed to make good last year, will have a chance to show what they really can do this time and it is to be hoped that they will be there with the goods.

The rate of interest is the same as last on the Fourth Victory Loan, five and a half per cent, and it is absolutely free from war-tax. Farmers who up to last year had no experience with bonds, now know what a convenient form of security it is, and the experience that the public have had with gov't. bonds since the beginning of the war, is making them a more and more popular form of investment, outside of the satisfaction which the buyer of a bond feels in doing a bit to help the allies win the war.

Had Fall From Tree.

Mrs. Wills who lives alone near the cemetery, was seriously hurt by falling from an apple tree on Saturday morning. As she was picking the fruit, she stepped from the ladder into a branch which broke. She fell to the ground striking her head and inflicting a scalp-wound about six inches long. Her back was also hurt. She lay on the ground in a half dazed condition for some time, when Mr. James Whitehead who was showing some clients various properties around the town happened to call. Mr. Whitehead soon had a doctor, on the spot and Mrs. Wills was removed to the Hospital.

Today's The Day

Let every citizen get busy and join in the work of Fire Prevention Day today. Let us make our town as clean and attractive, as safe from fire, and free from disease as any city in the Province. The success of the "Clean-Up" depends upon everyone taking part. Many disastrous fires are caused by the accumulation of rubbish—papers, boxes, etc.—about houses, in attics, cellars and yards. This is a business proposition as well as a matter of civic pride and health. A thorough observance of this "Clean-Up" Day may prevent a conflagration that would wipe out a good part of the town. Such conflagrations are frequently occurring. They are often caused by just such conditions as this "Clean Up" is intended to remove. Let every body get busy and help to remove the possible cause of such a disaster in our home town.

BURNED TO DEATH

Brant Farmer Loses His Life Trying To Rescue Stock From His Blazing Barn

A sad fatality occurred in North Brant on Saturday morning when Mr. Charles Mauer, a well-known and prosperous farmer, living on the 12th. concession eight miles north of Walkerton, lost his life in the accidental destruction of his barn by fire. The origin of the blaze is not definitely known but is thought to have been caused by children playing with matches. Mr. Mauer was working in the stable about ten o'clock when he saw that the big strawstack was ablaze. He got the horses out safely and went back to get seven or eight calves from the constable but the flames intercepted him. The barn caught at both top and bottom from the stack and in a short time was burned to the ground. Mr. Mauer's wife was away at the time attending her daughter, Mrs. Long of Bentinck who was sick, and his son, August, had gone to Elmwood, leaving only Mr. Mauer and two little grandchildren on the farm. The body were recovered from the ruins Sunday morning in an almost unrecognizable condition. Part of one arm and a portion of one leg had been completely burned away. The barn was a big one and was filled to the eaves with a big crop off 217 acres. The contents included 160 loads of hay, old and new, 2500 bu. of grain (including 500 bu. wheat.) 7 of 8 young calves and 19 pigs. The loss was partly covered by insurance in the Farmers' Central Fire Insurance Co of Walkerton.

Mr. Mauer who was in his 72nd. year had owned the farm the past eleven years, coming from Bentinck Tp. about a mile east of Hanover. He was an industrious and respected farmer and a member of Elmwood Lutheran Church. Deep sympathy is felt in the community for the family in the particularly distressing nature of their bereavement. Besides his widow, he leaves the following family:—Henry, David and August of the 12th con., Brant; Mrs. Fred A. Wilkin, Con. 4, Brant; Mrs. August Schilling, Con. 2, Brant; Mrs. Stewart Butchart, Con. 12, Brant; Mrs. John Long, Bentinck. The funeral, which was held on Tuesday to Elmwood Cemetery was a very large one, Rev. Mr. Henkel conducting the service.

Signed As Flier

Frank Moore, eldest son of Eng. Moore of the C. P. R. has joined the Royal Air Force.

Didn't Carry Papers

The Dominion Police Officer who was here last week had six well-known young men of the town and country summoned to appear at Police Court for not carrying necessary papers. Magistrate Telfon fined them each $5 and costs, amounting to $14.85. Crown Attorney Dixon afterwards remitted his share of the costs which brought the fines down to $9.55. Those fined were:— B. Rietz, W. H. McNeil, E. McConnell, Alex. McDonald, W. J. Chick, Corn. Zettler.

Pleaded Guilty

Peter Moses, a Saugeen Indian, who was mixed up in the cottage burglarizing at the Sauble last Spring, came up before Judge Klein on Friday charged with receiving stolen goods. He pleaded guilty and was remanded by the Judge for thirty days. Eggs, bread, honey and other eatables are alleged to have found their way into Moses' possession and he admitted having a clock in his possession which came from one of the cottages. Moses's understood to have helped in the stealing by watching while a couple of his pals got away with the goods.

Recommended For Decoration

Letters received this week from Walkerton boys at the Front say that Capt. Bob Rowland, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Rowland, has been recommended for the Distinguished Service Order for gallant work during the Canadians' brilliant Offensive. Bob first went to France from Queen's University early in the war to reinforce the Princess Pats. He came home in January, 1916, to take a commission with the Bruce Batt'n. On the breaking up of the 160th, he joined the 44th in France, with which Battalion he has been through the heavy fighting of the past summer on the West Front. On top of the news of Bob's gallantry came a wire Monday stating that he had been wounded. His only brother, John, recently left England, where he has been the past year or more, for the Front.

FIGHTING "MACS" OF BRUCE

Penetrated Farther into German Territory than Any Other Part of Brigade—A Well-Written Tribute by Corp. W. E. Elliott in the London Free Press.

No one of all that company
But bore a gentle name.
Not one whose fathers had not stood
In Scotland's field of fame.

France, September, 1918.

During the last big "push" on the Canadian front, big "Mac" MacKinnon, of Kincardine, was doing traffic control duty on a busy crossroad close up to the fighting line, when a German aeroplane dropped a bomb right into a motor lorry loaded with six-inch shells and made a mess of the right-of-way. All four roads were crowded with M. T. and horsed transport, and some of the trucks carried ammunition for next morning's barrage, which was to help the battalions "over the top" Not a vehicle could pass the smashed truck, and, indeed, the drivers did not care to risk their convoys without an order, for every little while a six-inch shell was exploded in the blazing lorry, while on the top of it all the fritz plane was machine-gunning the area lit up by the flare.

It looked like a costly all-night tie-up but MacKinnon sailed into the tangle and started to roll the shells off the load BY HAND. At irregular intervals they would explode, but none of them happened to kill him, so he kept on; took a chance at the machine gun bullets as well, and in less than two hours had the throughfare clear. An Imperial artillery officer who witnessed the action was so struck with the Canadian's initiative and disregard of danger that he reported the occurrence to Mac's commanding officer, who promptly recommended him for a decoration.

That's only one incident in the story of the MacKinnons and McDonalds, Farquharsons and Finlaysons and others of the breed who came to the 1st. Battalion from Bruce County. One of the heart-breaking features of the great war, as it concerns Canada, has been the necessary disbanding in England of fine overseas units such as the 160th, Bruce and 161st Hurons. Even the fine individual record of these men in the battalions to which they were drafted in France makes one wish they could have been permitted to see service under their own colors. In raising the 160th. Battalion from a county as lightly populated as Bruce, Lieut.-Col. Weir and his officers accomplished what many people considered an impossibility, and yet the quantity of the rank and file was as well maintained that the drafts in France have added to the reputation of their original unit no less than the battalion of their affiliation.

Men From Bruce

March 5 last an even hundred men from the Bruce battalion reached the 1st. and were evenly divided among the companies. Their three acting sergeants, Richenback, Ruhl and Matheson, and five acting corporals, Field, D. J. MacDonald, J. Kitchen, W. A. McKenzie and N. McDonald, were taken on as privates. There was no Bruce officer in the battalion. The hundred were now orphans. Starting at scratch, or even a wee bit handicapped, the newcomers plodded on from obscurity to recognition. Reporting without a single man absent on the march, and none in detention, they have kept up that record of good character, and I do not recall an instance of a "d51" or "652" man figuring in an orderly room case. Few have gone out sick, and only one has been sent to rest camp.

D. J. MacDonald (Ripley) and U. Zettel (Walkerton) were promoted lance-corporals in the field in June. During this present month, D. N. McCallum, A. Field, W. V. Eldridge H. Hepenstall, N. E. Kaufman, W. E. Fraser, G. A. Lister and J. W. Hudson have been made lance-corporals. A. J. Weiler is employed in the battalion orderly room.

Since the original draft a number of others from the Bruce battalion have reached the 1st. H. G. Hudson A. S. Gillean and H.Whitman arrived on April 2. P. Williams and H. A. Williams came in May, and others since.

The first casualty occurred on March 22, the same month as the draft arrived. Pte. H. W. Farquharson, of Teeswater, and Pte. E. Hoyle were wounded during a tour in the line, and Farquharson died next day at the casualty clearing station. He was buried by our padre in British military cemetery behind the lines.

Pte. V. Fortier, who arrived on April 7, went out wounded on the 15th.; and F. Black and G. H. Craig on to 20th., and W. H. Buskley on the 17th. L. Currier, W. H. Caldwell, H. Sproule, G. Swatman, J. R. Scott, J. D. Baker and A. C. Campbell were also wounded during the trench fighting of April, and J. Agnew was killed in action.

The battalion furnished 30 picked men for a guard of honor for H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught at corps' sports on Dominion Day. Nine of these were chosen from the Bruce draft, as being of good appearance and soldierly bearing.

Could Play Ball

During the summer someone discovered the A. D. Matheson could play baseball, and he was made a member of the battalion team, which won 2 straight games from all sorts of units in the division.

Then came the big August "push" on the allied front, with the Canadian corps, as one English paper said, the "spearhead" of Marshal Foch's thrust. The spearhead went in deep and came out bloody. The Bruce men went through the fighting with the battalion and suffered their share of losses.

R. McIver and R. J. Willis were the first to go out wounded in this campaign. Next day F. H. Robinson, J. A. Richenback, W. A. McDougall, A. V. Nickel, G. V. Marshall and J. Sinclair were evacuated. During later operations the 160th. contingent had four killed and 17 wounded. A. W. Groves, Lance Corp. Zettel, J. Wood, (Chesley) and W. J. White (Paisley) gave their lives during this attack, in which the Canadians gained immensely important positions, captured a great number of German machine guns and much equipment and took many prisoners. White was in the section which penetrated farther into enemy territory than any other part of the brigade line.

The wounded were: D. J. McDonald, S. P. Sinden (only recently jointed) A. E. Stewart (stretcher-bearer), G. D. McArthur, Wm. George, R. J. Gray, W. Henson, E. R. Jackson, D. D. Jones, D. Gillick, T. C. Bugler, W. H. McCurdy, J. D. Becker, N. T. Walker, P. Wood and H. E. Woolwich. Pte. George was at first reported missing, but turned up in a hospital at the base.

In another fierce action a few days later, in which the Hun was again forced to shift his front line, W. A. Bluhm, F. H. Eyre, R. A. Renshaw and G. A. Twomley went out wounded. A. Campbell was killed.

Honorable Scars

Some of the boys will have more than "honorable scars" to remind them of the big "show." As the folks at home have heard by this time, the Military Medal was awarded, after the earlier August fighting to M. N. McDonald (Paisley), J. C. Campbell (Chesley), Lance Corporal D. J. McDonald (Ripley) and Lance-Corp. G. R. McDonald (Wiarton). Not so bad for the Macs and Campbells! But that is not all. Since the last battle, before this was written, more Bruce men have been recommended by Lieut.-Col. Sparling, D.S.O., for suitable awards. Their names are not yet public property but I am permitted to give an idea of how they conducted themselves in such a way as to be reported on their company commander.

One crawled out and dressed wounded men under heavy fire and brought them into place of safety.

A Lewis gunner when the remainder of his section became casualities carried the gun forward single handed, took up a position where he could enfilade the enemy and himself forced them to retire.

Another Lewis gunner took his gun forward and did great execution among the enemy.

Still another went out in No Man's Land with a patrol and got touch with the enemy, bringing back valuable information.

All these deeds in one day.

Just the kind of men that would be chosen for "battle stop" or traffic control duty. And that's how F. McDougall and "Mac" MacKinnon came to be attached to the division-al staff. And that brings us around to big "Mac" where he started.

Keep your eyes on the men from Bruce. They won't remain privates or even corporals, and the sprinkling of medal ribbons will grow, even before this is read. The good Scotch-Canadian blood spilt on French soil has already been avenged, but the Hun will have to pay the account over and over again.

In the meantime, I'm speculating on the havoc these wounded will be creating among the nurses in hospitals down the line in Blighty. Good-looking, husky lads, those from Bruce.

A Popular Play.

Mrs. Mickle is to be congratulated on the success attending the production of her war drama, "The Thronging of Democracy" given to a large and appreciative audience in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening of last week. The play is an historical synopsis of of the present great war from its inception and through the dark days of German success until the tide turns and the German forces are turned back. History and literature are more impressively taught by the drama than other ways and the amount of reading and arrangement necessary for this resume of the war entailed a great amount of work on the authoress.—The Chesley Enterprise.

KILLED

With Acknowledgments to Luke Fildes, R.A.

TO every home there comes a time when every thought, every hope, every prayer for the future centres on the recovery of one loved one. In that hour of anguish, every means to recovery is sought—the highest medical skill, trained nurses, costly treatment. Does the price matter?

It may be so great as to stagger the imagination—a sum beyond the possible.

But does anyone ask, "Can we do it?" Money or no money, they do it. And somehow they pay.

It may mean doing without things they think they need. It may mean privations, sacrifices, hardships. They make unbelievable savings, they achieve the impossible, but they get the money to pay.

\+ + +

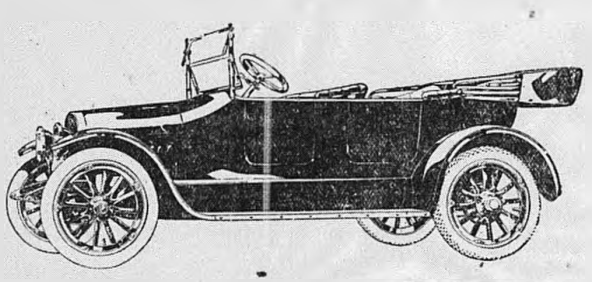
To-day in this critical period of our nationhood, there is imperative need for MONEY—vast sums of money. Only one way now remains to obtain it.

The nation must save, every community, every family, every individual Canadian must save.

If anyone says "I cannot save" let him consider to what extent he would pinch himself to relieve the sufferings of a loved one at home; and surely he would not pinch less for our fighting brothers in France.

Without suffering actual privations, nearly every family in Canada can reduce its standard of living, can practice reasonable thrift, can make cheerful sacrifice to enrich the life-blood of the nation.

You who read this, get out pencil and paper NOW. Set down the items of your living expense. Surely you will find some items there you can do without.



Determine to do without them.

Start TO-DAY. Save your money so that you may be in a position to lend it to your country in its time of need.

Lucknow Pupil Wins

The uncertainty of who had won the Halliday medal given each year to the Entrance pupil taking the highest mark in Bruce County, has been settled in favor of Bessie Murdie of the Lucknow class. The nearest competitor was Marion McAsh of Tara. This is the fifth time that a Lucknow student has won the Halliday medal—a very creditable showing for the school.

Doing Men's Work

In Port Rowan women are doing men's work with the nets, women are working on the farms in the surrounding country. They are in our banks and our stores and everywhere. Last week the foreman of the Long Point drillers crossed over to the United States to look for men, and found women climbing the telephone poles as linemen, women were busy on the railways taking the place of section men, they were everywhere except in blacksmith shops where horses are shod. Nature has so qualified women that they can do any work. When the war is over they will compete with men and drive them from many fields in which they have entrenched for centuries. The professions have been open to them for many years but they have not made progress in them. But when they become masters of the plough, the spade and the crowbar, they will conquer. Then they will win back the privilege which they lost in civilization, the exalted right of providing for their masters.—Port Rowan News.

HELP FIGHT YOUR COUNTRY'S BATTLES

Are you saving money for Victory? That's the question that has to be answered one way or the other. Are you doing anything at all to help fight your country's battles?

Surely it is time to wake up. What counts is the decision to do things. If you start a saving fund of your own, that settles it, you are on the patriotic side. Your efforts count. If not, you might as well be a spendthrift enemy!

Now is the time to act. Either you are a patriot doing your bit by saving your funds, or you are an enemy, disregarding the call of your country and your boys, whose lives are going out at a tremendous rate in Flanders just now.

It is not too late to begin. Save for Victory.

"DONTS" TO HELP REDUCE FIRE LOSS

Fire Chief McCartney offers the following list of don'ts for the citizens to observe in order to help along the work of the Fire Protection League and make the Fire Prevention Day (to-day) a real and valuable institution:

In case of fire, call the fire department. In the meantime use the appliances you have for extinguishing fires. The "Don'ts":

Don't allow trash, rubbish, etc., to accumulate under stairways, in the basement, attic or yard.

Don't under any circumstances leave the current on your electric iron when not in use.

Keep all dust clothes and oily rags in an iron receptacle fitted with a tight cover.

Don't keep gasoline, benzine, etc., or any inflammable liquid in an open receptacle.

Don't allow obstructions of any kind in the corridors or around exits to fire escapes.

Don't neglect to inspect the fire extinguishers, hose or stand pipes, etc., keeping same easily accessible and ready for use at all times.

Don't allow smoking in any part of the building.

Don't hang the electric light cords over nails, hooks, gas pipes, etc.

Don't neglect to have chemicals of an explosive nature kept in proper receptacles and carefully guarded.

Always remember that "preparedness" is the keystone of efficient fire prevention and fire protection.

George Cooke Wounded

Mrs. George Gould had word this week that her grandson, George Cooke of Toronto, had been wounded in the neck and wrist with gunshot on October 3rd. George went Overseas about two years ago and was with the Canadian Artillery in France. His father has cabled for further particulars. His only brother, Verner, is also in a Military Hospital in France, recovering from a gunshot wound in the hip. His sister, Nursing Sister, Nan Cooke, is on the staff of a British Hospital at Salonika.

Down In Lower Province

Major Henderson, who arrived home last week from a trip taken in company with his friend, Frank Smith, to his old home in Huntington, Que. says that section of country has profited greatly from the dairying industry. Although the land is not to be compared to Bruce in fertility, the farmers have been reaping fortunes from selling cream to evaporating plants. There have, of course, been numerous changes since the Major left that neighborhood but a few of the lads that he used to go to school with are still there and many an hour was spent in recalling old times. The Major's oldest brother, who lives at Rockburn, is still active at eighty-two years.

Moving To Aurora

Mr. P. J. Scanlan, C. P. R. Conductor, left this week for Aurora to take over the run from Aurora to Cataract. Mrs. Scanlan and family will follow as soon as a house can be secured. While the new run is a more desirable one, it means something of a tug for P. J. to pull away again from the old home town to which he came back and settled down a year or so ago. Mr. Scanlan was born on the fine old homestead on the South Line West now owned by his brother, John, and all his old youthful associations are centred around Brant and Walkerton. The removal of Mr. and Mrs. Scanlan and family will be much regretted by their very many friends here. Their elder son Ambrose, who is home from Chicago at present, is leaving shortly to join the American Forces.

BARBER—ISM

In Walkerton a hair-cut under the new prices costs only a quarter. In some towns where the price has advanced to 35 and 50 cents there has been some kicking; and a writer in a Hartford Conn., paper is prompted to make a suggestion that barbers' charges should be based on time consumed instead of a flat rate for each job.

The suggestion is sensible; and the closer one examines it, the more sensible it appears. As things are at present, a hair-cut is a hair-cut. It does not matter whether the subject—patient—victim—or whatever else you might call him—anybody, the fellow getting the hair-cut has a nap like a modern Absalom or a Buffalo Bill, or only a sparse fringe around his ears and the neck. It's a hair-cut whether it takes five minutes or twenty-five; and the charge is the same. True, the man with te the fringe may feel flattered at being charged as much as the chap with the hyacinthine locks; but it does not look right to the casual observer that the barber should get no more for the one than the other.

Same with shaves. One chap wants to be gone all over—chin, cheeks, and upper lip—while another may wear side-burns and a moustache. Or A. may have a beard like a wire, guaranteed to put any razor out of commission, while B's may be soft. Yet A. and B. pay the same.

It isn't fair, now is it? Why couldn't it be worked on a time basis—let the customer buy so much time, and have the say as to how it should be used.

We have not consulted the barbers. They may figure that every shave or hair-cut works out about the same, that it takes about as much time and trouble to find something to work on on the bald head or the downy chin as to loop off the Buffalo Bill mop or the wire beard. But even if that be the case they are entitled to something for the extra wear and tear on tools. It's worth considering, anyhow.

High School Notes

(Written for the Telescope)

Under the energetic supervision of Mr. Robb an athletic association was formed by the boys of the school. A couple of baseballs were purchased with funds subscribed by the members and, later, a good football was bought also. The boys have a game each night and up to the present, the third and fourth forms have proved superior to anything the other two forms can produce.

The Cadet Corps has been thoroughly reorganized by the instructor, Mr. Robb. The boys have been in training since the term commenced, and are gradually getting into form. The names of the officers, who will be appointed in the near future, will be announced later.

The girls amuse themselves with baseball, basketball and tennis. In basketball, four teams have been organized; reds, blues, greens and yellows. The reds, who play against the blues, have for this last week been winning with almost clock-like regularity. As for the other pair, the yellows seem to annex most points. The first form girls find diversion in baseball, and they are usually in evidence on the Armoury grounds.

The High School Patriotic Society has elected its officers for the coming year: Aileen McCool as secretary and William Ramsey as treasurer. Under the capable direction of the president, the society has raised over three hundred and fifty dollars by collections of papers and holding fonds such as the Red Cross, Navy, and Belgian Relief. Teh students will soon begin the collections of papers again; and they hope the citizens of the town and surrounding districts will help them, as they have done in the past.

Honors For Walkerton Doctor

Dr. Malcolm Stalker has been notified by the Board of Regents of the American College of Surgeons that the highest academic distinction in America,— Fellowship in the American College—is to be conferred on him. Dr. Stalker will be entitled to use the letters F. A. C. S. which is the American equivalent to F. C. S. in Great Britain. Convocation for the conferring of degrees will be held at New York on October 25th.

BRUCE PREP. LEAGUE

Mr. Frank Rennie Objects To Major Moffat Cashing in on Expense Accounts Which Never Reach Executive

President W. D. Cargill of the Bruce Preparedness League was prevailed upon to withdraw his resignation at the joint meeting of the executive and Land Scheme committee held here last week.

The President mentioned in the course of the afternoon several expense accounts from Major Moffat which he had paid out of the $1500 Bruce Batt'n money which the Major had turned over to him after his return to England. One account was$40 for Mrs. Moffat, for services in England. Mr.Frank Rennie raised objection of this-way of doing business but no other comment was made.

The formal minutes of the meeting as supplied us by the Secretary, Mr. McNab, are as follows:—

Minutes of joint meeting held at the Town Hall, October 1st, 1918. Members present, Messrs. W. D. Cargill, C. J. Mickle, B. M. Jermyn, Frank Rennie, John Rowland, Gilbert Chaltle, Wm. McDonald, W. D. Bell, A. E. McNab and Major Moffat.

The Secretary read resignation of President Mr. Cargill. After discussion Mr. Cargill was prevailed upon to reconsider his resignation and withdraw same which he eventually did.

The President then occupied the chair. The minutes of the meeting of August 19th., 1918, were read, confirmed and signed by chairman. The report of the soldiers delegation was read. President called upon Major Moffat for report of subsequent events. Major Moffat outlined the steps that had been taken to date.

Moved by Mr. McNab, seconded by W. D. Bell—That Messrs. Mickle and Jermyn be a committee to act with Major Moffat and a committee of two soldiers to formulate the principles on which the scheme is to be carried out. —Carried.

Major Moffat further reported the League with regard to the carrying out of the farming scheme.

Moved by Mr. Mickle, seconded by Mr. Wm. McDonald. —That the Chairman of League write the Minister that the Committee of League has had this matter under consideration and have decided to proceed with the scheme.

Brilliant Young Officer

We notice by Friday's Mail & Empire that a young Toronto officer Lt.-Col. J. Bartlett Rogers, who is a nephew of Mr. C. H. Rogers of Walkerton, has received further promotion. Col. Rogers who is only in his thirtieth year has had a brilliant career in France. He left Canada with the 1st. Contingent in 1914 as a sub-lieutenant. He has been in most of the famous fights including Festubert, Ypres, Givenchy and many others. Recently he was promoted in the Field to the command of the 3rd. Battalion.

Jim Stalker Home

Dr. Stalker's youngest son, Malcolm E. J. Stalker, arrived home from France on the late train Tuesday night, after having spent the last six months in a Military hospital "Jim" enlisted with the 4th. Div. Cyclists in Feb. 1916, after completing his B.A. course at Toronto University. He was with the Reserve Cyclist Corps in England for a considerable time and after they were broken up last year he went to France with an infantry unit. In March last he was injured in France and underwent an operation for a removal of a portion of a rib. Ever since he has been in the hospital and his recovery has been slow. His many friends here trust that with rest and quiet he will at no distant date recover his wonted good health. Jim will report at Toronto in two weeks, but will in all probability be let at home to recuperate.

The Telescope's New Linotype

Latest Model Typesetting Machine is a Magic Worker

A machine that is "almost human" is the latest 1918 model Linotype typesetting machine that has been installed by the Telescope. This machine which does away with ordinary type, casts a solid line of type, being operated from a keyboard like a typewriter. Directly in response to the operator's touch on the keyboard, small molds are assembled and a solid line of type cast from metal kept hot in an electric melting pot. After the paper has been printed, the metal, instead of being distributed letter by letter into the case by hand, is tossed back into the pot and melted over and over again from week to week thus making a big saving in time. It is indeed a marvellous piece of mechanism, as anyone who has seen it will agree. It will enable the Telescope to take much better care of jobwork. Rush work can be handled with greater facility and the great capabilities of the machine will make it possible to carry more newsmatter. Prior to the advent of the linotype, a machine to set type was the dream of inventors from the time when the printing business first began to assume a position of importance among the trades.

Most of the mechanical contrivances invented along these lines turned out to be utter failures, while the operation of such machines as were perfected to a point where they would actually set type, was found to be entirely too expensive. The Mergenthaler Linotype was the first commercially successful composing machine, and is to-day the standard everywhere.

This latest Model Linotype which costs upwards of $2500 installed, is the fastest and most effective typesetting machine on the market, no operator having reached the limit of its capacity though setting as high as twenty-five columns a day.

Besides having an immense capacity, it also does better work than hand set matter, each edition of the paper from week to week being printed from new clean-cut type.

"FLU" AT MILDMAY

Scores of Cases In Neighbouring Village — Schools and Churches Closed

The Spanish "flu" epidemic has got as far as Mildmay on its march up this way and various cases are reported through the country sections. There is quite a lot of grippe in Walkerton just now but the doctors have not yet identified it as the Spanish variety.

The outstanding characteristics of the Spanish "flu" seem to be it usually starts with a head-ache which runs down the back and has some effect on the nervous system, and has a predisposition towards pneumonia. But it really differs very little from ordinary grippe.

At Mildmay there are scores of cases and many citizens notably, Jake Lobsinger and Wm. F. Wendt have been very sick with it. On Tuesday a fourteen old lad, Louis Privat, died and last week a Mildmay young lady died of the disease at Hamilton, having been brought home for burial. The schools and churches are closed. And the County Sunday School convention which was to have been held to-day at Mildmay has been postponed.

A number of cases are also reported at Formosa and other points through the country.

Earl Devlin and Pte. Douglas Bates, who met death recently on the field of honor. The pastor of the church,
Rev. J. A. Jackson, made tender references to the manliness, courage and patriotism displayed by the boys, and noted the pathetic circumstances of Pte. Bates' case, he being a Bernardo boy, and there was no
"little cottage" where he would be especially mourned and missed. The Hanover Methodist church has an honor roll of 26 names of members of the church who are serving their country at the front, seven of whom have made the great sacrifice. Their names are Corporal Selkirk Wilson,

BRANT AVENUE

Judging by the length of time that this Avenue has been without news in this paper, it almost seemed as if the correspondent had eloped but such isn't the case.

Surely nobody grumbles about it being so dry as they did a little over 2 month ago, as this long continuous wet spell has satisfied that part, while on the other hand it's too wet for certain jobs. Some say more rain means more rest for the hired man.

A few of the young gents who were in town Sat. night without their Registration Papers were haled before the Police Magistrate on Monday morning through one of the Dominion Military Police who is looking after that game.

On Saturday afternoon last Mr Andrew Waechter nearly lost his entire barn, contents, piggery, and over 2 days threshing, as some sparks from a threshing engine in operation started to burn a large hole into one corner of the barn roof and nearly made its way into the straw in the mow when some lively moving men of the crew put out the blaze with their hats and coats etc. This mishap stopped threshing for the day. A close call for the Fire Insurance Co.

We Are As Full of Deadly Poisons As A Germ Laboratory.

AUTO-INTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Absolutely Prevents This Dangerous Condition.

The chief cause of poor health is our neglect of the bowels. Waste matter, instead of passing from the lower intestine regularly every day, is allowed to remain there, generating poisons which are absorbed by the blood.

In other words, a person who is habitually constipated, is poisoning himself. We know now that Auto-intoxication, due to non-action of the bowels, is directly responsible for serious Kidney and Bladder Troubles; that it upsets the Stomach, causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Sleeplessness; that chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Pain In The Back, are relieved as soon as the bowels become regular; and that Pimples, Rashes, Eczema and other Skin Affections disappear when "Fruit-a-tives" are taken to correct Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" will protect you against Auto-Intoxication because this wonderful fruit medicine acts directly on all the eliminating organs.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Doing His Part.

"And so you have been getting married, Sam?"

"Yes, sah, I dun got married."

"And did you go on a honeymoon trip, Sam?"

"What's dat, sah?"

"Why, a trip. Did you travel?"

"Oh, yes, sah, I traveled."

"Where did you go to, Sam?"

"Why, I went to de neighbors' houses an' do washin' what my wife was to do, sah."

A Serious Apprehension.

"I don't suppose the telephone operator at central will ever speak to me again," exclaimed Grenadie Eglem with characteristic gloom.

"What's the trouble?"

"From the way she spoke just now, I'm almost sure I called her in the middle of her knitting and made her drop a stitch."

Turned Up at Times.

Mrs. Flatbush—Where did your neighbor's little girl get her turned-up nose from?

Mrs. Bensonhurst—From her mother.

"Why, her mother hasn't a turned-up nose."

"Hasn't she! I guess you never saw her when she lost at bridge."

Wasted Smokes.

"Don't you think the money you spend for cigars is wasted?" asked the sweet young thing.

"Some of it is, dear," replied the "steady."

"Some of it?"

"That's it. I always find a couple of busted ones in my vest pocket after I've spent an evening with you, dear."

HARD LUCK

"Did I ever bring you back your ladder that you lent me a week ago?"

"No; you certainly did not."

"I'm sorry, for I just stopped in to borrow it again."

Obeying Orders.

"See, here, daughter, didn't I tell you that young man of yours must keep early hours when he calls?"

"He does, pa. He never leaves later than 1 a. m. Could he keep any earlier hours?"

Better Without.

"I asked her to kiss me, without avail."

"You were right to stipulate that. Kissing through a veil spoils half the fun."

In the Library.

The Jewels Now.

"Did they break into a jewelry store?"

"No; into a coal shed."

Good Reason for Laughing.

"What's the matter with that guy? When I told him of the hundreds of people who couldn't get street cars, he chuckled and chuckled."

"Oh, he owns a taxicab line."

Various Stages.

"Do you know what are the degrees of a stingy man's married life?"

"I should say they were matrimony, parsimony, testimony and alimony."

Town and District

Teachers' Convention, today and tomorrow.

One of the boys in the trenches who evidently has been greatly troubled by "cooties", says he knows now why the pictures of Napoleon always show him with his hand inside his shirt!

Fun is being poked at The Chicago Tribune for announcing, when Nazareth was taken from the Turks, that the British had captured the birthplace of Christ. A Denver paper did better in the headline, "British Capture Christ's Home Town."

Two small boys who had grown weary of their game, were arguing rather heatedly regarding a new form of amusement. At last one of them was struck with a sudden inspiration, and said to the other: "I know!" Let's see who can make the ugliest face." "Gowan!" replied his chum. "What d' yuh mean by it? Look what a start you've got!"

Blind But Busy

Mrs. Reynolds, a Goderich grandma, who is 82 years of age, and has been blind since the first year of the war, has knitted 756 pairs of socks for soldiers since February 1st, 1915, until August 30th, of this year. She is the mother of Sheriff R. G. Reynolds of Huron county, and is very highly esteemed. Greatly treasured by Mrs. Reynolds is a gracious letter from Her Majesty Queen Mary, thanking her for her patriotic work, accomplished under such trying circumstances.

When Daddy Washes Dishes

In these days when the maid-servant has departed to the munition works or the hospital no right minded man will, says the N. Y. Outlook, object to sharing the household tasks with his wife, at least to the extent of wiping the dishes. If there be any recalcitrants, this passage of the Bible may be read them incidentally it indicates the masculine procedure in the art of dish-wiping according to the Hebrews: "I will wipe Jerusalem as a man wipeth a dish, wiping it, and turning it upside down." (2 Kings xxi. 13.)

Died On Service

Mr. S. Ballachey of Paisley, received the sad news that his son, Dr. Fred A. Ballachey, of Buffalo, had died at Fort Dix military camp in New Jersey. The deceased was over here in June last visiting his father and friends. He had volunteered for service in the army, as soon as the U. S. had declared war, and when he arrived home from this trip to Canada he received his notice to report for duty. Being a dentist by profession he was called upon to serve in that capacity, and he felt a large and lucrative practice in the city of Buffalo.

Reeve Christie's Son

The Port Elgin Times makes the following reference to the soldier son of Reeve Gilbert Christie of Saugeen, who was killed in action: Pte. Christie was teaching at Sundridge when the call of duty came to him, and he came back to his old home in Saugeen and joined with the 160th. in the Spring of 1916. He trained with the battalion until this present Spring when it was disbanded, and the boys went to France with other units. Oliver was a splendid type of young man, and his death is regretted. He was educated in Port Elgin high school and was making good progress in his teaching. He was greatly interested in the young people's work of his church. Even when in the grim task of preparing for war, he never forgot his "little white church in the country," and laid aside his contributions regularly for the carrying on of the work of the Master in Dunblane church. Two letters had been received by his parents here last week, which showed him to be in good spirits and in the best health. Oliver was 22 years of age in July. During his two years' training in England he took an opportunity to attend a soldiers' university during his spare hours. He had decided that if he returned to Canada he would take a university course.

BEST CARTOONS GET $50 BOND

In connection with the coming Victory Loan campaign, the Dominion Press News and Feature Committee announces a cartoon contest. Artists are invited to submit sketches suitable for a two-column engraving, which will be judged on their merits as publicity calculated to assist in the selling of Victory Bonds. The committee offers a $50.00 bond of the new issue for the best cartoon. A number of cartoons will be awarded special mention. The cartoons submitted are to become the property of the committee and a nominal fee will be paid for any that are used in the campaign.

Mr. C. F. Crandall, managing editor of the Montreal Star, and the editor of Victory Loan National Press News and Feature Service will be the judges.

The contest will close on October 15th and awards will be announced a few days later.

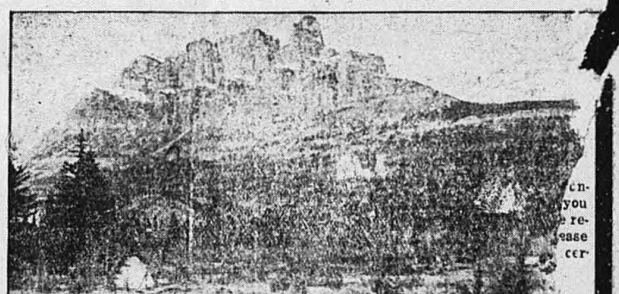
THE VALUE OF IRRIGATION

Irrigated Wheat, 1918, Brooks, Alberta.

Alfalfa, Brooks, Alberta, 1918.

THE finest crops in the country are to be seen on the irrigated land in Southern Alberta. This is a remark invariably made by those who have travelled through Western Canada. And there is no doubt that this remark is true if all the crops on irrigated land in Alberta are as good as those near Brooks. This is a small town on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, about a hundred miles from the city of Calgary, and the centre of one of the most fertile pieces of country on the continent. Though sparsely settled, it is estimated that a quarter of a million bushels of wheat will be harvested from irrigated lands in this district this year. Many fields will yield from thirty to forty bushels to the acre. While there is nothing extraordinary about yields of this kind, such being obtainable every year, the fields upon which water has been applied afford a very striking contrast to those to which no water has been applied. The summer having been exceptionally dry and hot has made the crops on non-irrigated land in this territory in some cases almost a total failure. But where water has been applied healthy crops will not only remunerate the farmer for his labor and the capital invested in his land, but will also help to fill the Allies' granaries.

It is not only the older settlers who have these large crops. South of Brooks a farmer who came to Alberta last fall had about two hundred acres sown to wheat on new breaking. Parts of it were irrigated in the fall and twice in the spring and summer. Here a yield of forty bushels to the acre is assured. Other parts which were irrigated twice this spring and summer but not at all last fall, should yield up to thirty-five bushels to the acre. Still other parts were irrigated once only, this year, and the yield will not be so good. Altogether this farmer's crop on two hundred acres should average about thirty-five bushels to the acre, the returns from which at present market prices being not at all bad for the first year's working. One of the best yields is that of a farmer who settled in Alberta not quite two years ago. This field consists of ninety acres of wheat which the owner anticipates will thresh out at forty bushels to the acre. Two brothers who came from Nebraska two years ago with very little capital expect to thresh from their crop of two hundred acres of wheat at least thirty bushels to the acre. Doubtless there are several other cases similar to these.



Large crops of oats, barley, all kinds of grasses, clovers and alfalfa are also to be seen on land where water has been applied. The diversity and abundance of the crops that can be grown here surprise one. It is not difficult to realize the immense boon water is. Grains, grasses, alfalfa, vegetables, small fruits yield bountiful crops under its magic spell. Assuming the farmer, as it does of remunerative crops every year, it will

The Lord of Castle Mountain

Castle Mountain in the Canadian Pacific Rockies.

THE early fall had come in the mountains. Hunting parties patrolled the valleys still green and untouched by frost. The lower slopes of the rising ground were dark with spruce, brightened here and there with the lighter green of poplar and willow. Higher still the spruce forests climbed in ever narrowing tails up the water fed notches, while here and there large patches of poplar gleaned golden yellow, for the frost was nipping things at six thousand feet.

Above the timber line the grey crags towered, their highest peaks and plateaus shining with the virgin brightness of the first snows. In the midst of the mountains, standing alone in seeming aristocratic exclusion, the colored be[illegible] of Castle Mountain reached heavenward above the timber. Castle Mountain is a freak of nature. For [illegible] hundred miles south there is none like it. To the north the range runs to the Arctic with no similar outcropping. Eastward to the prairies where the Dow[illegible] crashes down from the first [illegible] of the foothills it is not duplicated, but westward, fifteen or twenty miles, there first appear signs of similar formation. Castle Mountain is igneous rock thrust from the bowels of the earth by some fierce heat spasm of forgotten ages, thrust up in the midst of the former grey of sandstone and limestone formation of the first belt of the Canadian Rockies. On the edge of a sheer precipice a magnificent specimen of the Rocky Mountain sheep, or bighorn, nibbled daintily at some tender lichens. A shadow flitted across his eyes, but he paid no heed, for the lambs that were small in the spring were now well-grown and could take care of themselves should some bold eagle try to topple one off the ledges. The big buck had no worries therefor. The bears were down below fattening on berries; the wolves were in the timber getting good feed from among the partridges, rabbits and perhaps some wounded deer or moose. The precipice on which the sheep stood dropped sheer for some six hundred feet to the snow-covered rubble of the upper edges of the timber belt, stunted, scattered trees barely eking out a precarious existence where the rock walls started to climb. Away in the valley bottom a black dot crawled unheeded. It was a Canadian Pacific freight train laboring along from Banff to Lake Louise.

A man, rifle on back, crawled like a fly up a steep "chimney"; sweat dripped from his brow, his breath was labored; he crept slowly upwards, using hands and feet and sometimes his chin. Field glasses had told him the splendid buck was above and he wanted a shot at the king of the peaks. At last he reached the plateau and looked. There five hundred yards away on the further side of a canon, which it would take a half day to circle, stood the same placidly feeding. Nothing in concealment behind [illegible] breathing grew [illegible] strained muscles be[illegible] hunter adjusted his preliminary sight. NEWS ABOUT TOWN

The Town Council has appointed Solomon Possent teamster at $625. a year.

The Walkerton Egg and Dairy Co. has added another Ford motor truck to its equipment.

The contract for supplying bread to the House of Industry has been awarded to Mr. John O'Malley.

"A father said to his little son, who was naughty, 'Look here, Freddie, if you don't say your prayers you won't go to heaven.' 'I don't want to go to heaven', sobbed the little boy. 'I want to go with you and mother."

R. E. Truax M. P. was a visitor to our Fall Fair and was kept busy shaking hands with his supporters and some who were not. He says he never felt in better health and expects that if the war continues while the session is on there will be no acrimonious debates or serious divisions in the House of Commons.—Chesley Enterprise.

A Winnipeg girl was at a party the other night and someone started a new game. The game consisted in blindfolding the men and letting them catch the girls; those the men caught they had to kiss after taking off the bandage, or in default pay a fine of one dollar. The Winnipeg girl came home with thirty-two dollars and a Victory bond.

Good Year's Work

The annual meeting of the Carrick Red Cross Workers was held last Thursday evening when reports of the year's work were presented. The report of the treasurer, Mr. Geo. W. Scott, showed that the substantial sum of $632.60 had been raised during the year. The supplies made up by the busy band of women workers were as follows:—252 pairs socks, 37 pajama suits, 47 shirts, 3 Convalescent Robes, 3 Quilts, 24 Boxes to the Boys Overseas. The officers the past year were:—Pres., T. H. Hickling; Vice-Pres., Mrs. Geo. W. Scott; Treas., Geo. W. Scott; Secretary, Mrs. J. A. Hogg. It has been decided to change the organization into a chapter of the Daughters of The Empire and a charter has been applied for.

Nursing At Salonika

Mrs. George Gould had a letter last week from her grand-daughter, Nursing Sister Nan Cooke at Salonika, stating that she is fine, and comfortably situated. The new hospital she is in, is located in the mountains about ten miles from the city. It is a healthy, bracing climate, much different from the former hospitals down near the city. Salonika, which was the scene of much of the Apostle Paul's missionary work, is an interesting though dirty city. Many ancient churches are still there. Miss Cook had just graduated from Trinity University with the degree of M. A. when the war broke out. She immediately left for Overseas and for three years was in a large hospital in Old London. Last February she was chosen as one of a party of 60 nurses to go to Salonika and arrived there just in time to run into an old-fashioned snowstorm. At that time they were living in tents and went around in rubber boots. Conditions are in many respects ideal in the new hospital up in the mountains and Miss Cook describes herself as "just bursting with health". Both of Miss Cook's brothers are in Military hospitals in France recovering from wounds.

Mr. Hank Irwin left this week on a visit to the West.

The now familiar "Somewhere in France" receives elucidation at the hands of a British soldier after this fashion. "I am sorry that I cannot tell you where I am, because I am not allowed to say. But I venture to state that I am not where I was, but where I was before I left here to go where I have just come from."

A farmer in the Duart district who has corn from ten to fifteen feet high, says he will cut the stalks about three feet from the ground and then go over the field a second time and cut the buts off and pile them up for wood. He says that on account of the sugar in them they burn continuously, when dried, until reduced to ashes, and while you have to fire up oftener they give good satisfaction.

Mrs. Hugh Threndyle had word from her husband this week that he is nicely recovering from his wound and is now in a convalescent hospital.

Mr. Ambrose Scanlan, eldest son of Mr. P. J. Scanlan, returned home last week from Chicago where he has been the past year. He intends returning to Chicago shortly to join Uncle Sam's forces for Overseas.

Makes Good Impression

Rev. J. E. McCauley preached his first sermons as pastor of the Goderich Baptist church on Sunday last. The new minister is a young man of prepossessing appearance and manner, a good pulpit speaker, and evidently a student and thinker. He has been in the Baptist ministry for six years, four and a half years of which were spent at Glamis, in the County of Bruce. Educationally he is a product of Port Elgin high school, Owen Sound Collegiate Institute, Stratford Normal School and McMaster University, Toronto. His ordination took place June 7th last at Glamis.—Goderich Signal.

POETS, ATTENTION!

The Dominion Press News and Feature Committee of the Victory Loan 1918 organization announces a poem contest in connection with the campaign. Canadians with poetical talent are invited to submit offerings not exceeding 200 words, which will be judged largely on their effectiveness as publicity designed to persuade Canadians to buy Victory Bonds. A prize of a $50.00 bond of the new issue will be awarded for the best poem submitted. The next mention and $5.00 will be paid for those which the committee decides to use in the course of the campaign. Professor M. W. Wallace of the Toronto University and the editor of the Victory Loan National Press News and Feature Service will be the judges.

The committee offers to supply information concerning the urgency of the situation necessitating the coming loan, to all contestants who may apply to the committee's office, 18 King Street West, Toronto.

The contest closes on October 15 th., and awards will be announced a few days later.

AUTUMN

(Written by the late Lieut. Les Young of Cargill.)

The leaves are falling from the trees
And floating in the Autumn Breeze
Softly to the ground
The children play mid holy deep
In many a gaudy coloured heap.

The brooks are laden in the wood
The water sparkles through its hood
Of gorgeous colored leaves
And soughing through the maple trees
And rippling up the brook the breeze
The little birds bereaves.

The ground looks pretty 'neath its mat
Of nature's tinted pictures that
So soon will wilt away
We pay the price for beauty now
Alas; when we remember how it ushers stormy days.

The gazer looks ahead and sees
The barren shivering lonesome trees
Their rattling boughs he hears
The soughing breeze prognosticates
That winter follows in their wake
To change from "echon" to drear.

He sees that Nature has extremes
As well as fickle human beings
It brings its woes with joy
That it is not so drear.
But he determines while its here,
To think not of the winter
But present scenes enjoy.

Asked to Co-operate

The churches of the province are to be asked to co-operate in conserving the available coal supplies. The new Fuel Controller, R. Home Smith, has already laid before representative clergymen of all denominations a suggestion that church services be curtailed or combined in a way that will effect a saving of fifty to sixty per cent. in the consumption of coal. The controller believes that two or three churches can arrange to hold their services in the one building and that where union services are not favored the congregation can meet at different times in the one building.

More Trouble For Wiarton

The Wiarton Echo says: Out of the sale of the liquid assets of the Canada Casket Co., there is likely to arise a lawsuit for taxes on that institution for 1918. It will be remembered that the town cannot obtain a title of the building and plant for six months. As the title remains with the company, the town maintains they should pay the taxes and the collector was notified to levy on the liquid assets. In the meantime these had been sold, and the parties who purchased them take the position that having bought them at a Sheriff's sale that the goods should come to them free of incumberance. Collector Acheson knew what to do; he was not going to allow the goods out of the building whereupon the buyers gave him a bond guaranteeing that they would see that he suffered no personal loss in the matter. The suit, if any, will be between the town of Wiarton and R. Young, and the amount of money in question is about $1100.

DIED OF WOUNDS

LT. LEWIS HONEY, D.C.M. M.M.

Brilliant young graduate of Walkerton High School, enlisted here as a private, won the Distinguished Conduct Medal, Military Medal and his Commission on the Battlefield.

AN OUTSTANDING PUPIL

Bright Career Was Cut Short in Lewis Honey's Death In France

Word reached here on Thursday last that Lieut. Lewis Honey, a graduate of Walkerton High School, had died of wounds in France. Lewis attended School here in 1912—13, when his father, Rev. Geo. Honey, was Methodist minister at Southampton. He was a young man of outstanding ability and was regarded by his teachers as one with bright career ahead. After passing his Honor Matriculation examination, he taught for a short time near Toronto with a view to attending University later on. When the call to arms was sounded throughout Canada, Lewis returned to Walkerton and enlisted as a Private in the 34th Batt'n. When the 34th was broken up in England, he went to France as a Sergeant with the 79th Batt'n. His record on the battle front is worthy of the fine type of young Canadian manhood that he was. His gallantry on the Field won the Military Medal, and later the Distinguished Conduct Medal and was granted a commission with the rank of lieutenant.

It is recalled by former students of the High School that two students who took leading rolls, Lew Young as Touchstone, and Lewis Honey as Orlando, have been killed in action, and all the other boys in the caste without exception are in khaki. These include:— Herb Henderson, Crawford Skelton, Viv McKechnie, Mell Wilson, Oscar Schwindt, Russel Hermeston, Wilfred Yack.

He was taken to the hospital where Miss Ruth Robertson is matron, for an operation and was later removed to a hospital at Limoges, France. It is probable that he will have a stiff knee for a long time.

V. A. D'S. ON THE JOB

Walkerton Volunteer Nurses Will Open Diet Kitchen and Nurse Flu Patients—Enlist The Support of Town Council.

Wherever the Flu epidemic lights it seems to strike everybody in the household. This makes it difficult for patients to be waited on. It is of course impossible to get nurses. There are few if any cases of real Spanish Flu in Walkerton yet but our local V. A. D's. are already for emergencies. These young ladies have recently completed a course in home nursing, first aid and seven of them have volunteered their services as nurses in town. Four more have volunteered to act if the situation becomes serious.

Mrs. W. M. Shaw, President of the V.A.D. and Miss Florence Rowland waited upon the Town Council Monday night and enlisted the support and co-operation of the Town Father in a scheme to help meet the Flu situation.

The scheme includes the opening of a diet kitchen, in the Tea Room premises, where with the assistance of the Tea Room girls, soups, junkets, and other dishes used in the sick room will be made up. The V.A.D's. are to receive 25c. an hour for their services and in the case of indigent citizens, the bill will be paid by the town.

The Town's part in the scheme is embodied in the following motion passed by the Council Monday night:

Leitner—George— that the Council make a grant of $30 to Mrs. Shaw as President of the V.A.D. nurses to assist in nursing and diet Kitchen and the nurses be paid 35c. per hour when nursing indigent patients to be paid by the Doctor and the Doctor's account to be handed in to the Council by 30 days after the patient is out and that the Mayor and Reeve be a committee to get a suitable room for the nurses for disinfection purposes.

Death Of Harry Cousins

Walkerton friends learned with deep regret last week of the sad bereavement which befell Mr. and Mrs. James Cousins, formerly of this town, in the death of their youngest son Harry. Harry had been working at Tara when he was taken ill and succumbed in a few days to pneumonia. Besides his sorrowing parents, five sisters and one brother survive. They are:—Ed. of Toronto, Tillie, Eva, and Martha of Paris, Myrtle and Gladys of Stratford.

Death Of Roy Ridley

Mrs. Joseph Wallace received a telegram on Saturday morning informing her that her son-in law, Mr. R. Ridley of Paris, was dangerously ill with pneumonia, following an attack of Spanish Influenza. Mrs. Wallace took the first train for Paris but before her arrival he had passed away. Besides his wife, formerly Miss Le Ette Wallace to whom deep sympathy is extended in her sad loss, he leaves two small children. The funeral took place at Paris on Monday.

Chief's Son Dangerously Wounded

Chief Ferguson had had news yesterday regarding his son, Sergt. Robt. Ferguson of the 75th. Sutherland Highlanders, the oldest of his three sons on the firing line, who has been in the thick of the fighting the past two years. One message dated October 4th., stated that Bob had been dangerously wounded by shrapnel in the arm and side. One arm had been amputated and his left leg was partially paralized. A later wire dated 9th., said he was seriously ill. The latest wire from his daughter, Nursing Sister Annie Ferguson, says that Bob is a little improved. Miss Ferguson is at Kitchener Hospital, Brighton, Eng. and the Chief takes from the wording of her cable the comforting assurance that she is nursing her brother.

EAST BRUCE TEACHERS

Hold Their Annual Convention At Walkerton and Hear Several Inspiring and Helpful Addresses by Experts on School Problems

The teachers of East Bruce met in annual convention at Walkerton Thursday and Friday, October 10th and 11th. After opening exercises in which all took part, reading of minutes, and treasurer's report, Misses Halliday and Lamb were appointed auditors in the absence of Miss Armstrong who had left the inspectorate. Miss Latimer of Hepworth read the report of the delegates to the Ontario Teachers' Convention at Easter.

H. G. Martyn B.A. of Stratford Normal School, gave a most excellent and suggestive address on "The teacher's relation to the play-life of Children." It would be impossible to do justice to the address in a short space, but Mr. Martyn shewed how the Greeks excelled in physical and mental development in beauty of face and form because emphasis was placed more on the playground than on the school building. The 320 preparatory schools of England had unsurpassed playgrounds which helped in making sturdy English character and enabled the English soldier in the present war to "play the game." All teachers were urged to encourage children to play and also to organize the plays of the pupils.

Mr. Thomas Rankin, principal of Walkerton Public School, sang very finely a Scotch song which showed how the boys and girls played in "Auld Lang Syne."

A program of excellent addresses filled the afternoon of Thursday from 1.45 to 4.45 after which the lady teachers formed a federation of East Bruce Women teachers, to be federated with the Women teachers of Ontario. Miss Jennie Stead being elected president and Miss Katherine Schwalm, Mildmay, Secretary-Treasurer. Miss Stead gave a very good address on the subject and claimed that women teachers being by far more numerous than men should have at least, the same consideration. All the teachers, men and women alike, showed hearty sympathy with Miss Stead. The President, Mr. Willoughby, in his address showed the importance of the teacher's calling referring to the fact that many of the teachers had instructed so many brave soldiers that had paid the sacrifice for their country.

Mr. T. J. Wallace principal of the French Bay Indian School, gave an eloquent and instructive address on Indian Education giving some difficulties in the way of the Indian child, and showing the thorough and sympathetic supervision of the Indian Department at Ottawa. Besides the eloquence, the teachers very much appreciated the spice of humor running through the address of Mr. Wallace.

Mr. Martyn of Stratford taught a fine lesson words in ing to a class supplied by Mr. Rankin. He drew all information needed from the class regarding the four parts of peach illustrated in the lesson—the noun, verb, participle, and infinitive. Mr. Martyn gave some very good advice regarding teaching of Grammar by using concrete forms and the blackboard to a much greater extent than at present A very profitable discussion on Grammar followed by Messrs. Rankin, Willoughby and Norton.

The teachers all took part in singing "The Maple Leaf" and Mr. Rankin sang a fine patriotic song entitled "The English, Irish, and Scotch."

Mr. J. T. Kidd closed the session with an exceedingly practical and illuminating talk on "How to secure speed and accuracy in the teaching of Arithmetic."

On Friday morning, Rev. C. W. Cosens very kindly opened the convention with a reading from Scripture and all joined in the Lord's Prayer. A very excellent address by Mr. Cosens followed showing that there was much in common between the calling of preacher and teacher. He showed the importance of the teacher being master of himself before being able to properly control pupils. The address was much appreciated by all the teachers. Entrance History was introduced very thoroughly by Mr. Willoughby, followed by an interesting discussion in which Sister Petranda of Mildmay, Mr. Kidd, and the Inspector took part.

Friday afternoon was devoted mainly to business matters and election of officers, but a resolution that the government should require trustees to pay expenses of teachers to convention was passed unanimously. The officers elected for 1919 were:—President, T. J. Wallace, Principal French Bay Indian School; Vice-President, Miss Cassie Pollock, Chesley; Secretary, Miss Annie Thompson, Walkerton; Treasurer and Librarian, John McCool; Delegate to Ontario Educational Association, Miss A. R. Tugman, Principal of Tara Public School.

A pleasing feature of the Convention was the attendance at all the Sessions of Separate School Sisters and teachers, some 20 or more being present.

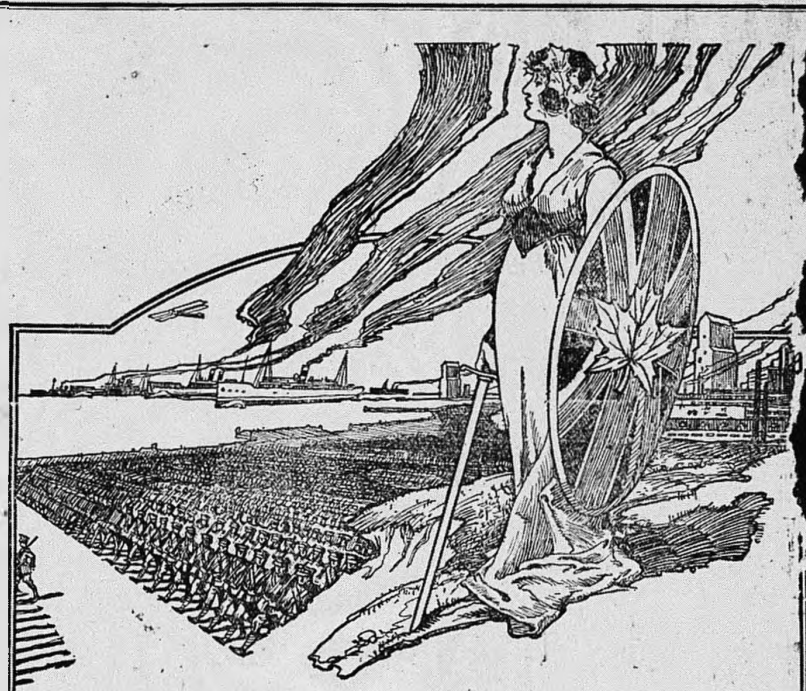
Dr. Johnston's splendid lecture on Thursday evening and the entertainment of music and recitations are all worthy of a special report.

WHAT 1918 VICTORY LOAN MEANS TO CANADA

What the 1918 Victory Loan means to Canada can best be realized by a knowledge of what the 1917 Loan made possible. The subscribing of over $400,000,000 by the Canadian people in 1917 enabled the Dominion Government not only to take care of the needs of the army, but also to make substantial advance to various industries which has resulted in unprecedented prosperity.

Since the beginning of the present year Canada's war expenditures has been averaging over $30,000,000 a month. It has grown heavier as the army overseas has increased in numbers and especially since the beginning of the great Allied offensive early in August. To date about 590,000 men have enrolled in the Expeditionary Forces, the number that has gone overseas being fully 415,000. To-day there are 50,000 more Canadians overseas than there was at the end of 1917. All means heavier war bills, and the greater need for the new Victory Loan.

Canadians hardly realize what a strong impetus their large subscription to the Victory Loan imparted to business. It enables the Government to make advances in industries without which the $400,000,000 subscribed would have been impossible. Great Britain wanted our beef, bacon, cheese, wheat, hay, oats and munitions; but she could not pay cash for them. Canada could borrow abroad the money she want ed so if she were to sell her surplus products, she had to give credits to Britain and advance the money for the purchases.



During the present year the Imperial Munitions Board has received from the Dominion Government advances amounting to $25,000,000 a month. Through an advance of $10,000,000 made by the Government the Board was able to give orders for the building of 44 wooden-ships. Another advance of $1,000,000, enabled the Board to begin the manufacturing of airplanes, of which 3,000 have been produced in one of the Board's great plants.

The 1917 Victory Loan made possible the advancing of $100,000,000 to finance the sale of our 1917 crop. $100,000,000 was similarly advanced to finance the sale of our exportable surplus of beef and pork products to Great Britain. Nearly $40,000,000 went to finance the sale of cheese to Britain. In addition large sales of hay and oats were also provided for.

A large war loan is needed this year than last, because the 1918 expenditures will probably be from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000, larger than in 1917. The Imperial Munitions Board will if anything require larger advances during the coming year than it has had, for its operations have been greatly extended. It has business amounting to $500,000,000 in sight for next year.

HARRY LAUDER'S "THRIFT"

1. Behave towards your purse as you would to your best friend.
2. View the reckless money spender as a criminal, and shun his company.
3. Dress neatly, not lavishly. A bank pays a higher rate of interest than your back.
4. Take your amusements judiciously. You would enjoy them better.
5. Don't throw away your crusts; eat them. They are as good as beef.
6. It is more exhilarating to feel money in your pocket than beer in your stomach.
7. Remember it only takes twenty shillings to make a pound, and twelve pennies to make a shilling.
8. You can't sleep better after a hard day's work than a day's idleness.
9. Always get good value from tradesmen. They watch they get good money from you.
10. There is as much pleasure in reading a good bank account as a novel.

Why Canada must borrow money to carry on

Because Canada has put her hand to the plow and will not turn back:—

—our country is in the war on the side of liberty and justice and will stay in it till complete victory is won and the unspeakable Hun is smashed and beaten to the ground;

—a nation at war must make tremendous expenditures in cash to keep up her armies and supply them with munitions, food and clothing;

—Canada must finance many millions of dollars of export trade in food, munitions and supplies which Britain and our allies must have on credit;

—for these purposes Canada must borrow hundreds of millions of dollars—

And, this money must be borrowed from the people of Canada:—

Therefore, Canada will presently come to her people for a new Victory Loan to carry on.

\+ + +

Canadians will loan the money by again buying Victory Bonds.

The national safety, the national honor and the national well-being require that each and every Canadian shall do his duty by lending to the nation every cent he can spare for this purpose.

Be ready when the call comes to see your country through in its great war work

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada

Mr. William Kappler is having his brick house on Victoria St. bricked over by Mr. Philip Becker.

The Ontario Clocks is now being published in the English language as a result of a recent Order-in-council prohibiting the publication of newspapers in Canada in any of the enemy languages.

Six tons of coal were sold in London, Ont., Friday for $16.50 a ton. The coal was disposed of by auction at Cooper's auction room. The bidding was spirited. There were many people who tried to purchase it. The price paid is taken as an evidence of the uneasiness of the people of the city over the fuel situation. They are willing to pay any price to get the coal.

Drastic Order Expected

That the Telescope, in common with all other newspapers in Canada, will be forced by the Government almost immediately to put its entire subscription list on the strictly paid-in-advance basis, is practically certian. Already the new regulation is in force in the United States and the Canadian Paper Controller proposes very shortly to follow suit. It is expected that all free copies outside the exchanges etc., will have to be stricken off when the new order comes into force and no subscribers can be carried unless paid in advance.

Big Money These Days

A rather interesting circumstance in connection with the fair, says the Arthur Enterprise, which was brought to our attention, and which indicates the prosperity at present existing in the vicinity, was the number of large bank notes taken in at the ticket office. The time was when the required quarter to gain one's access to the "show fair" was carefully gathered for some weeks previous and then on the day when the big event actually arrived pushed through the wicket at the gate with a feeling of regret that a friendship of some standing should at last be broken. Such, however, seems to be no longer the case. The currency with which the man with the tickets for sale is now generally confronted is not modest silver coins, but bank notes of considerable denominations. On Wednesday Mr. Johnson, of the Standard Bank, treasurer of the society, took $60 in silver when he went up to the ticket office. In about an hour he was out of change and another supply had to be secured. When the crowd was all in its contribution was a pile of bills and only about $2 in change.

O. S. Girl Killed in Motor Accident.

Miss Margaret Pringle, aged 17, the twin daughter of the late J. C. Pringle of the Taylor-Pringle Co. of Owen Sound, was the victim in a fatal automobile accident near Markdale last Friday afternoon. In company with a companion, Miss Mary Mercer, daughter of Mr Thos. Mercer a widely known stock breeder, they left the home of the latter in an auto to go to an adjacent farm. The road was slippery from the effect of the heavy rains and the rear wheels slid, causing the car to turn turtle. The top held the weight up for a few moments but before the two occupants could release themselves it fell crushing the life out of Miss Pringle. A coat that was in the seat became entangled about Miss Mercer's head and when the accident was discovered by Mr. Bury, a Hydro Electric officer, about ten minutes later she was unconscious. Mr. Bury was able to release Miss Mercer but it was some time before the car was removed sufficiently to admit to Miss Pringle's body being taken out. Physicians were secured from Markdale and the coroner notified but on recovering consciousness Miss Mercer gave details and no inquest was deemed necessary.

A Canadian soldier having refused to obey an order given by his superior officer was punished by being compelled to march before the drawn-up battalion. After he had been paraded up and down between the lines for fifteen minutes, the officer stopped him and said: "Now Jones, what do think about it? "Well, sir," replied Jones, "they are the rottenest bunch I ever inspected."

Must Company Build Lines?

Fifteen farmers on the townline between Culross and Greenock have been pressing upon the South Bruce Rural Telephone Co., for some time for telephone connection, but the Company has turned the request down, on account of the great stretch of line required to accomodate the applicants. The farmers have now taken their case to the Ontario Municipal Board, and will try to compel the company to furnish them with phone connections. If they succeed, the Company will have to build ten miles of line.—Mildmay Gazette.

Took Neighbor's Provisions

A bachelor farmer on the 8th concession of Carrick has been subjected to a series of petty thefts recently while he was helping his neighbors with their threshing. The thieves confined their activities to household provisions, such as butter, eggs, bread and cakes, but it was mighty annoying for the farmer to come home and find his larder cleaned out. He did a little scouting around and before long had a positive clue as to the direction in which his victuals were moving. Securing a search warrant from the local magistrate, he had the suspected premises searched, and the guilty parties, two young lads in their teens admitted the theft. We understand that prosecution will follow.

Noble Red Man Gets His

Alas, many of the legends we read in our youth and believed are being shattered in these modern days. One was of the noble Red man, who devoted his time to the chase, and the extermination of his enemies, and his squaw faithfully waited on him, and performed all menial labors. But now perhaps since they have come in contact with the white man, things are different. An Indian from the Reserve works in one of our factories, as also two dusky maidens, one of whom he lives with. Mr. Indian took a fancy to the other one, and the other one warned him. "Gotchu," but he didn't stop, and one day last week things reached a climax. Number one dusky maiden picked up a strip of furniture, the real solid kind, not veneered, and swatted him a couple on the coco which left a deep dint and nearly bashed one eye out. Then she thought she didn't want the job any longer and quit, while the doctor patched up the object of her affections.—Southampton Beacon.

FELL LEADING HIS MEN

Capt. Bob Rowland Tells of Death of Popular 160th. Officer, Lieut. Horace Parker

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Parker, of Greenock, have received from Capt. R. C. Rowland the following letter giving particulars as to the death of their son, Lieut. Horace Parker:—

Dear Mr. Parker—It is with deepest sympathy that I write of Horace's death. I have known Horace for a long time, as I was in the 160th. Batt. with him and we came to France together. At all times Horace proved himself a soldier, and often while in England he had said that if he had to die in this war he hoped it would be a soldier's death. On the 10th. of August the battalion was given the task of taking the village of Fouquescourt. I was in charge of the first wave and Horace the second. The attack was held up and Horace came up to reinforce, but we were still held up, and Horace went forward under heavy machine gun and rifle fire to see where the enemy were entrenched. While so doing he was hit two or three times in the leg with machine gun bullets. The stretcher bearers dressed his wounds and we sent him out, but his wounds proved fatal, and he died in the field ambulance. I was unable to find out where Horace was buried but our Padre will know, and as soon as I see him I will write and tell you. If I can be of any further service to you it will give me great pleasure to do anything that is in my power for you.

High School Notes

(Written for The Telescope)

On Monday morning the school assembled in Third Form to witness the presentation of medals to those girls who had done farm service during the summer. The girls had not been promised recognition of their services, but Mr. N. C. MacKay wrote the Department of Education and succeeded in securing medals for them. Mr. MacKay very kindly consented to present the medals and the presentation took place on Monday. The recipients were — Helen Johnston, Jessie McNally, Annie Condy, Selena Brocklebank and Eleanor Lindsay. The following girls were not present at the time, but will receive their medals later:— Jessie Wells, who is attending the Faculty of Education, and Mabel Chalmers, Gertrude Lewis and Minnie Raechler, who are attending the Normal School at Stratford. The following boys, who worked on farms during the summer months, were presented with their medals a couple of weeks ago:— Lee Yaeck, William Polfuss, William Ramsey, Graeme Kirstine, Cecil Cargill, Cecil Wilton, Jack Chalmers, Arthur Johnston, Milton MacGregor, Frank Meagher, Frank O'Hagan, Clayton Fortune and Wilfrid Inglis. A good many extra bushels of grain went out of this district as a result of the efforts of High School pupils.

The weekly examinations were resumed. They are set for Monday and the students were treated to a double header last Monday since Thanksgiving Day occurs on Monday and furnishes a holiday. Whether these two examinations at the same time tended to make the students more thankful or otherwise is a matter which admits of discussion.

The East Bruce Teachers' Institute held its convention in Walkerton on Thursday and Friday last. The students had "great expectations" of a holiday but their hopes were shattered when it was announced that no holiday would be forthcoming.

In basket ball, the Reds have maintained their advantage over the Blues. The week's play has resulted in favour of the Yellows, who play against the Greens.

First Form's two baseball teams are almost evenly matched but the Blues beat the Greens by two runs in the last match.

Deep regret is felt throughout the School at the death of Lewis Honey, news of which was received here last Thursday night. Lewis was one of the most brilliant students that ever attended the High School and he was equally successful as a soldier, winning the Military Medal, the Distinguished Conduct Medal and his Commission. His death leaves a gap which will not be filled easily. In the casualty lists, it is reported that he died of wounds and, as yet no further particulars have been received here. The sympathy of the students gives out to his parents in their bereavement.

CAPT. BOB ROWLAND, M. C.

Will Receive Further Honors For Gallantry, Says Cable—Wounded But Wouldn't Quit

Several Walkerton boys, writing home from France recently, have mentioned that Capt. Bob Rowland had been recommended for decoration for gallant action in the recent push when the Canadians burst through the Hindenburg Line. His parents Mr. and Mrs. John Rowland, knew nothing of it, although hearing from Bob right along, until Monday when a cable from a Walkerton friend in England said:— "Bob awarded Military Cross, recommended further honors, wounded at duty. Leave next week." This means that Bob did not leave the firing line when he received his recent wound but stayed right on the job. The casualties in his battalion were very heavy and one of the boys mentions that Capt. Rowland was the only officer still in the fight. One letter mentioned plunging right through the wire and capturing the objective without tank support and it may be for a brilliant feat of that sort, that Bob was singled out for high honors.

Home On Sick Leave

The funeral took place on Thanksgiving morning to Kitchener R. C. cemetery.

Lots Of Money

Mr. Archie McKinnon, the Greenock, tax-collector, states that in his four teen years' experience on the job he has never found money so plentiful as this year. Good crops and good prices are reflected in the way the taxes for 1918 are streaming in. In his first two days' collecting Mr. McKinnon got as much or more money than he usually gets on his entire rounds. Before he had even sent out the tax notices his neighbor, Mr. James Symon, called around and settled his tax-bill amounting to about a hundred dollars. This old world would be a better place to live in, if there were a few more of Mr. Symon's ilk.

Mr. P. Bremner's Brother

Mr. P. Bremner received word yesterday that his youngest brother, Alex C. Bremner had been wounded in France. The telegram, which came to the old home at London stated that he had been wounded in the abdomen with gunshot and was at the 20th. Casualty Clearing Station. "A. C. " enlisted at Calgary, Alta. LIVE NEWS OF NEIGHBORING VILLAGES AND COUNTRYSIDE

Happenings of the Week Collected for the Readers of The Telescope by a Staff of Wideawake Correspondents :-:

EDEN GROVE

Mr. Albert [illegible] of Fergus spent the holiday at his home here.

Owing to the prevalence of "Grippe" the Evangelistic services which were being conducted by Miss Morton, Evangellist of Toronto in the Meth. Church here, were brought to a close on Sunday last, when Miss Morton preached two able sermons, Sunday a. m., subject: "Five circles of the Christian Life", and in the evening from the text Luke—12—31, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and all these things shall be added unto you." Miss Morton left on Monday morning for her home in [illegible] taking with her the best wishes of the people of Eden Grove.

[illegible]nce visited friends in Tara on holiday.

[illegible]il Thompson moved his household effects to Walkerton on Monday.

[illegible]ordon Alexander was on the sick list a few days last week.

[illegible] Desmond arrived home from To[illegible] on Sat. night and is seriously ill with "Flu."

The Evangelistical services in the Methodist church are over. As I understand it this was a two weeks' revival, but what I cannot understand is the possibility of reviving that which is not. A man does not buy a half fare ticket for a child unless he first has the child. So the spark of divine fire held in the capable hands of Miss Morton failed to set aflame the hearts of the countryside because the countryside never came near the spark. More and more, year by year are the people drifting from our little white church. What is the reason? For the two best answers in fifty words or less, I will personally give a prize of one dollar each. The answers to be published next week. Sign your full name (not for publication) and address to G. T. R. Agent, Pinkerton.

Hark! whence cometh this beautiful entrancing music and that tapping of dainty toes. I can hear jolly laughter and merry voices. Whence cometh it? Boys! It's from Ward's Hall, Eden Grove where they are holding a Ball in aid of the Red Cross, on Friday Oct. 18th. If you must miss it, why bring the Miss along with you.

LATER—Owing to cold feet and Spanish Influenza, the ball advertised for Friday has been postponed indefinitely.

Ontario Emergency Volunteer Health Auxiliary

Wanted, Volunteers!

The Provincial Board of Health, with the authority of the Government of Ontario, has organized an "Ontario Emergency Volunteer Health Auxiliary" for the purpose of training and supplying nursing help to be utilized wherever needed in combating the Influenza outbreak. A strong executive has been formed in Toronto. It is strongly recommended that each municipal council and local Board of Health, working in co-operation, take immediate steps to form a local branch of this organization. The Volunteer Nurses will wear the officially authorized badge "Ontario S. O. S." (Sisters of Service). The "S. O. S." call may be urgent. Classes taking lectures are already opened in the Parliament Buildings, Toronto (Private Bills' Committee Room, ground floor,) where they will be carried on every day at 10 a. m. and 3 P. m. until further notice. Young women of education are urged to avail themselves of this unique opportunity to be of real service to the community. If they are not needed, so much the better. If they are needed, we hope to have them ready. All towns and cities are urged to organize and prepare in a similar manner.

A Syllabus of lectures is being sent to the Medical Officer of Health of all cities and towns. Further information may be had on application to John W. McCullough, M. D., Chairman of Executive, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Telephone Main 5800.

AN OLD WALKERTON BOY

Editor Malcolm McBeth of the Milverton Sun, Gives First Hand Impressions of the Great West—Visits His Old School-mate Hon. Duncan Marshall, with Whom He Used To Play Football At Walkerton High School.

An eighteen hour run from Regina brought us to Calgary, having passed through the towns of Moose Jaw. (The name is an abridgment of the Indian name which literally translated is "The-neck- where-the white-man- mended- the-cart with-a-moose- jaw-bone.") Swift Current (population 5600). Webb. Medicine Hat (pop. 12,000 and an important station of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. A demonstration farm is operated by the an abundance of coal in the district, but the light, heat and power of the city is derived entirely from natural gas.) Calgary is the largest city in Alberta, having a population of about 75,000. The general offices of the Canadian Pacific Railway are located here, including the head offices of the Department of Natural Resources. The extensive Western Car Shops of the C.P.R. are near Calgary and it is said that these shops will eventually employ 3500 men. The city owns, operates and controls its public utilities, including municipal street railway, gravity waterworks system, light and power plant and street paving plant. All these are profitable enterprises and yield big revenue. Forty miles of street railway are in operation. The city is supplied with natural gas from Bow Island, which is sold at low rates, both to manufacturers and for domestic use. The big man of Calgary is of course, Pat Burns, who owns and controls the largest meat packing concern in Canada. He is a rancher of more than ordinary repute, having 70,000 head continually grazing on the plains of the Western provinces. He is on a larger scale to Calgary what Frank Oliver was in earlier days to Edmonton. The city is beautifully situated on the junction of the Bow and Elbow rivers. Here the westbound tourist usually gains his first glimpse of the snow-crowned Rockies, gleaming through seventy-miles of sunshine in the clear transparent atmosphere, and dominating intervening tiers of foothills. They give one a thrill of pleasure after the long-continued vista of unbroken prairies over which one travels for a thousand miles. Calgary in the old days, and to a certain extent is yet, a ranching centre, as Alberta is more adapted for grazing and stock raising than farming. Although farming operations are becoming much more extensive than formerly. This region was formerly the winter home of countless herds of bison, which always came thither from the south on the approach of severe weather, and found here ample sustenance. Had they remained in a more southern latitude, where rains and thaws harden the snow and ice they would have perished. This would have been, however, merely an anticipation of their actual fate. In vain did they obey migratory instinct, after the arrival of the "pale face" on the scene. The Indian had hunted them for food, but could make little impression on the millions which then roamed the plains. It was reserved for the civilized white man to wantonly destroy them. We are glad however, to know that under the protection now given them they are increasing in number—there having been 535 calves dropped last spring in the Wainwright herd alone. There are now in Canada between four and five thousand of these splendid animals and there is every reason to believe that in a few years they will again be numbered by tens of thousands.

The principal reason why Alberta and other portions of this region have so mild a climate, although about eight hundred miles north of Walkerton, is that the warm air currents rising from the Pacific ocean are gradually denuded of all moisture in their passage over the Rock Mountains, and finally descend on these plains as mild, dry winds, to which the Indian tribal name, "Chinook" is popularly given. These clear away the light snow by evaporation, without, however, either thawing it or leaving behind the slightest trace of dampness. How rapidly the snow disappears before a "chinook" may be illustrated by the experience retailed by an old timer, all the details of which I am unable to vouch for. He was coming from Banff to Calgary with a span of cayuses and a set of sleighs. On reaching Morley, forty miles out, a "chinook" came up behind him. With a great presence of mind he lashed up his horses and was just able to keep the front hubs on the snow all the way in.

The province of Alberta is extensive in the range of her products. There is farming of all types, but coal areas, as well as oil, gas, asphalt, gypsum, and other products, are only on the threshold of development. Great belts of land in Southern Alberta, once considered too dry for farming, are, by the the Canadian Pacific Railway and other processes, coming under successful cultivation. The ranch is giving away to the farm in many localities.

While in Calgary our party received a very kind invitation from Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agricultural, to visit him at "Elderslie" his 800 acre farm near Olds, so called after his native township in Bruce county, which was very heartily accepted. Accompanied by Mr. David Smith, one of Mr. Marshall's ardent political supporters, we motored out and for a day and a half enjoyed the unbounded hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall. At "Elderslie" may be found one of the finest Shorthorn herds in Alberta, or for that matter in the Dominion of Canada, as Mr. Marshall specializes in Shorthorns and has in his byres animals which he values at not less than $5000 per head.

While Alberta has done well by Mr. Marshall, he has done more for Alberta in raising the agricultural standard of the province. Since accepting office about eight years ago, he has advanced the standard of the stock of the province to a remarkable degree by importing under his personal supervision the very best animals that he could obtain in the older provinces, in fact, the standard has already attained such eminence that there is danger of it being impaired by the fabulous prices which are being offered for the choicest animals by American buyers.

In Alberta the Department of Agriculture believes that the teaching of agriculture can be imparted to a larger number of students, and more efficiently by the establishment of schools in convenient localities than by the founding of a college in one centre and provision has been made eventually for the establishment of seven of these schools while three are at present in operation. We had the pleasure of visiting the school at Olds, where a two years' course in given in agriculture. In addition a course is given in manual training, consisting of barn construction, forge work in blacksmithing and such other work as is useful on the farm. So popular is the work of these schools that the capacity is taxed to its utmost each term. Domestic Science is not neglected and it is said that great efficiency is developed by some of the students after a few month's training.

In conversation with a leading critic of the opposition while at Edmonton we were informed that the Department of Agriculture was one of the best administered departments in the government. This gentleman said that while he regarded Mr. Marshall as a partisan that he did not carry his partisanship into his department. He surrounded himself with the strongest men available with the result that when the department was under fire in the House it was an easy task to defend it.

Apart from his executive ability, Mr. Marshall is an incisive and pungent speaker and a General [illegible] for the opponent [illegible] running for him, as he [illegible] wing-shots that ever hunted in the Alberta Legislature. Old Liberals out there are still chuckling over his first meeting with R. B. Bennett, the rocky-mountain tornado. R.B. like Goliath of old, had been going up and down the lines stalking the hosts of Liberals and there was no one to stay his advance until one night Marshall met him in a school house not far from the city of Calgary. Bennett conscious of his prowess was unusually reckless in his statements and biting his references to the newcomer whom he tried to associate with all the evils of the Ross regime in Ontario. When Bennett sat down there was a sullenness on the part of the Liberals who had so often been victims of his pointed phrases. When Marshall had introduced himself and got going they began to sit up and take notice. Soon, however, they broke out in thunderous applause as Marshall followed hammer stroke and beat his opponent until he remained only a thing of shreds and patches. He metaphorically nailed him to the cross and crucified him. Bennett vainly tried to interrupt him, but the sympathy of the crowd was against him, and maddened into fury under the stinging castigation, he stalked from the hall in high dudgeon and from that day to this has not crossed the path of the Minister of Agriculture on the hustings.

Take It Home

We presume that many people think the newspaper man are persistent duns, as they keep reiterating "look at the label on your paper," "move up the date," "you are back on your subscription," "pay what you owe," "pay up," etc. Now let a farmer or a business man place himself in a similar position and see if he would not do the same. Suppose the farmer raises a crop of one thousand bushels of wheat and his neighbor should buy a bushel, and the price was two dollars or less, and the neighbor says, "I will pay you the sum in a few days." As the farmer doesn't want to be small in the matter of small things, he says, "all right." Another comes in the same way until the whole of the one thousand bushels are gone out to the one thousand different persons. No one purchaser concerns himself about it, and, of course, that could not help him any. He does not realize that the farmer has frittered away his crop of wheat in little dribs, and that he is seriously embarrassed in his business, because his debtors treat it as a small matter. But if all would pay him promptly, which they could do as well as not, it would enable him to carry on his business without difficulty. The above comparison is too true to the difficulties that a newspaper man has to contend with.

A 160TH SOLDIER

Gives Graphic Account of the Canadians Magnificent Push Through The Hindenburg Line

One of the most interesting pen pictures we have seen of the Canadian's push forward in France is by a young Bruce County soldier now recuperating from shrapnel wounds in England. He writes:—

My Dear Mother and All:—

Although I dropped you a card this morning, I thought I should follow it with a letter just to let you know I am not at all seriously hurt. While it is fresh in my mind I might just as well give you an account of my three weeks with the Battalion. Well, we joined the Battalion the day after the Canadians started the advance on the Amiens front. That was August 9th. We followed some distance in the rear of the attacking line and saw some very gruesome sights, not so bad once one gets used to it. On the twelfth of August we were lined up about a mile in front of a place called Fequescourt and our objective was the trench beyond the town. About four p. m. we started through the 1st. division and started on our own. The first piece was good sailing, having nothing but a few machine gun posts to kick over. Conditions changed as the town was nearing. Old Fritz had not only placed machine guns at every window, but the artillery showered us with shells. Our artillery unable to keep up the advance was unable to answer him back. It was then that I realized that there was a war on and that I was in the midst of it. It was a matter of running from one shell hole to another, taking a chance on the machine gun bullets, that clipped off the grass all around. However, about seven we were in the town and soon cleared it of lurking snipers. We held it for a day until relieved. I do not know how any of us came out alive. We had one hundred and seventy men on the start and came out with seventy. Nearly all our officers were knocked out except Captain Rowland, one of our old officers who was in charge of C. Company. Now we went into support trenches and held them for about six days. I managed to get some souvenirs here such as an automatic revolver, belt and and Prussian guard's cap, but as they are in pack now, I guess I'll never see them. Our division got word to pull out for a month's rest and to re-organize. We began to march in the evening. The moon was shining bright and all went well overhead. I must admit I did feel shaky then, because bombs are an awful affair. Soon we heard a crash and a bomb dropped in the midst of the battalion behind us. Next morning we found out that twenty-three had been killed and forty wounded, among which were three of our lads who had been to Seaford with us. One was killed and two wounded. We stayed there for a day in a big bush and entrained that evening. Next morning we arrived at our destination feeling pretty tired from sleeping almost two deep in a box car. Carriages awaited us and to our surprise we found that the Canadians were mixed up in the scrap again. That night we stayed in supports and the same place for three days dodging shells.

On Sunday evening we began our six miles march to the line. Shells and bombs were awful thick and we lost about a dozen men getting to our position. At 4 a. m., we got in shell holes about two hundred yards behind our front line. We were supposed to get supper and breakfast there, but on account of Jerry putting up so many flares we were unable to. At 5 a.m., the barrage started and it certainly was one. Eighty miles along the front all the artillery opened up at once, and if the earth trembled, it didn't have anything over me. In half an hour we began to advance following our own barrage. The battalion ahead of us had quite a struggle, and after they took a small village we took their place. Prisoners were coming in in bunches. After we had advanced two kilometers (1¼ miles) we came across the Hindenburg line of trenches, littered with wire and well supplied with machine guns. The tanks began crawling over the wire and we followed. My section that had been ten strong was down to three. Three having been killed and the rest wounded. We felt like scrapping and no one got any mercy. We hadn't advanced far until a big shell lit at my feet. I guess I went down, but the next thing I knew I was laying on a stretcher being carried along by four Fritzies. At first I thought I had been taken prisoner but a Scottie told me I was alright. There was plenty of blood around, but I was suffering from a shrapnel cut in my nose. I had two pieces of shrapnel in my leg, so will have an operation later. I got off the stretcher because they were going too slow, as the shells were coming thick. Although I [illegible] I took a-

Correct style worn by well dressed young men in all localities. Lace boot—medium narrow recede toe, low heel—made in black, tan or patent calf. Price, $7.00 to $10.00.

Style—Plus Service at a Fair Price

THE style illustrated above is one that is largely preferred by Canadian business men—especially young men. It has the medium long vamp and narrow, somewhat pointed toe which gives the foot a slim and "dressy" appearance, without being extreme in style. Those who like this type of shoe will find it thoroughly satisfactory in fitting qualities and a comfortable easy shoe to walk in.

This style can be obtained in several grades of black and tan. The price range—$7 to $10—considering the present leather market, is extremely moderate.

Next spring a shoe of the same wearing qualities will cost from ten to twenty per cent more. It would cost more now except for the fact that the resources of this company enable us to cover our needs well in advance.

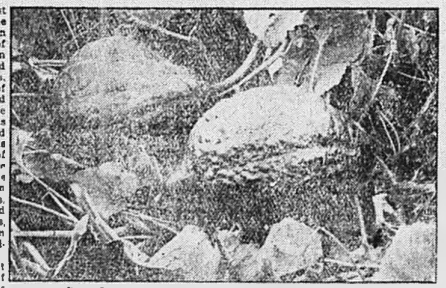
HE POSSIBILITES OF IRRIGATION



Wheat on one of the Veterans' Farms, near Tilley, Alberta.

WHAT surprises a person most when travelling through the irrigated areas of Southern berta is the wonderful variety of ops that can be successfully grown ere, their abundant yields, and ir excellent quality. Wheat, oats, ley and flax, the standard crops of e Canadian West grow there and e as heavy yields as anywhere else a the continent. Alfalfa thrives as does nowhere else in Canada, and literally making fortunes for its rowers. By the application of water the crops of clover and the many varieties of nutritious tame grasses are multiplied manifold. In the gardens vegetables of all kinds, including those that are associated with hotter climes, such as tomatoes, melons, squashes, grow in the open so well as to indicate great possibilities in this direction.

Wheat, of course, is the dominant crop there as it is in those areas of Western Canada where irrigation is not practised. Oats, barley and flax are also grown extensively. The yields of all these grains compare very favorably with those in any other part of the west. Crops of wheat this season that have been properly irrigated are averaging thirty bushels to the acre. Some crops will thresh as high as forty bushels or more to the acre. The yields of other grains are equally as good. Grain growing under irrigation brings ample returns to the farmer, especially when it is considered that uniform results may be looked for every year.

But, yielding such good returns as the growing of grain does, other crops that may be grown under irrigation are possibly still more profitable, and it seems reasonable to suppose that in years to come the growing of grain in districts where a water supply is available will be to some extent reserved to enable larger areas to be put into other crops. Land that will produce up to seven hundred bushels of potatoes, of a quality that brings the best prices, on which the most desirable kinds, yielding forty to sixty bushels to the acre are being grown, where sugar beets of high sugar content thrive, where pumpkins of enormous size and excellent flavor, cantaloupes, ripened up gives considerably larger watermelons, tomatoes, cucumbers, squashes, etc., flourish, to say nothing of plant upon to the highest degree of cauliflowers and cabbages, early and late work industry. Horses, cattle, hogs, and all varieties, carrots, for sheep and pigs all like it. Miss Margaret Slattery of Boston, a well known Sunday School expert, has been secured, and will deliver six lectures. Miss Slatery's reputation as a platform speaker entitles her to rank as the world's most forceful and thrilling woman lecturer. In addition to this noted lady, among others the following have been secured—Dr. Geo. C. Pidgeon, Toronto; Mrs. M. J. Babkin, Chicago, Ill. Superintendent of the Children's Division, International Sunday School Association; Mr. Preston G. Orwig, Philadelphia, Pa well known a few years ago as an Ontario Sunday School enthusiast in Boys' Work; Dr. Henry Dickie, Chatham. Special music will be featured at the convention by Professors Excell and Roper. In the planning of this convention the idea in mind has been to make it effective as a contributing force in connection with the Sunday School's relation to "Canada's new Day."

SCOUTS! ALERT!

The Scouts are busy these days working on the soil getting funds for the troop. One boy came to meeting last week and asked if he might join, he belonged to the R. C. Church and thought he was not eligible.

A Scout-master cannot refuse any boy who wishes to become a Scout as the Scout movement is undenominational, the boy must attend some place of worship also attend Sunday School, and any boy wishing to join the Scouts must get permission from those in authority over him. Every boy must do his best to live up to the "Scout Law"

1. A Scout's honour is to be trusted.
2. A Scout is loyal to the King and to His Officers, to his Parents, his Country and to his Employers.
3. A Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others.
4. A Scout is a friend to All, and a brother to every other Scout no matter to what social class the other belongs.
5. A Scout is courteous.
6. A Scout is a friend to Animals.
7. A Scout obeys orders of his Parents, Patrol leaders or Scout-masters without question.
8. A Scout smiles and whistles under all difficulties.
9. A Scout is thrifty.
10. A Scout is clean in word, thought and deed.

The above Scout-laws are the fundamental principle of the Boy Scout Movement and has been the means of establishing the movement to its present high standing.

It is the best movement for boys as it tends to make them useful, manly spirited, thoughtful boys who are able to do things willingly for the good of others. I shall be glad to welcome any boys from 12 yrs. upwards for the Scouts and boys from 9 yrs. to 12 yrs. for the Cubs.

SCOUTS! ALERT!

No meetings are being held until this Influenza epidemic abates. What lucky children! nothing but holidays and the best of it they never get tired of them. Now, Scouts, you have lots of time to practice what you have learnt, get well up in your knot tying and trail marks also learn the Scout Law off by heart. The first law of a Scout as you know:—A Scout's honour is to be trusted. This means a lot to any boy especially a Scout as a Boy Scout's word is never doubted. When a Scout says on my honour as a Scout it is so, it is most reliable because as far as his Knowledge it is so and his word is never doubted. A Scout always looks straight in the eyes of the person addressing him and is not afraid to speak the truth. I remember an incident that occurred on Everton Football Grounds, Liverpool, where there was a Boy Scout Rally. Somewhere over 15,000 Scouts assembled and Sir Robt. and Lady Baden Powell were there. 8 One troop built a bridge with staves and Lady Powell brought Sir Robt. to look at it. She doubted if it was safe. Sir Robt. said it was and told her never to doubt a Scout. With that he ran over the bridge to prove his words. You can trust a thief but never a liar as you do not know when they are telling the truth. When you learn the Scout Laws you will find every one has a big meaning.

Weber's store. The animal came running down Colborne St. past the side of the post office, going so fast that it could hardly turn the corner. An auto was parked in front of the Bank of Commerce and in avoiding the car, the horse ran over the side-walk, slipped and fell sprawling. Its hind feet went through the large plate glass window smashing a big hole in it. The animal seemed stunned at first and lay quiet until Chief Ferguson and others helped to get it up. The animal was found to be unhurt although very much tamed down by its strenuous experience.

Killed In Action

Miss Joan Hyslop received word on Tuesday that her nephew, Pte. Wilbur Hyslop, formerly of Walkerton had been killed in action on Sept. 30th. Wilbur was about 27 years of age and enlisted in the West. His father, Mr. Thos. Hyslop now of Alberta, was at one time engineer at the Walkerton pumping house.

Soldiers Land Scheme

The Bruce Preparedness League has issued a prospectus outlining the Soldiers Settlement Scheme for Bruce Soldiers. As this matter is one of great importance to us and to our returned men, we are publishing the entire document in full on another page of this week's Telescope. We notice that any mention of Major Moffat's name in connection with the scheme is studiously avoided by the Committee. If the Major has one quarter of the intelligence we credit him with, he will take the hint.

The Town Streets

The Streets Committee has been doing its best the past season to make its small wartime expenditure count in keeping up the roadways, and according to Foreman John Smith, there has been more accomplished, considering the help available, than any year in his twenty years experience. The much needed improvement of the Cemetery road has been carried out, the three leading streets graded and gravelled at the worst places, and a fair amount of new sidewalks laid. Walkerton's streets will never be right until we have some good permanent roadway, but the raising, of debentures for such a purpose would not be permitted by the Provincial authorities until after the War.

Down With Pneumonia

Cadet Frank Moore of the R.A.F. is seriously ill of pneumonia at the Military Base Hospital at Toronto. His father, Engineer Moore of the C.P.R. was summoned to the City on Saturday and Mrs. Moore went down Sunday and is staying in the city. The latest report Tuesday night his condition was not so good. Cadet Moore, who had been home on leave, reported for duty on the 9th. inst. At that time his unit was under quarantine for the Flu, a large portion of the boys being down sick. His leave was not extended and he was soon down with the Flu like the rest of the boys, pneumonia following in its course. The action of the Military authorities in admitting him to a quarantined camp looks very peculiar from this end.

Kramp—Schnurr

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place at the R. C. Church on Monday morning, October 21st., when Bertha Antionette, youngest daughter of Mrs. Catherine Schnurr, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Garfield Andrew Kramp, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kramp of Hanover, Rev. Father Hoffarth officiating. The bride looked charming in a suit of navy blue serge and large picture hat, carrying a shower bouquet of bridal roses and maiden-hair fern. She was assisted by her friend Miss Jeane Miller, who also wore a blue suit and carried a pretty bouquet of pink roses and maiden hair fern. The groom was attended by Mr. Wilfrid Furteney of Hanover. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful black wolf fur, to the bridesmaid, a gold crescent set with pearls, and to the groomsman a pearl tie pin. After the ceremony the party returned to the bride's home where a sumptuous dinner was spread. The many beautiful and costly gifts showered upon them showed the high esteem in which the young couple are held.

NO REAL FLU HERE

Quite A Bit of Sickness In Walkerton But the Spanish Bug Hasn't Reached Here Yet and We Don't Want Him

The Flu epidemic has not yet reached Walkerton. There is a good deal of grippe and many have heavy colds but no case has yet been identified as Spanish Influenza. So far there have not been any deaths from the grippe.

The Board of Health has decided not to relax the precautions which have been taken to prevent the epidemic getting a foothold here. The Churches will remain closed Sunday and the Schools will remain closed until next Monday at least. A further meeting of the Board of Health is to be held Friday to decide whether the Churches, schools etc., will be closed longer than the present orders provide for.

The V.A.D's. have been doing good work but owing to the mild type of sickness their services have not been very much in demand the last few days. Only one V.A.D. was called for duty yesterday.

Schools and Churches Still Closed

The Board of Health has extended the closing of Schools, Churches, etc. for another week to Monday Oct. 28th. A meeting of the Board is to be held Friday when the date may be further extended until the worst of the Flu epidemic is over in this district.

Joins Medical Corps

Mr. Norman Robertson had word on Monday from his son, Dr. H. L. Robertson of Charleston, West Virgina, that he had received the appointment of a Captaincy in the American Medical Corps and would report for duty on November 1st. He expects to visit Walkerton on the 29th. before reporting for service.

Death of Alex Grant

Mr. Alex Grant, who had been ill since May last, passed away at his home on Yonge St. early Thursday morning, Oct. 17th. Death was due to jaundice. Mr. Grant was born at Larne, County Antrim, Ireland, fifty three years ago and came to this country at nineteen years of age, settling at Teeswater where he lived up to May, 1916. In the Old Country he learned shoemaker's trade and at of ore removing to Walkerton he worked as a mason, keeping a small shoe repair shop during the winter months. He was a man of quiet disposition, scrupulously honest and honourable in all his dealings and highly respected by all who knew him. During his last trying illness he bore up with patience and resignation. Besides his wife, he leaves a family of one son and three daughters. They are:—William Alexander, and Mrs. Robt. Scott of Teeswater, Charlotte and May at home. The funeral was held from his late residence on Saturday afternoon to Teeswater Cemetery. Service at the house was conducted by Rev. G. C. Rock and Rev W. H. Burgess and at Teeswater Cemetery by Rev. Mr. Bradley. A number of friends accompanied the remains to Teeswater by motor.

Death of Linas Harrison

Many Walkerton friends learned with deep regret of the death of Richard Linas W. Harrison, only son of the late Richard and Mrs. Harrison, of Walkerton. He passed away at Wellesley Hospital, Toronto last Thursday morning, after an attack of pneumonia. The previous week he had been laid up with Spanish Influenza but had seemingly recovered. He was up and around and caught more cold which quickly developed into pneumonia "Liney" was a fine big strapping fellow who had never known sickness and his sudden taking off in his 29th. year was a great shock to his relatives and many friends. "Liney" spent his boyhood years in Walkerton, played on the lacrosse team when Walkerton had a star line-up a few years ago and was a general favorite with the young folk. Eight years ago he went to Toronto and from then up to the time of his death he was with the Dunn-Hortop Co. latterly as a traveller. He was highly thought of by his firm and when he was taken ill they showed very great kindness. His wife was formerly Miss Annie Fletcher of Toronto. Besides his mother, Mrs. R. Harrison, at present at Red Deer Alta., he had five sisters:—Mrs John H. Appel, Walkerton: Mrs. Howard Todd, Guelph; Mrs. Geo. Lindsay, Red Deer, Alta. Mrs. Wm. Sutton, Albany N. Y.; Mrs. M. J. Parsons of Montreal. The funeral took place from the residence of his father-in-law, Mr. Fletcher, 38a Sherbourne St. Toronto, on Saturday morning

THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hawthorne of Greenock Celebrate Unique Event On Thanksgiving Day

A happy event took place at the home of Mr. John A. Cunningham Greenock on Thanksgiving Day, when a family party sat down to a sumptuous dinner given in honor of the fiftieth wedding anniversary of her honored and highly esteemed parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hawthorne.

It was on October 15th, 1868 that young Samuel Hawthorne led Miss Giffin, a blushing young bride to the altar. After the ceremony had been performed the young people repaired to their bush farm in Greenock, where Mr. Hawthorne and his father were among the early settlers. In that neighborhood which was the scene of their early struggles against the hardships of pioneer life, they have lived ever since. Mr. Hawthorne occupied an honored place in the community sitting in the Township Council for no less than seventeen years, during seven of which he filled the position of Deputy-Reeve. A family of ten children grew up and went out to make their homes in different parts of Canada and U. S. During the past year nearly all the family have revisited the old home, and at Monday's celebration there was a message from each of the ten extending best wishes to their beloved parents. A well-filled purse was also tendered the bride and groom of fifty years, as a token of love and respect from the family. Although well up in years, both Mr. and Mrs. Hawthorne enjoy a fair measure of good health and it is the earnest wish of their many old friends that they may yet live many more happy returns of their wedding anniversary. Besides immediate members of the family, there was present at the dinner, Mr. Fraken and two daughters of Elora, and Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Sanderson of Walkerton. The following day Mr. and Mrs. Hawthorne left on a second honeymoon during which they will visit most of their family, returning, it is expected, in about two weeks.

"THIS LITTLE ONE STAYED AT HOME"

(Written by Mr. A. C. Wood, St. Marys, author of "Old Days on the Farm.")

Oh, its up an' down the furrowed fields a-movin' I must be,
For there's hungry folk about the town expectin' food from me;
Of all our numerous family there's only me an' Dad
That spends the plow an' raises crops to make the old world glad.

There's our Jim is gone a'ediftin', he'd not a farmer be,
But he tells the farmer how to farm as knowin' as can be;
Sam's cooped up in an iron cage, oh, no, brother's not in jail,
He's a-countin' money in a bank but lookin' mighty pale.

Our Jo—the reverend Joseph now—is a shepherdin' a flock—
Jo was always strong on argument an' full o' fancy talk,
Back at school whenever teacher wanted some one to recite
Brother Jo would go a runnin' like a "Tommy" to a fight.

Si's a broker in the city an' Dad's heart it nearly broke
When that boy went sellin' stocks an' bonds—'twas sure a heavy stroke—
For Dad had once been bitten by a minin' broker shark,
An' his countenance to broker chaps was ever after dark.

Mary's teachin' in a college—she has letters to her name—
Sarah's thumpin' a type-writer, which is jest about the same;
Suzy's trimmin' hats an' bonnets in a millinery store—
They are gone, the whole caboodle, from the old farm evermore.

So its up an' down the furrowed fields a-movin' I must be—
But, say, if you could see the grub Ma serves up to Dad an' me,
I jest guess you'd say that Johnny boy that wouldn't ever roam
Has the best luck o' the family by stayin' right at home.

HOW THEY FELL

Two Bruce Soldier Brothers Killed In Same Battle.

Mr. W. A. Bell, of Pine River, has had particulars of the death of his two sons, Norval and Clifford Bell, formerly of the 160th., who were killed in action recently, from Lieut. S. R. Johnston of the same battalion, who was formerly pastor of the Methodist Church at Pine River. The Bell brothers were well-known in Walkerton being nephews of Messrs. F. J., John, Thos., and Dan Wilton. Lieut. Johnston says in the course of his letter:—

Bert was wounded, not seriously in the battle of Amiens. Both Norval and Cliff came through alright. Norval acted as stretcher bearer and was specially mentioned and recommended for a medal for his excellent work. But in the next battle on the morning of September 2nd both Norval and Cliff were killed about the same time. I have searched in vain for anyone who saw Cliff just when he was killed. Norval's last words were: "Tell the officer to try and save the young lad (Cliff) for his mother's sake." But it was too late. Both were identified by the burying party, and buried by our Padre, (Rev.) Capt. D'Eyrem.

I can say without hesitation that they were three of the finest types of Canadian soldiers I have ever met. I regret that they all came to the same company but I hope and pray that Wilton, in the 2nd. Pioneers, is well and safe. I have been exceptionally fortunate myself.

They played the game well—on parade and off—were exceptionally popular and always ready to do cheerfully the most disagreeable tasks. I feel sure that they will re-receive their reward.

I don't think that I am hard hearted when I say that we look with more pride than sorrow upon the graves of such. They seemed happy in their work—their life work is done and they have escaped many trials which inevitably come with later years. I am pleased to be able to tell you that were not badly mutilated being killed by machine gun bullets not shell fire.

SAVE HOME PAPERS AS LOCAL WAR HISTORY FOR FUTURE

In a widely read publication there appears a suggestion that local newspapers be preserved in every town as vital war history for the future generations. The reminder is timely. There are few of us who have not at some time revelled in the all too rare attic files of home papers at the Civil War period. We learned that Bill Haskin's father "came home on furlough yesterday to recuperate with swamp fever." We remembered Bill's father and recall from a later issue that he was married on October some date or other, 1863, to Bill's mother, nee Miss Lucy Butterworth. And then we find by the same paper of a later date that Bill's father came home for good, with one arm gone. Later still, that he had won the medal of honor and the story of the doings in his honor in the town hall so intimately described, adds a new chapter to our meagre history of those eventful times. So, for the benefit of local posterity, it is a fine idea to keep the home papers. Some of them tell of parties of John, Frank or George of presentations of wrist watches and comfort kits and of Fred's promotion at camp, all ordinary bits of news now but later, when John comes back a Captain or perhaps Frank stays over there, these items will be among our most highly prized possessions and, as years pass, the value of them increases. Now, of all times save the home paper for home history. The bigger account of the war will be written in books.

Victory Bonds Buy Food and Bullets!

When will it end?

Thousands upon thousands, endless thousands, hold their lives cheap as the price of Victorious Peace.

And we—as we watch from afar their heroic efforts—may we be able to say, that the little we at home could do, we have done;

—that in so far as we could support them, lighten their burdens, bring them comforts, we have done it;

—that we have striven unceasingly to shorten their stay in the Hun-made Hell;

—that freely, fervently, unitedly, we have laid our humble offerings alongside their noble sacrifices on the altar of Victory—and Peace.

Another opportunity to lend your individual weight to the blow that will shorten the war comes with the offering of Victory Bonds about to be made. Let not the privilege to do your share find you unprepared.

SPANISH INFLUENZA RAGES IN CANADA

Thousands of Cases Reported With Many Deaths.

THOSE WHO ARE MOST SUSCEPTIBLE TO IT

"FRUIT-A-TIVES"—The Wonderful Fruit Medicine—Gives the Power To Resist This Disease.

The epidemic of Spanish Influenza which played such havoc in Europe, has reached this continent. Thousands of cases of the strange malady have appeared and many deaths are already reported; Surgeon-General Blue of the United States Public Health Service having stated that "Spanish Influenza will probably spread all over the country in six weeks".

Practically every ship which touches our shores from abroad, brings those infected with the disease.

Surgeon-General Blue urges that "the individual take all the precautions he can against contracting the disease by care and personal hygiene". Plenty of exercise should be taken; the diet should be regulated, etc.

Spanish Influenza affects most severely elderly persons and others whose powers of resistance are weakened by illness, work or worry, especially those who are "run-down" or "not feeling up to the mark."

The really great danger from the disease is not so much in the disease itself, as that it often develops into pneumonia.

What everyone needs now is a general tonic like "Fruit-a-tives". This wonderful fruit medicine is not a germ-killer. It is a body-builder; a strength-maker; a blood-purifier; a power in protecting against the ravages of disease.

"Fruit-a-tives" regulates the kidneys and bowels, causing those organs to eliminate waste regularly and naturally as nature intended. "Fruit-a-tives" keeps the skin active, and purifies and enriches the blood. "Fruit-a-tives" tones up and strengthens the organs of digestion, insuring food being properly digested and assimilated.

Everyone can take ordinary precautions, avoid crowded places, and use "Fruit-a-tives" regularly to insure sound digestion, to keep the bowels and kidneys regular and the whole system in the best possible condition. Then we are safe from disease.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by dealers everywhere at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN

Mr. Oscar E. Siegmiller, druggist of Mildmay, reported for Military service at London last week.

Mr. Jos. Taylor, mail carrier on R. R. 3, has bought the former Buchan property in the East Ward and is removing here from Eden Grove.

Keep your system clear, your feet dry and your bedroom windows open if you want to escape the "flu". If you do, it won't hurt you very much.

Everyone has heard of the man who mortgaged his home to buy an auto, but who has ever heard of the man who mortgaged his auto to buy a home?

Mr. Dan McNichol and Miss McNichol moved in last week from Brant and are living in the house which Mr. McNichol recently bought from Mr. Norman Hiscox.

Mr. Martin Bester, formerly of Walkerton, has taken over the Powers Hotel at Cargill. He will continue to conduct his barber shop in connection with the hotel.

Lieut. Leslie Huether arrived home at Guelph last week after two years' service as an Aviator Overseas and will complete his medical course at the University of Toronto.

A Western man wants to petition the Legislature to have the marriage service changed by substituting the words "Stop, Look, and Listen," for the words, "Love, Honor and Obey."

Sometimes this paper has been challenged for its indulgence in alliteration's artful aid. You who find delightful sustenance in the brow of bramble listen to this series of high "C's" in a prayer submitted at the Quadrennial Conference in Hamilton for use by the clergy of the Methodist church: "Guard, O God, those who guard us, and guide those who govern us."

It was a hot day, and two sailors had just been released from a long spell of duty on a mine sweeper. They made a bee-line for the first public house they saw and one of them ordered two quarts of ale. The men emptied their mugs in one draught while the barmaid looked on in undisguised admiration. The man who had paid stood for a second or two wetting his lips meditatively, and then turned to his comrade with a grin. "'Tain't so bad, Bill, is it?" He remarked. "Shall we 'ave some?"

Everything was ready for kit inspection, the recruits stood lined up ready for the officer, and the officer had his bad temper all complete. He stalked down the line, eyeing grimly each man's bundle of needles and soft soap, and then he singled out Private Mactootle as the man who was to receive his welcome attentions. "Toothbrush?" he roared. Yes, sir." "Razor?" "Yes, sir." "Hold-all?" "Yes, sir." "H'm! You're all right, apparently," growled the officer, then he barked: "Housewife?" "Oh, very well, thank ye," returned the recruit, amiably, "how's yours?"

A Pointed Question

I want to ask you a question, a question personal to me and not to you: If I know a young man who has given up home, friends, life plans, and a salary of $1,000 a year, given up his all to go to that hell of shot and poisonous gases on a $30 month job, if that young man is willing to fight my battles for me, how many Victory Bonds must I buy to keep my self-respect?—Acon.

Uniformity In School Books

According to a newspaper despatch the Governments of all the Western Provinces from Manitoba to the Coast have agreed upon a scheme for uniform text books in the primary, secondary and Normal schools of the West. Almost simultaneously the Premier of Prince Edward Island paid a visit to Toronto to urge upon the attention of the Provincial Government the project of a uniform series of text books for the Dominion. Education is inextricably bound up with nationality, and such movements are indications of an awakening national consciousness.

Death Of Mrs. Lemke.

Mrs. Wm. Lemke, a former highly respected resident of Walkerton, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Rosenbusch at Kitchener on Saturday, in her eightieth year. Death resulted from pneumonia, following pleurisy from which she had been suffering all summer. The greater part of her life was spent on the farm in Bentinck. Seventeen years ago Mr. and Mrs. Lemke retired to Walkerton, her husband living only a short time after their removal to town. Five or six years ago he removed to Kitchener. A family of seven sons and two daughters survive. They are:—Mrs. George Hossfeld, Detroit; Mrs. Henry of Detroit; John, Christopher and Chas. of Kitchener; Jacob of Sullivan; William and George of B. C. and Mrs. Rosenbusch of Kitchener. The remains were brought from Kitchener on Tuesday for interment. Service was conducted by Rev. [illegible], pastor of the Lutheran church.

Mrs. Robt. Lymberry, who traded properties recently with Mr. Netzke, has moved to town with her family, while Mr. Netzke has taken over her former property north of the town.

Chesley Band supplied the music at Port Elgin Fair, but not with the 160th instruments, which have been some where in England or on the high seas for the last five months, says the Chesley Enterprise.

One of the young men recently summoned for examination by a Richmond (Virginia) draft board claimed exemption on account of his eyes. He had been told of the various methods employed by physicians to detect men who were faking and was determined not to be caught by them. "Read the letters on that wall!" commanded the examining physician. "Where is the wall?" the young Richmonder replied.

A leading Spanish physician says:—Gum camphor —cinnamon camphora— in two small bags of muslin carried about, one in the inside breast pocket of the coat and the other in one of the side pockets of the trousers or overcoat, will prevent catching the dreaded disease. The bag near the breast is to serve as a permanent disinfectant of the breathing air before it enters the lungs, and the other bag is to be taken out occasionally and applied to the nostrils.

At the Methodist General Conference in Hamilton, Mr. Joseph Gibson, the doughty champion of the temperance cause, gave voice to his objections to the ladies of the church serving meals to the delegates and others. His protest was made in his usual vigorous style, his argument being that now the hotels were doing a legitimate hotel business, that which the temperance people advocated, they should be encouraged. Mr. Gibson is right. The hotels having been brought to the point the temperance people wanted they should be supported and given whatever encouragement lies within the power of those who were so insistent upon the changes. Serving meals in church parlors is not doing this.

Christmas Parcels

The post-master-general states that Christmas parcels for the Canadian Expeditionary forces in France should be mailed in time to be dispatched from Canadian ports not later than the middle of November.

Transportation is congested during the Christmas season and those who are sending parcels to their friends in the trenches are urged to post them early if they wish to have them delivered by Christmas.

Letting Lad's Run Wild

Listowel can't afford a constable and in the meantime young lads are running wild on the streets at all hours and making themselves a general nuisance. The situation is a disgrace to the community. Tuesday night a number of them climbed on top of the roofs to a part of the business sections and peppered stones to the opposite side, striking a number of windows and smashing one.—Listowel Banner.

Bruce Boys Out West.

Mr. Malcom MacBeth, of Milverton, who has recently returned from an extended visit to the West, says in a letter to the publisher of the Telescope—Among the old Bruce boys I ran across were:—Hon. Duncan Marshall, John Blue, Provincial Librarian at Edmonton and Rev. James Shortt M. A. of Olds, Alta. who is spiritual adviser to Hon. Duncan Marshall. We had a very enjoyable trip having gone as far as Victoria. The trip was something like the hoop-snake, the sting being in the tail. Just after arriving home my wife and family were taken down with "Flu" and were very ill for a week. I notice that you are doing me the honor of reproducing my letters in the Telescope—the first newspaper that it was my privilege to read."

Married For Forty Cents

A story came from Hamilton of a clergyman marrying a couple and being handed a fee of forty cents, mostly in coppers, the case is not unnaturally spoken of as a "record." Not so, however. The Rev. Neil Campbell, of Oro, tells of marrying a couple and after the ceremony receiving from the groom (there being no groomsman) an envelope which, on being opened some time later was found to contain only a slip of paper and on it written the pious invocation, "Pray for us!" In telling the story, Mr. Campbell is not in the habit of confessing what action he was moved to, but it must be admitted that the incident was a severe test of the good man's piety, and no reasonable man will feel like asking him how long it took him to reach a really Christian frame of mind.—Orillia Packet.

BRIDEGROOM DIED OF FLU

Went From Ceremony To His Bed From Which He Never Rose

For the second time within a short space, death entered the home of Mrs. P. Gress, on Saturday night under very sad circumstance. On the 11th. inst. Mr. Ezra J. Damm, a highly esteemed young farmer of Alsfeld, was united in marriage to Mrs. Gress' third daughter, Lillian. Almost immediately after the ceremony the young man was taken down with the Spanish Influenza which developed with pneumonia, and on Saturday evening, in spite of all that the best care and medical attention could do he passed away. He was a young man of very fine character, highly thought of in the community. In the work of the Evangelical Church at Alsfeld he was very active, having been President of the Y.P.A., Class Leader and teacher in the Sunday School. He was 25 years old, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Damm. Five sisters and two brothers, one of them Overseas, survive. Deep sympathy is felt for the young bride and the bereaved parents and family. The funeral took place from the home of Mrs. Gress on Tuesday afternoon to Alsfeld. Service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Schroeder of Alsfeld, and Rev. E. D. Becker of Mildmay.

THE NEW TRUAX DAM

Has Been More Than Half Finished —Power Development Increased

Work on the rebuilding of the Truax dam has been stopped for the present season. The job is now more than half completed, the new concrete portion extending out 150 feet from the West bank, or well beyond the middle of the river. Not more that half a dozen men, under the foremanship of Ed Kelly, have been working on the job at any one time and they have certainly made good progress. The new dam with a width of 32ft. at the base, and 12 ft. in height is as substantial as it looks and bears all the ear-marks of good workmanship. Already it has brought about a big increase in the amount of power that can be developed for the mill. The "engineer" of the new dam is Mr. R. E. Truax M. P. whose only degree in engineering was taken at the University of practical experience. It is interesting to note that in the construction of the old dam fifty years ago Mr. Truax worked on the job as a laborer at $1.25 a day.

Good Year's Work

The Women's Patriotic League of Cargill, which has done admirable work ever since the beginning of the war, excelled itself the past year, raising over $2750.00. Of this amount over $1,000 was spent on one item alone, yarn. During the year 270 soldiers' boxes were packed, and the articles made up by the women included:—668 Stretcher caps, 205 surgical shirts, 195 suits pajamas, 176 day shirts, 123 bed socks, 49 personal property bags 6 quilts, 837 pairs socks, 25 pairs gloves.

Three Years Overseas

Pte. Frank Zettel, who arrived home last week after three years in France and England, left yesterday to report to the medical authorities at Guelph. He has been laid up with quinsy since his return home. It was in the Spring of 1915 that Frank enlisted with the 34th Batt'n going as Col. Douglas' groom. He got to France the following Spring with the 10th. Battalion and was in the third Battle of Ypres, the Somme and in numerous bombing raids and stunts. It was at the Somme that he got concussion of the brain from close contact with a German shell. When he woke up 48 hours later he was in a hospital where he stayed some months. The effect of concussion is peculiar. All one side of his body to his knees turned black and also the muscle of his other arm. He saw a friend have his heavy boots knocked completely off by concussion without injuring him. After his return to the trenches, Frank developed rheumatic fever which put him out of the fighting for good. His only brother, Urban, who was killed in action in France on August 30th, it is now learned, was killed by concussion.

Popular Young Chaplain Is Victim of Pneumonia

Capt. J. Roy Cain Succumbs To Dread Disease Following An Attack of Flu at the Base Hospital Toronto—A Young Man of Unusual Ability and Consecration Whose Life Promised High Service To Fellow Men—Senior officers Speak In Terms of High Praise of His Work.

A life that gave promise of great usefulness was sadly cut short last Thursday, Oct. 17th, in the passing of Capt. the Rev. J. Roy Kain, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kain, in his 29th. year. Capt. Kain who designed his parish at Thamesville two months ago to go overseas as a Chaplain of the Canadian Forces, was taken ill with Spanish Influenza at Niagara Camp. The trouble developed into pneumonia and he was removed to the Base Hospital, Toronto, whereafter ten days' illness he died.

His brief career affords a shining example of what a young man of courage and ability can accomplish in the face of seemingly insurmountable obstacles. He had been out of school several years, and was working as a mechanic, when he heard and answered the call to the ministry. Though not equipped even with the full Public School course, he boldly started to make his way through college and not content with taking only the necessary theological work, undertook in addition the four years' Arts course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. In the preparatory work he had the encouragement and guidance of his rector, Rev. R. Perdue.

At College, in due time he passed creditably, graduating from Huron College and the Western University, London. In the summer of 1916 he was inducted as rector of the English Church at Thamesville. There he was greatly beloved by his people and on leaving two months ago to take a Chaplaincy with the Canadian forces, both he and Mrs. Kain (formerly Miss Lillian Lockhart of Walkerton) took with them substantial gifts as tokens of love and appreciation of their Thamesville parishioners. Roy Kain was a young man of a fine type of Christian citizenship who was a credit to himself, to his family, and to his native town. Major Birch, the Senior Chaplain for Toronto Military District who attended his funeral here on Saturday and spoke a few words at the grave, paid him the highest compliment that could be paid to one of his profession. He said that no Chaplain that he had met, had appealed to him more or had showed finer qualifications for the calling. He had never heard a preacher speaking to men exercise a deeper spiritual influence. Rev. R. Perdue rector of St. Thomas Church, who had followed Capt. Kain's course throughout with sympathetic interest, spoke appreciatively of his life and work.

CAPT. J. ROY KAIN

Owing to the Board of Health regulations regarding the influenza epidemic, only immediate friends were permitted to attend the service in Church.

Wehengel expects to sail for Overseas shortly but will likely visit his father, Mr. Michael Wehengel here before leaving. A younger brother Joe, also of Detroit, signed up as a Sammie last week.

Died of Pneumonia

A sad death took place at Teeswater on the 19 inst. when Annie Sillick, the young wife of David Hutchinson, lineman of the South Bruce Telephone Co. succumbed to pneumonia, following an attack of influenza. The deceased who was about 24 years of age, had been married a little more than a year. She was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Sillick of Culross, and a young woman of fine personal qualities, highly esteemed by all. Deep sympathy is felt for the young husband and parents in their sad loss. The funeral took place to Smith's Cemetery on Sunday.

Oscar Schefter Improving

Pte Oscar Schefter, the Walkerton lad who had his leg amputated as a result of wounds received in the Canadian's big drive forward in August has written home from an English Hospital that he is doing fine and everybody is awfully good to him. He did not mention that his leg had been taken off, apparently not realizing that his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ignatius Schefter, had been informed of the operation. He mentions several times his brother Frank, says he has written him but hasn't heard and asks the home folks how Frank is getting along. The pathetic part of it is that Frank was killed in action several weeks ago and his parents hope the news will not get to Oscar until he has got further on the way to recovery. Oscar's present address is: General Hospital, Saffron Walden, Essex, England.

BRUCE SOLDIERS' SCHEME

Plan Outlined By Committee of the Bruce Preparedness League Telling What Government Will Do If County Will Back Scheme.

On the 1st. of June, 1916, the Bruce Preparedness League was organized for the purpose, among others, of dealing with the problem of returned soldiers, their employment and settled.

The Problem

The statesmen of the Allied countries realize, it is said, that a greater problem than the war itself is the aftermath of the war. The period of reconstruction and adjustment is difficult and dangerous. It will be characterized by social, political and industrial upheaval and unrest. The thoughtful leaders in the world are already grappling with the problem. It is estimated that of the 650,000 Canadian soldiers enlisted for the war, 300,000 will return to Canada to be absorbed into civilian life. Of these it is estimated that 100,000 will return to former positions and occupations, which will leave 200,000 who will have to be settled in some way or other. There are at present, it is estimated, 350,000 men employed in the manufacture of munitions who will be thrown out of employment at the close of the war. There are 150,000 women who have, since the war, taken the place of men. It will be seen then that there are 650,000 soldiers and civilians who will have to be dealt with and adjusted to the new conditions arising after the war. In other words one person in twelve of our population will become a settlement problem.

Now Is The Time For Action

To leave this problem for the future to take care of would be an act of supreme folly and the County of Bruce has led the way among the counties of Ontario in organizing a league to deal with these problems If the County of Bruce will take definite action now it will achieve a distinction in Canada which will become more apparent as the problem looms before the country.

The First Concrete Proposition

The County of Bruce sent to war approximately 3000 soldiers, many of whom came off the farm, and many of whom have had experience in lumbering and bush life. The soldiers themselves outlined a plan known as Bruce Community Farming Scheme and the League, at Southampton, on the 20th. of June, appointed the undersigned Sub-committee, to deal with the proposition and report on its merits. The Sub-committee had a number of meetings making slow progress, but getting definite information. The Community Farming Scheme was laid before each of the Provincial Governments and the Soldiers' Settlement Board at Ottawa. All the Provincial Governments, except the Government of Manitoba, endorsed the plan and made offers of assistance more or less generous. We are very glad and proud to report that by far the most generous offer which we received was from our Province of Ontario and the Provincial Government has given the scheme most serious and practical consideration made very valuable suggestions and given assurances of very active co-operation and sympathy.

What Has Been Done

The Community Farming proposition has been laid before some 1500 soldiers, perhaps more. 400 of them have studied it, and have applied to come in under this plan; 30 of them are holding themselves in readiness to take up the plan this fall and start work immediately. They are anxious and eager to be doing something. So far as the the Soldiers are concerned everything is in line and the men in readiness to move at once. The Provincial Government and the County of Bruce are undertaking to assist and co-operate at the request of the Soldiers themselves. The plan is their own. The Government has expended already over $1000 in preliminary investigation and last Tuesday a Sub-committee of the undersigned committee met at the Department in the Parliament Buildings in Toronto and went over the whole ground with the Deputy Minister with the result that the Department has promised that immediately the County of Bruce and the Bruce Preparedness League give an assurance that they will stand behind the Community Farming Scheme to the extent of such necessary initial finance, the Department is prepared to expend this fall $10,000 in the erection of the first settlement buildings and proceed to carry out the terms of the offer made.

The Terms of the Government Offer

Memorandum of assistance to proposed Bruce Soldiers' Settlement, Limited which is to be worked out on the basis of a co-operative organization:

1. We will set apart for your settlement the unlocated portions of any Township you may select, and so long as your colonization work is energetically carried on, will reserve to you the exclusive use of the locations set apart.

2. We will construct the necessary roads through the township.

3. We will maintain at a convenient point in the Colony a sufficient number of horses wagons sleighs and farm machinery for the use of the colony. We will sell any portion of these to any settler at cost or rent them at a reasonable figure based on the cost of maintenance.

4. We will erect and equip at a central point for use the necessary camp buildings to enable you to carry on your operations including sleep house, dining room, blacksmith shop, carpenter shop, store room, laundry, and such other buildings as may be deemed necessary, and allow you the use of same free of charge.

5. Should you undertake a winter operation, we will provide, free of charge, sufficient foreman to supervise and direct the bush work.

6. We will provide you with the use of a sawing machine for the cutting of your fuel.

7. We will provide free of charge supervision of your farming operation by trained agriculturists.

8. We will give to each settler at the expiration of five (5) years from his entering upon the scheme a free grant of the lot that may be allotted to him. Settlement duties, as provided by the Crown Land Regulations, having been performed in the meantime in addition to the ten acres of clearing hereafter mentioned.

9. We will pay into the funds of your Organization the sum of $600.00 when ten acres are cleared and made ready for cultivation upon each lot, and a habitable house not less the 16x20 feet erected thereon. Any portion of this $500 may be advanced on progress estimates from our foremen.

10. We will allow to each settler $150 in labor and materials towards the erection of a house upon this lot.

11. We will make advance to settlers up to $500 under the terms and conditions of our Settlers' Loan Act.

What It Means

The Deputy Minister stated that the Department understood in making this offer that it would be committing itself to an expenditure in the long run of about $1500 for each soldier. This is a splendid contribution to the problem of this County and all that is asked is that the County shall finance each man to the extent of $50 for the purpose of enabling the returned soldier to reach his destination in New Ontario and assist him in his living expenses until he can earn his first money. The Government is willing to set aside, provided it has the co-operation of the County as set out, the Township of Shackelton which consists of 55,000 acres, covered with pulp wood, worth $1 on the stump and $7 at the siding, with a clay loam soil and easily cleared. The Township would be divided into farms of 160 acres each and 360 soldiers could be settled on the land. The prospect is that the County of Bruce would take up the centre Township. The value of the pulp wood in the aggregate is enormous and the Transcontinental line runs along the line along the border of the Township. The returned Soldiers from this County who have been to the Township, examined the location, resources and possibilities, have reported favorably upon the proposition.

What We Can Do

1. Co-operate with the Provincial Government in making this scheme possible for the returned soldiers.

2. Give the initial financial assistance of $50 a soldier to help in locating him in the Township and in supporting him until he can get returns.

3. Give financial assistance to the extent, say $1000, to the Bruce Soldiers' Settlement Limited, to be incorporated largely for the purpose of maintaining supplies for the soldiers. This money need not be a gift but a loan to be returned when the earnings from pulp wood, etc., made it possible to do so. The Provincial Government is of the opinion that the first supplies would have to be furnished in this way.

4. Give the returned soldiers a chance to make good.

The Co-operative Plan

In incorporating as the Bruce Soldiers' Settlement Limited, it is not the idea to form a commune. Nothing of the sort. Every soldier at his own option may accept or reject the plan. Each soldier will have the advantage of his individual effort, energy, enterprise and development. Each soldier will have his farm of 150 acres patented in his own name at the end of five years upon the performance of the Crown requirements, but in the matter of buying and selling, and in the matter of manufacturing lumber and cutting pulp wood. The co-operative plan will be adopted, experience having proven its highly successful. Thus by a combination of individual effort and co-operation a colony may be built up which will be a matter of pride to this County and a successful solution of one of the most difficult problems which is confronting this country at the present time.

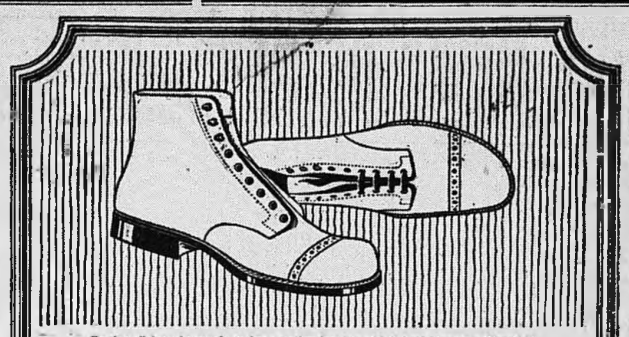
DO NOT FAVOR THE FARM

Prominent Officer Says Lonely Farm Life Does Not Appeal to Returned Soldiers

We spent many an evening in France in our little mess discussing the problem of what men would want to do when they returned, and how they would be absorbed into the life of the community. From what we had seen, we came to the conclusion that many of the men who had been working in clerical positions in cities, now that they had had a taste of life in the open, and had become rugged, would go to the farm in preference to the city. But we have had to reverse that conclusion. We now find that the men, even those who had done things they considered worth while before will no longer attract them. They consider, for instance, that the question of making money is not the greatest thing.

The system under which the wounded man lives, and is encouraged to do nothing, in the hospital, really trains him to be a loafer. He is deliberately trained to do nothing. The first thing to do with the average man when he comes back, is to get him gradually broken in to the idea of working and becoming a citizen of the community. I know myself—I came back sick and I can speak from personal experience—that it has taken me practically to the present time to get the point of view of the civilian that things here are worth while. The man at the front has passed through great experiences, and, when he comes back, the ordinary things of life seem dull and unprofitable. In some way, he has to get out of that attitude, which is largely mental.



Economic conditions after the war will play a large part in the absorption of the returned soldiers. Whether competition be great or not, I do not think these men will go on the land unless some means can be provided whereby they can live together and have a community life. I do not think they will consider for one moment going back on those large farms on the prairie.

GREAT BRITAIN'S PART

In The World Fight Against Autocracy Ably Portrayed At Teachers Convention Gathering By Rev. Dr. Johnston of Montreal—Nation Finds Its Soul In Agony of Blood—Britain's Spirit the Finest Thing of All

With eloquence perhaps never equalled on a Walkerton platform Lieut. Col. the Rev. Dr. Johnston of Monreal, one of Bruce County's most distinguished sons, reproduced for a large audience at the Town Hall last Thurs evin. some word-pictures of scenes he had witnessed during his recent visit to the battle-fronts of the great war. Dr. Johnston went overseas as a guest of the British Foreign office and got an intimate view of things. He was in the tanks and submarines and saw England from an airplane. Dr. Johnston sought to impress upon his audience the amazing part Great Britain has taken in the great war, a part the world does not realize or appreciate. With the natural unobtrusiveness of the race, England has been silent about her magnificent achievments while bestowing genpare, thus praise upon her Overseas dominions and her Allies England whom she agreed to provide France with 1,000 troops in case of war. She has made good her promise by over 100 per cent. Her navy which was onorously the greatest before the war, has been increased 300 per cent in the last four years. Her navy has transported 13,000,000 men, vast numbers of animals, and enormous quantities of supplies. Over five millions of her people are doing war work at home. Scarcely a family in the British Isles but has had one or more killed in action. Her treasury has poured forth its bullion Arabic thout stint to her Allies until one-third of her wealth was gone. But the Prof. finest thing of all was the spirit which she did it. Therein she showed her true greatness.

The When asked on his return from England what that he had seen impressed him most, Dr. Johnston replied "England herself." He had a splendid opportunity of seeing England, and, one of his experiences being a 279 gold ride through the clouds. The ride was a delightful sensation. The passenger experiences no sickness as the plane glides smoothly through the air. It was a beautiful June morning that the Dr. had his first flight and the panoramas presented by rural England was enchantingly beautiful. What struck him greatly was that so little part of the landscape was occupied by houses. There is plenty of room in the old world yet.

France, said the speaker, is "Scotland plus." France has all the romance, all the chivalry, and all the martial spirit of Scotland but she has got more of it. He visited Vimy Ridge churned into desolation by shell-holes, and saw where little Hun towns had been— now nothing but a mound of bricks. He visited one of the cemeteries back of the lines and copied the inscription from the Pace ave of a friend for the lad's father Lough ere lying now row upon row were Cut bodies of our boys who would Mather e been the leader among our Lough fessional men, farmers, and appoint teamen during the coming genlightion. The speaker saw a dressing after c ion on the British Front in it- "God just after a raid and was able to Tre alk in highest terms of the work Total e by the Red Cross and Medical Total rps. While there he stood in the Balan ve Valley, just 70 yards away the Austrian trenches. Speak- Balance of the nation's agony caused by Red C war, he showed how good is Gra ming out of it. Before the war we were all but smothered by our Great prosperity. We are now finding ourselves. Only through suffering can the individual or the nation be redeemed. There is no redemption without the agony of blood. It is always so.

With a long program scheduled for the evening Dr. Johnston's time was limited. One could wish that the speaker of his ability with such an important message might have taken the whole evening to himself.

What I.O.D.E. Is Doing

Mrs. J. Wisser, regent of the I. O. D. E., who presided at the request of the lady teachers, gave an interesting resume of the work that the daughters of the Empire are doing, and told how they were planning to erect a monument more lasting than bronze to our Canadian heroes by educating the strangers within our gates to be good Canadian citizens by instilling the thrill of national pride in Canada's achievements. She asked the Walkerton Chapter to do more to further this enterprise and 20 lbs. to begin with a library for the school at Prince Albert, Sask.

Miss Curtis, who lately joined the Mr. hospital Staff, and is a trained singer of ability, delighted the audience with a solo, "Farewell To Summer" and as an encore, "Alicea Alconah."

Hanover should be proud of its young ladies' Gymnastic Club. Their numbers given by the direction of Mrs. Ruttle, made a great hit and many expressed the wish that the Club might be secured to give an entire entertainment here. Their dancing showed ability and careful training. The "Irish Washwoman" and the Sailor's Hornpipe, danced by one of the members were especially good. The concluding number, a pantomime, The Shepherd and Shepherdess, was well executed.

A recitation "Dan'l Tries Conserving Daylight," was a very funny piece dealing with a timely topic, given by Miss Florence Cunningham in her imitable style

STUNG!

No Coal! For many months the town coal committee has made an endeavor to buy a boatload of coal. Many people subscribed to the scheme, and volunteered to take a certain number of tons of coal. Well, at this late day, we are informed, there's "nothing doing." First, the Fuel Controller, as we understand it, demanded $10.00 for a license which would permit us to buy the coal in bulk. The 10-spot was forwarded, but no information came as to how the coal was to be procured. Then a demand came to the Committee for $25.00. This, too, was sent. Finally the chairman of the committee wrote asking when and how we were to get our coal. The head push at Ottawa answered "The Fuel Controller at Toronto will furnish you with coal—write him," which advice was immediately followed. Now come word from Toronto that we will have to fish for ourselves—get coal where we can or do without. So we're between the devil and the deep sea. No coal, after all the correspondence and anxiety—and $35 in the hole.—Algoma Advocate.

A SURE CURE

Abou Ben Had'em—may his tribe increase—
Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace.
He rolled him over, and his form he eased,
He fixed his pillow—then, behold, he sneezed!
He cooled his forehead with a pillow slip;
He said: "By jing, I have got the grip!"
He called—his household angel quickly came,
With lamp in hand a good and portly dame.
She gave him barks, she gave him boneset tea.
But naught relieved his fearful miseree.
She gave him stuff that made poor Abou sweat,
Then rubbed him down, but still he suffered yet.
She gave him pills and squills both thin and thick,
And still her patient was most awful sick.
And must poor Abou die? O fearful thought!
She got some whiskey and she made it hot.
She filled up Abou to his noble throat
And made him fuller than an alley goat.
He rose and dressed himself—he left his bed,
And then he painted half the city red.
L'Envoi.
Next day beneath the magisterial crest
Abou Ben Had'am's name led all the rest. —The Khan.

WALKERTON BOY MAKES GOOD

When Saskatonians were tickled to death by the travellers' parade yesterday, says the Saskatoon Star, many knew that the guiding genius behind the affair was Roy Todd. He is modest however, and when The Star man tried to get his photograph for this column he said we ought to run a group of "all the boys." By means of devices the nature of which we will not disclose however, we succeeded in "getting him in." And here he is. He was born in Walkerton, Bruce County, Ont., about thirty-four years ago—at least, that's what he tells his wife. He was educated in the public school at Walkerton, and went into the wholesale crockery business in London, Ont., at the age of nineteen. In 1903 he became a traveller, his territory being from Sudbury to the Pacific Coast. In 1906 he came to Saskatoon, representing John Dromgole's crockery. The war brought changes, and recently he has been representing the Ontario Crockery Co., manufacturers' agents. In 1911 he was married to Miss Maud Napper, niece of Mrs. A. S. Royce, Walkerton, who was a teacher in the Saskatoon public schools, and also a native of Walkerton. They have two boys. He is a junior councillor of the United Commercial Travellers, and he spends his week-ends with Alan Sproatt running an electric clothcutting machine for the Red Cross Society.

Pat has resumed his old duties, those of railway porter, after being at the front nearly three years. He was asked by a traveller if he noticed many changes at Christmas-time. Pat replied, "Sure, an' Oi do, sorr. Most of the men on the station are now women, the eleven train starts a twelve, the express doesn't stop at all and there's no baght train."

SCOUTS "ALERT"!

The Scouts have been busy working on the roll and I heard a whisper that there is a likelihood of a Bugle coming their way. That's fine, earn what you get and you will appreciate it all the more.

The second Scout Law:—A Scout is loyal to the King, his Officers, his Country, his Parents and to his Employers. You will remember the big Naval Battle of this war "The Battle of Jutland." In the Jutland Honours there were 3 V. C. medals presented and the leading one was presented to Mrs. Cornwell in recognition of her boy's devotion to duty. It reads as follows:—Mortally wounded, early in the action. Boy, 1st. Class: John Travers Cornwell remained standing alone at a most exposed post, quietly awaiting orders, until the end of the action, with the gun crew dead and wounded all round him. His age was under 16½ yrs. It does not look much in cold print but the lad's memory will live on as an example to the coming generation of children in the Old Country. In every Public School there is a framed picture of the lad with the above explanation. This boy was an enthusiastic Boy Scout and belonged to a troop in Essex. His mother states he took to Scouting serious. Evidently he showed in his life a splendid example of the 2nd. law of the Scouts. I could tell you lots of what the Scouts have done and doing at the present time in the Old Land.

I do not think there is any possibility of any meetings this week, so practice up your knots and learn the Scout Law off by heart.

Cubs, do not forget your breathing exercises every morning, just 6 deep breaths through the nose. Let your ribs come right up till you almost feel them hit your shoulders, a good prevention for the Flu. Your nose is a filter or purifier and a heater all in one. It warms the air, cleans it, stopping microbes getting into your lungs. Make it a habit, Scouts and Cubs, to breathe through your nose, good long deep breaths at that.

AMNING EVIDENCE GIVEN

Mrs. (Capt.) Roy Kain At Investigation Into Death of Walkerton Soldier At Toronto Base Hospital. Medical Officer In Charge Denies Everything.

An investigation into the circumstances of Capt. (Rev.) Roy Kain's death at the Base Hospital, Toronto last day night. Mrs. Kain, the principal witness, gave damning evidence as to the treatment received by her husband. The medical officer in charge sought to upset her evidence by declaring it to be "absolutely false" and by meanly reflecting upon her husband by innuendo, for which he was deservedly rebuked by the presiding officer. The outcome of the investigation will be watched with interest. If it results in the removal of the officials responsible for the bettering of conditions for others, the protest registered by Mrs. Kain will hav beene well worth while.

Mrs. Kain told her story of the treatment accorded her husband in a simple, straightforward language.

MADE THE SUPREME SACRIFICE

PTE. FRED KENNY

Son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Kenny, of Walkerton, killed in action, Oct. 18th, 1918.

"Killed in action, Oct. 18th," was the sad news that came to Mr. and Mrs. P. Kenny, parents of Pte. Fred Kenny on Sunday. Two letters had just been received from Fred both written while he was out on rest after a hard turn in the trenches. Fred wrote often, not only to his parents but to some of his many friends in town and elsewhere and frequently spoke about his home coming after the war, but Fate decreed otherwise. Fred was born in Walkerton and spent his boyhood here. He was a favorite with everybody and the news of his death on Sunday was received with deep regret throughout the town. It is six is six or seven years ago since Fred left Walkerton for London, where he was at first employed by the Grafton Co. and latterly by R. J. Young & Co., Clothiers and Furnishers. He was 25 years of age and went Overseas last winter. In France he was with the 47th. Batt'n. along with several other Walkerton boys, one of whom, Frank Schefter, was previously killed in action.

Down With Pneumonia

Mr. S. A. Rife had a telegram last week from Saskatoon stating that his son Harris, was dangerously ill with pneumonia. On Monday a wire from from Mr. Rife's brother, Ed, contained the reassuring news that Harris was now out of danger and his condition much improved.

CHURCHES OPEN SUNDAY

Town Schools Will Be Going Full Swing Again On Monday After A Month's Enforced Holiday—Keeping the Lid On Has Probably Kept Flu Out Of Walkerton.

The ban placed upon the Churches, public schools, public library, etc. by the Board of Health will be raised on Saturday, and unless the situation takes a decided change for the worse, which is unlikely, there will be Church service on Sunday and the Schools will open again Monday.

While Walkerton has practically escaped the Flu, the action of the Board of Health in putting the lid on four weeks ago is generally commended. It is quite possible that the precautions taken by the Board of Health, were responsible in a large measure for the way that Walkerton has escaped the Flu while most neighboring towns have been in the throes of it.

The closing of the Churches has been a matter of no small importance to the Churches. While the buildings have been closed, and revenue cut off, overhead expenses have been going on the same as ever, and members will have to dig a bit deeper into their pockets in November to make up October's deficits. Closing up has meant disorganizing the various activities of the churches and some spurring up will be required to catch up to where the work has left off last month. On the other hand the members after four dull and quiet Sundays may be able the better to enjoy a good sermon next Sunday morning from the lips of a preacher, who has had a month's rest from sermonizing.

In the schools especially the High School, where a full year's work is outlined in the curriculum, there will have to be some tall stepping to make up for the last month. It may mean a lower standard of proficiency at the Department Exams next summer. So far as the boys and girls are concerned though, we haven't heard any of them crying about losing a month of school.

The Board of Health ban has also been responsible for the cessation of all social, and patriotic activities. The I. O. D. E., Women's Institute, Tea Room Girls, the Country Patriotic Societies etc., have had to suspend work temporarily but will all, we have no doubt, burst forth with renewed energy soon, and make up for lost time.

MISSING SINCE OCTOBER 1ST.

PTE. ARCHIE FERGUSON

Youngest son of Chief and Mrs. R. H. Ferguson of Walkerton.

"Missing"—that word so dreaded by anxious hearts at home,—is the news that has come to Chief and Mrs. R. H. Ferguson regarding Archie, the youngest of their three sons, who has been serving in France. It is now over five weeks since it happened, but by some oversight, no official word reached the parents until Tuesday. The first intimation was received in a Cable from their daughter, Nursing Sister Annie Ferguson, last week. Archie's brother, Jack, who was in the same Machine Gun Company with him, wrote his parents all about it, but the latter has not yet arrived. For this reason certain portions of a second letter from Jack, proved mystifying to the anxious parents. "I have heard nothing more than I told you in my last letter about Archie", he writes. "He was posted as missing in the Battalion orders. Of course he may not be reported from the Hospital he was taken to if he got out alright. Still in the fighting zone but not nearly so hot a place as it was when Archie was wounded. Had I been with him would have got him out if I had died in the attempt." Jack's first letter will no doubt bring full particulars. Archie was only 18 years of age when he enlisted with the 160th. Bruce Batt'n. the baby of the family. He is a fine, steady, likable chap, and it is the earnest hope of all that better news will come. Archie and Jack both took the Machine Gun Course at Seaford, Eng., and were then transferred to the 1st. Can. Machine Gun Section. They were very close together are being in Battery J. and the other in Battery K. They went to France in Aug. 18th., in time, to participate in much of the heaviest fighting.

WALKERTON WINS A FLAG

County Town Passes Its Objective At Half Time and Is Going Strong—Port Elgin has wonderful record. With Five Crowns On Flag—Rural Sections Are Lagging.

With the Victory Loan campaign just half over, Walkerton passed its objective last night and wins the honor flag. $60,000 was asked of this town and $43,500 has so far been subscribed. Every additional fifteen thousand now will mean a crown added to the flag. That Walkerton's flag will have a few crowns is now practically certain.

The Victory Loan objectives in all Ontario units have been increased twenty per cent. This means that Bruce County is asked to raise $2,400,000. To date the applications received total $850,450. There remain nine canvassing days to complete the job. Every canvassing district will now have to do its full share if old Bruce is to make good.

"The towns and villages are doing pretty well but the townships are not coming up to the mark," is the way one of the Victory loan officials sized up the situation yesterday in conversation with the Telescope. It is pointed out that the Northern District of Ontario the most sparsely settled and inaccessible section of all, is leading the whole province. This should be an incentive to Bruce to show what she really can do. Every one of the next nine days should be made to count big in the piling up a total that will put Bruce in the lead where she belongs.

If Bruce's two million is to be raised, it won't be done by spectators. Are you doing your part?

(this last covering balance of principal and .50 accrued interest.) Or if you want even longer time, you can arrange with any Bank to buy your Bond, extending the payments over nearly a year. You can buy a $100 Bond in the same way. Or a Bond for a larger amount in any of these ways. Interest at 5½ per cent. will be paid to you. You will get the interest each May and November.

PAPER CONTROLLER ABOUT TO "ORDER CUTTING OFF"

OF

UNPAID SUBSCRIPTIONS

At a public hearing in Ottawa the other day in connection with paper conservation, the Paper Controller for Canada intimated that regulations about to be issued would include one of the effects that:

> Publishers of newspapers must cease sending their newspapers to subscribers three months in arrears, unless subscriptions be definitely renewed, and all arrears fully paid.

The reason for this regulation of the Paper Controller is that it is the practice of some publishers to send their newspapers until ordered stopped. It is to prevent paper waste that the new regulation has been decided on.

The manufacture of paper consumes labor, wood, coal, chemicals and transportation facilities, and every ton of paper saved means just so much more labor, raw materials, chemicals, fuel and transportation available for urgent war needs. For these reasons the Government insists that paper shall be saved and proposes that only those who pay for their publications shall receive them.

Under these regulations The Telescope will have no choice in the matter of dealing with "subscriptions in arrears for over three months.

"You need The Telescope, and we want to continue sending it to you. So, if your subscription is in arrears, please pay up at once to prevent a discontinuance of your subscription.

THAT BASE HOSPITAL

Cadet Tells Just How He Was Treated At Institution Where Capt. Roy Kain Died

"How I contracted the Spanish influenza—its symptoms—and the subsequent treatment received at the Base Hospital, Toronto.

"Long Branch Camp, Monday, Oct. 7th, 1918.

"At 4.30 p.m. I complain to the orderly at camp hospital that my throat feels a little raw. The orderly sprays my throat. I go back to quarters. At 7.30 I am in bed in tent, feet are terribly cold, bones and muscles all stiff and sore. The rawness from throat has extended down through the chest. I begin to cough and expectorate; no sleep; cough and expectorate all night.

"Tuesday, the 8th, still in bed in tent, coughing and expectorating. Fever not high, probably about 100. I keep drinking cold water. Some comrades bring in some tea and toast, cannot touch nor look at food. Bad night in tent, temperature probably goes a degree higher.

ORDERED TO BASE . . . .

"Wednesday, the 9th, at 9 a.m. I send for medical officers, who sends orderly, who takes temperature, orders my removal to Base Hospital. I get dressed and lie upon bed awaiting conveyance, which arrives at 10.30 a.m. Arrive at Base Hospital room. Here the affected patients' bundles, and the patients arriving, having no easier nor better place to rest, throw themselves up on these bundles, coughing and expectorating. We loll around altering our position for hours, some lying prone upon the hard barrack room forms that adorn the reception room. At 4.30 p.m. we get orders to change into hospital attire. At 6 p.m. I am in bed, after having climbed, in my then weak state, from the ground floor to the attic room in the building.

"The roof of attic room is low, the walls dirty and fly blown—marked by numerous spider webs. The bed clothing is clean, the white frame work of bed is greasy, and black; dirty hand marks cover it. No attendance is given me until around 8 p.m.; a medical officer then comes and sounds my chest and lungs back and front. A nurse or sister comes and I receive three little white pills, which I learn is calomel. I continue during the night to make excursions to the wash house, imbibing cold water in large quantities. No sleep—cough all night.

COLD WATER FOR FEVER

"Thursday, Oct. 10th. This morning my temperature is normal. I am given some cough mixture. At 3.30 p.m. my temperature rises to 102. I call for sister. I ask for a hot water bottle for my feet. She brings it, also some brandy (weak). I still continue drinking cold water, walking to wash room to get it. My idea for drinking such large quantities of cold water was to cool the fire raging inside me.

"Friday, Oct. 11th. This morning my temperature is 99. I try drinking some cold milk which has been placed at bedside. On a plate lies a piece of bread and some butter roughly spread thereon. This, then, was the patient's nourishment—take it or leave it. I began wondering if I had committed some crime; was this not some prison? Surely, it was not, could not be a hospital. At 4 p.m. my temperature rises to 103. I am given a little more weak brandy. I still keep up the practice of drinking cold water. I put in a very bad night—cough incessantly.

"Saturday, Oct. 12th. Temperature normal, same food, cup of cold milk and piece of bread and butter—cannot eat; the sight of food makes me feel sick.

NATURE'S CURE

Sunday, Oct. 13th. Temperature still normal—poison must have been driven out of system by cold water. The medical authorities here seem to allow nature to play great part in the curing of Spanish influenza. It appeared to me from the first that they were ignorant of any treatment for the disease.

"Monday, Oct. 14th. Still normal temperature—very weak—no suitable nourishment given yet—the same cold cup of milk, the same piece of bread and butter. I crave for some small appetizing thing. No one consulted me on this. I asked an orderly to bring me, if he could at all manage it, just half an orange. His retort was: 'Did I think I was in the King Edward Hotel?' I said 'No,' but I thought all the hotels should have everything the King Edward had.

REMOVED IN ARMY TRUCK

"Tuesday, Oct. 15th. Weak, can scarcely stand on my feet. I am discharged, with about 39 others, to proceed to Burwash Hall. After waiting around the grounds from 2 o'clock until 5 o'clock, the conveyance arrives to take us to Burwash Hall. It was a large Packard army truck used mainly for rations and kits, there were no seat in it—into this we were told to scramble. We had to stand upright, crowded together, holding on to each other. When I saw this arrangement I immediately lodged a complaint with the receiving officer. That gentleman just sat there looking at me—he could suggest no better means of conveyance. Of course, after this, there was nothing for me to do but climb in amongst that emaciated, weak, trembling crowd. The ride was rough.

"Wednesday, Oct. 16th. Burwash Hall. We are here I believe, for three days. The food is just simply barrack room rations—nothing nourishing or appetizing. Is the Canadian Government bankrupt—has Germany defeated us? I suppose we may look for some such similar treatment after the war.

"I withhold my name for Military purposes. Would like Mayor Church to see this.

(Sgd.,) "SUFFERER."

A HOUSE-CLEANING NEEDED

(The Globe.)

"Did anybody suffer from it (the condition and the overcrowding of the Base Military Hospital?")—Surgeon General Guy Carleton Jones, in charge of hospitalization in Canada.

"A lot of people died from it. That is just what we are here to investigate."—Crown Attorney R. H. Greer.

The ignorance and unconcern of Surgeon-General Jones and the insolence and unconcern of Surgeon-General Fetheringham as to the care and treatment of Canada's soldier sons in sickness at the Base Hospital place upon the Minister of Militia and the Government of the Dominion an unpleasant but imperative duty. The service of these two officers, specially entrusted with that branch of service, will doubtless be dispensed with. Any usefulness they may have had is at an end. But administrative action ought not to terminate with their dismissal. The Government, if it is well advised, will, without further delay, institute a thorough house-cleaning of this whole department of official "Ottawa."

The evidence of General Jones is an amazing revelation of the manner in which he regarded the responsibility of the office he holds. In charge of military hospitalization in Canada, and within a stone's throw of an institution which had been repeatedly the subject of criticism, protest, and recommendation on the part of the General Officer Commanding the district, General Jones testified that, at the time of the steady oncoming of the influenza epidemic, he had reported favorably on the situation without even taking the trouble to visit the Base Hospital or the east residence of Burwash Hall. On the statement of a subordinate he had undertaken to give them a clean bill. A medical officer with this notion of his duty toward young Canadians in khaki has no longer place in the public service of the Dominion. His conduct on the witness stand caused the Crown Attorney on one occasion to ask him sharply whether it was his wilful purpose to misunderstand the matters upon which he was being examined.

The evidence of Colonel F. W. Marlow formerly Assistant Director of Medical Services in this military district, is an illuminating revelation of the unconcern as to conditions regarding military hospitalization which prevails in that branch of officialdom at Ottawa which is entrusted with its control. Dr. Marlow testified that he found there was not sufficient hospital accommodation in the early part of 1917, when there was no large R.A.F. units in Canada, no draftees, and not so many returned soldiers to care for. He had repeatedly made urgent recommendations to "Ottawa," and he described the condition of the hospital accommodation and the refusals of "Ottawa" to pay any attention to his appeals as "one of the most potent reasons" for his subsequent resignation.

The Government cannot afford to "pussy-foot" with this situation. The lives of young soldiers have been the ghastly penalty already paid for tolerating the breed of arrogant and unconcerned officialdom represented by the Fetheringhams and Joneses. These men must go, and all others who stand for the system they created or perpetuated. Canada must forthwith be supplied with a military medical service which is active, competent, and humanitarian—with officers who are really concerned with the welfare and well-being of the boys whom mothers, fathers, wives, and sisters hold dear.

BILLY AND BUM AND I

No secrets are held between us three—
Billy and Bum and I;
For Billy's a dog with a silver cup,
And Bum is a cross-grained mongrel pup,
And I—Well, I'd just a boy grown up
We're friends, so why should there secrets be?
Billy and Bum and I;

We're known to the vales and winding stream,
Billy and Bum and I;

To the open plain and the wooded hill,
To the haunts of the lark and the whip-o'-will,
Where solitude peace in our minds instill;
While strolling, the mysteries of nature glean,
Billy and Bum and I;
As 'long through the moss-banked paths we stray,
Billy and Bum and I;

In my confidence those two dogs I take,
I tell of the hopes and the dreams I make,
Of the fight to win and the prize at stake,
We drink at the pool to speed the day,
Billy and Bum and I;
We often find time for a romp and a play,
Billy and Bum and I;

We leap o'er the rills; in green grass lie;
Too swiftly the hours of day flash by.
Till we know how the sun in the sun in the western sky
We've reached the end of a perfect day,
Billy and Bum and I.

THE STRANGER

"Who's the stranger, mother dear?
Look, he knows us—ain't he queer

Father passed away last Spring."

Father joined a golfing club.
But they've closed the club, so he Has no place to go, you see—
No place left for him to roam—
That is why he's coming home.
Kiss him — he won't bite you, chi
All them golfing guys look wild!"

Zam-Buk! This is the appeal that is constantly reaching us from the front, and we pass it on in case there may yet be some who do not know how necessary Zam-Buk is to the boys in France. Amongst the many letters that have been brought to our notice, is one which reads: "I wish we could get more Zam-Buk sent out from home instead of so much tobacco. We can get tobacco here, but unfortunately we cannot always get Zam-Buk, and we need it badly."

Zam-Buk is used by the soldiers for sore hands, frostbite, cold cracks, cuts, sores of all kinds (including gas sores), and sore and blistered feet. It is put up in tins of convenient size for carrying in the pocket so that a man can have it handy to apply at the right moment. When an injury is treated immediately with Zam-Buk, there is no danger of festering or blood-poisoning.

Zam-Buk is just as necessary, too, at home for injuries and skin troubles of all kinds. All dealers or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 50c box, 3 for $1.25. Send this advertisement and 1c stamp (for return postage) to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, and receive FREE SAMPLE.

The High Cost of Whims

THE United States Government has found it necessary to issue strict orders regulating the styles of shoes. Why? Because the high cost of fads imposes a burden all along the line—upon manufacturer, dealer and consumer, and upon the Government itself.

Such action may be avoided in Canada, if you—the consumer—will co-operate with the manufacturer in reducing the demand for extravagant styles—if you will buy prudently, for service rather than for effect.

To do this will be a direct benefit to you. You will get better and longer service, more comfort, and your shoes will be quite as neat and attractive. You will need fewer pairs of shoes in the course of a year.

More than that: you will help to cut down needless extravagance, to reduce superfluous stocks on the dealers' shelves, to keep prices down, and to release essential supplies of leather for our forces overseas.

The Telephone Service and Spanish "Flu"

In common with the general community the operating staff has been affected by the present epidemic of colds and influenza and has been seriously depleted in consequence. At the same time the volume of telephone calls is greatly increased. So many people are ill at home that the telephone has been used continuously and the load of extra calls on our depleted operating force has been very heavy. Please keep this extraordinary situation in mind and USE YOUR TELEPHONE ONLY WHEN ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY. You will thus be helping to keep the service intact to meet the urgent needs of the community in the present emergency:

SPANISH INFLUENZA RAGES IN CANADA

Thousands of Cases Reported With Many Deaths.

THOSE WHO ARE MOST SUSCEPTIBLE TO IT

"FRUIT-A-TIVES"—The Wonderful Fruit Medicine—Gives the Power To Resist This Disease.

The epidemic of Spanish Influenza which played such havoc in Europe, has reached this continent. Thousands of cases of the strange malady have appeared and many deaths are already reported; Surgeon-General Blue of the United States Public Health Service having stated that "Spanish Influenza will probably spread all over the country in six weeks".

Practically every ship which touches our shores from abroad, brings those infected with the disease.

Surgeon-General Blue urges that "the individual take all the precautions he can against contracting the disease by care and personal hygiene". Plenty of exercise should be taken; the diet should be regulated, etc.

Spanish Influenza affects most severely elderly persons and others whose powers of resistance are weakened by illness, work or worry, especially those who are "run-down" or "not feeling up to the mark."

The really great danger from the disease is not so much in the disease itself, as that it often develops into pneumonia.

What everyone needs now is a general tonic like "Fruit-a-tives". This wonderful fruit medicine is not a germ-killer. It is a body-builder; a strength-maker; a blood-purifier; a power in protecting against the ravages of disease.

"Fruit-a-tives" regulates the kidneys and bowels, causing these organs to eliminate waste regularly and naturally as nature intended. "Fruit-a-tives" Keeps the skin active, and purifies and enriches the blood. "Fruit-a-tives" tones up and strengthens the organs of digestion, insuring food being properly digested and assimilated.

Everyone can take ordinary precautions, avoid crowded places, and use "Fruit-a-tives" regularly to insure sound digestion, to keep the bowels and kidneys regular and the whole system in the best possible condition. Then we are safe from disease.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by dealers everywhere at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

A Good Work is This

A dentist examined pupils in ten schools in the Bruce Peninsula, under the auspices of the Women's Institute of Wiarton, and reports 73 per cent. with decayed teeth, and 65 per cent. requiring medical attention and 75 per cent. dental attention. Only two per cent. of the pupils showed normal condition. This goes to show the great need of dental inspection and attention to the teeth of the boys and girls attending school in rural sections if they are to be kept in good health.

WHEN a child starts coughing mother's duty is to give the little sufferer a Peps tablet, and thus prevent any weakening of the lungs. As the tablet dissolves in the child's mouth, the soothing medicinal fumes given off pass through the tender breathing passages straight to the lungs and bring immediate comfort and relief.

Peps contain no opium or other harmful drugs, and can be given to a child of either whole or crushed to powder with the assurance of absolute benefit.

One Little Pep at night will clear the respiratory passages and let the little one's sleep be unbroken by coughing fits. A Pep before starting out on a cold or inclement day is also an unfailing safeguard for the children against colds and chests.

Quick Word From Son.

Mr. Amos Hoover had quick news from his son, Pte. Bert Hoover, who was officially reported admitted to Hospital on Oct. 17th., with gunshot wound in right arm. Two weeks from the day he was reported wounded Mr. Hoover had a letter from Bert, written from a Military Hospital, at Edmonton, London, Eng. telling how he was getting on. He wrote, "Am writing with my left hand as I was hit in right arm by rifle bullet. Bone isn't mashed much so don't worry as I am alright here. Grinder Blown Up

Monday evening the grinder in the Feversham Oppen furrier's mill blew up, scattering pieces of metal about the mill and sending some of it up into the second story. In fact it went flying in all directions about the miller and his helper escaped being hurt by the flying pieces. The grinder is a mass of scrap iron. A span of horses belonging to Mr. Wiseman of Gibralter was standing at the door while he was loading his chop and ran away when the noise of the crash came and ran around the mill shed, hitting Will Alexander knocking him down and running over him. His collar bone was broken and he was otherwise injured. We understand Mr. Alexander is seriously injured.—Flesherton Advance.

Damning Evidence

It was that her husband had died because of the unsatisfactory conditions at the Base Hospital. Mrs. Kain said her husband was placed in a ward with five other patients who were dying, and that during the times she visited him there she had seen two men die before her husband passed away. He died in her presence and was the third she had seen cross the great divide, and a fourth man was dying at the time her husband breathed his last. Her husband was conscious and rational until within two hours of his death. He had complained that the medical officers had not examined his chest from the time of his admission on Monday, October 7, to the following Friday. She had called the attention of the nurses to this, but did not speak to the doctors on the matter. Each time she had visited the hospital her husband expressed great dissatisfaction with the treatment he was receiving and desired to have a special nurse. Mrs. Kain said she was convinced from what she saw at the hospital her husband would have had a much better chance of recovery if he had received more careful attention. She did not blame the nurses, because they tried to be kind, but they were overworked. They had too many patients to look after. She was unable to make any specific charge of neglect against anyone, but she felt that "no special interest was taken in the patients."

Air of Carelessness

"There was an air of carelessness about the place." Her husband was conscious that the men around him were dying and that alone was not conducive to his recovery. In reply to Lieut.-Col. J. A. MacDonald, A.J.A.G., Mrs. Kain said she realized the seriousness of her complaints. She had no desire to injure the reputation of anyone, but was anxious that the truth should be known. "The conditions in that room where my husband was placed were not helpful to a man getting better." She had called the attention of the nursing sister to the very bad smells her husband had, while she was there, but the nurse made light of them, and made no attempt to call the doctors or to do anything to afford her husband relief. She explained that she had been told that her husband was getting better and would recover. Then she had a message saying that his condition was most serious, and she had better come at once. She responded to that call, and was with him almost constantly until he died. Several times during those last days he referred to the lack of consideration shown the patients. When he entered the hospital his condition was not serious. He had a mild attack of influenza, and should not have been placed in a ward with serious cases.

Alleges Neglect

Asked by Col. MacDonald if she would go as far as to say her husband's death was the result of neglect, Mrs. Kain promptly answered, "Yes, according to his statements." Mr. Macdonald retorted sharply, "I don't want that, I want your own opinion." Mrs. Kain replied, "I can only say that if conditions had been different he would have recovered." This answer displeased Mr. Macdonald, and he began to cross-examine the witness in a very severe manner, which caused Crown Attorney Greer to protest. Mrs. Kain, continuing, said it was very hard for her to explain just what she desired to convey of carelessness about the place. It was not until the night prior to her husband's death that he was told he might call in a private physician.

Broke His Leg.

One of the G.T.R. gang of painters, named Dalrymple sustained a fracture of the big bone of his right leg yesterday afternoon. He was knocked off a scaffolding at the station by some of the passengers knocking against the ladder with the above result.

Quite Unnecessary Waste

With half the people of Walkerton wondering where their winter's fuel is going to come from, the burning of an enormous quantity of boxes and barrels to make a bonfire at the post office corner Monday night ought not to have been permitted. At a time when government, press, and pulpit are calling for thrift such wanton wastefulness should not be tolerated. People could have celebrated with a good deal more zest without the spectacle of whole cartloads of good fuel going up in smoke to provide entertainment for a few silly numbskulls with long pants but short brains. One doesn't need to be told that those who piled on the fuel were were not paying the shot. The boxes were purloined from private premises. The door of one merchant's shed was broken open and no less than forty packing cases taken. This is only one instance. The Town Council will likely be asked to foot the bill.

Old Timer Revisits Town

Mr. John Reid, an old former citizen of Walkerton, paid a short visit to the town last week while in the East to attend the funeral of his brother, James, in Huron County. Mr. Reid was employed with the Noxons here in the Flour mill and later with the late David Moore, leaving here upwards of thirty years ago. He is now with the Ogilvie Milling Co. out West.

Drowned In Wreck

Mrs. Fred J. Wilton of Carrick, had a telegram last week announcing the death of her sister, Mrs. Norman McLeod (nee Mary A. Dickison) who with her husband was one of the 346 souls who perished in the wreck of the C.P.R. steamship Princess Sophia on the Pacific Coast on Oct. 27th. Mrs. McLeod went West a number of years ago and kept a store at Atlin, B. C. near the Alaskan border. A few years ago she married Mr. McLeod, a prosperous mining man. When they met their death they were on their way from Atlin to Vancouver to spend the winter.

Stop The Hoarding

If half the reports are true, there is urgent need for the local fuel commissioner to visit some of the cellars of the town and see to it that our meagre supply of anthracite be distributed fairly. A shipment of coal that came to one of our local dealers last week is reported to have gone mostly to the people who were already well provided for, while less fortunate citizens have been unable even to get the beginning of their winter's supply. At one place the waggon called, two big hins were nearly full. After heaping both bins up high the driver, perhaps to emphasize his disgust at the customer's hoggish propensities, scooped the balance of the load into a small outhouse where it remained heaped up —a fitting monument to the owner.

Died in B. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wehengel received the sad news by wire on Monday that their second son, Peter, had died of pneumonia the previous day at Fernie, B. C. It was the first intimation they had received that he had been sick and it came as a shocking blow. Peter owned a farm at Edgerton, Alta., and as the crop was a failure this year, he went to British Columbia a few weeks ago to look for work for the winter. It is thought he was ill but a few days. The remains were interred at Fernie on Wednesday, Nov. 6th. Peter was in his twenty-eighth year and leaves beside his parents, four brothers and five sisters. They are: Capt. (Dr.) Wehengel, now on duty at New Haven, Conn., Will and Frank of Brant; Jos. of the U. S. Army, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Monahan, of Yale, Mich.; Mrs. Will Ryan of Brant; Miss Adeline of Detroit.

Walkerton Jubilates

Walkerton took a night off on Monday to celebrate the downfall of Kaiser Bill's right bower, the Hapsburgs. At 7.30 p. m. a torch light and auto procession was formed in front of the Town Hall and paraded around the Town. A big bonfire was lighted at the post office corner and the church bells and factory whistles added to the general jubilation. After the procession had gone the rounds, Mayor Johnston addressed the the crowd from the Town Hall steps, and called upon other speakers including D. Robertson K. C., John A. Rowland, Frank Rennie, Rev. C. W. Cosens, and Rev. R. Perdue. The speeches took a serious note of gratefulness for the good things that were now coming to Canada and Allies, and pride in the brave deeds of our boys Overseas, so many of whom have given their lives. Every speaker put in a good word for Victory Bonds, urging the people to finish the job right by subscribing liberally.

Had Leg Amputated

Chief Ferguson had further word this week from his daughter, Nursing Sister Annie Ferguson, regarding his son, Sergt. Bob Ferguson, who was so seriously wounded a few weeks ago. Bob is now in England and in charge of his sister, so that he is bound to receive the very best attention. One point in her letter was that the cable was wrong in stating that Bob had lost an arm. It was his leg that required amputation. She writes:—

"The wound on the arm is only slight and as you know his left leg is amputated above the knee but his most serious wound is the right side. The wound itself is not much, but it involves a lot. The shrapnel ball entered the side and passed downwards causing partial paralysis. Now his condition is very good, considering all that he has passed through, and they tell me here he has improved wonderfully during the few days he has been in here. He has a lot of pain at times but he is wonderfully cheerfully and patient. He will have to have an operation for the removal of the shrapnel but that will have to be done in England so I am going back with him and am trying to have him sent to Brighton so that can be near him all the time."

William Webber, an old resident of the town, who had been ill for some time with bladder and kidney trouble, passed away at his home over the West end bridge on Sunday. His wife predeceased him on the 16th of last month, succumbing to a paralytic stroke followed by the flu. Mr. Webber was in his 77th. year. He came to Walkerton from Dallinafad about twenty years ago. A grown up family of one son and five daughters survive. They are: — Wesley of Eyebrow, Sask; Mrs. Erickson of Vancouver, B. C.; Mrs. Huycke, Mrs. (Dr.) Shaw and Mrs. Goodheart of Shaunavon, Sask., and Miss Louisa of Detroit.

"Keep Home Fires Burning."

Isaac had been drafted and sent to France.

Jacob, his partner, distracted, had hanged Isaac to cable when he got over.

Three weeks elapse. No cable.

Jacob cables Isaac: "Isaac! Woe is us! Our factory burned down ten days ago. Settled with insurance company for $60,000. Why don't you cable or write?"

Three weeks more. No reply.

Jacob cables again: "Isaac! Woe is us! Our storage warehouse burned down last week. Total loss. Settled for $75,000. I am nearly crazy from grief. Why don't you cable? Are you dead?"

Three weeks more. No reply.

Jacob cables again: "Isaac! Woe is us! Our main office burned last week. Settled insurance for $90,000 I will die if you don't cable. Haven't heard from you at all. Where are you? Are you alive?"

Answer comes next day:

"Jacob stop that nonsense—spending all your money for cables! I'm all right. You just keep the home fires burning!"

A YEAR IN ITALY

Lieut. Les Hunther Flew Over Mediterranean In Search of German "Tin Fish"

Lieut. Les Hunther, whose visit to town was reported in last week's Telescope, has had an interesting experience since he last saw Walkerton. During the past year he was with the British Flying Forces in Italy. He was stationed near the mouth of the Adriatic, just at the heel of the boot as the map shows it. The Flyers' job was to get the Austrian and German submarines that were constantly slipping out to infest the Mediterranean. In this work they were assisted by British, French and Italian torpedo-boat destroyers and other small craft. During the year they managed to bag a number of the "tin fish", although it was a difficult proposition. Out in the Mediterranean the flyers can see a long distance under water, not so in the Adriatic.

The Southern part of Italy, which Leslie saw most of, struck him as being very barren and rocky and poverty appeared to be general. The Italians did some great work on the Austrian front the past year, and the presence of the British and Allied fighters side by side with them had a very heartening influence. Les had several weeks in Rome and did not miss the opportunity of a lifetime to view some of the world's grandest architectural and artistic sights in that wonderful old metropolis.

Geo. D. McKay III

The Victory Loan organization has been handicapped the past week by the absence of the Secretary, Geo. D. McKay, who was an important factor in the success of last year's campaign. Mr. McKay, who caught cold while on his organizing tour through the County a few weeks ago. In his anxiety to resume the organization work he came out too quickly, took a relapse, and for nearly a week, has been in a very serious condition with bronchitis and pneumonia. His doctor reported a distinctly favorable turn yesterday and his many friends throughout the length and breadth of Bruce will be pleased to know that he is now quite out of danger.

Back From West

Mr. Robert Irwin, who returned last week from a business trip to the Saskatoon district, says that the Flu epidemic has been very bad up there, although the proportion of deaths has been small. Crops were poor in the neighborhood where his farms are located, running from 6 to 10 bushels to the acre but most of the farmers cleared expenses which means a good deal those times when it is considered that harvest help cost as high as $8 a day this summer. Western optimism is proof against all kinds of failure though, and even those who get hit the hardest take it with a smile and "better luck next year" is the cry.

NOTICE

Military Service Act, 1917.

EMPLOYMENT OF MEN IN DEFAULT UNDER THE MILITARY SERVICE ACT.

The following Regulations, recently approved by the Governor General in Council, impose strict obligations upon every employer TO ASSURE HIMSELF THAT EACH OF HIS EMPLOYEES OF MILITARY AGE AND DESCRIPTION IS IN POSSESSION OF DOCUMENTS PROVING THAT HE IS NOT IN ANY WAY IN DEFAULT UNDER THE MILITARY SERVICE ACT.

Any employer who is charged with having a man in his employ must be able to prove THAT THE MILITARY SERVICE PAPERS ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OR MILITARY AUTHORITIES TO THE EMPLOYEE IN QUESTION WERE PRODUCED FOR HIS INSPECTION at the time when the employee was taken into employment, and that it was reasonably established to his satisfaction that the man was not in default under the Military Service Act. It should be clearly understood that the Canadian Registration Certificates given on June 22, 1918, at the time of general registration, in no way define the status of a man under the Military Service Act.

REGULATIONS.

106. Every person who employs or retains in his service any man who has deserted or been absent without leave from the Canadian Expeditionary Force, or who is in default in the performance of any obligation or requirement for reporting or for military service, imposed upon him by the Act or Regulations, or any proclamation thereunder, shall be guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by a penalty of not less than One Hundred Dollars, and of not more than Five Hundred Dollars, or by both such imprisonment and fine, unless such person prove that he made due inquiry and that THE MILITARY SERVICE PAPERS ISSUED BY THE REGISTRAR OR THE MILITARY AUTHORITIES TO THE MAN SO EMPLOYED OR RETAINED IN HIS SERVICE WERE PRODUCED FOR HIS INSPECTION, and that it was reasonably established to his satisfaction by such inquiry and papers that the man was not a deserter or absent from the force without leave, or in default in respect of any of the obligations or requirements aforesaid.

"106a. Every person who HARBOURS OR CONCEALS OR IN ANY WAY ASSISTS ANY MAN WHO IS A DESERTER OR ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE FROM THE CANADIAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, or who is in default in the performance of any obligation or requirement for reporting or for military service imposed upon him by the Act or Regulations or any proclamation thereunder, shall be guilty of an offence punishable upon summary conviction by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or by a penalty of not less than One Hundred Dollars and of not more than Five Hundred Dollars, or by both such imprisonment and fine, unless such person prove that he was not aware and had no reasonable ground to suspect that the man so harboured, concealed, or assisted was a deserter or absent from the forces without leave or in default in respect of any of the obligations or requirements aforesaid."

MILITARY SERVICE BRANCH.

NOTICE TO SOLDIERS ON HARVEST LEAVE.

Attention is directed to a recent announcement published in the Press by the Military Service Branch, Department of Justice, regarding extensions to be granted to men EXEMPTED AS FARMERS.

It is pointed out that this DOES NOT IN ANY WAY AFFECT MEN WHO HAVE BEEN ORDERED BY THE REGISTRAR TO REPORT to Depot Battalions and who have thereafter received leave of absence from the Military Authorities.

Where a man has been ordered to report for duty by the Registrar he leaves the jurisdiction of the Registrar and comes under that of the Department of Militia and Defence, and is to be considered as a soldier. This applies to men of the 20 to 22 years who have been ordered to report by the Registrar in consequence of the cancellation of exemptions by Order-in-Council of the 10th April last, as well as to those ordered to report in the event of an appeal on refusal of claim for exemption, or on expiration of exemption granted.

All men, accordingly, who have been ordered to report, and therefore SOLDIERS, and who have subsequently been granted harvest leave by the military authorities, MUST, NOTWITHSTANDING THE NOTICE ABOVE REFERRED TO, REPORT ON THE EXPIRATION OF THEIR LEAVE, unless they are notified to the contrary by their Commanding Officer or by general notice published by the Department of Militia and Defence.

DEPARTMENT OF MILITIA AND DEFENCE.

BRUCE BOY'S EXPERIENCE

Tells of Thrilling Time In Last Big Push—Words Are Quite Inadequate To Tell What The Boys Are Passing Through, So It Goes Undescribed.

The following interesting bit from the Front is taken from a letter written home by Will Clark at Port Elgin:—We are living in a barn. Wire bunks were put in a row. They are three bunks high and 15 long. That is there are 15 bunks side by side and the ends are toward the passage. This whole structure is supposed to be self-supporting. There are, of course, a couple of bits of wire fastening it to the wall. I was one of the fellows who preferred to take a top bunk. It is about 7 feet from the floor—or the ground really. The ground is the floor. The whole bunk structure is perilously unstable. The first day I felt sure it was going to collapse. Once the fellows begin crawling in for the night and spreading out ground sheets, etc., writing becomes an almost impossibility.

I don't think I told you about my experience of being in the first party to enter a German dugout. I never had that experience until the last push. Our fellows pushed the front line six hundred yards forward in the afternoon. We went through a German artillery barrage without a casualty, not a scratch. We did no ducking, just walked straight on—people watching us from away back through glasses, thought we would be wiped out—It's wonderful—the things which we have been used all our lives to seeing and describing and hearing described, the words we use for these things are quite inadequate for these new things and they go undescribed. But that dugout! We set our Lewis gun at its mouth pointing over No Man's land The treacherous traps that the Germans leave is amazing and we would look carefully. First of all there might be Germans still in there. I can remember enough German for such occasions and I shouted down "Kommen sie die Treppe herauf," but no answer came, not a sound. It's a safe general rule that when a German's case is hopeless he gives up. Every step has to be suspected, any tools must be suspected. Pressure on a step may put off a bomb, picking up a hammer or a shovel may pull a wire and set off a bomb—the traps are legion. There may be a very fine wire across the entrance or may be a nice looking souvenir is lying there. Everything is dangerous.

Well, with great care we began to make our way downwards step by step. One went ahead, revolver in one hand with finger on the trigger, and a hand grenade in the other hand. I came next close by him, rifle loaded, bayonet fixed with point well in advance of the leading man. A third followed close with a searchlight. All the way down we were watching for traps but still we could not forget that there might be some Fritzies below. Now and again we hear of a single German fighting until death. Here is a case. One was alone at a machine gun. Other means failing to locate the gun and put it out of action a tank went in. It was in some low undergrowth shrubbery. The man kept his gun in action till the tank passed over him. We got to the bottom. The place was deserted. But there was a lamp with a chimney unbroken and some oil in it. Of course, we looked around the lamp and poured out some of the oil and tried it to see that it was not some explosive. But everything was O. K. We stayed there that night, and were relieved, much to our pleasure the following day.

Canada's 'Scrap of Paper' Good as Guinea Gold

IN Canada, as in all right-thinking nations, good faith is the foundation of all our business dealings. Without a sound basis of credit our whole financial structure would crumble and decay.

Credit is the belief of the creditor in the borrower's intention and ability to pay.

You do not hesitate to exchange four silver quarters for a Dollar Bill, because you know that dollar is as good as Guinea Gold. Yet a Dollar Bill is only a "Scrap of Paper" bearing Canada's statement that it will pay one hundred cents for it.

You have read that statement so often that you have come to accept it without question.

And Canada has always made good its promises concerning every "scrap of paper" it has ever put on the market.

Canada is now offering to investors Dominion of Canada Bonds, bearing interest at 5½ per cent per annum. The interest is payable half-yearly, and the bonds are issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, and $1000, making a most attractive and profitable investment.

It is Canada's desire that Bonds of the Victory Loan 1918 be distributed as widely as possible among private individuals.

The last Victory Loan, which was largely over-subscribed, had more than 800,000 subscribers, 1 in 9, of the entire population.

Every available dollar of private capital in Canada is urgently needed to surpass that record. Buy Victory Bonds—they are as good as Guinea Gold.

From the standpoint of Patriotism your duty is clear. But apart from any consideration of duty and patriotism, Canada's Victory Bonds represent the safest, surest and best investment in the world today.

Mr. David C. Plaus succumbed to pneumonia after a few days' illness the disease being preceded by influenza. He was only 31 years of age. The old adage that sorrows rarely come singly was instanced in the sad death of Mr. Reuben Diebel., son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Diebel of Hentuck township, which occurred as a result of pneumonia last Saturday night. Had he lived he would have been 20 years of age next month. It will be remembered that his brother, Mr. Clarence Diebel, passed away recently. His mother is at present recovering from an attack of influenza. Deceased was the only boy at home. He was a popular young man in the vicinity and his death has cast a gloom over the neighborhood. He leaves to mourn his death, his parents, his brother Pte. Herman Diebel in France, and brothers Adam of Palmerston, and Hector of Allenford, and three sisters, Naomi, Minnie and Arnetta, all at home.

Last Saturday a sorrel horse belonging to Tom Bennett while being chased by some of our young boys slipped on the sidewalk near the Evangelical church, and broke its leg. Magistrate Fischer had the animal killed putting an end to its life of misery. It is time that the village of Mildmay put an end to such cruelty to animals.

On Monday evening certain parties rang first the school bell and later the fire bell and this happening close to eleven o'clock brought many of our citizens out of their habitations to see what was the reason of such a disturbance and as yet no one apparently knows.

BURN WATER 'STEAD OF COAL

Temperature recommended by the Ontario Fuel Administration for working and living rooms, 64 F.

(54 is the "optimum" temperature, or the degree of heat, at which science agrees man is at his best.)

Temperature recommended for sleeping-rooms, 50 F. or less.

"Make water warm you instead of burning an excessive amount of coal to do it." is the advice of the Ontario Fuel Administration in urging the importance of properly moistening the air in the home.

Dry air at 70 or 72 may feel cool or than moist air at 60 F., the Administration declares. Moist air holds the heat longer and saves coal.

There are ten per cent. more deaths at a given temperature if the relative humidity is below 40 per cent. than if it is above 70 per cent.

Give the air a drink out of a pan instead of off your skin. Evaporation from the skin renders one susceptible to colds, catarrh and other diseases of the respiratory organs.

As much, if not more, attention should be paid to the humidity reading as to thermometer reading. A hydrometer, as well as a thermometer, should be in the home.

The Department urges every householder to follow these simple rules for humidifying air in the homes:—

When the house is heated by steam have a pan of water or a boiling kettle always on top.

If by warm air, see that the water retainer in the hot-air jacket of the furnace is always well filled. Place open pans of water near the registers.

In cases where steam or hot water systems are employed, provide humidifiers, or pans of water, for every radiator.

The average room may require a quart of water per day. Change water frequently.

Norman Whitehead of Brant is able to be out again after two weeks' in his room with the Flu.

Victory Loan Notes

"Dare you hoard your money, when your Country needs your aid?
Come, don't be a slacker, in these days of stress and strain,
Lend your every dollar and be surely well prepaid,
For you'll have an easy conscience when the Boys come home again."

(H. Estelle Scott.)

The United States farmer who bought a bond in the Third Liberty Loan receives 4½ per cent. These bonds are now standing in the market at approximately 97.40. The Canadian farmer who bought a Victory Bond in 1917 receives 5½ per cent., and this bond, which cost him $98.46, is now quoted at $100 and interest. His investment is more profitable than that of his American neighbor, for he gets 25 per cent. more in interest return on the amount he invested than he does the latter.

Cadet Leslie Hibbert, writes home from Camp Borden about an unique advertising stunt to Boost Victory Bonds. "To-day has been rather rotten for flying", he writes, "but I put in over five hours in the air, and had rather a unique experience. The Victory Loan opened to-day and forty planes from here flew to Alliston, then to Barrie through Cookstown, then to Orillia, then through Coldwater to Midland, over to Collingwood, then through Stayner and Angus to Camp. They flew in a V shaped formation and dropped Victory Bond messages on every town. Twenty-four officers and 17 cadets flew the machines. I was one of the cadets chosen to go along. It was a wonderful sight from the air and one which I'll never forget. It must also have been awe-inspiring from the ground. Over Barrie, Collingwood and Orillia, the formation buckled up and the officers stunted while we fellows flew around them."

Victory Loan Sole Topic for Canadians During Next 10 Days

To This All Other Features of the War Must be Completely Subordinated.

The Victory Loan must monopolize the attention of Canadians during the next ten days. There will be lots of time after the campaign to speculate on the prospect of peace. In the meantime the call comes to all—"Carry on." The people in the rural districts especially should realize this.

Canadians at home must take their cue from Foch. When he says "Let up," they may be justified in doing so. But while the men are overseas the need for supplies will continue.

Bear in mind also that Canada's war expense will not cease at the moment when the soldiers lay down their arms. A long time must elapse before the boys overseas can be brought back. Probably 450,000 of them have gone over, and good judges say that they cannot be brought home under 18 months. In the meantime they must be kept.

Be it also remembered that a large proportion of the Victory Loan money will go to finance the sale of Canadian products abroad. The farmer is dependent on it for the sale of his wheat, beef, pork, butter, cheese and eggs to Great Britain.

So if the Canadian Army is to be maintained, and the farmers, manufacturers, mechanics and business people generally are to be kept busy the $500,000,000 wanted must be raised.

BUY VICTORY BONDS.

Victory Loan Promotes the Farmers' Interests

The Victory Loan and the Farm go together.

Canada's surplus farm products could not be sold without the Victory Loan.

If the surplus could not be sold, prices in the home market would go to pieces.

It is one thing to raise farm products, but it is another thing to sell them for cash.

A large proportion of Canadian farm products could not be sold for cash, if it were not for the Victory Loan.

The farmer who invests in Victory Bonds thus helps to protect his own business.

LEND TO YOUR COUNTRY.

MANY YOUNG FARMERS HAVE GONE OVERSEAS.

From the farms of Canada thousands of young Canadians have gone overseas. These boys have acquitted themselves splendidly. Now when the call comes for $500,000,000 to support the army, and keep the business of the Dominion going on a war basis, the people in the homes from which these boys have gone will not be lacking.

Liberty Loan Set Canadians High Mark

The United States did so well in the recent Fourth Liberty Loan campaign that Canada, in justice to herself, must do unusually well in the present drive, or she will suffer by the contrast.

The Americans started out with $4,000,000,000 as their objective. They actually raised $6,964,000,000. The number of subscribers is placed at 21,000,000, or about one for every five of the population.

To do as well as this Canada must raise over $500,000,000. If she secures the same percentage of subscribers to the population, instead of having 1,000,000, she will have 1,600,000. As can readily be realized Canadians have their work cut out, but they are equal to it.

HAS YOUR COMMUNITY AN HONOR FLAG WITH CROWNS?

See to it that your community gets an Honor Flag, and gets it at once. What is more, see that it gets a few Crowns on it. An Honor Flag is good; but Crowns are better. It is a fine thing to reach the objective set, but it is much better to go away beyond it.

Don't rest until you see that Honor Flag flying in your district. When it is hoisted you will think so much of it that you will insist on a few Crowns being placed there.

EVERYBODY'S DUTY.

Canada expects every Canadian to do his or her duty in this campaign. Half a billion dollars must be raised and there are only ten days more to do it in. The money can and must be raised. Thought of failure cannot be tolerated. The least that those who stay at home can do is to buy all the Victory Bonds they can and induce others to do so.

BACK UP THE BOYS.

DOUBLE UP.

"Double" is now the popular slogan in the campaign. Throughout the Dominion it is sweeping in a way that bids fair to accomplish surprising things. It is the spirit that wins, for it is the spirit that characterizes the boys at the front. Double up! That's a good one. It is worth [illegible]

ENEMY AIRMEN CAUGHT

Bruce Boy Gives Graphic Account of How Pair Drifted Over the British Lines and Were Brought Down.

The following is an extract from a letter received by Mrs. (Dr.) Stewart, Teeswater, from her son, Donald, with the Independent air force in France:

"Well, to be in orthodox style, firstly I am O. K. myself, but, believe me, mother, your little Donald has been a mighty scared boy sometimes in the last two months, but don't worry his hair has not begun to turn gray yet, and after all I have'nt struck it as hard as might have been, for I have done 26 'shows' in the last two months and while not a record, it is considered a very good showing in that space of time. But my good fortune has been entirely due to my getting on with Mr. P—as pilot, because he has been everything to me, and on his part he will not fly with anybody else but me so we get along fine. But mother I did think the other day, for a while that my next letter home would be postmarked 'Switzerland' or perhaps 'Germany.' We were away over the lines on a long photograph trip, and when coming home we ran into an exceptionally strong windstorm, and altho we were getting the best we could out of the engine, we were not making any headway. In fact, once I looked over the side and saw that we were actually losing ground, so I began signalling to P—(you know you can't talk in a plane) that we were going backward. Then the fun began, he would write me a note and ask how far it was to the line, then another how far it was to Switzerland, then we would figure out if we had enough gasoline to take us home against the wind, or with the wind to Switzerland. We battled with that wind for two hours, but at last came within sight of home and decided we would try for it, and eventually made it, but our supply of gasoline was completely exhausted when he reached our home. But don't worry as that experience was of frequent occurrence. I don't think we'll ever get caught like that again.

"However, we do have some amusing things happen here to relieve the monotony, as the following will show you. One day this week right over our drome a hoche machine appeared suddenly out of the clouds flying quite low. Of course everyone rushed out to see what was up. Then suddenly one of our Archies (our anti-air craft guns) opened up on him and he started to climb away again, but he was too close, and our Archie got him in his gasoline tank and in a few minutes he came down and landed O. K. Then we found that there were two pilots in the bus and that they had set out to deliver the machine at another drome, and had never noticed that they had drifted with the wind to this side of the line and they were wrong until our Archie opened out on them. So we captured a good, brand new, Hun machine and two hoche officers without taking to the air after them. One of the other squadrons took them down to their mess and kept them for half a day as their guests for bringing the machine. Then the intelligence people came after them. The poor fellows took it hard and did feel cheap that they had got lost in such a short distance.

There is only one way to advertise and that is to hammer your name, your location and your business so persistently, so thoroughly into people's heads that if they walk in their sleep they will constantly turn their steps toward your store. The newspaper is your friend in spite of criticism. It helps build up the community that supports you. When the day comes that the newspapers are dead, the people are on the edge of the grave with nobody to write the epitaph.

Found Darning Needle in Body

On Monday the six-year-old son of Mr. George McKillop, of Saugeen was seized with a severe pain in the abdomen. On examination Dr. Gage came to the conclusion that the trouble was due to some foreign body located deep in the tissues. By using a local anaesthetic a small opening was made and a large darning needle three and a half inches long was extracted. It was somewhat corroded over, but was perfectly whole. The boy has no remembrance of ever being injured, and the only way the doctor can account for the condition is that when the boy was a babe creeping on the floor the needle must have entered the lower part of the body and gradually worked its way in. The boy is doing well.—Port

The Bridge to the British Market

The Victory Loan is a bridge over which the farmers of Canada drive their hogs, their cattle, their grain and all their surplus crops to the profitable British market.

For, the money raised by the Victory Loan enables Canada to give credit to Great Britain. And only by means of that credit can Great Britain buy the products of Canada's farms.

Therefore, when you come forward at your country's call and loyally lend your money that Canada may continue her vigorous prosecution of the war, you are also benefitting yourself and the whole farming community.

It is the duty of every earnest Canadian not only to invest heavily in Victory Bonds 1918, but to work among his neighbors to make the loan a success.

Before the subscription lists close, every man should realize the sterling character of the investment; the good interest return of 5½%; the undoubted security offered in the Bonds of this wealthy nation; and the vital importance to all classes of people, particularly to the farmers, of the Victory Loan 1918.

FARMERS AND THE LOAN

Last year the people of Canada loaned to the Government $410,000,000, to carry on the war. Out of that sum were spent huge sums to finance the purchases of the British government in Canada for food and munitions. Since the war began the Imperial Munitions Board has awarded contracts in Canada amounting to $1,200,000,000 and about $600,000,000 have been advanced by the government and banks. Besides that there were heavy advances to assist in the export of Canada's agricultural products.

These sums have been the cause of a tremendous expansion of industry. Farmers, as well as manufacturers have been able to sell their surplus products to Great Britain and to get the money at once. They have gone on multiplying their efforts and doing their part in winning the war, for Great Britain had to eat while her soldiers were away fighting. In the past year the government has advanced $100,000,000 to finance our agriculture and animal products to Great Britain. The bacon output was entirely handled out of Loan funds. And this year there will be some heavy calls out of the 1918 Victory Loan. Canada has a surplus of cheese for export amounting to $40,000,000. Butter, eggs and condensed milk will amount to $40,000,000 more. The Victory Loan will get these to their only market, Great Britain. The exportable wheat crop will be 100,000,000 bushels and the value $225,000,000. Victory Loan money for the most part will finance this.

It is a big story. Perhaps we may better understand the tremendous import of the Victory Loan by comparing the agricultural and animal exports of the last fiscal year with four years ago. In 1913 Canada exported of these $269,000,000; last year the figures grew to $740,000,000, because the Dominion government was able to find the money for the handling of these exports. In manufactures exports have increased from $87,000,000 in 1913 to $630,000,000 in the last fiscal year. Many great industries have been built up. The whole country has felt the impulse to greater endeavor. This is the spirit that is winning the war. We must not let it flag. Subscribe to the Victory Loan.

BARNS DAYLIGHT ROBBERY

Bad Gang of Boys at Millaray Busy at Petty Thieving

One of the boldest acts of burglary that has ever been committed in this village took place on Sunday afternoon, October 20th., when Belsig Bros'. store was entered. The thieves attempted an entrance by a frame shed at the rear of the store, but they were not successful in getting into the main store. Another man was tried, that of entering the cellar window, and it worked. The burglar made his way from the cellar to the main floor of the store, entered the cash drawer in the office, and took change amounting to about $2.50. It is not known what else was taken. The thief then turned the key in the back door of the store and made his escape. The burglary took place between one and five o'clock on Sunday afternoon, the streets being deserted on that time on account of the wet, stormy weather. There is absolutely no doubt that the guilty parties are youths of this village, and no stone will be left unturned to secure their punishment. There has been considerable petty thieving going on here recently, and while several parties are suspected, the chain of evidence is not yet completed enough to warrant any arrests. We had a similar outbreak eighteen months ago, and the culprits were let off on suspended sentence, and the punishment seemed so easy that other lads are now trying their hand in the game. Millaray must be cleared up, and the guilty parties punished in such a manner that others will take warning and follow the paths of honesty. High Constable Briggs of Walkerton was here on Tuesday looking into the matter.—Millaray Gazette.

Getting After Tom

No person objects to Tom Bennett owning a horse, as long as he provides a decent maintenance for the animal, but when Tom turned the animal loose in the village this week he did something that aroused the righteous indignation of a good number of our householders. The skinny old brute foraged for grub on several well kept lawns in the village, and left deep foot prints behind him. Tom Bennett certainly played a selfish trick, and many men have been jailed for less.—Millaray Gazette.

Hits Bruce Indians Hard.

Spanish influenza, with its heavy hand, visited the Saugeen Reserve a little over a week ago and took heavy toll. The first death that of Mrs. Isaiah Shawbedees, occurred in the village. Within a week some fourteen others have died. Scarcely a house in the village was missed, in some cases the whole family being ill at once. Scotch Settlement seemed to be visited about the same time. From this district it took the heaviest toll. In one house three of the family died, the mother and two children. No doubt some of the deaths were due to lack of care, the parents being ill as well as the children, and the community being down at once was not able to nurse the Practically the whole Reserve has been swept. Most of those now on the mend, although some are still critical. —Southampton Chronicle.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN

Miss Tillie McGregor of Paris, is visiting at her home here.

Miss Carrie Mosack left for her home at Preston, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burnham of Galt are guests at Mr. Joseph Lindsay's.

Misses Laura and Selena Truax of Durham spent Sunday with old friends in town.

Mr. T. E. Attwood, who has been ill, was able to sit up for the first time on Monday.

Vernon Tovell was out yesterday for the first time after two weeks in bed with the flu.

Miss Florence Cunningham has almost recovered from a serious attack of the grippe.

Mrs. Jos. Lindsay and Mrs. Harry Burnham spent Tuesday and Wednesday with friends at Durham.

Mr. Bruce Rogers, who has been laid up with a bad cold was able to be out yesterday for the first time.

Mr. Bob Ormiston of Teeswater who is a patient at the Bruce County Hospital, is reported to be doing nicely.

Monday was a sad day in Teeswater. First came the news that Capt. J. C. Little, son of Mr. R. E. Little, of Teeswater was missing. Shortly after flags were flying half-mast announcing the death of Pte. King, in France. This was followed by the startling news to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arscott that their only son, Gordon, had succumbed to the Spanish influenza at Moose Jaw and later in the evening the news came in of the death of Orville Skilling in Toronto.—Teeswater News.

Very Much Alive

A persistent report that Mr. John Graf, a well-known farmer of Cargill, had died of the Flu is, we are pleased to say, "very much exaggerated." Mr. Graf has not even been sick and is enjoying the best of health.

Clean Wound, Doing Nicely

Pte. Earl R. Pinkney, who was reported wounded with gunshot in the neck on Oct. 12th., writes his mother Mrs. Pinkney, Maple Hill, that he is now in a hospital in London, Eng. The wound is a clean one and doing nicely.

Is Near Historic Spot.

Lieut. Elliott Dixon, son of Crown Attorney Dixon, who is instructor with the Royal Air Force in Egypt, is at present located at Aboukir, near the historic Aboukir Bay, in which the British Navy under Nelson gave the French fleet a drubbing about a century ago.

Gets Good Appointment

Walkerton friends of Mr. L. W. Elliott, formerly Children's Aid Inspector here, will be glad to learn that he has secured the appointment of C. A. Inspector for Ontario County, one of the best counties in the Province at a salary of over $1,700 a year. Mr. Elliott will reside at Oshawa.

Miss Ethel Lindsay left for Toronto on Monday. She will spend a few days with her friend Miss Carrie Mosack at Preston en route.

A candid druggist declares that "a person who expects to keep off influenza by carrying around a piece of camphor is more or less of an imbecile."

Is Doing Nicely

Mr. William Campbell, of Holland, Man., who has been at the Hospital the past three months with a very bad case of appendicitis, underwent a final operation on Saturday. Mr. Campbell is doing nicely now and expects to be able in a couple of weeks to terminate his tedious illness and return to his home in the West.

Cavalryman Enjoyed Chase

Trooper Tom White of the Fort Garry Horse, who is now in a hospital in England, with a wounded hand, writes his mother, Mrs. White of Greenock, that his troop went over the top on Oct. 9th. and had a glorious fight. It certainly did him good to see the Huns on the run. His horse got hit first and then he got a machine gun bullet which tore his hand rather badly. He was able to go back himself and lead his horse. Tom is now in the Norfolk War Hospital at Norwich, England.

SCOUTS, ALERT!

For doing a good turn for the "Victory Loan" campaign please accept thanks. What a time you did have celebrating the glorious Victory that will only be a taste of the final overthrow of the last one, Germany).

The fourth Scout law says:—A Scout is a friend to all, and a brother to every other Scout, no matter to what social class the other belongs. If a Scout meets another Scout, even though a stranger to him, he should speak to him and help him in every way he can. A Scout is never a Snob, rich or poor, all are brother Scouts and should treat one another as such. King George's 3 sons have all been Boy Scouts although they were Princes by birth and called by that title whilst in Scout uniform. They were called Tenderfoot first, then Scout, after they had passed their second class tests, they were treated on the same level as any other boy. They had to learn and pass their tests without any favouritism shown. Their Dad saw to it that they did their duty as Scouts.

We meet with some exceptions to the rule but they are not showing the true spirit of Scouting by "Swanking" as they say in England or as you term it by having "A swelled head!" The Scout movement is a Brotherhood for doing good wherever they can and it is wonderful how Scouts stick together. At the Front there are Scout Huts erected and paid for by the Scouts and patronized by the Scouts, by old Scouts and their chums.

THANKS TO THE ALMIGHTY

Walkerton Appropriately Tenders Thanks To The Most High For Victory and Peace—Address of the Occasion Delivered By Rev. W. H. Burgess, B. A. Knox's New Pastor.

Service of Thanksgiving was held the Town Hall steps on Monday morning at 10.30, to commemorate peace, possibly a thousand people were present. The keynote of the meeting was struck in a short but masterly address by Rev. W. H. Burgess, pastor of Knox Church.

The announcement of peace, said speaker, aroused in our breasts multitudes feelings which we could not at once analyze. We could not know its stupendous significance as was one of the greatest days in history of the world. The birth Christ and His attonement been of greater significance the human race but their importance was not recognized at the time. Today the whole world rejoices and celebrates one of the greatest days history.. It is appropriate in the flush of Victory to give thanks God who giveth us the Victory. hand of God has been in these and there is danger that we forget we owe the Victory to the Lord God of Hosts. Here he quoted Kipling's Recessional. God has had hand not only in the affairs of battle-field, but in the affairs of state. He has used Germany to strike Britain of materialism, France her irreligion, and to help Belgium to find her soul. In our hour Victory let us not forget the lessons he has been teaching. We were not ready for war. Are we ready for peace? The days of reconstruction will be vital days in our national, social and industrial life. Only one phase of our struggle has been fought out the last four years. We are only at the beginning of a greater struggle against the forces of evil on behalf of democracy. May the word make us worthy of the freedom which our soldiers have won for us.

Rev. R. Perdue had charge of the meeting, and Rev. C. W. Cosens and Rev. G. C. Rock, led in prayer of thanksgiving to the Almighty.

Condemn Flag-Kissing

At the monthly meeting of the Walkerton Chapter I.O.D.E. held on Tuesday evening, the following resolution was carried:—The Imperial Orders of the Daughters of the Empire being a British society and loving fair play and justice feel that the treatment accorded to the German citizens of the town is neither fair nor just as they have been given no opportunity to justify themselves and request that the proceedings be stopped at once.

Brother Died Also

A brother of Rev. Father Culliton, assistant priest at Carlsruhe, whose death was recently reported, passed away recently at Windsor. The deceased, who was also a priest, was on his way home to attend his brother's funeral and was taken suddenly ill at Windsor of the flu. He was removed to the Hospital where he died. A stick eight feet long was found in one of the windows and was evidently used for doing the job. Stanley denied everything. The case was remanded until next Monday. In case the damage done proves to be more than $20 it will bring the case under the heading of an indictable offence to be tried by the Judge. Lawyer O. E. Klein appeared for McDermid and A. E. McNab for Stanley.

David Robertson K. C. appeared as Crown prosecutor and Waddell acted his own lawyer. The Magistrate thought this kind of talk should not be encouraged and fined Waddell 1,022.35.

DIED OF WOUNDS

LIEUT. (DR.) PERCY SHANNON

Mr. R. E. Truax, M.P. had a telegram Friday night that his nephew, Lieut. Percival Roy Shannon, had died of wounds on November 3rd. Percy was a Walkerton boy and and lived here until he grew to young manhood. He was a splendid young fellow with bright prospects ahead of him in his profession. He had pluck as well as ability and was engaged in putting himself through Medical College, when he offered his services with the 34th. Battalion in 1915. He had not been with this unit long when he was transferred to the Army Medical Corps, with which he went to England. Before reaching the firing line he was sent back to Canada to complete his course but no sooner had he done so than he accepted a commission with a British Field Ambulance Corps and started for the Front. A strange trick of fate threw him and another Walkerton boy, Cecil Miller, a nephew of Mrs. J. G. Hibbert constantly together and they became inseparable companions. In enrolling at the University of Toronto five years ago he recognized the name next to his as that of an old public school chum at Walkerton, Cecil Miller. The two boys lived together during college at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. Will McConnell. Last February when there was competition for commissions in the Imperial Service the two chums were chosen out of all their class for the posts of honor. They were together on the transport, together in England, and together in France. The British C. O. called the two young officers from Canada, "My twin red men" They ran into each other countless times from day to day. When Cecil was taken with trench fever a couple of months ago, Percy followed a week later with the same complaint and through the usual trick of fate they were sent to the same town where they were able to call on each other while convalescent. Percy's death will be a hard blow for his chum. Percy's father, Mr. Wellington Shannon, now lives in Buffalo, and Mr. Audrey Shannon, of the London Advertiser staff, is an only brother. His mother who died a number of years ago, was a sister of Mrs. R. E. Truax.

Dangerously Ill With Flu.

Mr. James Crawford was called to Detroit on Monday owing to the illness of his son, Harold. The telegram stated that he was ill with the flu and not expected to live. Slight improvement has been shown since Mr. Crawford reached his bedside, but he is still in a dangerous condition.

JOYFUL CELEBRATION

Town Went Mad With Joy When The Glad News Came Over the Wires On Monday Morning That Germany Had Quit and the Kaiser had Thrown Up the Sponge.

Walkerton took a day off on Monday to celebrate the day that our people have been longing for, praying for, working for the past four years. Folks just naturally were bubbled over with gladness when the good news came along and cut loose. A waggon with an energetic drummer aboard went up and down the back streets about 4.30 announcing in no uncertain tones that the great expected moment had arrived. By 6.30 the streets were fairly swarming with people and already autos loaded with gay din-makers were out for the day.

At 10.30 a.m. about a thousand people assembled in front of the Town Hall steps for a public Thanksgiving Service, a report of which appears in another column. At 1.30 a crowd preceded to Hank Irwin's farm, Durham Road West, where William Hohenzollern, was a prisoner in effigy. The Kaiser was then tied securely on a pony, brought to town and ignominously led through the streets. The Kaiser had a down-cast look. From the moment Chief Ferguson clapped his hand on his shoulder, the old boy felt no doubt that it was all off. The High School Cadets, a smart-looking company headed the procession. The Kaiser next, closely guarded by John A. Rowland and Hank Irwin, a long procession of autos and floats followed, with a host of passengers armed with every noise-provoking instrument available. Ringling Bros. circus let loose would be a tame entertainment to the celebration that was let loose on Durham St. Quite a number of decorated cars from Hanover took part, forming a procession several blocks long. At night Mr. Hohenzollern was formally tried in front of the Town Hall and received his death sentence. After being hanged he was burned and a complete job made of him. Mr. John A. Rowland, whose enthusiasm knew no bounds when the good news came over the wire, let loose a bunch of oratorical fireworks in front of the Town Hall. The procession kept on its joyous rounds all evening and most of the night. A number of citizens were hustled out of bed and taken to the Town Hall to kiss the Union Jack. It was 4 a.m. when the last of the celebrators called it a day.

For spontaneous joy, nothing has been seen to equal the way the town cut loose last Thursday afternoon when the premature report came over the wires that the war was over. The factory-whistles and all the bells in town kept up an incessant clamor most of the afternoon. Honking autos and motor trucks dashed up and down the Durham St. mud at a pace that made the spectators dizzy. Mayor Johnston declared a half-holiday. About the middle of the afternoon, the Hanover Band, in response to a warm invitation came over accompanied by a multitude of Hanover rotoists. The crowd gathered in front of the Town Hall where speeches were made by R. E. Truax, M. P., John Rowland, Mayor Taylor, of Hanover and others. At night a great crowd of citizens went over to Hanover and assisted in the celebration there. It was not until late at night that it was found that the report that "the war was over" was premature.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

Hear Illuminating Talks by S. S. Leaders At County Convention Held At Mildmay Last Week —After-the-war Situation Presents Big Opportunity.

The East Bruce Sunday School Association held at Mildmay Evangelical Church on Friday narrowly escaped extinction through an all day rain. Those delegates who braved the weather were well-repaid for they heard three addresses on Sunday School work, anyone of which was worth coming a long distance to hear. Rev. T. A. Halpenny, the new Supt. of the Ontario S. S. Ass'n., paid a first visit to Bruce and made an excellent impression. The delegates were certainly lifted up by his inspiring talks. Rev. W. H. Burgess, pastor of Knox Church, who has taken an especial interest in teen age problems gave an exceedingly helpful address which should give his hearers a broader vision of the possibilities of work among the older boys and girls. Rev. W. J. Mc Cauley of Goderich, emphasized fundamentals in a thoughtful discourse.

Rev. E. D. Becker, got the meeting started right by his spirited leadership in the singing, which was a good feature. The Church choir rendered two splendid anthems and a duet by Rev. R. M. Gale and Miss Jennie Pinkerton was much appreciated.

The Secretary-Treasurer's report showed an encouraging total for Missions, but much to be desired in organization in the various Sunday Schools.

The faithful and efficient services of the president, Mr. Howard Hettrick, were rewarded by re-election for the coming year. The other officers are:—Vice-President, Rev. E. D. Becker, Mildmay; Secretary-Treasurer, Lorne A. Eedy, Walkerton; Supt. Children's Division, Miss Maud McCoy, Cargill; Teen Age Boys,, Wm. F. Wendt, Mildmay; Girls' Division, Miss Mary White, Walkerton; Adult, M. G. Dippel, Walkerton; Missionary, R. M. Gale, Pinkerton; Temperance, Mr. Sam Cargill, Cargill; Teacher Training, Rev. W. H. Burgess, Walkerton.

Speaking on the Place of Teaching in Christian Service, Rev. Mr. McCauley ably pointed out that we all learn from God, the great teacher. The greatest way we can teach is by receiving from God and then giving it out. The truest teaching is that which comes spontaneously from a consecrated life. In these days too much stress is possibly laid on organization rather than on the great essential.

In an inspiring talk on Teen Age work, Rev. W. H. Burgess, showed that to meet the approaching crisis in Canadian national life, the training of the older boys and girls was of the utmost importance. These boys and girls were Canada's greatest asset to-day. With thousands upon thousands of your best young men gone, the boys under draft age should be trained for Christain leadership in the new Canada. He dealt with the development of the Teen age boy under the heads, intellectual, physical, religious, socia., "and Jesus grew in wisdom, and stature, and in favor with God and man." The speaker told of the Standard Efficiency Tests which had been arrayed by interdemoninational Committees in Canada for older boys work and eloquently pressed home the importance of the work.

Wm. Halpenny following up the previous speakers, referred to the importance of Christain education as proven by recent history. The scientific man lacking the heart of Jesus, is a menace to society. The speaker advanced the thought that man's complete development in this world was in three stages, first the subjugation of the animal world, second, the subjugation of nature which by science man has almost accomplished, third the subjugation of self. The developed man should have the step of the conqueror but the spirit of the servant. The boys in the trenches had given wonderful manifestations of this spirit. It is hoped they would bring it back with them. Canada's job was to train her people to be big enough for the liberty that the soldiers in the trenches had won for them. He urged each School to advance its organization one step for the coming year.

Teacher: "Willie, give three proofs that the earth is round." Willie: "Yes'm. The book says so, you say so, and tha says so."

Collecting Spawn

Supt. Alex. McDougall commenced the first of this week to collect spawn for the hatchery here. The full capacity for the Southampton hatchery is 10,000,000 eggs, and it is the intention of the government to operate all hatcheries owing to the demand of fish for food.—Southampton Deacon.

Farmers of Canada Have Much at Stake In the Victory Loan

Money From Loan Needed to Finance Exports of Farm Products to Britain.

The Canadian farmer stands to gain or lose much through the success or failure of the Victory Loan. He is much more dependent on it for the ready sale of his products than has generally been realised. Some there are, even to-day, who fail to grasp the facts of the situation.

It is a mistaken idea that all a farmer has to do these days is to raise grain, cattle, hogs; or produce cheese, butter or eggs and he is sure to find a ready market at high cash prices. A keen demand for these products, of course, exist, and Great Britain will take all of them that Canada has to spare; but the demands of the war have been so heavy that she cannot pay cash for all these things. She must have credit. It is here that the Dominion Government steps in, and provides the cash, obtaining the necessary funds through the Victory Loan.

MR. J. H. GUNDY,
Vice-chairman of the Dominion Victory Loan Committee, and a strong leader in the campaign.

The farmers should be as enthusiastic over the Victory Loan campaign as any other class. If it is not a decided success they stand to lose heavily. But if they subscribe to it liberally and endeavour to get others to do so, its complete success is assured.

PRAIRIE FARMERS' EXAMPLE.

Saskatchewan, which is almost a purely agricultural province, has given a splendid lead to the rest of the Dominion. Owing to the crop failure in several of the districts, the allotment for the Province in the Victory Loan drive was placed at $15,000,000. Recently those in charge of the provincial organization said that they would not think of getting less than $22,000,000.

BONDS OR BONDAGE.

Canadians at Home Must Do Their Utmost

It Is For Them to Demonstrate That the Spirit of the Boys Over There Exists at Home.

Canadians at home must do their utmost in the Victory Loan drive, for the boys in France are looking on. These brave fellows, the pride of the British Army, who have carried all before them during the last three months, must not be disappointed in the folks at home. It must be demonstrated to them that the spirit exhibited in the front line, is to be found also on the home front.

There is no problem confronting Canada to-day, or likely to confront her in the future, which Canadians cannot solve, if they put their minds to it. There is no task for them too difficult. But while everybody believes this, there is no use talking about it, unless the Victory Loan is put over. It will be, for it must be.

DOUBLE UP.

The call is now "Double up." Everybody seems to be doing it. Why shouldn't they? The cause is worth doubling up for. Besides, it would be impossible to get a better investment. It's better than the Americans were offered, for their Fourth Liberty bonds bear only 4½ per cent., whereas ours carry 5½. So "doubling up" is the correct thing. It is patriotic and also good business. Double up.

THE CRISIS.

Your country needs your financial help to meet its crisis to-day. You may need financial resources to meet a possible crisis in your affairs later on. There is one safe, sane, sure way to meet either kind of crisis. In taking it you discharge your duty to your country and to yourself. Take it to-day. Buy Victory Bonds. Buy all you can.

DOXOLOGY

Praise God, from whom all blessings flow;
Praise him, all creatures here below;
Praise him above, ye heavenly host;
Praise Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.

ALL PEOPLE THAT ON EARTH

All people that on earth do dwell,
Sing to the Lord with cheerful voice;
Him serve with fear, His praise forth tell,
Come ye before Him and rejoice.

Know that the Lord is God indeed,
Without our aid He did us make
We are His flock, he doth us feed,
And for His sheep he doth us take.

O enter then His gates with praise,
Approach with joy His courts unto;
Praise, laud and bless His name always,
For it is seemly so to do.

For why? the Lord our God is good,
His mercy is forever sure;
His truth at all times firmly stood,
And shall from age to age endure.

ALL HAIL THE POWER

All hail the power of Jesus' name!
Let angels prostrate fall,
Bring forth the royal diadem,
And crown him Lord of all.

Ye seed of Israel's chosen race,
Ye ransomed from the fall,
Hail him who saves you by his grace,
And crown him Lord of all.

Sinners whose love can ne'er forget
The wormwood and the gall;
Go spread your trophies at his feet,
And crown him Lord of all.

Let every kindred, every tribe,
On this terrestial ball,
To him all majesty ascribe,
And crown him Lord of all.

O that with yonder sacred throng
We at his feet may fall;
Join in the everlasting song,
And crown him Lord of all.

O GOD, OUR HELP IN AGES PAST.

O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope in years to come;
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home.

Before the hills in order stood,
Or earth received her frame,
From everlasting thou art God,
To endless years the same.

O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come;
Be Thou our guard while life shall last,
And our eternal home.

ONWARD CHRISTIAN SOLDIERS

Marching on to war,
With the cross of Jesus
Going on before.
Christ, the royal Master,
Leads against the foe,
Forward into battle,
See his banners go.
Onward Christian soldiers,
Marching as to war,
With the Cross of Jesus
Going on before.

Crowns and thrones may perish,
Kingdoms rise and wane;
But the Church of Jesus
Constant will remain:
Gates of hell can never
'Gainst that Church prevail;
We have Christ's own promise,
And that cannot fail.
Onward, Christian soldiers, &c.

Onward, then ye people,
Join our happy throng;
Blend with ours your voices
In the triumph-song:
Glory, laud, and honour
Unto Christ the King,
This through endless ages
Men and angels sing. &c.

FOOLING THE TEACHER

The meanest teacher in our town,
Or any town about,
Once kept our pitcher, Dannie Brown,
When school was letting out.
She kept him in to do a sum,—
She said it wasn't hard.—
Although the other nine had come
To play right in our yard!
We lost the game ten to one,—
They were the Silver Sox,—
I'm very sure we should have won
With Dennie in the box.
She let him out in lasting three,
But then it was too late;
And teacher even smiled when she Went pass us to the gate!
But since then every single day
We've fooled the teacher well;
We've found a very simple way—
Just listen and I'll tell:
When Dannie has a sum to do,
He always does his best;
And then, you see, when school is through
He gets out with the rest!

In these days of Influenzas,
When our noses play cadenzas,
It's hard sometimes to know just what to do;
For it seems that this bacillus
Has in its mind to kill us,
And everywhere they say, "Have you the Flu?"

on suffering with that obstinate sore, if you will only use Zam-Buk—the great herbal skin cure. This balm, owing to its unique composition, is the very thing for sores and skin troubles that have resisted ordinary treatments.

Mrs. Herbert Cox, of Port McNicoll, Ontario, writes: "For nine years I suffered with an abscess on my face, which was both painful and disfiguring. I had the abscess lanced repeatedly, but it still remained. I also tried ordinary ointments, but without any permanent benefit. Finally the doctor told me I had a tumor on the bone, and would have to undergo an operation, which I did; but instead of improving, the wound only became worse. I was in despair when a friend got me to try Zam-Buk. I soon noticed a marked improvement. Zam-Buk seemed to get to the very root of the trouble, and in the end the abscess was entirely cured—not even leaving a scar. This was a year ago, and there has been no return of the trouble."

Zam-Buk is not a mere ointment, but a rich herbal balm. Unequalled for eczema, scalp sores, ringworm, boils, bad legs, blood-poisoning, piles, cuts, burns, sprains, scalds, and all skin injuries. 50c. box. 3 for $1.25, all druggists or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. As a matter of business, what do you think of the plan?

You are a farmer.

Canada is a farming country.

Canada grows more food than the people of Canada need.

To prosper she must sell that surplus food.

Great Britain is our best customer for grain, pork, beef, cheese and other farm products.

Every practical man must see how important it is to hold the British trade. Canada wants not only the profit on this trade, she wishes to create a good-will in Britain towards Canadian products and thus assure our export business for the future.

At the moment Great Britain asks for credit, asks Canada to sell her the products of the farm, "on time." To hold her trade, it is necessary to give this credit.

This takes capital—immense capital. For Britain's purchases from Canada are huge, and these purchases must be paid for in cash.

In these times, it is not easy even for a nation as wealthy as Canada to procure money. Certainly, no other country can lend us money. The only way now open for Canada to secure money is to borrow from the people of Canada.

This is the reason for selling Victory Bonds.

Can anyone deny the sound business sense of this plan of protecting our valuable market?

From the standpoint of the man who lends, what better security could he get for his money? Where else could he get a five and a half per cent. return on such security? Where would he find an investment to pay interest so regularly and with so little trouble to the lender? Certainly Canadians have an opportunity to benefit very directly from this borrowing plan.

And the money Canada borrows is spent entirely in Canada—a very large part of it for the very crops the farmer has to sell.

Therefore, if the Victory Loan is a success, business in Canada must be good, the nation must prosper and so be able to carry on a vigorous war effort in France and Flanders.

As a practical man you must approve of the Victory Loan plan.

Then help it along. Put your own money into Victory Bonds; urge your friends to buy; work hard among your loyal neighbors to make the Victory Loan 1918 an overwhelming success.

OF

UNPAID SUBSCRIPTIONS

At a public hearing in Ottawa the other day in connection with paper conservation, the Paper Controller for Canada intimated that regulations about to be issued would include one of the effects that:

> Publishers of newspapers must cease sending their newspapers to subscribers three months in arrears, unless subscriptions be definitely renewed, and all arrears fully paid.

The reason for this regulation of the Paper Controller is that it is the practice of some publishers to send their newspapers until ordered stopped. It is to prevent paper waste that the new regulation has been decided on.

The manufacture of paper consumes labor, wood, coal, chemicals and transportation facilities, and every ton of paper saved means just so much more labor, raw materials, chemicals, fuel and transportation available for urgent war needs. For these reasons the Government insists that paper shall be saved and proposes that only those who pay for their publications shall receive them.

Under these regulations The Telescope will have no choice in the matter of dealing with "subscriptions in arrears for over three months.

You need The Telescope, and we want to continue sending it to you. So, if your subscription is in arrears, please pay up at once to prevent a discontinuance of your subscription.

LETTER FROM MR. McKAY

Editor Walkerton Telescope,
Dear Sir:—

The war is over and the whole world is rejoicing at the end thereof and as an observer who is practically laid aside from participating in the stern realities of public life, I write you to express my appreciation and gratitude for having with us a citizen, Mr. John Rowland, whose sterling integrity and loyalty to the British Empire and whose never failing Courage has done so much for our soldiers in their going and home-coming to see that their needs were supplied and now in particular to see how he marshalled the great crowds who came to our town to rejoice with us that the war ended. In fact I place him alongside of such men as Marshall Foch, Lloyd George the British Premier and Sir Robert Borden, Canada's Premier. Lloyd George had to part with many of his best friends to make Marshall Foch marshall of all the forces and Sir Robert had to do likewise, left his position here and went to England to assist Lloyd-George (knowing the sacrifice the loyal Canadians were making and the influence he held,) in pressing Marshall Foch as head of the whole armies. And now as the end of the great struggle for liberty has come I hope Mr. Rowland will continue to use his great ability and enthusiasm in helping to provide much needed comforts and means of providing for the wants of our brave soldiers and their families.

Yours truly,
R. H. McKay,
Ex-Mayor.

SCOUTS "ALERT"

I hope to have a Scout Meeting on Friday and shall make a union meeting of it. Let every Scout and Cub get busy and bring another recruit.

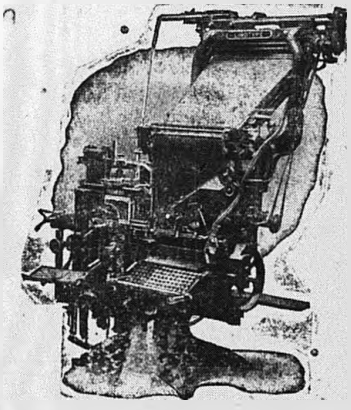
I have just received the Tenderfoot Badges and hope every Scout will know his Scout Law off by heart so that we can have a presentation night as well. The 5th. Scout law says:—"A Scout is Courteous." He is polite to all especially to women and children, when mother makes a request it should be answered with a smile and when brothers or sisters tease it should be taken good naturedly instead of a pluck or slap as the case may be. You will be surprised how much easier and nicer it is to go along in life with a smile instead of a frown. Someone wrote "Laugh and the world laugh with you, weep and you weep alone." The world has troubles enough to look after and is hungry for smiles, regular Sunny Jim Smiles, those that can't wash off.



I asked a [illegible] boy was in a Toronto tram car what she thought of the Boy Scouts and she replied: "It makes the boys so thoughtful." There is nothing easy in thinking of others but you will find a great deal of pleasure in being polite to all especially the sick and elderly people.

CAPT. BOB ROWLAND M. C.

Tells of Canadians' Wonderful Work In the Big Drive Forward Last Month—Graphic Personal Account of the Crossing of Canal du Nord.

This thrilling story of what our boys have been accomplishing in France is part of a letter received this week by Mrs. Rowland from France:—

Dear Mother:—

As you see by now I came through another show safely and this one was by far the worst as he certainly intended to fight along the front.

Well we jumped off at 5.20 a.m. 27th. and our first objective was the Canal du Nord. We assembled about 800 yds. from the canal and once the barrage opened we were away and soon got to the canal which was about 18 feet deep. Well it was easy enough to fall down into it but some job getting up the other side. I am not very clear as to how I got up it but found myself on top and the men began to scramble over. We had to cut through some wire and into a trench system full of dugouts and full of Heinies. We could not bother with them as my final objective was still another 400 yds. to a sunken road so we started for it and ran into some more wire. Well it was there I lost a good pair of breeches and at last hit the sunken road exactly 57 min. after we kicked off. Then more Huns came up through us so we were out of the fight. They went ahead and took Boulon Wood and had some stiff fighting but gained their objective. We got about 700 prisoners, far too many I know but we had to go ahead so fast we couldn't waste any time on them.

We slept out in the open that night and kicked off again next morning at 6 a. m. and our objective was the left flank of Cambria. we reached our objective but the fighting was awful as he had a strong line and his best troops in front of us. After we got to our objective we were counter-attacked 2 times but the few men which remained were wonderful and drove him off. By this time we were running short of ammunition and had he come again things had a blue out-look for us, but thank the Lord, he didn't. Well, we were relieved the next morning and it was certainly a cut up Batt'n. Only four Co'y. officers came out and about 150 men, so you see we were cut to pieces.

In the two days fighting I had 4 officers killed and one wounded in my own Co'y, and had about 20 men. I only took two officers in with me the first day and lost them both crossing the canal. Then two more more were killed the second day and my second in command badly wounded. It certainly is a shame to have such wonderful boys killed and for myself I am fed up and would certainly like a rest but this is the only way to end this war and that's what we are here for. I also had my little runner killed and can hardly think of it yet. He was only a boy and I got him the Military Medal for the Amiens show. He was something wonderful, his courage used to often make me ashamed of myself. I certainly will miss him as he has been with me for 8 months. I never moved in the line but he was at my heels and all through these 3 shows until he was hit I was never a yard away from him and we have had some wonderful escapes. Had he lived and both of us gone home I certainly would have kept him with me as he did some wonderful things for me. It certainly is a cruel war.

I expect to leave for England around the 10th. of the month and am sure going to have a good time.

I haven't time to write any more at present as I have such a lot of letters to write to different boys' people but will write in a couple of days.

Love to all.

Bob.

Charged With Attempting Suicide

Mrs. Florence Schanuhardt, a Kincardine woman, was lodged in the County Gaol this week on a charge of attempting suicide. While she was a patient at the Kincardine Hospital suffering from nephritis, it is charged that she stole down to the lake and attempted to drown herself. Her trial is down for the Fall Assizes on the 24th.

Derrick—Tuckey.

A quiet wedding took place at St. Thomas Church, Walkerton, on Thursday morning, November 7th, at eleven o'clock, when Miss Alice Marion Tuckey, elder daughter of Mr. George A. T. Tuckey, was united in marriage to Mr Harold Gladstone Derrick of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rural Dean R. Perdue M. A., rector of the church. Miss Hopwood of Weston assisted the bride and the best man was Sergt. A. N. Dickison of Toronto. During her short residence here the bride has made many good friends, who extend best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Derrick.

Joe Abell, the Ismelitish junk dealer made a great din with a waggon full of old iron.

It was sure an all-day celebration. Started off 4.30 a. m. Monday and kept up until 4.30 a. m. Tuesday.

* * *

The local power company had the streets festooned with strings of coloured lights and kept the lights going night and day.

* * *

The Walkerton Egg & Dairy Co. was well represented in the procession. All the firm's motor trucks were out celebrating.

One of the sights of Thursday's procession was Mr. John Rowland with his face blackened and a silk tile, galloping joyously up and down Durham St., whooping it up.

For all the rough and tumble nature of the celebration there was little or no damage of any kind done in town. Nobody was hurt and everybody was happy.

Sam Siderson, the junk dealer, gayly gotten up with a high hat and decked with a Russian dog, drove madly through the streets with a bunch of clanging old tins tied to the end of his waggon.

Silk tiles that had not done service in twenty years were much in evidence. Among those who sported plugs were:—Andy McLean, E. J. Skelton, H. M. Lay, John Rowland, A. E. McNab, F. W. Lippert, Joe Abell.

An impromptu band got out the 160th. brass instruments and gave Walkerton a pretty good sample of what a town band would be like. Some of the old timers who helped were:—Frank Bolden, David Disch, J. Ransebottom, Fred Ernel, Geo. Beninger, Al Disch, Paul Jones, Clarence Kreuger, M. Ehrich, Tony Wagner and Wm. Bolden.

The trial and hanging of the Kaiser took place in front of the Town Hall steps Monday night before a big audience. Rev. R. Perdue acted as prosecuting attorney and solemnly indicted him on a list of counts. No one could be found to defend the "All Highest." Judge John Rowland, after hearing the jury's verdict, sentenced the Kaiser to be hanged until he was dead-dead-dead, then to be riddled with bullets, and burned to ashes. The sentence was carried out to the letter.

* * *

An informal court of trial has been held more or less continuously at the Town Hall steps the past three days. A company of a dozen or so men headed by Hank Irwin, the horseman, have been bringing in citizens one-by-one from town and surrounding country who are alleged not to have shown a proper spirit of loyalty. They were made to kiss the flag, sing God Save the King, etc.

High School Notes

Owing to the epidemic of Spanish Influenza, th students enjoyed a month's holidays and although they realize that this is a serious setback, all are endeavouring to "grin and bear it. The closing of the schools certainly put a check on the spread of the "flu" here, and great credit should be given to the local Board of Health for the masterly manner in which they handled the situation. Perhaps the students would favour coming on Saturdays and during the Christmas Holidays, as it will be absolutely necessary to make some allowance for this lost time.

The pupils were very sorry to learn of the death of a very popular ex-student, Cadet Frank Moore, who contracted Influenza at a camp in Toronto and, later, died at Base Hospital. The students extend their deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

The High School pupils are always on hand where there is anything doing. Although school was not in session when the first peace celebration occurred, some of the students got together and were very conspicuous wherever the noise was greatest. On Monday, they did the thing in proper style. The Cadet Corps turned out and escorted the Kaiser into the town and along the streets. The liberal use of blank cartridges by them, contributed to the excitement and their yells were heard all over the town. People began to appreciate the fact that there really is a High School in the place.

CALLED SUDDENLY AWAY

Mrs. McConkey Was Overcome With Apoplexy While Shopping and Succumbed at Hospital Within A Few Hours.

Mrs. John McConkey, a highly esteemed resident of this vicinity, was very suddenly called away the past week. Mrs. McConkey was doing some shopping in town on Saturday night and was suddenly seized with apoplexy on Durham St. in front of McCrum's store. She was taken to the County Hospital where she passed away at five o'clock the following morning. Mrs. McConkey, who was born in Ireland, came to this country with her late husband, about forty years ago. After living a short time in Toronto they came up to Bruce County. Her husband predeceased her twelve years ago. Mrs. McConkey was a lady of fine personal qualities, and generous towards every good cause. Her sudden death is very deeply mourned. Four sons and five daughters survive. They are:—John H. of Greenock; Will, Richard and Edwin at home; Mrs. James Fisk of Greenock; Mrs. Arthur Johnston of Cargill; Mrs. Thos. McNeill and Mrs. Hugh McNeill of Brant; and Miss Anna at home. The funeral took place from the farm in Carrick on Tuesday, to St. Thomas Church, Walkerton, where service was conducted by Rev. R. Perdue, after which interment was made in Walkerton Cemetery. The pall-bearers were:—Mr. Barton of Clifford, W. J. McConkey, Arthur Johnston, Thomas McNeill, Stanley Garland, James L. Tolton.

The Victory Loan yields nearly twice the interest one receives from a banking account, and as to security—it is guaranteed by every bank and article of value in the country whether it belongs to an individual, a municipality, a province, or to the Dominion Government.

Officers Backed Down.

The Investigating Jury at Toronto last week placed the blame for the now notoriously bad conditions at the Base Hospital, Toronto, on the Medical Military Authorities at Ottawa. A notable feature of the sworn testimony was that the officers who had previously made ridiculous statements regarding Capt. Kain and contradicted Mrs. Kain's story, all backed down on their story, when it had to be given under oath in the witness box. That sort of thing should result in their immediate dismissal from the service when it is brought to the attention of the higher authorities.

J. C. Rockwell's "Sunny South" Co.

The amusement loving public will be glad to hear that the J. C. Rockwell "Sunny South" company, the show that leaves you laughing when they say "good night," is announced to appear in the Opera House, Walkerton, Wednesday evening, November 20th. It is about two years since this company was seen here and at that time it was pronounced to be the best and most pleasing of the kind that ever made this city. This season it is absolutely new and right up-to-the-minute in every respect. It is characteristic throughout, being a mixture of fun, melody and dancing, consisting of all the features peculiar to the negro in Dixie Land, presented by negros of the cultured and educated class, free from vulgarity, without any objectional features, at the same time sparkling with wit and good humor. Comedy is all that is aimed and nothing else is reached but some very clever singing, dancing and entertaining specialities, of the better class, which will make the audience sit up and take notice. The management wish to give the public a run for their money and have gotten together a strong and evenly balanced performance that is bound to please the most fastidious seeker after amusement. There is snap and ginger from beginning to end. The music is bright and catchy. It is all new and of that popular sort that can be whistled after one hearing. It contains more real humor, with, novelties and original ideas than any similar attraction. From first to last there is not an objectional word spoken, nor the slightest approach to vulgarity in action nor glance. A good sprinkling of new songs have been introduced and with the atmosphere being of the sort where the audience leave the theatre whistling the latest song hits, you can rest assured they will be sent home feeling satisfied they have received full value for their money.

The organization is accompanied by a solo concert band and an excellent orchestra. The "Roosterette" parade, a decided novelty, takes place at 1 p.m.

The prices of admission have been placed at 35, 50 and 75 cents including War Tax. Seats are now selling at McCrum's Book Store.

NOTE:—We carry no slackers. Every male member of the "Sunny South" company, has fulfilled all obligations regarding military service. They await the call enroute to Berlin.

OUR OLDEST CITIZEN

Mr. John Klein, Whose Death took Place At Bruce County Hospital Sat On Berlin's First Town Council—Founded The Late Glocke in 1870.

Walkerton's oldest citizen, Mr. John Klein, passed away on Saturday evening, November 9th., at the Bruce County Hospital in his 93rd. year. Until five years ago when his strength was depleted by two surgical operations, Mr. Klein was very vigorous and was a prominent figure for many years in public life.

Born in Alsace on October 13th, 1825 he emigrated at the age of eight years with his parents to Ontario. After a short stay at Short Hills near St. Catharines, the family moved to New Germany, Waterloo County. The young man assisted his father in the difficult work of a pioneer in the wilderness, and at the same time studied at home and took lessons from the parish priest, until he was able to qualify as public school teacher. He taught first at Rummelhart, and in the early fifties, in the little red school house near the Mennonite church at Berlin. During that time he was a member of the first council of Berlin. Later he kept the Franklin Hotel and conducted a general store.

In 1850 he married Ludvika Lang, a sister of the late Reinhold Lang, founder of the Lang Tanning Co., and in 1858 the family moved on a 200 acre farm near Kincardine. In the winter he taught school at Zurich. In 1860 at Baden, and in 1861 he assumed charge of the school at Wellesley for six years. In 1867 he moved to Carrick Tp. and took charge of the school at Wellesley for six years. In 1867 he moved to Carrick Tp. and took charge of the Hanna school, and in 1868 of Neustadt school.

In 1870 the Glocke was founded at Walkerton by the deceased; in 1876 he sold out to Eby & Rittinger, and established the "Waechter am Saugeen" at Neustadt. In 1882 this printing office and the family home were destroyed by fire, and owing to the failure of the insurance Company no insurance could be recovered. In 1882 he moved to Walkerton and established a business as conveyancer and insurance agent. He was appointed Notary Public and commissioner for taking affidavits. In addition he acted as German examiner for teachers, as well as returning officer in 1892 and 1896. His wife died 1902, and the following children survive: Judge Klein and Barrister O. E. Klein, Walkerton, Isadore and Edmund in New York, Theodore in Cleveland, Oscar in Milwaukee, and Miss Isabella, at present a patient in the Walkerton hospital.

The deceased was a Reformer in his early days and an active friend of McDee, Foley and Blake. In 1870 he supported Sir John A. Macdonald and after that he remained a Conservative. He was a loyal subject of the British Crown and supporter of the Allied cause. May he rest in peace.

The funeral was held from the residence of his son, Mr. O. E. Klein on Tuesday morning, service at the R. C. Church being conducted by Rev Father Cummings. The pall-bearers, were four sons, Judge A. E. Klein, O. E. Klein, Isadore, and Oscar, and two grandsons, Jack of Fort William and Herbert of Bridgeport, Ont. His sons, Theodore and Edmund, were unable to be present owing to sickness.

They have a big liar in Maine or they had a big snowstorm. A Maine farmer is reported as having had the points of his horn boxed in, last winter, so the cows wouldn't get hurt on them when they were turned out for their exercise.

Leg Badly Fractured

Mr. Sol. Schwandt of Brant, had his leg badly fractured by falling from the waggon while drawing manure on day last week. His leg caught between the hind wheel and the waggon box and was badly twisted, being broken in two places above the ankle.

PRAISES BOARD OF HEALTH

Editor of the Telescope,

Dear Sir:—

Will you kindly allow me to express my appreciation of the valuable work done by the Medical Health Officer (Dr. Porter,) and the Board of Health of the Town of Walkerton, during the recent epidemic of influenza.

Owing to their prompt vigorous and efficient work many valuable lives have been saved.

We should also be proud of and thankful to those young ladies who have risked their health and their lives in trying to help those who were sick and helpless from the disease.

Respectfully yours,

Herbert B. Sinclair M. D.

Milt McCarter Writes A Splendid Letter from France Giving the Folks An Inkling Of What Our Canadian Boys Have Been Doing In the Big Drive

The following interesting letter received from Milt McCarter by his sister, Miss Gladys McCarter, will be read with interest by our readers:—

Somewhere in France,
Oct. 10, 1918.

My Dear Sister:—

Some little time has passed since I received some letters from you and now as we are out on rest I am going to try and write a long and interesting letter in return for the large number that you wrote to me. I am feeling very fair considering. We are living at present in what was before the war a fairly large and beautiful town but Fritz at several stages of the game has sent over some packages of steel and in parts has somewhat battered the place up. There are large numbers of trees of all kinds and shapes. They are still green and still very beautiful in appearance, the streets are about half the width of Durham and are paved with blocks of stone about 5 in. square on the average. The cobbled streets and roads are very hard to march on but are much better than being ankle deep in mud. There are a large number of big business blocks which of course are in various stages of ruin according to their position to the Fritz line. Quite a number of the buildings are built of white stone with a smooth surface and most of the balance are built of red brick with nearly always white facades. The streets wind in and out and if you do not know the place any too well you are very apt to get lost. Before the war there was some very fine churches but now thanks to Heinie nothing remains now but magnificent piles of ruins. I was up to the ruins of the cathedrals yesterday and it sure must have been a beautiful place before it was shot to pieces. There still stand two double rows of pillars running the full length of the church. They are between 4 and 5 feet in diameter and extremely high. While I was standing at the front entrance a Highlander (in fact London Scottish) came up from the other end over a pile of rock and he seemed real small so you can easily see the length of the church. It is also very wide and the steps up to the entrances remind me of going into the Formosa Church. We quite often see civilians in town and it makes us feel more at home. We are living in barracks which were occupied by French regulars in peace time and they are large and very comfortable considering. The railway station must have been a very imposing edifice but it has been hit a good many times since the beginning of the war. I suppose you would like to know some things about the last scrap I was in. It was pretty rough at certain stages of our time in. As is usual my battalion was full of fight and Fritz could not stand our withering fire so he either surrendered or started to run when our boys displayed great superiority in rifle shooting, picking off the Germans as they were running trying to get to their own line and I can safely say that 90 per cent never got back. Our chaps had little cover so they stood upright and shot them down in dozens. They had put such a severe dose of fright into Fritz that few of our boys were hit at all. Our artillery barrage as is usual was extremely well organized and nothing that got into it had much chance of coming out as was noticed by the large number of field mice that were killed by concussion and the shell holes were as thick as currants in a Christmas cake and which furnished our own boys with very valuable protection from German bullets and shell fire. One man alone captured 146 Germans single handed. He belonged to this company so you can see what company I keep in the fighting line. At some later date I will tell you all about the number of decorations won. I was up to see Stuart Pinkney last Sunday and as usual he was feeling fine and he also had his share of excitement. I met him twice while the scrap was at its height and he sure looked as if Fritz had no chance at all and he really had not as minor details will show but which are not really interesting unless a chap writes a story.

The Memorial services of L. Cpl. Norman E. Kaufman, died of wounds at No. 1 Clearing Hospital France on Sunday Oct. 20th. 1918, was held in the Evangelical church last Sunday evening. The large congregation which gathered for the service shows how highly this fine young man just on the verge of manhood was thought of by the people of Mildmay.

DUNKELD

A great many are anticipating a decided slump in the live stock market as a result of peace, judging from the amount of live stock, which is being shipped from here this week.

Captain J. C. Little of Teeswater, who was reported as missing some weeks ago, is now officially reported as being a prisoner of war, according to word received by his father. Captain Little, who prior to his enlistment was publisher of the News, was well known here and we hope for his speedy release.

With the ringing of bells, blowing of whistles and with every kind of noise-making imaginable, was ushered in the dawn of peace, on Monday morning. The enthusiasm which marked the celebration here and everywhere, was such that every individual from the smallest tot even to the oldest inhabitant felt it good to be living and able to join in the glorious event—the allied victory. The present generation will never again have such occasion for rejoicing as that of Monday when closed the, long, great world struggle and saw the triumph of the allied cause. Also the downfall of the mad ruler of Europe, who along with his pack of murderous war lords tried for years, by every means of barbarity and frightfulness to conquer the world and enslave its people. Like all other would-be world conquerers, the Tyrant has now lived to see himself deposed, his army defeated and his own banishment to a place of exile, where he shall be obliged to eke out the remnant of his days in painful remorse for the sorrow and suffering brought upon the world, and the atrocities committed particularly by his hordes of invaders and those of their associated clique.

The home-coming of the Valiant Warriors who risked their lives for the flag should be as well observed as the day on which was received the glad tidings of victory and the end of the bloody strife.

I HEREBY GIVE PUBLIC NOTICE that I will not be responsible for or pay any debts or other liabilities which may be incurred by my wife, or any one on her behalf, she having left my bed and board without any just cause or reason.

Agriculture Aided By Victory Loan

Wonderful Trade Expansion Due to Success of Canada's Loan Issues

Since the war started Canadian agriculture has grown in importance as a national industry. More than ever it is a source of strength to the country. The demand by Great Britain for food, not only for her soldiers but for her civilian population, has opened a market of tremendous possibilities. In 1915 our total agricultural exports amounted to $209,-000,000. At the end of the fiscal year of 1917-18, the total had jumped to $740,000,000.

This wonderful addition to the National wealth was, to a large extent, due to the Victory Loan of 1917. It was so in this way: Great Britain found that, owing to her vast expenditures on her army and navy, and the necessity of giving monetary aid to some of her stricken Allies, she was no longer able to pay for her purchases of food with ready cash. Rather than see our products lose a sure market the Dominion Government decided to advance such sums out of the proceeds of the Loan issues to pay for a good part of the food that was sent to Great Britain. The farmers had been asked to "produce more food" and they had responded with a will; it was, of course, for the Government to see that the increased production was marketed.

In this way Canada's entire exportable surplus of wheat, cheese, bacon and other commodities was financed. This year there will be for export possibly 160,000,000 bushels of wheat valued at $225,000,000. If the proceeds of the Victory Loan meet the expectations of the Finance Minister a great part of this wheat will be financed by the Government. The export of cheese will be over $40,-000,000, and of butter, eggs and condensed milk another $10,000,000. Bacon runs into millions. In the past twelve months the Government has advanced nearly $100,000,000 to finance exports of live stock products.

VICTORY LOAN AND CANADIAN INDUSTRIES

Last Year's Subscription of Great Benefit and Bigger Work Will Follow This Year.

The Imperial Munitions Board receives advances of nearly $25,000,-000 a month from the Dominion Government.

It has received over $650,000,000 in advances from the Dominion Government and the Canadian banks.

It has placed $1,300,000,000 worth of war orders in Canada for the British and other Allied Governments.

An advance of $10,000,000 enabled it to give orders to Canadian shipyards for 44 wooden ships. To this program 46 steel ships were added. Total value over $60,000,000.

An advance of $1,000,000 enabled the Board to begin the manufacture of airplanes in Canada; 3,000 have been built to date of a value of $30,000,000.

Between 200,000 and 300,000 people are working in Canada on war orders obtained through the Board.

It has $500,000,000 of war orders in sight for 1919.

To carry out this program will require millions in advances which must come from the Victory Loan.

BE A SOLDIER AT HOME.

Canada's 1918 Victory Loan is asking for $500,000,000. These dollars are needed to win the war. You must do your share in providing them by buying as many Victory Bonds as ever you can. Invest every dollar you have in them. Borrow to buy more.

Your money will be absolutely safe. The security is the finest in the world. It is all Canada. In addition, you will be paid 5½ per cent. on your money—the money you will be lending to your country to protect your home, your safety, your freedom, your family and yourself. Did you ever hear of a safer investment plan—or one so supremely advantageously to the investor? Never, on your life. Never in your life.

Then do your share. Sacrifice something — anything — everything —to buy Victory Bonds. Be a soldier at home. Act at once, BUY!

IN FLANDERS' FIELDS.

In Flanders' fields, the poppies grow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing fly,
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved; and now we lie
In Flanders' fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe,
To you, from failing hands we throw
The torch. Be yours to lift it high.
If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies blow
In Flanders' fields.

WHEAT FIELD DRAINAGE

Surface Drainage of Value in Growing Winter Wheat.

Black Knot Responsible for Great Losses Among Plum and Cherry Growers — How It Can be Controlled With Least Expense.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

SURFACE drains are used to remove excess water of soils due to violent showers or the rapid melting of snow and are consequently often almost as important on tile-drained land as on that which has no artificial drainage. These drains often prevent the gullying out or the washing away of soil and soil fertility.

Good surface drains will lessen considerably the amount of winter wheat "drowned out" or "winter killed." These injurious effects are largely caused through water standing on frozen wheat ground in the spring. Were this water removed by surface drains, the reason for heaving so often seen in wheat fields in the early spring would be largely removed. These drains are a benefit, too, in that the removal of surface water enables the land to warm up more quickly, and the plants to start growth earlier in the spring.

Surface drains should follow the natural low levels in the wheat field and be made before the season closes in the fall. They are easily run out with the ordinary long or the swivel plough, and generally do not require to be more than one furrow wide and one furrow deep. Where there is considerable slope in the field and consequently greater danger of land being gullied out, care should be taken that drains are not made too narrow. The rounding of the edges at the top and of the bottom of surface drains will facilitate the flow of water by removing danger of blocking from loose pieces of earth. Intersections should be well made to avoid stoppages in drainage system. Heavy clay soils are usually more benefitted by the use of surface drains than are lighter soils.—Prof. W. J. Squirrel, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

To Cure Black Knot Disease.

No other cause, not even winter-killing, has destroyed and is destroying so many cherry and plum trees in this province as the Black Knot disease. This statement, while true of the province as a whole, is not true of the Niagara District nor of any other district where plum and cherry trees are carefully pruned and sprayed each year.

The disease is not caused by grubs, although these are often found in the knots, but it is caused by a fungus which attacks the branches and even the trunks of the trees and causes black, knot-like swellings, usually about three inches long and about half an inch in thickness, though often the swellings are much shorter and often again very much longer, the longest ones usually being found on the larger branches. New knots at first are brownish instead of black, the blackness coming with age.

The disease will in some orchards confine itself to cherry trees and not attack the plums. In other cases it will attack plums and not the cherries, but more commonly both are attacked.

Control Measures.—In order to control Black Knot thoroughly it is helpful to know that it is spread by means of tiny spores which act as seeds, and are blown by the wind from tree to tree. These spores are formed on the knots themselves. There are two main crops of them each year, the first during early spring, usually in March and April, and the second in late spring, usually the latter part of May and all of June. Therefore, to control the disease the first step to take is to cut down all dead and dying trees and remove all knots on other trees, cutting in each case about four inches below the knot so as to be sure the infected area is removed. If knots occur on the very large branches or on the trunk, they may be removed by means of a chisel or a very stout knife and chisel. An inch at least of the bark on each side should, if possible, be taken with the knots. All prunings, whether of dead or living wood, should be burned at once, otherwise the spores will form on them and spread from them. It is very important to do this cutting out and pruning before Christmas time. Warm days after the leaves are off are excellent for the purpose. Under no conditions must the knots be left on the trees until so late as February. In cutting do not overlook any wild cherries that may be infected around or near the orchard.

The next step is to spray the trees with either lime-sulphur wash or Bordeaux mixture, so that the spores that come from a distance in early or late spring may not get a chance to germinate. Three sprayings should be given, the first a few days before the buds burst, the second about a week after blossoms fall and the third about two weeks later or just before the earliest cherries begin to ripen. Arsenate of lead should be added to each of the last two applications to kill the Plum Curculio and to keep the cherries free from maggots. The lime-sulphur for the first spray should be in strength about one gallon to fifteen or twenty gallons of water, and for the second and third, one gallon to about forty gallons of water. Bordeaux for any application should be composed of four pounds of bluestone and four pounds of fresh stone lime or six pounds of hydrated lime to forty gallons of water. The arsenate of lead should be at the strength of two and a half pounds of the paste form to forty gallons of liquid or half this amount if the powder form is used.

It requires several years to free an orchard completely of Black Knot. —L. Caesar, B.S.A., Provincial Entomologist.

Sir Thomas White's Appeal to Canadians

Points Out Great Need of the Victory Loan to Carry On the War.

On the opening of Canada's great Victory Loan drive the Minister of Finance issued the following message:—

To the People of Canada:

The Victory Loan of 1918 is now being offered for public subscription. It is an undertaking of most vital consequence to the nation, and I cannot too earnestly emphasize the duty and responsibility resting upon all citizens of Canada to co-operate to the extent of their available resources in making it an unqualified success.

SIR THOMAS WHITE
Minister of Finance under whose direction the great Victory Loan drive for $500,000,000 is being made.

The money to be raised is urgently required to enable us to continue the prosecution of the war, now in its fifth and most crucial year, and for the maintenance of the prosperity of the Dominion in all departments of productive activity.

Apart from patriotic considerations which should alone suffice, it is the direct, immediate, personal interest of every individual Canadian citizen that the Loan should not fall of its objective. The bonds afford absolute security and yield a most attractive rate of interest. Undoubtedly, in the period succeeding the war, they will show a substantial appreciation in value.

All citizens are earnestly invited to subscribe. Remember, you are asked not to give but to lend your money to the state. Small subscriptions from those of slender means are as welcome as the large. In the last Victory Loan we received subscriptions of over four hundred million dollars from over eight hundred thousand subscribers. This year we expect five hundred million dollars from more than a million subscribers.

Let all subscribe to the extent of their means, be they great or small, and once more demonstrate to the world the strength, unity and determination of the Canadian people in this world struggle. Even if the war should end at an earlier date than has been anticipated, all the money asked for will be required for the purposes of demobilization, which will extend over many months, and for the continuation of credits for the purchase of Canadian products. The organization and publicity work in connection with the Loan has been completed after many weeks of effort. It now remains for the people of Canada to do their share. That they will do so to the fullest degree, I am entirely confident.

W. T. WHITE.

Ottawa, Oct. 28th, 1918.

CANADIAN ARMY AND THE VICTORY LOAN

War Costing Canada Over Million Dollars a Day — $400,000,000 Will Be This Year's Bill.

Nearly 600,000 have been enrolled in the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

About 425,000 have gone overseas.

Canada's 1918 war bill will be $400,000,000.

Canada's 1917 war bill was $320,-000,000.

Canada's war expenditure is now $33,000,000 a month.

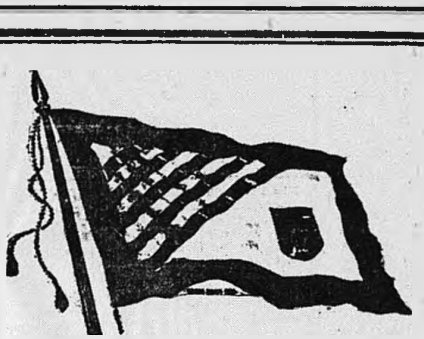
It exceeds $1,000,000 a day.

The $428,000,000 subscribed to the 1917 Victory Loan will not do much more than pay this year's war bill.

$500,000,000 are needed through the Victory Loan, even though peace should come to-morrow.

BANKS WILL LEND.

In order to help out small subscribers to the Victory Loan the banks will lend subscribers, on the probable certainty of repayment within a year, up to 90 per cent. of the amount of the investment in the Loan. The rate of interest charged by the banks is 6½ per cent. Repayment is to be made monthly and quarterly. These are much better terms than were granted last year.



There are over 425,000 Canadians overseas who will have to be kept for at least a year, even if peace were to come this month.

No one who looks at the casualty lists can do otherwise than subscribe every dollar possible to the Victory Loan.

The Canadians in France have set a high standard for those at home to reach in the Victory Loan campaign.

Canada must put every ounce of effort into the Victory Loan drive.

Oversubscribing to the Victory Loan would have a wonderful effect on the Canadian Corps in France. It would be the best thing that Canada could possibly do.

How Many Crowns for Your Honor Flag?

Of course every city, town and district will earn its Honor Flag.

But how about the crowns?

For every twenty-five per cent. in excess of its quota, each city, town and district will be entitled to add a crown to its flag.

Can you do fifty per cent. better than your quota—that means two crowns for your Honor Flag.

But double your quota and it means four crowns.

Hang a Flag in your hall, that for years to come will show that your city, town or district did better than well—

That it was a real factor in the huge success of CANADA'S VICTORY LOAN 1918.

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada

FOR THE AIR SERVICE OF THE ALLIED ARMIES

An immense R. A. F. machine ready to start with its load of bombs for Germany.

THEY are cutting spruce in British Columbia. The silver spruce forests, long neglected because of lack of market and transportation, now sound their place. The straight, fine-grained, tough wood is the ideal material for the manufacture of aeroplane parts. The silver spruce grows only on the islands and ocean coast of British Columbia and the northwest United States. The American timber of this species is being used exclusively for war purposes of the States, the needs of the other allies in the great war are supplied by the wonderful forests of B. C., this supply being made possible through a splendid organization perfected during the past ten months by Major Austin C. Taylor, director of the Aeronautical Department of the Imperial Munitions Board. Hundreds of camps, scores of log-booms, thousands of men are at work on the forests, while scores of mills on the logs. Canadian Pacific Railway Company tugs haul great rafts across the waters of the Pacific coast and discharge the cargo at the mills and terminals. Hundreds and hundreds of Canadian Pacific Railway cars roll eastward monthly loaded with prime aeroplane lumber, bound for the aeroplane factories in the east. The wants of France and England, Canada and Italy are filled by the loggers of British Columbia, and the industry will grow even beyond its present tremendous volume.—L. V. K.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN

Local news on all eight pages.

First Clerk: "How many people work in our office?" Second Clerk: "Oh I should say, roughly, about one-third of them."

Owing to the recent order of the paper controller at Ottawa, publishers have been notified that newsprint has been raised 20 per cent. Printing ink has also gone up over 100 per cent. At the present rate of increase even a $1.50 a year is soon going to show a loss on subscriptions to country weeklies. To meet the increase, prompt payment on expiration of subscription is requested.

She Got Him

"We hear a lot of joking about the shortage of marriageable men on account of the war," United States Senator Smith, of Georgia, is credited with saying, "and I guess it must be true, judging from a proposal I just heard of from my State. Here was how the girl worked it on her bashful suitor: "There goes our minister," she said. He's very poor. I wish I could hand him a five." "Let me do it, exclaimed the youth, unsuspectingly, in a fervor of benevolence. "Oh, Archie, this is so sudden," bubbled the sweet young thing, and what chance did he have?"

Knee Is Improving

Mr. Thomas Donoahue, Photographer, had word from his son, Pte. Art Donoahue, last week that he is still in the Granville Canadian Hospital at Huxton, England, with his injured knee. "My knee," he writes, "is getting better all the time and I guess before long I will be given a Medical Board and sent somewhere out of here. This is a town about the same size as Walkerton, a very pretty place and is the highest town in England. In peace times it was a great inland summer resort and was visited on account of its mineral baths which were supposed to be good for rheumatism, but as far as I can see you can't help but get the rheumatics in this place as it rains a great deal." Art's younger brother, Albert, has just returned from eight days leave in England where he visited Dublin, Belfast, and other centres, and viewed the rural beauty of fair Erin. Finest place in the world was his verdict.

CHURCHES MUST SAVE COAL SAYS CONTROLLER

Along with a circular recently issued by the Ontario Fuel Administration was enclosed a letter from the ministers of the Protestant Churches—Presbyterian, Anglican, Baptist and Methodist—of Brockville, Ont., relating how success fully their congregations co-operated last winter in holding union services with a view of saving fuel.

The letter states: "The Union carried out last winter by eight Protestant churches of Brockville was on a larger scale than might be required in most places. Three Anglican churches worshipped in one building, and five other congregations, including two Methodist, two Presbyterian and one Baptist worshipped in one building. We were fortunate in having a very large church edifice in Wall St. Methodist Church here and with a seating capacity of about two thousand we had very inspiring services for three months together. These five congregations met for service each Sunday, and for prayer service each Wednesday evening." The experiment was so successful all round that many of our most conservative people were quite anxious to effect a similar arrangement for this winter. We have made our plans on the advice of the local fuel controller, and on the 24th. of November we enter into a union very similar to that of last year; and this union we expect to carry on until spring comes, or the fuel situation improves.

"A very practical result of these services was that we saved about one hundred tons of coal, and we hope to save at least 150 tons, or 50 per cent of our total normal consumption."

Referring to this letter the Ontario Coal Administrator says: The Provincial Administrator has urged the church authorities of the various denominations to save coal and set a good example by such a scheme of mutual co-operation in each municipality as will best save coal and at the same time interfere as little as possible with church services. The enclosed letter shows the excellent results in this direction achieved last year in the city of Brockville, and this example can and must be followed by the churches in every municipality in the province. The Fuel Administration is anxious to avoid placing any fuel regulations upon the churches, and it is earnestly hoped that a cheerful voluntary arrangement will render such a course unnecessary; but if proper response is not made to this appeal the necessary regulations will be forthcoming.

Fall Assizes November 26th.

William E. Berry, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Berry of Lauley Prairie, B. C., died at Toronto last week. He was a member of the Flying Corps, and was 20 years of age. His father was a former Mildmay boy.

Mr. David Robertson, K. C. the county chairman for the Victory Loan campaign, was in town last week. He expressed himself as greatly pleased with the progress of the campaign in Port Elgin. He reports the county moving splendidly toward the objective of two million dollars.—Port Elgin Times

Contract Finished

Mr. Alex George of Walkerton, who had the contract of gravelling the Walkerton road, finished his job on Tuesday. About 450 loads of gravel were hauled on to the road, and we trust that when it becomes packed down properly the Walkerton road will lose its terrors for motorists. The work was done under the Supervision of Road Commissioner Siegner.—Mildmay Gazette.

Gets Overseas Orders.

Mr. Robert Bryce had word last week from his son, Lieut. Chester Bryce of the U. S. Army that he had received Orders for Overseas. Chester has been five years in Uncle Sam's cavalry and this is his first opportunity to get into the big fight, which is now too late. Two of Chester's brothers, Charlie and Walter, went Overseas early in the war and the youngest and last, Leslie, is now in training with the Royal Air Force at Toronto. Chester writes:— "Dad, I have just received Overseas orders and will be on my way by the time you get this. The call came for 20 officers who had been instructing in the artillery training school here over there immediately. Am certainly glad to get my chance at last though I did want to get home before I leave, now it's all off. I expect to get a chance to see Walter though over there and also our relatives in Scotland. We proceed direct to the fighting front over there as waiting around or further training so I guess I'll be in it before the wind-up, although it will be 2 years before the troops all get back. Please remember me to all in Walkerton and tell them I am on my way at last."

OVERCOME THE DIFFICULTY

A little girl was sent by her mother to the grocer's with a bottle for a quart of vinegar.

"But, mamma," said the little one, "I can't say that word."

"But you must try," said the mother, "for I must have the vinegar, and there's no one else to send."

So the little girl went with the bottle, and as she reached the counter out of the bottle with a pop and said to the astonished shopman:

"There! Smell that and give me a quart!"—Pearson's Weekly.

BRUCE SETTLEMENT SCHEME

Major Moffat Will Endeavor To Interest Monied Men In The Proposition

(Chesley Enterprise)

A Meeting of the Bruce Preparedness League was held in Chesley last Thursday. The out of town members were W. D. Cargill, M.P.P., Alex. McNab, Sheriff Jermyn. The three local members of the committee are: W. D. Bell, C. J. Mickle and Wm. McDonald. Of course they were on the spot as usual. Major Moffat was also present. The only absentee was C. Bowman, M.P.P. Albert Grigg, Deputy Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines was present, and having first-hand knowledge of the conditions in New Ontario, he was able to give the committee a lot of information about the North Country.

On his advice no settlement work will be done in Shakleton Tp. this year as it is too late in the season to begin operations. But in April, the soldiers who desire to locate in the township will be given work building roads at a rate of $3.50 to $4.00 per day after they are through erecting houses and stables at which they will also be paid the same wages.

Mr. Grigg said the value of the large timber of Shackleton Tp. was half a million dollars, and the pulp wood seven millions.

Two other counties in Ontario have been asking the Government for a township on the same conditions as are granted to Bruce soldiers.

A statement for the county press is in course of preparation by C. J. Mickle and Major Moffat. The latter will endeavor to interest some monied men from Bruce who are now living out in the county. In this enterprise a company known as the Bruce Soldiers' Settlement Limited will operate the business of Shakleton Tp.

Death Of Alex. Fehrenbach

The death occurred at his home, West Ward, on Wednesday evening, Nov. 6th, of Alexander Andrew Fehrenbach, in his thirty-third year. Death followed a plucky up-hill fight of over ten years' duration against a chronic ailment. Alex., who was a son of the late Mathew Fehrenbach, formerly of Formosa, learned the printing trade at the old Herald office. He worked a couple of years with the Waterloo Chronicle, and later for six years at Hamilton. There he contracted the sickness from which he eventually succumbed. After a year at the Gravenhurst Sanitarium he worked two years at Regina then returning to Hanover where he conducted a fish business. Three years ago he took the position of mail carrier for Rural Route No. 1, Walkerton, and for a short time his health appeared to improve with outside work. He was conscientious in all things faithful and conscientious. In spite of his poor health it was seldom that bad weather kept him off the road. Everybody on his mail route spoke highly of him. Right up to four days from the time of his death he was at his post. Besides his mother, two brothers and three sisters mourn his untimely death. They are:—Anthony of Walkerton; Pte. Jos. of Brockville Camp; Mrs. John Hertel of Hanover; Mrs. Rubert O'Heron of Simcoe; Miss Ida at home. Funeral service was held at Walkerton R. C. Only Ten Men Survive who Attended "Uncle Willie" Little's Barn-raising—Building taken Down Last Week in Good Condition.

An old landmark of the 3rd. Con. Brant, passed from the scene on Thursday last when the barn on lot 45, was taken down, having been sold to Mr. Fred Frook jr. by the present owner of the farm, Mr. Simon Walters, to be re-erected on lot 21, Con. 12, Brant. The barn was erected 44 years ago by Mr. William Little, a bachelor resident of the Section, well-known and highly respected throughout the community, being known to the youth of the neighborhood as "Uncle Willie." Mr. Little was the owner of lots 44 and 45 from the first settlement of the townships until his death 27 years ago.

To-day the timbers which were taken down were in real good condition after 44 years' service. It would be a big job to go out in the woods now and get timber just as good, one beam 40 ft. long is of solid cherry. Of the ninety odd men and boys who assembled 44 years ago for "heavy on the pikes," only ten are still living. They are:—John D. Little; Jos. Cook, T. H. Wilson, John Harkley, Wm. Rowand, John Hanmore, Robt. Pinkney, Fred Frook of Brant; John Frame Walkerton; Wm. Bartleman, Hanover; Wm. Little, Calgary.

The Hydro Engineer advised that as long as the company was willing to continue on this basis that the town take no further action until Hydro is ready to move.

Greenock figures are $77,100, Carrick $110,700, Brant $147,050. The detailed figures for Bruce will be published next week.

Arm Badly Cut

Will Ramsay had his left arm badly cut by a revolving saw while working at the Bobbin Factory on Saturday. He put up his hand to close a window when his shirt sleeve caught in the saw, cutting a gash two inches deep and six inches long above the elbow and severing a large artery. First aid was applied by Mr. Sam Farrar and he was rushed to the Hospital. Though suffering from loss of blood and shock, Will was able to be out on Monday and his arm promises a complete recovery in the course of time.

It Isn't British

If there is one man on earth right thinking citizens have no use for, it is the man who is disloyal to his country. The severest measures should be taken to deal with a man of that ilk. The law provides ample punishment. Last week in this town a farmer was fined $1,000 and costs for uttering a disloyal speech and the punishment well fitted the crime. But we don't believe in mob law. It isn't fair. It isn't just, it isn't British. Last week quite a number of citizens of town and vicinity were dragged from their homes and taken to the Town Hall and made to kiss the Flag, sing God Save the King and do whatever their captors chose to inflict upon them. In some cases their houses were broken into and members of the family were roughly handled. If these citizens were guilty of disloyal words or deeds they should have been severely punished but the punishment should have been in accordance with the law of our land and only after a fair trial. Toronto trembled for her good name and her press and pulpit hastened to condemn the restaurant riots a few months ago, yet in Toronto had made a determined effort from the first to quell the disturbance. Here no such effort was made. At a time like this, when feeling runs high, a good deal of license is permitted, yet we feel nevertheless that it is a reflection on our community that such open lawlessness should have been permitted by our authorities to continue for days without hindrance. We do not show ourselves true Britishers by allowing lynch-law to flourish in our midst.

The Walker Drain

Jones and a number of other property owners of the East Ward sent in a communication warning the Council that if foreign water be allowed to flood their property any longer, they would take legal action. They had only deferred last Spring, their communication stated, because they had received assurance that the matter would be attended to.

Couns. Pletch and Vogan moved that the Streets Committee have the necessary steps taken to protect the property owners in the East Ward from flooding of their property till some permanent arrangement can be made.—Carried.

Wants Help To Keep Phones Down

Mr. W. D. Lightall of Montreal, Secretary of the Union of Municipalities Association, invited the Council to send a delegate to Ottawa, when the hearing of the Bell Telephone Co's request for permission to raise its rates, held before the Dominion Railway Commission, in order to protect the interests of the municipalities. The Council decided not to go to the expense of sending a delegate to Ottawa.

Coun. Leitner, thought something ought to be done about the broken flume of the Binder Twine Factory at once. The Clerk was instructed to write to the owner. Mr. Henderson Block of Montreal, to have it filled in at once.

No Word From Hydro

Reeve Douglas asked if there was any word re Hydro.

Mr. Collins stated he had seen a Hydro man here on the Celebration day.

Mayor Johnston "I will call up Engineer Janies to-morrow and see where we are at." The Hydro should get very soon as an agreement would have to be drafted before the next regular meeting of the Council.

People Are Sore

Coun. Leitner, said he had not heard so much kicking about anything in ten years as about the town scavenging. Some people claimed the Scavenger had not visited their property at all during the year, others that he had called only once or twice. Many tax-payors were going to refuse to settle the amount charged up against them for scavenger service under the Town By-law.

A number of small accounts were passed.

Why The Lights Are Poor

Owing to the big shaft in the main machine at the Power House being broken this week, the lights are on a small dynamo which has difficulty in carrying the load. As a result the lights are not up to the usual standard and the street lights are off for a couple of hours at night when the load is heaviest. The Power Co. informs the Telescope that the shaft will be shipped back from the foundry at Owen Sound to-day and that the service will be back to normal again in two or three days.

THE WAR IS OVER!

And most people think that prices will come down. The great question is WHEN. Nobody is wise enough to be sure his prediction is correct, but we want to give you the benefit of the general opinion prevalent amongst ALL WOOL Manufacturers.

England is the centre of the Woolen Manufacturing Industry. THE PRICES AT THE BRITISH MILLS DICTATE THE WORLD'S PRICES. All the Raw Wool is controlled by the British government, and they have guaranteed the prices for some time to come to wool growers of Australia, The chief source of supply.

Therefore The PRICE of RAW WOOL to the Spinners and the Weavers is not likely to come down until the guarantee expires, and the price of cloth maintained ACCORDINGLY.

Demand for goods also off-sets prices. All of Europe—Central and Belligerent alike—has been actually STARVED of WOOL CLOTH during the entire war.

Furthermore there are practically no stocks whatever in Great Britain.

The tremendous demand for goods to clothe the civilians and returned soldiers is expected to far exceed the capacity of the British Mills for a year or probably two years. As proof of this the price still continues to advance even after the Armistice is signed.

Do not think therefore that if you wait you will get your suit and overcoat for less money. It is far more likely that you will pay more for your clothes for an entire year or more before you pay less.

So you may feel assured that any values we are offering to-day are very reasonable, and you need not feel hesitancy in purchasing your Suit and Overcoat to-day.

LETTER FROM RUSSIA

Bombardier Louis Dippell M.M. who is now in Northern Russia with a British Expeditionary Force writes his parents Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Dippell:—

Somewhere in Russia
October, 6. 1918

Dear Folks at Home:—

Some time has slipped past since my last letter and card, which I hope you received O. K. Since then so much has been happening and also a great part of the time I certainly did not feel like writing that writing has been postponed. We had an all day trip on the train and then got aboard.

I forgot to state just what we looked like in full kit. First you start with the soldier—clothe him for modesty's sake and then the real work begins. First comes a haversack over the left shoulder, containing all articles necessary for immediate use. Then the bandolier with fifty rounds of ammunition; the water bottle and mess tins after which follows gas helmets. Then a blanket and rubber sheet rolled neat your sheep skin greatcoat also rolled and then your steel helmet. To this load I had a No. 4 director and a kit bag.

In the boat we slept in hammocks (very) close together and our tables were underneath. So far in my army career I have slept in some pretty bad places but this took the bun, bean and biscuit. We were down in the second hold. The first hold had a stairway to the deck, and got in that way—we were below. The first three days Green and I and several others were sick, but I think I was about the worst—at least I felt so. I stayed on deck most of the time and didn't care much whether we were torpedoed or not. Lloyd Seaman wasn't sick at all. After the sickness were off I felt fine for the rest of the trip and started to make up for the meals I missed.

The Russian cities and towns I saw are not much different from a Canadian lumbering town, or much like Port McNichol. We were not allowed ashore many times. There are all sorts of domes on the public building most of them gilded. Soldiers do not pay to go into the Movies, street cars or ferries. There are restaurants with orchestras. Here you can buy meals up to a limit. A meat sandwich and a cup of coffee (the only thing we could get owing to our lack of Russian) cost 5 roupies—42 roupies to the £, so in English money about 2 shillings.

The peasant people are just like the pictures you see of them, a big heap of old clothes tied in the centre with an expressionless dial on top holding a mop of whiskers. The nearer town you get the more civilized they appear. In the city they are very well dressed people just as in any English burg. We are being towed up the river the last couple of days and along it is scattered settlements. Lumbering is the great industry and there is more lumber about than I ever saw before. The lumber mills from which we could see from the outside are fairly up to date. All the buildings are frame except in the city where there are a few brick and limestone. The land along the river seems to be a sandy loam and the farms compare not too bad with the Canadian farms. The lumber is nearly all fir.

We passed plenty of limestone but I saw only one quarry that looked as if it had been worked.

We also saw a few fishing nets but not as many as you would expect. The climate so far is much the same as in Canada at this time of the year but they say the Eskimos come down as far as this soon. The money in this country is kopecs and roupies—100 ks. equals 1 rupie, but it is all mixed up now—there is local money, Korenksy money, Imperial money etc. They are stamping some now and only some money is good, so one needs to be careful in any dealings to see you do not get wooden money. Tobacco seems to be the only good currency about this country. I will close for the present and leave the life on a barge for my next.

Yours as ever.
L.

LETTER FROM FRANCE

The following paragraph on the Canadian's advance in the last days of the war is taken from a letter from Sergt. Ed Eidt, D.C.M., written on October 27th.:

We have seen a stretch of France during the last few months, as you will no doubt have read in the papers. The war lately has been an entirely different experience from what it has been during the last three years, different from the old stationary trench warfare in scenes of ruin and desolation, the never-ceasing shell fire and the long winding system of trenches and belts of barbed wire. We have left this desolate part of France behind, and are fighting in open warfare, out in the fields, through woods and towns which have not been spoiled by war.

A great number of French people have been relieved from German rule they were certainly glad to see us. The French tricolour was hung from every window in the cities and towns. Troops marched through the streets with flowers in their caps, on their tunics, and even sticking out of the barrels of their rifles. You must remember that these people have lived for four years among the German army and have had German soldiers billeted in their homes all the time, so you can imagine what an effect it would have on these people to see khaki clad soldiers coming in to relieve them. The Germans took away with them men between the age of 15 and 50 to work in the mines in Germany, or to dig trenches, and they also took away all the animals, even to the chickens. The people depended on their gardens, and the relief fund, and the Germans commandeered half of this. They had no meat whatever.

I am sending Dad a German spiked helmet as a souvenir. They are only worn nowadays by German officers and it's very seldom we see one, as most of the Germans wear their big steel helmet, or the little round cap.

LETTER FROM FRANCE

Charlie Sutton, who was one of the first Walkerton boys to enlist writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Sutton, from the forward area:—

Somewhere on the Western Battlefield
France Oct. 13th. 1918.

Dear Father and Mother:—

Received your ever welcomed letter of the 16th. and 23rd. Sept. today and was very pleased to hear from home again and that you're all well which leaves me in the best of health and spirits.

Well, father I am trying to answer your letter but it is pretty chilly work in this old breezy shack as the nights are quite cold now and we have been having a bit of rain lately. This finds me many miles behind the lines now that Fritzy is steadily retreating and I think the next home I will have will be in the city that the Canadians have just captured but Fritzy is now many miles from there. Fritz sure intended to stop for the winter on this front and certainly made himself comfortable. So much the better for us as the homes and dugouts that he took all summer to build, are ours all complete. Ha, ha.

Well as you said in your letter this war will soon be over and I give it to Christmas.

I would like to write more but can't on account of censor, I could put lots of news in my letter that is not allowed but the Capt. censors my letters and he never reads them. As he trusts one, it's only right that I should also do the right thing by him.

So Hugh Threndyle was wounded Yes I suppose those last few battles we have had this summer is beginning to hit Bruce pretty hard. I have not been over to my Regiment for some time but don't like to go as there are very few of my old Reg. Comrades that are still with the battalion and the Reg. was hit pretty hard lately and I lost many a comrade this last few months.

I certainly am a lucky guy to be here on Div. Hd. Q. with the Capt. and I am sticking it out as I want to see Canada when the war is over. Ha, ha, let it be soon!

Yes I will find a big difference in Clarke and Keyworth and find many changes in Dear Old Walkerton.

Well father you were saying that you had quite a collection of war souvenirs at home. Well I wish I could send more. I would like to get a revolver and bayonet home I intend trying to get all the Badges of different line battalions etc. of the Canadian Corps. Yes the Canadians have done fine work this summer, and are one of the best fighting corps in France.

I hope I am back home before next fall as I want to get settled down at something and am fed up with this rough and ready life.

Well I haven't grown much but am a little stouter but I am feeling twice as good as I did when I enlisted

WHO WAIT AT HOME

Who wait at home,
And hear the tread of marching feet
Bearing their loved afar—
Have hidden deep within their soul
Unnumbered battle scar.

Who wait and wait,
And list, and long in dread suspense,
For tidings from their own
On distant battlefield, have trod
Gethsemmane alone.

Who wait at home,
And seeing down the years
A harvest, sown in pain,
A world made better by their sacrifice —
They have not lived in vain.

I am never bothered with rheumatism now.

I am thinking seriously of following up farming and I would like if you would follow up what chances Bruce or the Government are going to give the returned soldiers. I was reading where they were picking lots in new Ontario for Bruce boys. I did not pay much attention to the write up and the paper was lost and I would like greatly if you would when writing keep me posted what they intend to do for us when we get back. I believe that everybody shares alike whether away from Canada four or one years and that the men that are back now will have the chance of having their bond clear before some of us that enlisted with the first.

Yes as you said in your letter one couldn't believe what takes place to be seen and it isn't a pretty sight to go over the battlefield before the dead are buried, hundreds of men lying in hundreds of different shapes just where they were hit also hundreds of horses. Both men and horses some times lay for days before being buried. One soon gets hardened to this life and I am afraid when we come back that the people of Canada will find us very hard [illegible] or may be it may make us very tender hearted after we get away from this cruel life.

I suppose Gladys has received the letter I wrote about a week ago when I was in that Fritz dugout. We sure had a nice little warm nest there but this shack is a refrigerator Mother was asking in her letter what Capt. Paulin's work was. Well he is a staff Capt. and he looks after all supplies, rations, ammunition clothing etc. for the Division. We certainly do some moving but here on Division it isn't so bad as they move us in lorries and we have no marching. I keep a big sack and when they say move I just dump everything in it and sort it out when we land at our next home, which may be a tree, shed, pig pen, cow stable, a loft dugout, shack, tent or rubber sheet, a feather bed in some good French home or may be a shell hole or open field and when we have a home we never know which of these may be our last.

Well my mate who is in the Div. Barber has just come in to tell me the people in the village have it that the war is over, whether he has been drinking or not I don't know but he looks alright, but I wouldn't be surprised if it was. Hope my mate the barber is right.

Well Father and all I will have to close as I am nearly froze and I want to get to bed so may be to-morrow night at this time will find me rustling a new home. I do like to see the Walkerton papers, but it gets a fellow's goat when he read of how a fellow's son and son's son returned from the States some time ago and was exempted as Father required his services on the farm. I wonder how many of the farmers exempted sons would mind coming out here to take the place of the boys that have been over here three or four years and I wonder how many of them will when this war is over share some of the safety first money with the boys that have received blood money and have helped to keep the "huns" away from destroying their rich farms. I think you Father will get my meaning. I won't forget the advice you gave me.

Well I close with love to all hoping that I will see you all soon.

From Your Loving Son,
Charlie.

When Peace is declared the troops will go wild and nothing will hold them, also the French people.
Got my bed aired. Ha, ha.

LETTER FROM BERT HOOVER

Pte. Bert Hoover writes interesting of his experience "over there" in a letter to his father, Mr. Amos Hoover:—

London, Oct. 27th., 1918.

Dear Dad:—

I shall endeavor to write you a letter this time as it is a long time since I wrote one of any length. I can use my right hand again and the arm is healing fast. Was struck in the fore-arm by a bullet, it went in a little above the wrist and came out a little below the elbow. It looks as if must have been an explosive bullet as I had an X Ray taken of my arm and it is full of small pieces of steel which are working their way out. I thought the bone was injured at first but it wasn't luckily for me. Have been in bed a week with the influenza and may say that I am here yet. It is a very painful thing to have and had it last summer before I went to France. Well, Dad I have met Heinie and Fritz face to face on a number of occasions and this I will say that no man who hasn't been through it can have any idea of what it is like. Of course I can't tell you anything about France but if I ever get back you can rest assured that my tongue will be able to wag the same as of yore, with a little more discretion perhaps. As regards my idea of Fritz I will give you one incidence. When I was hit I got another chap who had been shot thru the leg on my good arm and started back for the dressing station. We had not gone far before a Hun machine gunner saw us and we had to lay flat on our bellies for about half an hour before we dare move and all that time machine gun bullets flying round us like hail. This is God's truth and is but one thing that I have seen. Dad hope you are well and hope to get out of bed soon myself, and write me when you can. I don't expect to be here much longer but any letters addressed here will follow me up.

Your Loving Son,

RECUPERATING IN ENGLAND

Mrs. Martin Hanson of Cargill had an interesting letter last week from her son, Herb, who is recuperating from wounds at Bexhill-on-Sea, Sussex, Eng. Herb writes:—

Oct. 4th. 1918.

Dear Mother:—

Just received your letter yesterday of Aug. 21st. It had been to France London and all over. Got a whole bunch of mail that has been all over. So you will notice I have changed hospitals again. Don't stay long enough in one place to get settled even. This place is right on the sea coast and certainly is lovely. The wound in my back is all open but is healing fast. I intend to go to England on my sick leave for fourteen days. I figure it will be my last chance to see those Countries and may as well take it. One thing sure if I ever get across that pond I'll never come back to see them. So better take the chance now. Things certainly are going well on the front now for us. If it only keeps up I think the end of the war will not be long. The weather is the main thing. If it keeps good and gives the boys a chance but a fellow can't fight his way and wade mud both. The Canadians certainly are doing good work now. But they are paying for it. I suppose you remember that Zettel boy that used to stay at Joe Smiths. His brother was killed the same day as I got hit. He was in the same platoon as me. There was eight out of twenty four of it killed that morning, and twelve wounded. So you can figure how many came out alright.

I have been doing some great fancy work while laying around. You'd be surprised to see me sit down and do it. I made a belt with all the Allied flags on it and the Red Cross had it put on leather for me. It sure is a dandy. If I happen to get broke while on leave I'll be able to pawn it off. Ha, ha. The Red Cross gives us the thread and the cloth to work it on. They are sure good to the wounded soldiers over here. All the old women and girls for miles around come to the hospital with things for us. Its the only part of a soldiers life. Believe me.

SIGHT SEEING IN OLD LONDON

Oscar Schwindt, of the Royal Air Force, wrote home the following interesting description of his visit to the historic British Houses of Parliament and Westminster Abbey:—

23 Beddington Place
Beddington,
October 9 1918.

My Dear Parents and Sisters:—

It is three or four days since I have written you, I have been looking for a letter each day so that I could answer any questions you might ask. Besides I was to London yesterday on Business to Canadian Head Quarters. Apparently there was some mistake about our transfers from Canada over here, but when we reported they said it was alright. We were given the lay off so Andy and I were in no hurry to get back. We had our lunch at London had a long ride around the city, seeing different sights, coming quite near to the Westminster Abbey and the Parliament Buildings we thought we might as well try to have a look at these buildings. We went to a "Bobby" guarding one of the gates and asked permission to enter. He told us that the Right Honourable Mr. John Burns a member of Parliament was escorting a number of soldiers through the Parliament at 3 o'clock, as it was only about 2.15 we decided to go through the Abbey first, which is only across the road. We didn't have time to see all of the Abbey but we got a good impression of the inside and its beautiful architecture which was all thought out by Christopher Wren if I remember my history correctly. We were told that we were walking over the bones of such and such a great man. The statues are very numerous and wonderful. In one of the parts we saw a girl painting one of the arches, she told us quite a bit about the place. The time passed quickly and we wanted to go through the Parliament buildings so we left the Abbey before we had seen it all.

Going back to the gate at the Parliament buildings, we already saw a large number of soldiers (American, Australian, African and West Indian). At three o'clock John Burns came along and he asked us to let him be our guide.

Entering by a large door we came into the oldest part of the Parliament buildings, being built in the time of King Rufus, son of William the Conqueror. Although this building is very old it still looks quite firm and safe. It is said to be the highest and widest building, without pillars or central supports. It was 500 years ago since the roof was last repaired and they are only repairing it now.

In his talk John Burns told us that this building has witnessed more historical events than any other building in the world. In the earliest day this building was also used as a law court as well as a meeting place for Parliament. Thousands of people in the earliest days were tried and generally sentenced to death, for very small [illegible] at the will of the King or Parliament. Some of the most noted trials held in this building were those of Warren Hastings, which lasted seven years. William Wallace, Scotland's greatest hero, was in this place condemned to be cut into four parts, which were to be hung in four parts of the city as a warning to other traitors who were against the King of England's tyranny. Cromwell was also condemned in this building and two brass plates mark the place where he stood while his sentence was read. This building has been the crowning place of all the sovereigns of England for the last 1000 years.

Although the Parliament buildings were not built at the same time, still they are all joined together. Leaving the first building we ascended a flight of stairs and passing through a large door entered St. Stephens Hall. This Hall is quite small but very beautiful, containing the statues of about ten Prime ministers of England. It was in the centre of this building, one hundred and forty-two years ago, that King George III. declared war on America. John Burns mentioned the fact that 142 years ago the British Parl. declared war on our forefathers, but now they are glad to entertain us in their capital city.

Leaving St. Stephens Hall we came into the Central Hall, so called because it has St. Stephen on one side, the House of Lords on another, and the House of Comons on the other side. This building is round and also contains a great many, marble statues, it like the other buildings has beautifully figured windows and most wonderfully carved walls and ceiling. The building to which Central Hall belongs covers ten acres of land, took eighteen years to build, costing four million pounds, having one hundred staircases and 264 clocks, besides many other things which I cannot remember accurately.

Next we were taken to the Picture Hall, which is quite narrow and leads to the House of Lords. The name of the Hall will likely suggest to you what the chief thing of interest is. The walls are covered with eight large wall paintings. O[illegible] of the pictures shows Cromwe[illegible] Army, the London Rifles, going attack Charles I. Army. It was [illegible]teresting to notice the change t[illegible] the Army has made since then. [illegible]other picture shows the scene of Pilgrim Fathers leaving England America. Again John Burns [illegible] the loyalty of the British peo[illegible] although at the time of the pa[illegible]tion of the Pilgrims many peop[illegible] to leave the country and [illegible] great hardships, yet in spite [illegible] their heirs gladly came back [illegible] for the country that per[illegible] them. I only wished I could [illegible]spent more time looking at th[illegible]

So far everyone of the halls [illegible]ed to be very wonderful but th[illegible]proved to be the most wonderf[illegible]all we had seen so far. The [illegible]thing I noticed was the wood [illegible] The walls and ceiling were all [illegible]and I am not exaggerating wh[illegible]say that almost every inch of t[illegible]hand carved, and it is a very [illegible]room. Looking at the whole [illegible]you are immediately struck wit[illegible]symmetry and proportion of e[illegible]thing in this part. This is the Ho[illegible] of Lords. At the furthest end o[illegible] Hall you can see two large cha[illegible]and a small one on the right, benea[illegible]a large carved canopy. At the ope[illegible]ing of Parliament the King a[illegible] Queen sit on the right hand side [illegible]the House, the people who are p[illegible]mitted to attend sit above in a [illegible]row gallery.

The Lord Chancellor who [illegible]Chairman sits in the centre [illegible]room near the Royalty. The [illegible]a circular bench. When he [illegible]on the front of the circular b[illegible]is the chairman. If he stan[illegible]speak he loses his power as [illegible]man and becomes a peer, if [illegible]around the rear of the be[illegible]stands, he has no power at a[illegible]only a listener.

In front of the Lord Cha[illegible]sent there are two "Wool[illegible]which have a strange tale abo[illegible]origin.

In old English day[illegible]Parliamentary members were [illegible]anxious to get into wool trad[illegible]brought in a lot of money, [illegible]caused corruption and smuggl[illegible]as a ramifidor to keep their [illegible]off wool, these two wool sacs [illegible]placed in the centre before t[illegible]of all their lordships. Of cou[illegible]are of no use now, yet[illegible]louns or to sit on lounge on.'

Having already spent nea[illegible]hour in the building I was b[illegible]to think that it was "some" [illegible]Passing from the House of [illegible]came to a Writing Room[illegible]their Lordships do all their [illegible]and correspondence, when t[illegible]not debating. This room is u[illegible]lique. It has a very large and [illegible]ful marble statue of Queen V[illegible]when she was quite young. O[illegible]walls there are large portrait[illegible]King Henry and all of his [illegible]After admiring the beauty [illegible]the room we were asked to come into the Royal Gallery. The two things I [illegible]nired in this room were the two large wall paintings, each one be[illegible]about 60 feet long and 20 feet h[illegible]The one picture shows the death of Nelson with all the sailors and ships and the other one shows the meeting of armies of Blucher and Wellington after the Battle of Waterloo. These pictures are so lifelike that one could almost be made to believe that he was looking at human beings. One of the large windows has a shrapnel hole in it from a Germ[illegible] bomb.

Having seen all the buildings [illegible] this wing of the building we went over to the other side and entered the House of Commons which is 250 years old. There are 630 members in the House of Commons, but there is only room for about 500 and besides there never more than 360 sitting. There is a gallery at the [illegible] of Hall where the King's Ar[illegible]ders sit. John Burns also e[illegible] to us where certain great [illegible] when they were in session. Since 250 years ago, when [illegible] I tried to cause a disturban[illegible]coming into the senate fully [illegible]ned the House of Colmons passed a law that no one must carry any weapons while in this building. So when the King or other military men come in they are asked to leave their swords etc. outside. You will notice in reading this description of the Parliament buildings, that the English like to hang on to old customs. An[illegible]other old custom is a thin red line [illegible] the Carpet which is 15 inches f[illegible] the front seats on each side. [illegible] this line none of the members

THAT BOY OF YOURS

He is not seriously wounded. No! But he never tells you of the pain he sometimes suffers because of a blistered foot after marching. He said not a word of how the ground near where he is billeted reeks with old gas which irritates cuts and sores and makes them ten-fold more painful and serious. He considers these the "little things."

For just such serious "little things" Zam-Buk is provided. It soothes the pain, draws the inflammation from cut or blister and heals eruptions and sores. In the homes of Canada, mothers consider it a necessity. How much more necessary is it out yonder where your boy is!

See to it that he has a supply! Perhaps he gave that last box you sent to a comrade, so in your next parcel don't forget to replace it. Put Zam-Buk in every parcel you send, for the boys all say "send us more allowed to have their long swords projecting and thus interfere with the person walking in the passage. This red line has no use to-day but is kept there because it is customary. Another old custom is the presence of a Sergeant and Black Rod, the latter being so called because he carries a black rod with a brass knob. In olden days the king himself would bring his message and will before the House of Commons and the members often consented to it, because they were afraid to vote against it for fear of losing their position or perhaps their heads. To do away with this they cut a hole 9 in. by 15 in., in the door and covered it with a perforated brass plate. The sergeant is inside the House of Commons, and the Black Rod the King's Messenger is at the King's Palace. If the King wishes to send a message to the House of Commons he sends it with Black Rod who stands at the open door of the House, but does not enter. The sergeant sees him and quickly rushes to the door and slams it in his face and locks it and then bending down speaks through the hole and says, "who is there? Black Rod answers, "Black Rod." The sergeant says, "What do you want Black Rod", he says, "I have a message from the King." The door is opened and the sergeant takes Black Rod by the arm and leads him into the House. Black Rod then walks slowly up to the table and bows very low three times, he hands his message to the Prime Minister and then turns to go out and again bows three times John Burns has been a member for 27 yrs. had a boil on his leg just above the knee and it was very sore, so he had been having it poulticed and so along came Nurse Robertson, and she sure had the thing hot. Joe wasn't expecting her to slap it on until it got a bit cool, but before he knew it she had slapped it on and had about three rounds of the bandage on. Joe said he sat straight up in bed and thinking of some name to call her just looked at her. (Guess he was but couldn't find one strong enough.) However, Joe says if he ever gets it again he wants to go to "Orpington." Says they give you passes for two and there months to get out of the way.

HOW FRED KENNY FELL

He and Three Comrades and His Captain Killed By a Single German Shell

Mr. and Mrs. P. Kenny received a nice letter a few days ago from Capt. H. H. Priest, the Chaplain of the 47th. Batt'n. with which their son, Fred was connected on the firing line. The letter besides sending a message of comfort to the bereaved parents, gives the particulars of Fred's death on the firing line on Oct. 18th. Capt. Priest writes:—

France, 19, 10, 18.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Kenny:—

I am writing to assure you of the death of your son, Pte. Fred Kenny who was killed in action about ten o'clock yesterday morning. We were following up the German retreat and had reached a certain village where we were to halt for some hours, when the enemy put on a heavy fire, and a number of shells fell around our men. Your son was sheltering behind a haystack with a number of others, when two shells exploded not a dozen feet away. He was hit in the back of the head and instantly killed. His Captain and three comrades were also killed. I was not a hundred yards away and saw it all. His body will be given Christain burial in the British Military Cemetery Aubigny-au-Bac. I expect to go out to take the service in a few minutes. I'm sending you some of his personal effects, some of which I sent to his sister in London, and the remaining few will be forwarded through the regular channels which are very slow. I had known your son but slightly as he had not been with us long, but I believe he was prepared to go, and one feels that already for him God's word of Reward has been spoken, "Well done good and faithful servant, Enter Thou into the joy of Thy Lord". Such a life as his, pure, honest and upright has not been lived in vain, and I earnestly pray that in the hope of the Resurrection and the Communion of Saints, God will comfort you and yours.

In earnest sympathy,
I remain very faithfully yours,
H. H. Priest.

Almost Recovered.

Mr. Geo. D. McKay, who has been confined to the house for several weeks with pneumonia, is up again although not himself yet. He expects to make a start at his office again in a few days.

OF

UNPAID SUBSCRIPTIONS

At a public hearing in Ottawa the other day in connection with paper conservation, the Paper Controller for Canada intimated that regulations about to be issued would include one of the effects that:

> Publishers of newspapers must cease sending their newspapers to subscribers three months in arrears, unless subscriptions be definitely renewed, and all arrears fully paid.

The reason for this regulation of the Paper Controller is that it is the practice of some publishers to send their newspapers until ordered stopped. It is to prevent paper waste that the new regulation has been decided on.

The manufacture of paper consumes labor, wood, coal, chemicals and transportation facilities, and every ton of paper saved means just so much more labor, raw materials, chemicals, fuel and transportation available for urgent war needs. For these reasons the Government insists that paper shall be saved and proposes that only those who pay for their publications shall receive them.

Under these regulations The Telescope will have no choice in the matter of dealing with "subscriptions in arrears for over three months.

You need The Telescope, and we want to continue sending it to you. So, if your subscription is in arrears, please pay up at once to prevent a discontinuance of your subscription.

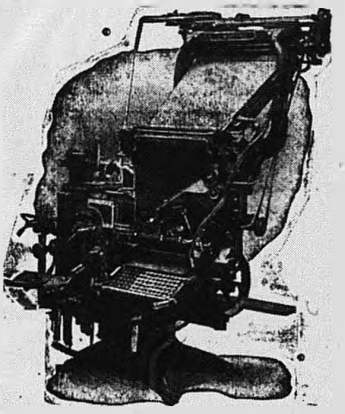
NURSING AT ORPINGTON



In an Overseas letter published in the Milton Champion last week we noted a reference was made to the good work that Mrs. Eric Robertson is doing as Nursing Sister at Orpington Hospital. Says the letter:—Joe has been in Orpington up till a couple of weeks ago, and was in Nurse Robertson's ward. She went down to the station to see Bill Durnan off and he told her about Torry. She went back and asked him if he was from Milton, and of course he said yes, so she said, "you likely knew Eric Robertson," and Joe knew him of course; "Well" she said, "he was my husband," so Joe finally tumbled to the fact that Nurse Robertson was a few years ago Miss Mary Zimmerman, and they got along fine, two old Miltonians. Joe says she is probably the best and the also sure) I know her business. Joe

TELESCOPE LETTER BOX

OUR PEACE CELEBRATION

Editor Telescope.
Dear Sir:—

The Peace Celebration had some regrettable features.

We have so often heard from over the footlights at the Town Hall from men with tears in their eyes, saying how we must make way for our returned hero boys. They must have first place in first things. Did those men keep faith with that oft repeated vow, did they see to it that those hero boys have just first place in that monster parade, no not they, but one returned soldier in the parade proper. No Father, Mother, Brother or Sister of our gallant immortal dead was there to whom we owe more than to the living. But the path was made clear at the close of the parade for some of the most daring and high handed vandalism that men could possibly conceive of.

The first raid took place at the home of Mr. Stade, who is just recovering from an attack of Typhoid fever. He was grabbed and jostled about and thrown to the ground, at this juncture a soldier son came running from the field and defied further interfering with his Father, and they left without their prey. There were four others in the Stade neighborhood rounded up and brought to the Town Hall and judgment passed according to the dictates of their wouldbe captors.

Mr. Radel of the South Line, whose wife has two brothers at the Front and was seriously wounded was taken almost from the funeral procession of a neighbor and put through some humiliating exercises.

Then to the home of Mr. Seigmiller, a howling mob about eight or ten in number badthe audacity to enter the home of that old couple who are in their Seventies, and compel the old man to accompany him and his gang down Town amidst jeers. Next an entrance was affected into the home of Mr. Wm. Weber at three o'clock in the morning rushing upstairs and into the sleeping apartments of that quiet and respectable home and with hand uplifted the ring leader said "I am armed with authority to take you. Mr. Webber like David of old was too many for for that great Goliath, who with his party was forced to leave without the fulfillment of their mission, but left behind them such train of blasphemy such as never was heard in that locality before. The sanctity and the respectability of the Webber Home needs no comment. During the stay of the 160th., in Walkerton, an epidemic of measles broke out amongst the soldiers, Mr. and Mrs. Webber threw open their spacious home for the sick boys. There were about seventy-five in all located at that home. When the boys got well Mrs. Webber was made the recipient of many gifts for her exceedingly kind hospitality during their illness, nothing but words of praise on all sides from the boys for Mr. and Mrs. Webber. That the Mayor and Chief Magistrate of the Town who must or should have known could stand by and wink at such high handed vandalism as was carried on at the Webber home is beyond comprehension.

Perhaps the most malicious invasion of all was perpetrated at the home of Mr John Bell, in the Township of Carrick where that home was attacked in furious fashion, three raids in all. The first raid took place at mid-night and the prey in this was Mr. Gress who was at the Bell home visiting his sister. Mrs. Bell who has been ill and confined to her room for some time. However the raid was not successful this time. The raiders left for town soon to return again with half a dozen cars loaded with an infuriated mob who walked right into the house which was in darkness, and no one in the house but two young girls and the sick mother. It was then that the dastardly work was done, frenzied men ramsacking the house from room to room. Then Mr. Bell and the young man that works for him who had gone home with Mr. Gress appeared on the scene and undertook to defend their home, and in the melee the young girls were ruthlessly pushed aside, furniture knocked about and the phone torn from its moorings. I would not dare mention some of the things that took place here, but no doubt they will be aired through another channel.

Some of the participants are now hanging their heads with shame, cursing their luck and blaming the drink, saying "when whiskey is in, Wit is out".

How such an infraction of the Liquor Law extending over a period of thirty hours could take place right under the nose of Inspector White, unheeded, calls for an immediate and thorough investigation.

The Daughters of the Empire, who had become disgusted with the rowdyism that was being carried on drew up a resolution asking the men to kindly stop. With all there was still a spark of common decency among that crowd, one of them spoke up and said, "Boys we had better stop," and they did. Thanks to the Daughters of the Empire that through their instrumentality for thus bringing to a close, assuredly the most disgraceful scenes ever enacted in the historic old County of Bruce,

RIGHT IS MIGHT

To the Editor of Telescope.
Dear Sir:—

All honor and respect to the I.O.D.E. for their noble stand against mob-law. Such tactics in the name of patriotism is not patriotism, and in no way upholds the dignity of our flag, nor the fair play of British institutions.

I think I voice the sentiments of the majority of Walkerton's right minded citizens.

High School Notes

The officers of the Cadet Corps were appointed this week. William Ramsey as Captain, and Vernon Tovell and Cecil Cargill as Lieutenants. Four sergeants will be appointed in the near future. The corps is over thirty strong and is making progress notwithstanding the loss of four weeks during the "Flu" epidemic.

Cadet G. L. Pfohl of Camp Borden, who was one of the live men of last year, spent the week end in town. Gordon is a full-fledged aviator now and Hun Birdmen may be thankful that peace has arrived in time to save them from his attentions.

William Ramsay, who was appointed Captain of the Cadet Corps, was the victim of a very painful accident at the Bobbin Factory on Saturday. His sleeve was caught by a saw and he was severely cut on the left arm above the elbow. The pupils hope that his recovery will be speedy and that he will be able to return to school soon.

Latest news from Nelson Lay, who left school to enter the Royal Naval College at Esquimalt, is that he is well and enjoying life on the Pacific Coast.

On account of the "flu", the pupils had to postpone their campaign to collect papers, but they purpose commmencing operations as soon as possible, and hope that people will be saving their old newspapers and magazines for them.

MRS. ANDREW McLEAN SR.

Called Suddenly Away On Saturday Afternoon In Her 85th., Year.

Quite unexpectedly Mrs. Andrew McLean, one of the town's oldest citizens was called away on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. McLean, though in her 85th. year had unimpaired use of all her faculties and had been enjoying the best of health. On Saturday she was up and about as usual and a member of the family remarked that she had never looked better in her life. About two o'clock while sitting chatting with a neighbor she was seized with an attack of acute indigestion to which she was subject. She soon sank into unconsciousness and expired within two hours. Mrs. McLean was a woman of charming personality. In her later days her intellect retained its native brightness and up to the last her younger friends found her the best of company.

She was born in Hanley, England, her maiden name being Eleanor Simpson. It was not until several years after their marriage that Mr. and Mrs. McLean came to Canada, settling immediately at Walkerton. That was just sixty years ago. Mr. McLean was connected with many enterprises in the early life of the town and for many years owned the large stock farm, flour mills, lath and sawmills at Moscow. He predeceased his wife nearly five years ago. There are left to mourn, one son, Mr. Andrew McLean, Walkerton, and three daughters, Mrs. Wm. Lindsay, Moscow Farm, Culross; Mrs. O'Gorman, Walkerton, Mrs. Stewart of Calgary, Alta; and Mrs. T. E. Attwood, Walkerton. IF CROWN PRINCE SHOULD VISIT US

The CROWN PRINCE of Germany expressed a wish to visit Canada after the war ended. Some ideas for his entertainment in this country might be advanced as follows:—

Intern him in Hamilton.

Lock him up in a room with the editor of the Toronto Telegram.

Compel him to commit suicide by living on the average Canadian pension.

Make him attend every public "feed" held in Ontario cities for six months.

Arrange it so that he would be compelled always to sit in front of people who read the "movie" titles aloud.

Blight his life by handing him a Canadian title.

Compel him to live at the Toronto Base Hospital for a few months.

Or turn him over to a few of our well-known gimlet operators who have him full of holes.—London Advertiser.

47 YEARS IN WALKERTON

Passing of Mrs. R. Rettlebron, a well-known and Highly Esteemed Lady

Mrs. Rosina Rettlebron, widow of the late Christian Rettlebron, passed away on Sunday, November 17th, at the residence of her grand-daughter, Mrs. Harry Buehlow, where she had been ill the past two months. Mrs. Rettlebron, who was in her eighty-first year, was born in Alsace Fennce, her maiden name being Rosine Buckle. She came to this Country with her parents who settled at Shakespeare, Perth County, where they were among the earliest pioneers. Forty-seven years ago Mr. and Mrs. Rettlebron removed to Walkerton where the former engaged in the boot and shoe business and for some years conducted a felt shoe factory in partnership with Mr. Sharp. His store was burned down at the time of the big fire and he afterwards erected the brick block on the Durham St., which remained the property of his widow up to the time of her death. Mrs. Rettlebron was a warm-hearted lady whose memory will be ever revered by those who knew her best. An only daughter, Mrs. John Krueger, survives. The funeral was held from the home of her grand-daughter, Mrs. Harry Buehlow where she was cared for during her last illness. Service was afterwards held at the Evangelical Church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Grenzebach. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Dan Miller, Geo. Eckel, Rheinhold Weiss, John Rapp, John Bilger, Jacob Dippel.

MR. LORENZO LEDUC

3 Ottawa St., Hull, P.Q.

"Fruit-a-tives" is certainly a wonder. For a year, I suffered with Rheumatism; being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine but without getting better; and thought I would never be able to walk again.

"One day while lying in bed, I read about 'Fruit-a-tives' the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it.

The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the Rheumatism left me.

I have every confidence in 'Fruit-a-tives' and strongly recommend them to every sufferer from Rheumatism".

CHIROPRACTIC is Based on These Two Principles:

1. Sub-Luxation (partial displacement) of Bones causes pressure on nerves.

2. Pressure on nerves causes disease.

The cause of disease has been and is yet mysterious to the great mass of humanity but the mystery has been solved by the Chiropractor.

My business is to adjust the cause, to release the pressure on the nerves and in so doing to restore normal function which is perfect health.

I GIVE A LOGICAL REASON FOR THE CAUSE OF DISEASE. I ADJUST THAT CAUSE.

LIVE NEWS OF NEIGHBORING VILLAGES AND COUNTRYSIDE

:-: Happenings of the Week Collected for the Readers of The Telescope by a Staff of Wideawake Correspondents :-:

DUNKELD

The Ball which was scheduled to take place here on Thanksgiving night and which was cancelled owing to the "flu" was held in Schuler's hall on Monday night under the auspices of the young peoples' club. Despite the very unfavorable condition of the weather the crowd was large and the fete was in every way successful. The music furnished by a local orchestra was excellent.

General regret is felt throughout this locality at Jack Johnston's failure to "cinch" the handsome McLaughlin six in the Free Press Contest, which was awarded Miss Margaret Trimble, Woodsley. The local candidate missed the prize by a close margin. Better luck next time, Jack.

Mr. William Rooney, popular threasherman, finished the season's work on Saturday last. Bill had been on the job since August 13th. and with his assistant Louie Schnitzler, certainly made a creditable showing in that capacity.

Canada certainly went "over the top" in the victory loan campaign which closed on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Miller have moved their household effects to Elmira where the family will reside in the future. We are sorry indeed to lose this family from Mildmay. Mr. Miller will work in a factory in Elmira.

It was a great but a pleasant surprise to the congregation of the Evangelical Church to learn from their pastor Rev. Becker that the sum of their subscriptions to the Missionary cause amounted to almost Three Hundred Dollars. Mildmay Evangelical people certainly went over the top with their contributions. The congregation of the Sixth Con. contributed sixty dollars.

Victory Bond subscriptions in Carrick did not reach the objective but the response was very good nevertheless.

Canvassers Johnston, Reuber and Fisher deserve credit.

The meeting last Thursday night in the interests of the Victory Loan was well attended but it is too bad this meeting was not held earlier. Col. Wright who went over with his battalion on the Matagami with the 160th. Batt'n. in Oct. 1916 spoke and said the 160th. fellows were a fine bunch of men. He explained the victory loan quite well and was well received. Moving pictures added to the interest of the evening. Mr. South was chairman.

Could Do Without It

Mr. Tom Henderson, Baker & Confectioner, Durham, in renewing his Telescope to January, 1920, writes:—"We could not do without the Telescope to get all the news of Walkerton."

Delighted To Honor Him

We feel that it will not be invidious to mention the name of one individual at the celebration whom Wiarton delights to honor. That gentlemen is Father Cadot, Cape Croker. Throughout the whole war he was an example upon every occasion. Nothing that we can say would be too high a tribute for the whole souled devotion with which he served the cause of the Allies. A number of his boys have made the supreme sacrifice, many have been wounded, and he has deeply felt it all.—Wiarton Echo.

SCOUTS "ALERT"

Last Friday was a red letter night with the Scouts and Cubs. We had a Union Meeting, the Cubs being busy learning the Semaphore Signalling, while the Scouts were learning their Scout Laws. Everything came off splendid and at 8.30 p.m. a hurry-up call was sent to the Rev. Mr. Perdue and he responded most promptly.

The Rev. Mr. Perdue said some kind encouraging words to the boys and thanked them for their work in the celebration. Every Scout passed his Tenderfoot except the Secretary who was busy getting subscriptions from the boys, then the Rev. Mr. Perdue presented the Badges to the Scouts, the boys showed their smartness in their dismissal.

The seventh Scout Law says:—A Scout obeys orders of his Parents, Patrol-leader or Scout master without question. A Scout should always obey those in authority over him. Be true to your parents. An order to you may appear wrong to you, yet carry it out cheerfully. Do not dispute it, that is discipline. We have everyone to obey orders from someone no matter what position in life we hold and if we do not obey orders we must get out and some one else takes our place who will obey so you see we come out losers in the long run.

I am very sorry to have to inform you that the news I prepared you for last Friday has arrived. I have received my orders and although it seems hard to have to leave you all I must obey those in authority over me. I sincerely hope that you will be able to get somebody to fill my place and carry on the good work. If people only knew the pleasure in mixing with the young there would be at least 4 troops of Scouts here, it keeps you young and a person is only as young as he feels. Goodbye and Good Wishes to you all.

BRUCE COUNTY LOOKS

For Statesmanship In the United Farmers' Movement, Says W. L. Smith in the Farmers' Weekly Sun—Development of the Association has passed the Stage of Organization and Is Now Looking For Work To Do.

Bruce county is wedded to live stock as a profitable way of extracting health, a livelihood, automobiles, wealth, and houses and barns from the soil.

Bruce county is wedded to co-operative marketing of live stock as the intermediary by which these things may be extracted from the soil and merged into the realm of tangible realities.

Bruce county is wedded to the United Farmers of Ontario as the only way of extracting influence, prestige, right conditions of living and working from the muck of politics.

After a visit to the county last week, personally conducted by N. C. McKay, Agricultural Representative, the writer has come to the conclusion that this much wedded county, if it did not marry for money has at any rate prospered since the event!

Bruce clubs have contributed some of our staunchest and most level-headed members of the U.F.O., who have taken keen interest in the sucess of the movement and have been enthusiastic workers at the annual meetings.

"Many of the clubs have been organized by the Department of Agriculture in this county, and all are affiliated with the U.F.O., said Mr. McKay to the Sun.

"What is your attitude to them affiliating with the U.F.O.?" he was asked.

"Why, tell them to go ahead," he replied. "there's nothing lose and I can't see why they shouldn't have the advantages. Practically all our best farmers belong to these clubs."

The president of one of the strong U.F.O. clubs of Bruce was jubilant over the victory in Manitoulin, and declared that "the U.F.O. is going strong." He regretted the fact that the general election had been held last fall, as he is of the opinion that with the example of Manitoulin before them farmers would be spurred on to mark their ballots in favor of farmer candidates.

"I hope," said he, "that Bowman shows how up well in the Legislature. They say he is a strong man, and if he is it will be a great thing for the moment."

The point of leadership in this club president's mind, is the all important one. "The trouble is trying to weld the farmers' vote," he said. "Is that there are so many men to handle. The manufacturers have just a few and so stick together, but there are thousands of farmers so they look too hard at 25c.

"I would not like to see a third party spring up, but would rather elect enough farmers to show the two parties what we want and see that we get it.

"In this leadership would be the great thing. We would have to have a leader for it who would control the farming vote and command the respect and confidence of all the thousands of farmers so that they would stick together in the face of the adverse town vote."

He did not indicate whether this leadership should come from the U.F.O. itself or from a closely affiliated organization, but added the comment: "I am afraid we will have trouble in getting the leadership."

Clubs are Thinking

Evidently the plunge into definite political operations foreshadowed by the Manitoulin election has not only set the members throughout the country thinking, but it has also emphasized the great importance of the U.F.O. to the farming public.

At any rate the vice-president of this same Bruce county club voiced somewhat similar sentiments. It is an open secret that the U.F.O. has less a case of leaders than of organizers. If Bruce may be taken as an index, the rank and file is now turning to a closer study of leadership, program, and such things, and the next step on the road to success is the unearthing of statesmen.

SHORTHORNS ARE STANDARD

A good many years ago Henry Cargill went in for pure-bred Durhams, and imported Scotch Shorthorns exteusively, building up a fine herd which was finally sold to John Gardhouse, several years ago, 8 head in all.

From this Cargill herd went out much of the foundation stock of the pure bred Shorthorn herds of the county, giving an impetus to the breed that is very marked to-day.

While there are some 200 shorthorn breeders in the county, they are all operating in a small way and and some very good stock is produced. Some leading shorthorn men come up into Bruce every year to pick up breeding stock, but last year, a sale was put on with a view to disposing of the surplus breeding stock by auction. It was so successful that it is now to be an annual event hereafter.

Two breeders' clubs have taken an active part in the Shorthorn propaganda and put on the spring sale. An auto excursion is made, when a circuit of a number of prominent men is made and their herds studied. Then every year a "Shorthorn Day" is held when a picnic breaks the monotony of work, and a prominent speaker provides the intellectual Shorthorn food, and the ration is balanced by local talent.

Whatever part these activities play in it, Mr. McKay reports that all over the county breeders are buying foundation stuff all the time, and buying better pedigreed stuff.

The spring sale held at Walkerton on the first Thursday in March, embraces carefully selected meritorious animals and will help this movement, though outside buyers are welcomed. It is not considered fair to the seller to restrict bidding to those from the county alone—even though the county name might be enhanced by it.

At last year's sale all the females were bought locally and in most cases by men who had no pure breds up till that time. It was all young stuff, practically all being under one year. The average price for some 15 head was $150, which was better than the prices put on the stuff at home, and this coming Spring from 25 to 40 head of good stuff will probably be sold, including older animals than those which went under the hammer the past spring.

Get-Together Spirit

As may be imagined when the U. F. O. Spirit is so strong in Bruce, there is a strong get-together tendency. This is noticeable in the breeders' clubs and still more so in the co-operative marketing of live-stock. Isn't it a fact that "money talks" with us? Its still, small voice is mighty persuasive and it doesn't have to use a megaphone when it pops up and says "Here I am."

In developing the co-operative marketing of live stock there has been little or no assistance from the U.F.O. headquarters, and as a result there is no uniformity in the methods employed. It now suggested that at a meeting be held this winter at which all the managers and presidents of all the shipping clubs [illegible] should discuss methods [illegible] ing is that by doing [illegible] ties may be overcome [illegible] and the way [illegible] placed on a satisfactory basis. So far it has been largely experimental, and each club has had to "hoe its own row."

While in Grey county it is common practice to ship to a commission firm, in Bruce the various clubs ship their hogs to one packing house or another—and to the methods of doing business there is no end of variety. A round-table conference of managers would go a long way to overcome the difficulties and establish practical methods.

That there is ample room for a strong live stock shipping trade in Bruce county is unquestioned—for it is already strong, and Bruce claims the honor of sending the second best steers to the Toronto market, as well as the best lambs.

Notes from Bruce

Fall wheat never looked better than now. There is scarcely a poor field in the county; all have a nice, even top, and are in good shape to meet the winter. The acreage, however, is still smaller than last year. "A burnt child fears the fire." This year's fall wheat crop was finished off at oats or barley.

Before the recent drop potatoes were selling at $1.65 per bag, f.o.b. Walkerton. There is talk of as low as 90c. a bag in bulk on board cars, now.

"It is surprising how much grain was raised, considering the help that was available," said Alex Rae, president of one club. "There was even more acreage, I believe, put in than last year. But we can't do it again next year, we worked too hard for our own good this year." Mr. Rae tells of a neighbor's son who was drafted and a large field had been made ready for seeding. Neighbors turned in and helped with the seeding an again in the harvest—or the field would of necessity have been left idle. "Did you increase your acreage?" we asked Mr. Rae. "Yes," came the reply. "I was fool enough to put in more than I could handle, when it came to drilling the barley in on the wheat land, I had 15 acres more oats than barley."

But it has been a year of plentiful yields, and Mr. Rae's spring wheat yielded about 35 bushels to the acre, while others claim more.

Roots have turned out real well.

"We had a good year," said a Sun reader to the writer. "Did you make wages for yourself and interest on your investment?" we came back. He had to admit failure to do so. It can't be done—or at least, it isn't done.

Fall plowing is well over, and many are completely through. The past weather has been favorable, but last week's rains were against it.

Died At Regina

Deep regret was felt by the many friends and family here, when it was learned that Will Quirk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Quirk of Brant, had succumbed to influenza at Regina on Saturday afternoon. The news came by a wire which reached here Sunday morning. A telegram received Monday stated that interment had been made at Regina as it impossible to ship the body here. Will was in his 30th., year and had been five years at Regina where he was employed by a large cartage company. Will was a fine young fellow and had many friends. Miss Margaret and Mr. Pat Quirk of Brant are only brother and sister. He leaves wife and little daughter. WHAT WILL OUR TOWN DO

To Commemorate the Part Her Soldiers Took In the Great War

What will Walkerton do to honor the memory of her soldiers who have fallen on the field of battle? This is a question that will come before our citizens asking a solution before many days. No doubt Memorial tablets will be placed in the Town Hall or some public building giving the names of those who donned the khaki or at least for those who have fallen. A marble shaft might be erected in a public place. But above and beyond all this the sacrifice that the boys have made deserves a monument that will perpetuate their ideal of service in the life of the community. A suggestion that has occurred to the Telescope is for the citizens to endow a Soldiers Ward or Wing at the County Hospital where those soldier boys who have returned after having borne the brunt of battle, may always find a comfortable place in the time of sickness for the rest of their lives. It might be called the "Walkerton Soldiers' Ward." This is one suggestion. We invite our readers to enlarge on this proposal or to make suggestions of their own. Write a letter to the Editor of the Telescope.

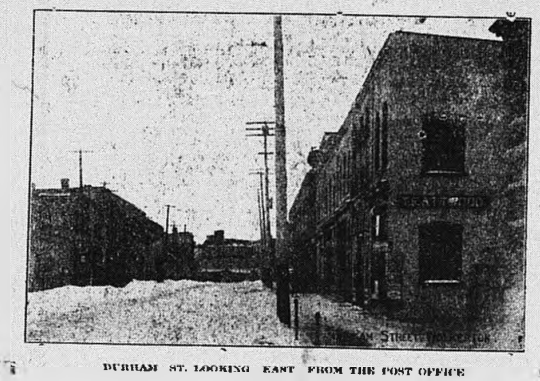
DIED OF PNEUMONIA

Pastor of Baptist Church Bereaved For the Second Time This Year By the Death of His Youngest Daughter, Miss Nettie Hamilton Rock of Winnipeg in Her Twenty-Third Year



Very sad news came to Rev. and Mrs. G. C. Rock last Thursday morning from Winnipeg. Their youngest daughter, Miss Nettie Hamilton Rock, had gone to the St. Boniface Hospital with a slight attack of influenza a week previously. When word followed that pneumonia had set in, Mr. Rock prepared to set out for Winnipeg, but was stopped by a reassuring wire which stated that she had passed the danger point safely and was doing well. The telegram on Thursday morning that she had passed away was a shocking and unexpected blow, and is all the harder from the loss which Mr. and Mrs. Rock sustained earlier in the year by the death in action of their clever and gallant son, Lieut. George Rock. Miss Rock was a beautiful and winsome girl of charming personality. During her visit here last summer she made warm friends as indeed she did wherever she went. She was in her 23rd. year, graduated from the Winnipeg Normal School five years ago and after teaching two years in the West, she entered on the study of dentistry in which she was specializing in filling and the treatment of pyrites and had planned to continue her studies at Boston next year. Miss Rock was greatly interested in Christian work and social service and was one of the founders of the dental clinic for poor children at Winnipeg. She had relatives and very kind friends in the city and during her brief illness, which lasted only seven days she had every care and attention that could be thought of.

The funeral took place at Winnipeg on Saturday, Nov. 23rd., the dental staff acting as pall-bearers. Rev. Dr. Paterson of First Baptist had charge of the service. Interment took place at Brookside Cemetery. There was a large attendance and many beautiful flowers adorned the casket.

FAMILIAR SCENES IN WALKERTON:- No. 1

DURHAM ST. LOOKING EAST FROM THE POST OFFICE

During the next few weeks the Telescope will publish each week a photo engraving showing some point of interest in Walkerton, such as a street-scene or prominent public building. Few towns the size of Walkerton have as imposing public structures or such beautiful residential streets. We hope that this series of photos will help a bit to advertise the good old town and give out-of-town friends a glimpse of sights to which the citizens of Bruce's County Town are accustomed to point with pride.

OUR TOWN GOVERNMENT

An A.B.C. of Municipal Business Is Given Herewith—Simple Facts Which Everybody Should Know But Which A Great Many People Don't

At times of great national crises, our Dominion government occupies a place of preponderating importance but in ordinary quiet times the municipal government touches our daily lives much more intimately and deals with matters that affect each individual alone if from no higher motive dual very closely. From pure self-interest it is important that each and every citizen should become informed as to the working of our municipal government and take a close personal interest in the municipal life of our town.

Our Town Council

Our Walkerton Town Council deals with such matters as seeing that roads and streets are made and kept in repair, that bridges are built, that sidewalks are laid down, that drains and sewers are constructed, that the articles of food and drink sold in the stores are of proper quality, and that the lives and property of citizens are protected by police. The Council consists of our Mayor, Reeve and six councillors. All are elected once a year by a general vote of the municipality, the Reeve also sits as a member of the Bruce County Council. All members of the Council must be British subjects, of the male sex, of the full age of 21 years, and resident in the municipality. They must be owners of property assessed to the value of at least $600, or be tenants under lease of property assessed to the value of $1200.

Who Can Vote

A person in order to have his name placed on the voter's list for municipal purposes, must be a British subject and of the full age of 21 years. Further he must either (1) own real property to the value of $200 or (2) be a tenant; or (3) be a resident assessed for an income of not less than $400. Those who own property do not need to live in town, but tenants must be resident here one month before election. No person is entitled to vote unless his or her name is on the Voters' List. Unmarried women and widows are allowed to vote. A husband may base his qualifications as an elector or as a member of Council on the assessed value of his wife's property.

Nominations and Elections

Nominations for Mayor, Reeve, and Councillors, are held at the Town Hall on the last Monday of December each year. The election takes place the first Monday in January, the town clerk being returning officer, and a polling place is open in each ward with a deputy returning officer in charge.

Municipal Officers

The Municipal officers are the Clerk who keeps the books, records, and accounts, the Treasurer, who receives and pays out the money belonging to the Municipality. Both of these offices are held by Mr. Collins. Then there is the Assessor, the Collectors of taxes, and the Auditors who examine all the receipts and expenditures of the municipality twice a year and make a report as to these matters.

Council Procedure

The Town Council meets regularly every second Monday of the month. The Mayor presides as Chairman, and sees that business is conducted in an orderly way. If the Mayor is not present, a Chairman is appointed for the occasion. The Mayor votes as an ordinary member of the Council if he wishes, and if he does so, and the number of votes is equal, the question is considered as decided in the negative.

The Council finds it convenient to choose permanent committees for the year, such as Streets, Sidewalk and Drainage, Property; Relief and Cemetery; Finance, Salaries and Schools; Fire and Water; Railway; Printing and License, Street Lighting, Board of Industry. These committees act as a sort of executive in their particular departments, making reports to Council and carrying out its decisions. Special committees are also appointed from time to time for the consideration of any important matter. The rules for the conduct of business so far as circumstances permit, are the same as those in use in the House of Commons and Legislative Assembly.

Any legislation by the Town Council has the name of "by-law". In order to have force it must be stamped with the town seal after three formal readings and be signed by the Mayor and Clerk. The subjects regarding which our town Council has power to legislate are carefully explained in the Municipal Act and form a very long list. In general everything that concerns the town, and it is not otherwise provided for by the Provincial Statutes is under control of the Town Council.

Meeting the Expenses

In order to meet the expenses of town government, the Council imposes a direct tax upon real property and income, as well as a business tax. As a first step it is necessary to determine the value of every man's property and the amount of all incomes that are taxable. Therefore an officer called the Assessor, makes an estimate in every case and records it in a document called the Assessment Roll. Since the amount of taxes which the owner will have to pay depends on the assessed value of his property and the assessed amount of his income. It is important that the work of valuation be fairly and accurately done. Hence there is a period allowed for appeal against the value set by the Assessor. All appeals come before a Court of Revision. The Court is composed of five members of the Council. If a ratepayer is dissatisfied with the decision of the Court, he may appeal to the County Judge.

On the assessment of the town the Council fixes each year a rate of taxation which it considers will yield enough revenue to pay all expenditures of the year. The rate is stated as being a certain of number of mills on the dollar. A mill is the one-thousandth part of a dollar. With a tax rate of 34 mills a person with property assessed at $1,000, pays thirty-four dollars in taxes. Churches, county-buildings, the schools, public library, and public property, are exempted from taxation. There is also what is called poll-tax, an annual fee of $5 a piece paid by men over twenty-one and under sixty, who do not otherwise contribute to the revenue of the town.

Sometimes, in order to carry out some expensive public undertaking such, for example, as the construction of a system of waterworks or the erection of the town hall, the Council may deem it advisable to borrow money instead of defraying the total expense from the year's taxes. But before a by-law to this effect can be finally passed, a vote of the ratepayers must be taken as at an ordinary election. No person is adnitted to the poll, unless he is an owner of property or a tenant under lease who pays taxes and whose covers the period for which the town is incuring the debt. A ratepayer may vote in all municipal wards in which he has the necessary qualifications.

BISHOP STRINGER LEAVING FOR OVERSEAS

The Right Reverend I. O. Stringer, D. D. is leaving for England and France for special work among the soldiers in connection with the Canadian Christian Citizenship Campaign inaugurated by the Young Men's Christian Association.

Bishop Stringer applied in the Spring, 1915 and several times since to go as a chaplain, but for various reasons the opportunity did not come to him to serve his country in a capacity which he desired until the present.

His application for chaplaincy was recently accepted, but it would have been necessary to remain in Canada for several months. With the approval of the Primate and the Bishop of Ottawa he accepted the invitation to go under the auspices of the Y.M.-C. A. The problems relating to the soldier are many and difficult.

It was thought that no better man could be found to influence the great body of Canadian soldiers for a virile and clean Canadian citizenship than this pioneer bishop, who has himself been holding the outposts of civilization for more than a quarter of a century.

The Paisley Methodist parsonage has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Jas Wilson, of Greenock, who intend moving to that village next spring. The church trustees bought Victory Bonds with the proceeds of the deal.

HOW TO SAVE FUEL

From the Fuel Controller's office at Ottawa were issued some suggestions for saving fuel. Among them are the following:—

Keeping the house temperature Lower.

In heating houses considerable fuel can be saved by keeping the temperature in the house 5 to 10 degrees F. lower than is customary; instead of the temperature being between 70 and 74 degrees F., it can be kept between 62 and 68 degrees without any discomfort or any danger to health. In fact, some medical authorities ascribe the "colds" common in winter to living in too warm houses. Thus Dr. William Brady writes:

"Air need never be heated above 65 degrees F. for comfort. Anything above that point represents waste and extravagance. It simply runs up a big coal bill and opens various doors to the coming of the doctor. The onset of cough in winter is almost a sure sign of extravagance."

Keeping the house temperature lower is the easiest way to save fuel. It is fuel saved by doing less work. As to the question of health, more sickness is caused by having a house too warm than by keeping it too cold.

Heating Fewer Rooms

Another easy saving of fuel can be effected by heating fewer rooms in the house. In many houses the family can get along comfortably by keeping warm three or four rooms instead of heating six or seven rooms. And this can be done without any real hardship on his family. If one stops to think that 55 per cent. of the families in Berlin, Germany, live, sleep, cook and eat in the same room, living in three or four warm rooms will seem a comfort. Really only the three rooms in which the family lives need to be heated at all. If consumptives can get well by sleeping outdoors, why could not well people keep well by sleeping in unheated bedrooms with the windows

Bruce County General Hospital, Walkerton.

Shortening the Heating Season wide open.

In some homes the furnace is started too early in the fall and is run too late in the spring. The chimneys of these homes are belching smoke and spreading soot over their neighborhood, while the neighbors keep windows and doors open to the outside air and even sit on the front porches. These faint-hearted people in their fear of catching cold heat their houses unnecessarily; thus they waste the country's fuel, increase their coal bills, invite sickness into their homes, and make life unpleasant to their neighbors. When mornings and evenings are chilly a genie fire for a short time in one or two rooms will make the house comfortable.

NEW CANADIAN NOVEL— THE COW PUNCHER

An English reviewer recently, in reviewing the poems of Robert J. C. Stead, said that while Canada's troops had done nobly in the war such writers as Stead were doing a no less valuable service in building up a genuine national literature. The reader who is wise enough to obtain a copy of "The Cow Puncher," Mr. Stead's latest novel, will agree with the English reviewer. It is a genuine contribution to the national wealth of Canada, made by a writer whose intimate knowledge of the West peculiarly qualifies him for such a service.

"The Cow Puncher" promises to add to a reputation already well established. It is not merely a novel; it is an event in the literary life of a country. Dr. W. T. Allison, professor of English, and well known litterateur, declares that it is the biggest thing in a literary way that ever came out of the prairie country. It is very pleasant reading, and there is a unique vein of humor and philosophy which has caused it to be called the David Harum of Canada. But "The Cow Puncher" is by no means literary pastime. Its note is in keeping with the serious business of the times, and in its closing chapters it rises to a patriotic level not excelled by any present writer.

It is not our purpose here to outline the plot of "The Cow Puncher," you will enjoy it more to read it in the author's own words. The book is published in Canada by the Musson Book Co., of Toronto, and in the United States by Harper & Brothers. It is attractively illustrated by Arthur Heming, one of Canada's most successful artists.

LETTER FROM CLEARING STATION IN FRANCE

Ever since Pte. Ray Hyslop, was killed in action in June 1916, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hyslop, have received letters regularly from Ray's chum, Pte. H. Woods, who was with Ray when he died. Pte. Woods has been wounded in his chest and the following letter acknowledging the gift of a box of good things, was written for him by the Chaplain of the Battalion.

4th., Canadian C. E. F.
France Oct. 23rd.

Dear Mrs. Hyslop:—

A word of "good cheer" and deep appreciation from your young friend Pte. H. Woods. He received your "box" of eats some time ago and desires to thank you most heartily. Every bite was a blessing sent to appreciative boys. He is now in clearing station wounded in the right chest. Old Heinie got him all right. It is a "penetrating wound" and will take time to heal.

He is in the best of good spirits, is hopeful and will be sent to England in a couple more days.

He certainly escaped fortunately and will likely see no more of this war.

He sends best of good wishes, cheerio and every success to you for your great kindness to him.

Sincerely,
R. F. Scarlett, Chaplain.

WHEN PAW WAS A BOY

I wish't 'at I'd of been here when
My paw was a boy.
They must have been excitement
then—
When my paw was a boy.
In school he always took the prize.
He used to lick boys twice his size
I bet folks all had hulgin' eyes
When my paw was a boy!
There was a lot of wonders done
When my paw was a boy.
How grandpa must have loved his son
When my paw was a boy.
He'd get the coal and chop the wood
And think up every way he could
To always be so sweet and good—
When my paw was a boy.
Then everything was in its place
When my paw was a boy.
He never, never disobeyed;
He beat in every game he played:
Gee! what a record they was made
When my paw was a boy.
I wish't at I'd been here when
My paw was a boy,
They'll never be his like again;
Paw was a model boy.
But still last night I heard my maw
Raise up her voice and call my paw
The worst fool that she ever saw—
He ought to stayed a boy.

USING MILKING DEVICES

When It is Advisable to Invest in Milking Machines.

The Cause and Cure of Diarrhoea In Calves — Simple and Commonsense Methods of Treatment May Save Valuable Young Animals.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

It is clear that if dairying is to develop as it ought to do in the Province of Ontario, more labor is needed on dairy farms. As the supply of labor is limited, cow-farmers are turning their attention to the mechanical milker as an aid in the biggest job on a farm where milk-cows are kept, namely, that of milking.

Past the Experimental Stage.

While it is true that mechanical milkers are not yet perfected, and possibly will never be absolutely "fool-proof," they have reached a stage of perfection where they can be recommended to the man who is in need of help at milking-time. There are several machines now on the market which have proven to be more or less successful in tests made at Experimental Stations, but what is even more important, have stood the test of actual farm conditions. The advertising columns of the agricultural press contain the names of the leading makes of machines which can now be purchased by milk-producers.

In answer to the question, will it pay to buy a milking machine? we would answer yes, under the following conditions:

1. Where a herd of twenty or more milking cows are kept, though we were in a stable recently where a man was using a machine to milk eight cows, and he considered that it paid him.

2. Where hand-milkers are not to be had, and where it means selling all, or part of the herd, because of the difficulty in getting the cows milked.

3. Where a man desires to increase his herd but cannot do so, because hand milking is impossible.

4. Where a man has some mechanical genius and is willing to give the machine the necessary attention in order to make it a success. Not every man can get good results with a milking machine. The cows must be stripped after the machine, to insure "milking out clean."

5. Where a man or women will give the necessary attention in order to keep the machine clean. It must be thoroughly washed and the milking parts kept in a solution of chloride of lime—one pound, dissolved in ten gallons of water. This must be changed about every two weeks, or as often as necessary to prevent contamination.

6. Where a man has the necessary capital (about $500) to invest in a machine and does not have to borrow the money at the present high rate of interest.—Prof. H. H. Dean, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Infectious Diarrhoea In Calves.

A form of diarrhoea in calves, known as "Infectious Diarrhoea," is not uncommon in calves, and the owners are often at a loss to account for it.

It is caused by a specific germ that gains entrance to the circulation, generally by the navel opening. It generally occurs as an epidemic in certain stables or certain localities, and as it is often fatal, causes great loss to the breeder.

The cause and results strongly resemble those of joint ill or navel ill in foals. The virus which causes the trouble exists in the stable or in the soil.

Symptoms.—At a variable time after birth, in some cases a few hours and in others a few days, the young animal suffers from an attack of acute diarrhoea, the symptoms of which do not differ markedly from ordinary diarrhoea, except from the fact that they seldom yield readily to treatment. The patient refuses to nurse or partake of nourishment, persists and death soon results.

Treatment.—Preventive treatment consists in preventing the cause. When we know that the entrance into the circulation of a germ causes the trouble, its entrance must be prevented in order that we may be successful. The building in which the cow is expected to bring forth young, and especially the stall, should be thoroughly disinfected. This may be done by sweeping and dusting thoroughly, and following by a thorough washing or scrubbing with a hot five per cent. solution of carbolic acid or one of the coal tar antiseptics, or a thorough coat of hot lime wash with five per cent. crude carbolic acid. The stall should be cleaned out daily and a little slacked lime spread upon the floor each time before supplying fresh bedding. The attendant should have a quantity of a good strong disinfectant on hand, as one of the solutions above mentioned or a solution of corrosive sublimate, 20 grams to a pint of water. The writer prefers the latter. The navel of the calf should be freely dressed with this as soon as possible after birth and several times daily afterwards until thoroughly healed.

Curative treatment is often ineffective. The following has probably given better results than any other, viz.: Mix part formalin with 15 parts new milk and mix a teaspoonful of this with each part of milk consumed by the calf. When the calf is nursing its dam the mixture can be mixed with a small quantity of the dam's milk and given as a drench, the attendant estimating about how much it should get. When the calf is to nurse the dam it is well to wash udder and teats with the solution before the calf nurses and once or twice daily for a week or so afterwards. When this is done the parts should be allowed to dry, and then be well rubbed with a dry cloth before the calf is allowed to nurse.—J. H. R., Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

PAPER CONTROLLER ABOUT TO "ORDER CUTTING OFF"

OF

UNPAID SUBSCRIPTIONS

At a public hearing in Ottawa the other day in connection with paper conservation, the Paper Controller for Canada intimated that regulations about to be issued would include one of the effects that:

> Publishers of newspapers must cease sending their newspapers to subscribers three months in arrears, unless subscriptions be definitely renewed, and all arrears fully paid.

The reason for this regulation of the Paper Controller is that it is the practice of some publishers to send their newspapers until ordered stopped. It is to prevent paper waste that the new regulation has been decided on.

The manufacture of paper consumes labor, wood, coal, chemicals and transportation facilities, and every ton of paper saved means just so much morelabor, raw materials, chemical fuel and transportation available for urgent war needs. For these reasons the Government insists that paper shall be saved and proposes that only those who pay for their publicatio shall receive them.

Under these regulations The Telescope will have no choice in the matter of dealing with "subscriptions in arrears" over three months.

You need The Telescope, and we want to continue sending to you. So, if your subscription is in arrears, please pay us once to prevent a discontinuance of your subscription.

ONE great lesson which is being impressed on the people of Canada at the present time, and which cannot be emphasized too much is the need for thrift or economy. In this connection those in authority ought to set a worthy example to what Lincoln called "the Common People," of whom he is reported to have said, "The Lord must have loved them, because he made so many."

Farmers farm, "not for fun" as a man said to me one time, "but to make money." This may not be a high ideal for farmers or anyone else, but nevertheless it is a very necessary part in the lives of most farmers.

The chief value of winter dairying from an economical viewpoint is, that prices for milk, butter and cheese are always greater in winter than in summer, and if the producer of milk can keep winter production costs down to the level of summer costs, the gain in price for the milk, cream and butter sold in winter, is clear profit. Some claim that this cannot be done and that the extra cost of feed in winter, more than counterbalances the extra prices received for winter dairy goods.

This is probably true where the cow-feeder is obliged to purchase all his concentrates in the form of high priced dairy feeds, such as oilcake, cottonseed and gluten meals, but where a farmer is able to grow all his roughage, and at least one-half the meal ration, on his own farm, there is probably not so much difference between winter and summer milk costs, as some would suppose, especially on high-priced land. Where cheap, rough land is available for summer pasture, then summer milk can be produced comparatively cheap.

Another phase of milk production in winter worth considering is the labor problem. In winter there is more time to attend to the cows than in summer during the rush of work. Having the cows in a comfortable stable makes pleasant winter work looking after them. If at least half the herd be fresh during November and December, these cows will be going at their best time the following summer, and thus labor is more evenly and more economically distributed throughout the year. Winter dairying may be warmly commended to the people of the Province of Ontario who keep cows for profit.—Prof. H. H. Dean, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Simple Rules for Economical Feeding.

1. Grow as much of your own feed as possible.
2. Utilize roughages to the greatest degree possible.
3. Keep feeding stalls and pens well lighted, dry, clean and well ventilated.
4. Feed regularly.
5. Make changes in rations gradually.
6. Feed only what is eaten up clean and quickly at each feed.
7. Have clean fresh water before the stock at all times.
8. Study the individuality of each animal.
9. Feed mixtures where possible, as a variety of food is more palatable, and palatability is a factor in digestibility.
10. Cut feed to avoid waste.
11. Make a wide use of oats which should form the basis of all our grain rations.
12. Always be kind and quiet with the stock. It pays.
13. Study market values of feed, and compound balanced rations accordingly, in order that the cheapest available be used.
14. See that the stock gets regular and sufficient exercise.
15. Keep all feeding troughs, mangers and utensils clean.—Prof. Wade Toole, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

The Proper Ration for Horses When the Fall Work Closes.

When the fall work is completed and the hard-worked horse is at the beginning of his long period of idleness, feeders naturally plan to change the ration and carry the horse through the winter as cheaply as possible. The horse should get exercise regularly. He should not be taken from regular hard work and tied up in a stall day in and day out. If possible, the work should gradually ease off and the feed, particularly the grain ration, should be cut down accordingly. The idle horse may be wintered almost wholly on roughages. Good clover hay, or better, a mixture of clover and timothy well cured will serve as the main winter feed. Roughages are always cheaper than grain, and where hay is available the grain ration of the idle horse should be very small, but if horses are fed straw in place of hay a small grain ration is required to keep them from losing in flesh. A few roots are beneficial, a good-sized turnip once a day or a few carrots will be found to aid digestion. If hay is not plentiful straw may be substituted at the noon feed and roots given with it. In feeding hay make the morning and noon ration smaller than the night feed, giving about as much at night as at the two other feeds. Idle horses should be fed three times daily. If any grain whatever is fed make it rolled oats and it is not necessary to give more than a quarter the amount used when the horses are at hard work provided plenty of good hay is available.—Prof. Wade Toole, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

WINTER HOME FLOWERS

Brightening the Windows When Bloom Is Most Welcome.

Cleaning and Grading Grain—How a Good Fanning Mill Properly Operated Will Greatly Increase the Yield of Field Crops — Every Farmer Should Have One.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

TO insure a supply of flowers during early winter for the window it is necessary to have suitable plants started early in the fall. Among the best kinds for early winter flowering are a few of what are known by florists as Dutch bulbs. Of these there are only a few kinds or varieties that can be had in flower early in the winter. White Roman Hyacinths are very satisfactory for early flowering. The colored Roman Hyacinths are not as good, and do not flower as early as the White Romans. The loose growing, richly perfumed flowers of the White Romans are very pretty and acceptable. The Paper White Narcissus can also be had in flower early. French grown bulbs of the Trumpet Major Narcissus can also be had in flower in the window before Christmas by potting the bulbs toward the end of September, or not later than the end of October. All of these bulbs can usually be had early in October at seed stores. Pot the bulbs in rather sandy potting soil as soon as the bulbs can be obtained. The soil should not be too rich in fertilizers. Three or four bulbs can be put in a five-inch pot. The top of the bulbs should be just under the surface of the soil when potted. The surface of the soil should be about half an inch below the top of the pot for water space. Water the bulbs well as soon as potted and set the pots away in a cool, dark place in a dark cellar or cupboard until roots have well started, usually for about four or five weeks. When roots are well started, and possibly showing through the hole in the bottom of the flower pot, they should be brought into the window to flower. Keep the soil well moist, not too wet, until they are through flowering. Dutch Hyacinths and many other varieties of Narcissus (Daffodils), Tulips and Freesias can be potted in October or November, but few of them will flower until January or February.

Chinese Sacred Lilies.

Bulbs of these can be started in deep saucers or soup plates in October for early flowering. Set the bulbs firmly in the saucer and then fill the saucer or dish with fine gravel stones, so as to almost cover the bulbs. Fill the saucer up with water and set them away in a dark, cool place, as mentioned before, for about three weeks, until roots have well started, when they can be brought into the window to flower. These will flower in December. Keep the saucers filled up with water as required.

Callas, Epiphyllum or Xmas Cactus, Cyclamen, Primulas, several varieties of Begonia, especially the Gloire de Lorraine type of Begonias, are suitable for Christmas, as well as the dwarf Semperflorens type of Begonia that flower so profusely either in the window in winter or out of doors in the summer. Late flowering Chrysanthemums are also good for early winter decoration. All of these last named plants have to be grown expressly for the window or purchased from a florist. The bulbs named as suitable for early flowering can be grown with very little trouble and expense by any one who takes an interest in flowers and in flower growing. No plants or flowers give more satisfaction in winter than do the winter flowering bulbs before named.

Cleaning and Grading Grain.

These two farm operations may be accomplished at the same time and by the same means. The fanning mill is the most successful medium in obtaining this result and too much importance cannot be placed on the use of this machine. The successful operation of the fanning mill depends on two factors, that of wind blast and the use of sieves. The removal of light or inferior grain and the smaller and lighter weed seeds is almost wholly dependent on the wind blast. It also assists the sieves because it removes part of the grain which would otherwise have to pass through them and it prevents clogging in the sieves by light seed. The two most important sieves are those of the top and bottom. The top sieve should be just large enough to let the grain pass through and keep back the larger impurities. The bottom sieve should be of just sufficient size to keep back the good seed.

The utility of many fanning mills is impaired by the owner not possessing a full assortment of sieves and by his using poorly-fitting sieves, which allow weed seeds and grain to lodge in the mill. The efficiency of many fanning mills too is often lessened by the operator being in too much of a hurry." To obtain the best results, grain should pass slowly over the lower sieve. When the fanning mill is turned too rapidly or the lower sieve has too much slope, many of the smaller impurities will not be removed.

Well cleaned and well graded grain is not only free from weed seeds, other seeds, dirt and chaff but is larger in size, has greater uniformity, weighs heavier, is of better quality and is of stronger vitality than grain not so cleaned and graded. No farmer can afford to be without a good fanning mill and there are many farmers who would be much better off if they extended its use.— Dr. C. A. Zavitz, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

When the soil is moist, but not sticky, the drag does the best work. The road will bake if the drag is used on it when it is wet.

Repairs to roads should be made when needed, and not once a year after crops are laid by.

ONTARIO'S BIG CROPS

Ensure Equal Crops Next Year by Attention to Seed Grain.

Larger Profits From Live Stock Made When Stables Are Given Thorough Cleanup — Live Stock Thrive Better In Dry, Well-Ventilated Stables.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

ONTARIO is fortunate this year in having a good supply of grain in almost all classes of crops. The more grain there is to select from, the better chance there is to get the very best seed for sowing in the spring. Too many farmers forget the seed supply for next year's crop until most of their grain is fed or sold.

If the best of this grain was set aside for seed at threshing time or taken from the grain bins before any of it was fed or sold, there would be less work of seed supplying in the spring and a foundation provided for better seed than is often sown.

Small, shrunken or broken seed has a feeding value nearly equal to that of large plump seed. The following results of seed selection experiments conducted at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph show, however, that there is very great difference in the value of these for seed purposes:—

Selections.	Weight per Measured Bushel (lbs.).	Tons of Straw per Acre.	Bushels of Grain per Acre.
Oats—
Large Plump Seed	33.3	1.9	62.0
Medium - sized Seed	32.2	1.8	54.1
Small Seed	31.8	1.8	46.6
Barley—
Large Plump Seed	49.5	1.5	53.8
Small Plump Seed	48.8	1.5	50.4
Shrunken Seed	49.1	1.4	46.0
Broken Seed	48.6	1.3	43.2
Spring Wheat—
Large Plump Seed	59.1	1.4	21.7
Small Plump Seed	58.3	1.3	18.0
Shrunken Seed	56.9	1.2	16.7

(Oats were tested seven years, barley six, and spring wheat eight.)

Selecting the best seed from that which the farmer has available will not only provide large plump seed for sowing which will produce the most vigorous plants and the largest yield of best quality, but it will very largely eliminate any weed seeds which may be in the grain. — Dr. C. A. Zavitz, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Clean, Dry and Ventilate Stables.

Cleanliness, dryness and good ventilation are hygienic conditions very desirable in the housing of all kinds of live stock. Horses, cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry all do better and are less liable to contract infectious and contagious diseases when kept under such conditions than when dirt, dampness and poor ventilation are found in the stables in which they are housed. Undoubtedly, outbreaks of infectious and contagious diseases do occasionally occur in the best built and best kept stables, but the danger of these spreading is much less than where unhygienic conditions prevail.

Without doubt good stock has been produced under stable conditions that were not of the best, but the chances of producing and maintaining good healthy stock are much greater where cleanliness, dryness and good ventilation in the stables are the order of the day.

Dirt of all kinds, whilst it does not itself produce disease, is liable to harbor and foster the bacteria or other germs that do cause infectious disease, hence, so long as it is lying around inside the stables it is a source of danger to the stock.

If there is one class of stable more than another in which cleanliness is desirable it is the dairy stable. Milk is an ideal food for many varieties of bacteria as well as for human beings or live stock, and many varieties of bacteria are always present in stable dirt. Consequently, when dirt or stable dust gets into milk, many contaminating bacteria get in with it. It is the action of these bacteria in the milk that causes it to spoil either by souring or putrefaction. Consequently, one step in the production of good clean milk is to have it produced where there is little danger of dirt or dust getting into it.

Dampness is a great agent in the spreading and fostering of disease. Perhaps the one disease that it is most liable to induce is pneumonia. Many hogs are lost annually as a result of contracting pneumonia through being kept in low-lying, damp quarters. Dampness due to bad ventilation is very conducive to the development of various lung troubles with all kinds of stock. The damp stagnant air in badly-ventilated stables lowers the vitality, depresses the blood circulation and so puts the animals kept under these conditions in such a state as to make them ready subjects for the development of such diseases as tuberculosis, pneumonia, tuberculosis and others.—Prof. D. H. Jones, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Binder for Stone Road.

If a broken-stone road gets very heavy auto traffic then it must be laid with a tar or asphalt binder to keep the pieces of stone from grinding on each other and finally powdering up under traffic.

Time to Use Road Drag.

If the roadway is full of holes or badly rutted the drag should be used only when the road is soft and slushy.

A KINCARDINE SHOOTING

Young Man Charged With Shooting At Kincardine Miller Discharged —Train Of Circumstantial Evidence Did Not Convict William McKenzie

William McKenzie, a Toronto chap about 18 years of age, came up for trial before Judge Klein on Monday, charged with shooting at Mr. Rae, the miller at Kincardine.

The story in brief is as follows:—One evening Mr. Rae was milking his cow in the yard when a well dressed man about thirty years of age, wearing a grey coat and green soft hat, approached him. The stranger asked if he sold chicken feed. Mr. Rae said that he did, and asked him if he wished to get some, the stranger replying in the affirmative. Mr. Rae said that he would be through milking in a few minutes and would attend to his wants. Mr. Rae remarked that he was a stranger to him, and asked if he lived in town. The stranger replied that he was a stranger in town and was staying at one of the hotels. About the time Mr. Rae completed the milking of the cow, a team came into the yard and drove up for chop. Mr. Rae turned his attention to the man with the team naturally, and when he came to look for the man who wanted the chicken feed he was no where to be seen.

The following afternoon about four o'clock while Mr. Rae was engaged in the mill, two farmers drove in for chop and when Mr. Rae had them attended to, and after they drove away he decided to go down to the boiler room and start up the machinery. After everything was running smoothly he again decided to go upstairs to the main floor. Climbing up the steps to the main floor, and when fairly up, he heard a report and was hit in the back of the head. Another report followed, but by this time he had fallen to the floor below. Mr. Rae was stunned for a second, but upon gaining consciousness crawled over and shut off the engine. In doing so he noticed his man who had been after the chicken feed the evening before and who had passed the mill a few minutes previous while Mr. Rae was waiting on the farmers who were after chop at the engine room door. Mr. Rae again hastened up the stairs with his head bleeding, just in time to see him pass the mill door and away.

Young McKenzie, in appearance and age, did not answer to the description given by Mr. Rae, but two small boys gave a description of a man they saw running away, which tallied more closely. A young bank clerk, on the other hand, swore that McKenzie was in a pool room from three to four o'clock in the afternoon, the shooting having taken place at four o'clock.

After hearing the evidence Judge Klein took an hour to go over the difficult case. He found McKenzie was not guilty.

County Crown Attorney Dixon appeared for the Crown, R. J. Stewart for defendant.

High School Notes

Tuesday night witnessed great industry on the part of most pupils. The powers that be ordained that essays on the Victory Loan should be handed in on Wednesday, and, as a result, there was this increased diligence. Fourth formers were the exceptions to this rule; as, with their usual forethought, they had prepared for the evil day by laboring over their manuscripts while the sun shone. A great many of the students are entering the contest, and there is keen competition in all the forms. The decisions of the judges are awaited with breathless suspense and there is much speculation as to who will capture the medals to be awarded.

The students are going to canvass the town for newspapers and magazines next Saturday morning. They would be very grateful if the citizens would give them the old papers.

Judging by the buttons to be seen on the noble breasts of some of the pupils, a great many Victory Bonds were purchased by the patriots of Walkerton High School. It is estimated that fifteen hundred dollars worth of bonds were bought, a good showing for the school. The fourth form leads with an average of fifty dollar bond to each member.

A GREENOCK PIONEER

Mr. Michael Meagher, an old and Highly Respected Settler of Greenock Township, passes away in His Eighty-Seventh Year—One of the last survivors of Township's First Settlers.

Mr. Michael Meagher, one of Greenock's first stalwart pioneers, passed away at the home of his daughter Mrs. Daniel Kehoe, Kincardine Township on November eighteenth in his 87th., year. He had been ill about a week, death being due to old age. Mr. Meagher was born in the Province of New Brunswick, and came at an early age with his parents to Ashfield, Tp., County of Huron. A few years later when Greenock was opened up for settlement he came in and took a bush farm, lot 13, Con. 10. Greenock three miles West of Cargill. In this death almost the last survivor of the early settlers of that district is removed from the scene. Mr. Meagher endured all the hardships incident to pioneer life in the bush. Many a time he carried a cwt. of flour on his back seven miles from Enniskillen to his clearing. He was of stalwart build, not afraid of work, and in the old days few were as handy with an axe, when it came to getting the timbers ready for the log buildings. He was a warm-hearted friend and a good neighbor, ever ready to lend a helping hand. Mr. Meagher remembered well the first election in Greenock, when the two parties occupied opposite sides of the road at Enniskillen, each with a barrel of whiskey. Mr. Meagher was married to Miss Ellen Corrigan, of Kinloss Tp. who predeceased him forty years ago. About fifteen years ago he retired from the farm coming to Walkerton to reside with his youngest daughter. After her marriage he went to live with his daughter, Mrs. Kehoe, of Kincardine Township, at whose home he died. Three sons and three daughters survive. They are: John of Chepstow; Mrs. Dan Kehoe of Kincardine Tp.; Mrs. Bernard Keating of Langdon, N. Dakota; James, on the homestead, Greenock; Mac. of Young, Sask. and Mrs. James Hayes of Detroit. The funeral took place from the home of his son, John, at Chepstow, to Chepstow R. C. Cemetery.

Able To Be Out

Mr. Geo. D. McKay has recovered sufficiently from his recent attack of influenza and pneumonia, to come down to his office for a short time each day. Mr. McKay had a closer call than he realized, and though he has made a wonderful progress the past week it will be a month or so before he is really himself again.

Fractured the Knee-Cap

Miss Mae Hyslop, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hyslop had the misfortune to take a misstep and fracture her knee-cap while coming downstairs in the dark at her boarding house at Kitchener. She was brought home after the accident and will be laid up for some time.

Doerr—Zettler

A popular young Brant couple, Miss Annie Zettler, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Zettler, and Mr. John Doerr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Doerr of Chepstow, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at the Walkerton R. C. Church on Tuesday morning at nine o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, Rev. Father Zettler of Chepstow. The bride who was assisted by Miss Gertrude Doerr, sister of the groom, was prettily gowned in sand colored silk, the bridesmaid wearing a becoming dress of dark brown silk. Mr. Ambrose Zettler, brother of the bride, was best man. After the ceremony the company repaired to the home of the bride's parents where a sumptuous repast was served to a large company. In the evening a reception and dance was held at which a large company of friends were present and enjoyed a dance until the wee hours. Mr. and Mrs. Doerr, who have the best wishes of a wide circle of friends, will live on the groom's fine farm, opposite the Doerr homestead near Chepstow.

Flag-Kissing Aftermath

The sequel to the flag-kissing incident is to be staged, we understand in the Bruce County Court. Barrister O. E. Bell and sisters of Carrick, a similar writ against ten parties.

FINED $300 AND COSTS

Reeve Filsinger of Carrick Found Guilty At Walkerton Police Court.

Reeve Moses Filsinger of Carrick appeared before Magistrate Chapman of Port Elgin and McIntosh of Southampton at the Town Hall here last Thursday morning charged with violating the censorship orders by utterances made at Mildmay in June. The Magistrate found him guilty and inflicted a fine of $300 and costs amounting to $101.25. Filsinger made the remarks he was charged with making while he was about to board the train at Mildmay as a delegate to the Farmers Convention in Toronto. He claimed he was repeating what he had heard at the previous farmers' convention at Ottawa. The charge of which he was found guilty was that "without lawful excuse or authority, contrary to the Consolidated Orders respecting censorship of making statements regarding the treatment of Canadian soldiers, which tend to weaken, or in some way detract from, the united effort of the people of Canada in the prosecution of the war, in words or to the effect that the soldiers who had enlisted in Canada and gone Overseas were sold at eight dollars a head like little pigs."

He was defended by Barrister O. E. Klein, and the Crown prosecutor was Mr. F. Davidson, K. C. of Toronto.

The charge against Reeve Filsinger of making seditious utterances which was to have come up at the Fall Assizes this week, has been dropped.

THE SECRET OF SAVING

lies in spending to the best advantage—getting the most for your money. That is what you do when you buy Zam-Buk, and that is why Zam-Buk is the choice of the good housekeeper and careful buyer.

When you buy Zam-Buk you get 100% medicine—not 5% medicine and the balance "fill up," as in ordinary ointments. This explains why Zam-Buk goes so much farther than ordinary ointments and why the results are so much better.

Zam-Buk is soothing, healing and antiseptic. It ends pain, destroys all germs in a sore or wound—thus preventing any danger of blood poisoning—and grows new skin. A Zam-Buk cure is permanent because it purifies and heals not only the surface skin, but also the underlying tissues, so that there is no possibility of the disease breaking out again.

Zam-Buk is composed exclusively of vegetable oils and herbal extracts, with absolutely no animal fat or poisonous mineral drugs which only irritate the parts they are intended to heal. It can, therefore, be used on the most sensitive skin and is the best balm for baby.

It is also best for seamed, ringworm, boils, pimples, ulcers, abscesses, blood poisoning and piles. All dealers or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

...ay, and Mrs. E. D. Becker, of ...dmay visited at Mr. David Gress' ...Tuesday last.

Mr. Wilfrid Gress and Miss Annie Gress and Mr. Edward Fenner and Mr. George Miller motored to Kitchener, Galt and other points and enjoyed a very pleasant visit with their former pastor, Rev. C. F. Brown of Elmira and with Miss Edna Gress who is attending the Business College at Kitchener.

Miss Katherine Gress returned home from nursing the family of Mr. Jacob Otte of Ayton who were sick with the flu.

Mrs. Ezra Damm is spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Damm of Alsfeld.

Mrs. Philip Gress and family were attending the funeral service of Mr. Ezra Damm held at Alsfeld on Sunday Nov. 24th. Rev. E. D. Becker of Midmay preached in the German language and Rev. S. Schroeder in the English language and Rev. A. Sauer of Hanover led in prayer. The church was filled to the uttermost showing the deep respect held for the beloved Christian brother. Rev. Schroeder and Miss A. Damm of Alsfeld sang, "He Shall Wipe the Tear From Every Eye." Rev. E. D. Becker preached on the need of sympathy in the time of sickness and trouble, which sank deeply into the hearts of the congregation. Then Rev. Mr. Schroeder preached a very impressive sermon telling how the prospect of a young life of high ideals of Christian service was cut short. The departed brother was a very intimate friend of his pastor. During his sickness he always bore with a pleasant smile that only those leaning on the Lord for guidance have on their countenance. Bro. Ezra Damm was born, said Mr. Schroeder, in Normanby Township, on February, 17, 1893, and passed away on Oct. 19 1918, having reached the age of 25 yrs. 8 mon. and 2 days. About 9 years ago he was led to consecrate his life to God and since his conversion he lived a faithful consistent Christian life. On Oct. 11th., last he was joined in holy wedlock to Miss Lillian Gress of Walkerton. Hopefully the happy couple looked into the future for a life of companionship and home making and of service together in God's vineyard, but these plans were early broken off for soon after the marriage ceremony was performed the deceased took to bed a victim of Spanish Influenza. For eight days he put a brave struggle for life but in spite of all that medical aid and loving hands could do he passed away.

Ezra was highly esteemed by all who knew him. His aim was to please God with a life of service. To this end he spent his spare time in reading, meditation, and preparation for the service to which he devoted his life. At the time of his departure he held the office of class leader, was Pres. of the Y.P.A. teacher in the S.S. and member of the Teacher Training Class. He is being greatly missed in the service of the Church which he so much loved.

A very striking incident in connection with his sickness is the fact that one night he felt sustained to leave a message. Arising from his bed, and securing a pen, he wrote in the wedding booklet at the top of the page.

"Warning"

Below this he had left the following messages.

To his father—God bless thee and keep thee.

To his brothers and sisters—Children obey your parents.

To his loving bride—Lillian trust in Jesus.

To his pastor, Bro. Schroeder preach the Gospel.

We firmly believe that he has been called to a higher service, and that he was prepared to answer the call, for when Bro. Becker and I visited him he bore testimony to his living faith in Christ.

He leaves to mourn his sudden departure—heart broken widowed bride, deeply sorrowing parents, 5 sisters two brothers, one of whom is in His Majesty's service overseas.

MILDMAY

Prof. De Alva's British Entertainers are giving a series of concerts in town this week. This is the Bauhan or Banyan medicine company that made its rounds here last winter. It would be a good thing for our town if shows like this were prohibited as they take out a lot of money and leave nothing in return.

The water tank at the Fire Hall which was a large wooden stave tub or barrel is being dug out this week and replaced with a fine cement tank of larger capacity than the former one.

Mr. W. F. Wendt is building a garage on his premises this week.

The presentation of the National Badge of Honour to soldiers of the Soil took place last Thursday evening in the Town Hall. Twenty boys were on the list to receive badges but only nine were present. After this ceremony our former townsman Dr. J. R. Wilson was presented with a gold headed cane suitably inscribed and an address which was delivered by J. A. Johnston while Mr. J. T. Kidd presented the cane. The Dr. made a fine and interesting speech after this and said that no matter where he was he would come back to Midmay to welcome the boys when they return. He also said that he had a hard time to convince the people of Howick that we in Carrick were patriotic. He also related some laughable stories. Short speeches followed this by J. A. Johnston, J. T. Kidd, Dr. Doering. The Meeting closed with the National anthem. An after meeting was held to discuss what plans should be followed to give the boys a royal welcome.

The death of Mr. David Wildfang of Con. 10 near Neustadt occurred last week the funeral taking place on Sunday.

Miss Irene Heath died at Listowel on November 12 in her 24th. year. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heath and formerly lived in Hanover. Death was the result of pneumonia.

An auto owned by a Paisley man was stolen from where it stood in front of Mr C. Diebbl's residence here last Friday night by four young fellows. Constable Bramish was notified at once by telephone and he gave chase. The boys left the car near Mr. Aug. Burkardt's and "beat it" on foot. They have not yet been apprehended but the Constable has his hunt out.

The High Cost of Whims

THE United States Government has found it necessary to issue strict orders regulating the styles of shoes. Why? Because the high cost of fads imposes a burden all along the line—upon manufacturer, dealer and consumer, and upon the Government itself.

Such action may be avoided in Canada, if you—the consumer—will co-operate with the manufacturer in reducing the demand for extravagant styles—if you will buy prudently, for service rather than for effect.

To do this will be a direct benefit to you. You will get better and longer service, more comfort, and your shoes will be quite as neat and attractive. You will need fewer pairs of shoes in the course of a year.

More than that: you will help to cut down needless extravagance, to reduce superfluous stocks on the dealers' shelves, to keep prices down, and to release essential supplies of leather for our forces overseas.

TO SAVE SEED COR

Straw May be Used Much Mo Freely for Idle Horses.

Vegetable and Root Crops Grown This Summer Must Be Carefully Stored to Prevent Loss — Proper Temperature Checks Decay—Seed Will Ensure Firm Vegetables.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

THE year 1917 provided, both in the United States and in Ontario, conditions very unfavorable for the production of good seed corn. Excess of moisture in the crop was followed by freezing and these conditions resulted in one of the worst seed corn years in a generation. As a result of this, much of the seed corn sown in Ontario in 1918 was of poor, if not of the least, of varieties that were late in maturing. A very high percentage of this corn which will be used for seed next year, now contains a large amount of moisture. To make this corn of the greatest value for seed purposes, it should be harvested, if possible, before the first frost and thoroughly dried. Maturity is one of the essentials in producing good seed corn, but a close important is the thorough drying of the seed.

It is not even necessary for corn to be frozen before some of its vitality, it will deteriorate at ordinary temperatures if not well dried. When freezing occurs, greater loss in vitality is experienced. Corn which is harvested with an excess of moisture should be dried as rapidly as possible as this removes the danger of injury from moulding, fermenting and freezing. In the process of drying, a free circulation of air should be provided and, if necessary, artificial heat used. Seed corn can be most readily dried when stored in the ear.

Where the corn is well matured and is grown in large quantities, the corn-crib provides one of the most satisfactory drying mediums, as it supplies the best of air circulation along with protection against storms and vermin.

A post in which a number of nails are driven at an angle of forty-five degrees, and the ears stuck on the protruding ends, provides a good medium for drying seed corn ears. These posts with a platform at the base may be readily removed to places where artificial heat can be used if necessary.

Where relatively small amounts of seed corn are used, selected ears may be hung up to dry in the attic, kitchen or furnace room.

Corn which has been thoroughly matured and thoroughly dried gives the highest percentage and most vigorous germination, but seed corn which has reached the dough or firm dough stage of maturity, when harvested, if well dried, usually makes good seed. When thoroughly dried and surrounded by dry atmosphere, even zero weather will not injure the germination of seed corn.—Prof. W. J. Squirrell, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Lge, Guelph.

Straw for Idle Horses.

Straw is a feed very high in fibre and the horse's digestive system is not suited to the liberal use of this roughage. It is not a suitable feed for horses at hard work, but during the winter months may be used to advantage where hay is scarce, and particularly if a little grain is fed along with it. It is just a question whether it is more economical to feed good hay and no grain than it is to feed a percentage of bright straw and a ration of crushed oats. Only clean, bright straws should be used for horses and one to two pounds per day, replacing hay should be found advantageous under certain circumstances. We have seen horses wintered in good condition on oat straw and a light grain ration. If hay were available for a light feed once a day the other two feeds could be composed of straw, and little grain would be required than where the entire roughage ration was straw. Oat straw makes the best feed, barley straw coming second and wheat and rye straw last. A few roots may be used to good advantage with the straw, and under no circumstances is it good policy to skimp horses on straw without supplementing it with at least one or two light feeds of oats per day.—Prof. Wade Toole, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

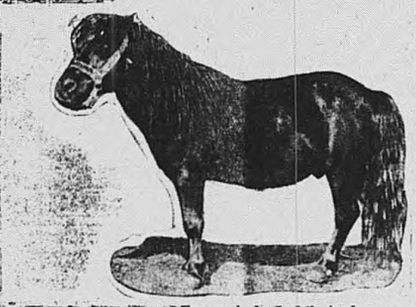
Hints on Harvesting Root Crops.

Root crops should be taken up before the weather becomes too wet and dangerous for the fall if in any quantity. It is also work at any time and becomes much more unpleasant in damp conditions. Lift the roots with a digging fork and twist off the tops, putting them in piles and covering with the tops. If a heavy crop is to be lifted and one is pressed with a heavy hoe he can very quickly remove the tops, but this will not keep quite as well. The roots should be ploughed out, throwing them as much as possible on the top. Bins with slatted sides and bottom should be used for storage where possible, as this gives the roots a chance to sweat. If the outside frost temperature is above 40 degrees F. cover them with sand. Carrots should not be deeper than two feet in a bin, others may be four feet. Where cellar storage is not available use pits. These should be three feet wide, of any three feet high and of any length. Pack the pits earth and south where possible and have them on well drained ground. Put a layer of straw on the ground and cover first with straw six inches deep, then six inches earth, and then frost coat longer cover with fresh straw mixture. Have ventilators every 15 or 20 feet of all roots sweat in storage. These may be filled with straw during cold periods.

All roots should be as free from dirt as possible when put in storage. It is often advisable to leave a few days in small piles on the land and lifting and gathering will be removed.—A. H. MacLennan, B.S.A., Ontario Vegetable Specialist.

BREEDING SHETLAND PONIES IN CANADA

Edith of Transy and her foal, and a foal she is nursing besides.



Youthful visitors—the two children on the left belong to Mr. Percy Cowans, of Montreal, who takes an active interest in the Victory Loan Campaign.

IT was in 1912 that Mr. T. B. Macaulay, President of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, first imported Shetland ponies to Canada, but long before this date he had made a careful and very close study of the breeding of these ponies. It was, therefore, very natural that during Mr. Macaulay's visit to the north of Scotland he looked for and secured the best possible pedigreed ponies. On his beautiful estate, which is situated on the Heights at Hudson, Quebec, near Montreal, there are today some of the most famous pure-bred Shetland ponies in existence. The Canadian Pacific Railway passes through part of the estate and passengers to Point Fortune and Ottawa, there very often wondered to whom the little jet-black ponies belong.

Mount Victoria Pony Stud Farm at Hudson Heights welcomes visitors. It is a sight well worth seeing. Ponies of all types can be seen—from the tiny twelve or eighteen inch foal to the father of the herd, Silver Star of Transy, champion of all Scotland, who stands but thirty-six inches in height. Possessed of a long mane and tail Star looks the part. He is jet black and although ten years old is in prime condition. Then there is Edith of Transy, another prize winner, and a fine type of genuine Shetland pony.

Another pony that all visitors see is old Dorothea. She is just thirty years old, but you can't tell her age by just looking at her, for she looks quite as well as the three year olds. She is one of the most famous Shetlands in the world, with a concentration of the best blood in Shetland Champion Silver Star of Transy, the head of the herd.

Prince and Thule, the strain which Dr. Donald, author of "The Shetland Pony," says is the source of the best riding blood in the breed. Dorothea is believed to be the only Shetland now riding-to-day which is practically pure bred to Prince of Thule on both sides.

The ponies in the herd are black, chestnut and white, and black and white. Ponies suited especially for the use of children are bred, while experiments are being conducted to produce a new breed of pony by crossing pedigreed Shetland mares with a prize winning Hackney pony stallion. This is calculated to bring out a pony with all the gentle characteristics of the Shetland and all the fine action of the Hackney pony.

Besides ponies and all the stock that is found is a prosperous farm there is a herd of elk on the slopes of Hudson Heights. These run loose winter and summer and add to the attractions of one of the beauty spots near Montreal.

Mysterious Subterranean Chambers

Under six feet of snow.

THE Nakimu Caves at Glacier, B.C., whose mysterious subterranean chambers, washed out of the marble heart of a Canadian Rocky Mountain by a glacial river, are reached in summer from an Alpine meadow six thousand feet high, surrounded by beautiful snow-clad peaks, though the meadow itself is gay with flowers. In winter, however, the snow falls deep, and in early spring Mr. Deutschman, who originally discovered these caves, and who is employed by the Canadian Government to show them to passing tourists, has to prospect for the entrance, which may lie ten feet under a snow drift. All around are the tracks of wild animals which pass this way in winter over the Baloo Pass to the heights where only the keenest hunter is likely to follow them—grizzly bear, mountain lion, wolf, caribou, goat and mountain sheep. In summer, of course, the fiercer animals are, but rarely seen, but the whistling marmots come and play around the cabin door, cheekily begging bread from the luncheon sandwiches, while overhead the eagle flies in lazy circles watching for his own prey. The caves themselves are entirely uninhabited, and so far no man have been discovered in the waters of the river. Under the blaze of a magnesium ribbon, however, there is scenery enough, and to spare—the marble flowered walls contrasting strangely with the water worn floor. Up to the present no one has discovered what becomes of the torrent which rages through the caves. It does not find any exit in the Illecillewaet Valley below, but there are strange springs on the mountain side forty miles away, which Mr. Deutschman suspects to be connected with this subterranean river.

Mr. Deutschman digging for the main entrance to caves.

THE KNOX W. M. S.

Hear An Instructive and Inspiring Address On the Work In Western Canada By a Missionary Miss McLaren, at Their Thankoffering Meeting

The Women's Missionary Society Knox Church held its annual Thankoffering meeting on the 18th., inst.

The meeting opened with a hymn and prayer, after which Mrs. W. H. Burgess read the Scripture lesson, the 66th., and 67 th. Psalms of Thanksgiving. Members of the Mission Band sang a hymn, followed by a very interesting address by Miss McLaren, a general stocktaking account of the work of the Society. The Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church was organized to train and educate strangers coming into our land to make their homes with us. There have been as many as one hundred and ten different languages spoken in Toronto alone, and in one schoolground in Winnipeg twenty different languages were spoken. But through time English was learned by them.

Hospitals are the entrance to the hearts of these people. The basis on which the Society works is to get the children educated and Christianized.

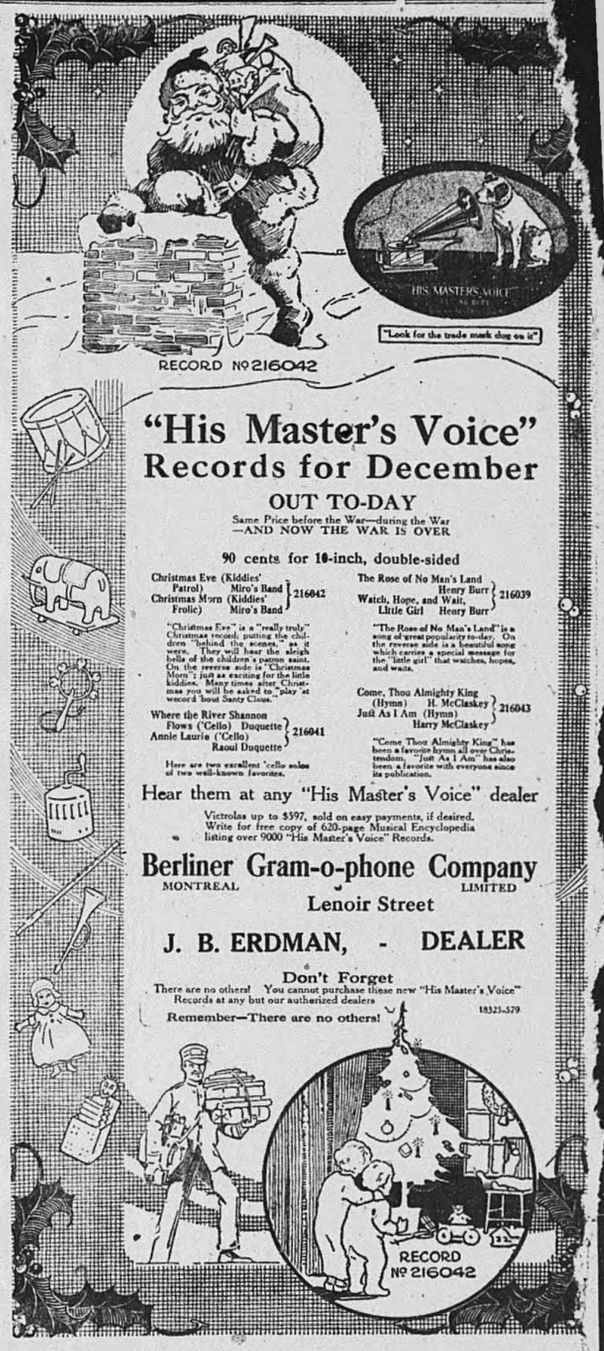
A few years ago a large number of Hindoos landed in British Columbia and settled there. Steps were taken to make them welcome, and they became loyal British subjects. They have been trained so that they take prizes for produce and stock at Agricultural contests. When the rush for gold was made to British Columbia hospitals were opened and nurses sent to help these people. Day schools were also opened.

There are Quakers in our midst also as they accepted the offer Britain gave them when they were driven from their own land and settled here.

Ruthenians are another race of people being benefited by the Missionary Societies. These are largely trained in school homes. They take great pride in their lessons, and equal the Canadian children in ability and excel them in application. The hearts of the parents are won by training the children thus.

In Manitoba schools are established for Indians. These people were the original owners of that wealthy country, but the Government bought it for five dollars and a blanket. In the recent war there were twelve hundred of these Indians fighting. Girls are being trained for nurses. Boys are sent to schools and Collegiates, and some of these have been educated to the extent of translating large portions of the Bible into their own language. Some are ministers. Large home schools are kept up for these Indian children, who attend to the age of eighteen, and are taught everything.

In Manitoba there are also Jews, chiefly in the cities, and in Quebec there are French Canadians to be trained and taught the gospel.



Unmade material in large quantities issued at these different schools both west and east of us to give the children the opportunity to sew. Many of these schools have farms connected with them, and the boys raise Crops, and make money in that way. Girls receive a number of years of training there also, and go out afterwards to start Mission Schools for others, and thus the work goes on. The Women's Missionary Society in all its different branches aids extensively in the upbuilding of our fair Canada.

Two dollars in talent money which a number of the members of Knox Church Mission Band have been making to grow during the summer was handed in and totalled nearly thirty dollars.

After the dedicatory prayer the meeting closed with a hymn and prayer.

A SUNDAY BOAT RIDE

Two young men from near Stoney Island, had a boating xperience last Sunday that they will not forget for a while, says the Kincardine Review. They went out for a row on Old Huron and while the craft was seaworthy, the accoutriments were not of the Ned Hanlan type. A short pole and a paddle were all the propelling accesories available. Just after they had left the shore they had dropped the paddle and had nothing but the pole left to supply the necessary energy to complete a successful trip. About this time a storm suddenly arose and they were carried out upon the lake. It was a rough night and they had decided that they were having heir last boat ride. After being tossed about all night and nearly perishing, as one of them had no coat on, the wind shifted to the west and the craft landed about three miles north of Inverhuron. They were taken home that day and have been under the doctor's care ever since. It is expected that they will recover.

"The Rose of No Man's Land" is a song of great popularity to-day. On the reverse side is a beautiful song which carries a special message for the "little girl" that watches, hopes, and waits.

TOWN AND DISTRICT NEWS

There has been a new issue of three cent stamps by the Dominion Government. The former mark I.T.C. which meant 1 cent war tax has been eliminated on the new stamps and the postage is now straight postage rate without any extra war tax included.

Miss Rolston, missionary organizer of the Walkerton district, gave a very interesting address to the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, Paisley, on Thursday afternoon at the earnestness, which was very much appreciated by the many members and visitors present.—Paisley Advocate.

"My friends, have you ever heard of the town of No-Good, on the banks of the River Slow, where the Some-Time or Other scents the air and the soft Go-Easies grow? It lies in the valley of What's-the-Use, in the province of Let-Her-Slide; its the home of the reckless I-Don't-Care, where the Give-It Ups abide. The town is as old as the human race and it grows with the flights of years; it is wrapped in the fog of the idler's dreams; its streets are paved with discarded schemes and are sprinkled with useless tears.

Early Closing At Strathroy

A by-law ordering all grocery stores in Strathroy to close at 5.30 o'clock p.m. on week days and 10.30 o'clock on Saturday nights, from November 20th, 1918, to April 1, 1919, is being presented to the mayor and town council for their sanction for the purpose of saving fuel and electric power. The butcher shops and dry goods stores have started to close at 5.30 already.

Cutting-Down B. C. of L.

Some persons have been busy the past couple of weeks at Southampton laying in a supply of bedding and fine linen for the winter, and without cost either, so far. We heard of four clothes lines which have been visited recently and a lot of the weight on the line removed. In one case it was a good supply of underwear, in a couple of others supplies of bedspreads, blankets etc. were secured, and in another case a nice assortment of choice linen. In the most recent cases the "lifting" was done before 10 p.m. The frequency with which offenders along this line escape in this town would seem to indicate it is a good method of keeping down the high cost of living, providing of course that you have a conscience which doesn't condemn such actions.—Beacon.

A Fighting Porker

Mr. Geo. Heath had an adventure last week that he won't forget for a time. It was something like a boar hunt in Bavaria, except that he hadn't his gun along, and he wasn't the hunter. About 9.30 p.m. he heard his dog barking desperately, and concluded that he should see what was the cause of the alarm. It turned out to be a visit from a stranger to the Heath premises, Mr. Sam Pollock's old sow having wandered away from home. George undertook to drive the old porkine lady away, but to this she strenuously objected, retaliating by leaping at her human tormentor like a wild beast of the forest. Her teeth caught the waistband of George's trousers and tore the nether garments down one side to the knee, but without leaving a mark on his hide. George was prostrated by the punting blow, but was on his feet, again in an instant, and quickly armed himself with a club, which was too much for the woofing belligerent. The next morning the sow was still at large and down town. Two other men had to use striking weapons to make her move away. Mr. Pollock has since sold the beast for shipment, and she will soon be due for the last encounter with human hand.—Paisley Advocate.

BE HAD A LOT OF SENSE

There was a young man and he had a lot of sense. He started up in business on a dollar eighty cents. The dollar for stock and the eighty for an ad. brought him three lovely dollars in a day, by dad!

Well, he bought more goods, and a little more space, and he played that system with a smile on his face.

The customers flocked to his two-by-four, and soon he had to hustle for a regular store. Up on the square, where the people pass, he gobbled up the corner that was all plate glass. He fixed up the window with the best that he had and told them all about it in a half page ad.

He soon had 'em coming and he never, never, quit, and he couldn't put down his ads. one bit. And he's kept things humping in the town ever since, and everybody calls him the Merchant Prince.

Some say it's luck, but that's all bunk; why, he was doing business when the times were punk!

People have to purchase, and this man was wise—for he knew the way to get 'em was to advertise.

Start now and do the Christmas shopping. It is not too early.

One million dollars in cash was paid out by the Dominion Sugar Company last week to growers of sugar beets in the Chatham district for this year's crop.

Dr. R. H. Fortune handled the Tp. of Normanby alone in regard to subscriptions for the Victory Loan. The objective was $100,000, and the township exceeded its amount by 25 per cent. which entitles it to an honor Flag and British Crown as well. The hustling clerk of Normanby is to be congratulated as a financial sniper for he must have picked off some nice loans from the wealthy farmers of his township to reach $125,000 single handed.—Chesley Enterprise.

Writ Issued Against Mildmay.

The refusal of the village council to pay the costs in connection with the incorporation of the village of Mildmay, has resulted in a writ being issued against the corporation by Messrs. Robertson & McNab, barristers, of Walkerton. The local Council considered the bill of costs unreasonably high, and therefore withheld payment.—Mildmay Gazette.

High Prices for Years

J. Ogden Armour of the big Chicago packing house made this statement on Saturday on the outlook for food costs: "I do not think food prices will decline much for four years. Provisions may not go any higher, but at the same time they are not likely to decline much for some time to come. There will be a big trade for the next four years. It is fortunate that we have good stocks as Europe will need a lot. It looks to me as though prices for grains will not recede materially and the same applies to many other things and it will be some years before values get down to the normal."

Peck's Bad Boys

"Spec" and "Dot" Schulze left on Wednesday morning for a trip, accompanied by Constable Duke. "Spec" goes to the Industrial School at Mimico, and "Dot" who is too old for that institution, goes to Walkerton for trial by the judge. The sigh which will go up at the departure of this precious pair from our midst will be one of satisfaction on the part of our citizens generally. They (of not, neither do they spin,") does not apply in this case for they were a pretty busy pair, and someone usually suffered as a result of their activities. Peck's Bad Boy would be awarded a good conduct medal in comparison with these two. The cause of their departure from our midst was the result of an appearance last Tuesday forenoon before Justice of the Peace Andrew McIntosh for recent misdemeanors and the general hope is that they may never come back.—Southampton Beacon.

20,000,000 MEN LOST IN THE WAR

211,358 Men Canada's Share

The London Express estimates the casualties of European nations during the war as follows: Germany, 6,900,000; Austria, 4,500,000; France, 4,000,000; Britain, 2,000,000; Turkey, 500,000; Belgium, 350,000; Roumania, 200,000; Bulgaria, 200,000.

With the under-estimated casualties of Russia and others not included in the above list, the Express estimates the total casualties of the war at 26,000,000 men.

In the awful conflict that ended to-day Canada's glorious effort has cost heavily in life and limb. Up to and including October 31st., the latest figures available, the total casualties were 211,358, divided as follows:

Killed in action	54,877
Died of wounds or disease	15,457
Wounded	132,779
Presumed dead, missing and prisoners of war	8,245
Total	211,358

Absolute casualties in the war, made public up to 31st. June of the casualties of Dominions totaled 65,520. Of these 12,140 were killed in action. Thousands more have been killed, wounded or captured since. It will probably be many weeks before the last list is compiled.

Wiarton ministers have signed advertisement in last week's issue of The Echo informing the public that except on the written order of the Medical Officer of Health, they will not conduct funerals on Sunday.

Father Cadot of Cape Croker Indian Reservation has arrived home from the Caribbian Islands and gives a sad report of the ravages of the Spanish Influenza. Out of a population of 275 many were ill and 50 had died. Had a doctor not been sent, in answer to an urgent request, the Priest believes fully 50 per cent of the population would have succumbed.

Fiftieth Anniversary

Purdy's Methodist Church, Greenock, will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary on Sunday, December 1st. Rev. W. J. Fiddis of Cayuga will be present and Rev. J. W. Sanderson of Walkerton has been invited to take part.

Died At Winnipeg

Mr. Albert Monkman, a former Walkerton man, died at Winnipeg on November 6 at the age of 65 years. He was educated in the public schools of Bruce and afterwards by private tuition in Toronto. He commenced the study of law in 1871 at Walkerton and soon after as a student joined the staff of Cameron, Michael and Hoskin, barristers in Toronto. He was called to the practice of law with the firm of Morphy & Morphy and continued with them for 3 years when he left the city of Toronto and went west to Winnipeg. His first law practise in that city was in partnership with the present Lieut. Governor of Manitoba, Sir James Aikins. This partnership lasted for several years but was broken up finally when Mr. Monkman, Dinsman and Jamieson. At different times until 1893 Mr. Monkman was in various legal partnership, but in that year he established business for himself and thereafter practised alone until the day of his disease with the exception of about two years during that time he acted as District Registrar at Morden. At the time of his death he was senior practising member of the Manitoba bar.

NEW FUEL ORDER COMING

Mr. Alexander from the Fuel Controller's office has been visiting neighboring towns making a general survey to see if the larger buildings are using all the soft coal possible, and seemed quite pleased with what he found.

Some time ago it was announced that the towns would get as much coal as in 1916. Now it appears that the municipalities are to receive only 70 per cent. of their 1916 consumption. This being the case, anyone who has in his full supply has a part of someone else's share.

A new order is about to issue, prohibiting any dealer from delivering coal to any person in possession of three tons or more. No person or firm will be allowed to get more than five tons of hard coal per [illegible] no matter what their [illegible] is.

Surveys are to be made of [illegible] churches, manufacturing places, office buildings and other large buildings, showing amount used yearly, the style of furnace and other information with a view to having soft coal substituted for anthracite where it can be done satisfactorily.

You claim that you are overworked. But isn't it a fact that you are merely trying to make up the time you waste while you are loafing.

A silver-black fox was shot in the neighborhood of Alvinston last week. The fox was one of the most prized breeders. This is the second fox to be shot there within two years.

Out On Pacific Coast

Mrs. Adu Teasdale Brown, of Cashmere, Washington, in a letter to the Telescope says:—The harvest here has been good and the weather all one could ask. We join with you in heartfelt rejoicings at the cessation of the war and only hope the terms may be such as not to make us feel that any of our boys have been uselessly lost.

Hanover Merchant Dead

George E. Gruetzner, who kept a furniture store and undertaking establishment at Hanover, died Monday morning at his home after an uphill struggle with Spanish influenza. Mr. Gruetzner contracted the disease a week ago last Friday, and it developed into pneumonia last Thursday. Everything possible was done to save his life, four doctors being in attendance. Mr. Gruetzner, who was 30 years of age, is survived by his wife, three small children, his father and two sisters in Newark N. J.

BADGES FOR FOOD PRODUCTION SERVICE

The Organization of Resources Committee, representing the Ontario Government and Legislature in their plans for encouraging the production of food as a war-time service, has had prepared a Food Production Service Badge for awarding to children and others who have done good work during the past season. It offers the badge to War Production Clubs, Agricultural and Horticultural Societies, Resources Committee Branches, School Boards, Teachers, Women's Institutes, Sunday School Clubs, or any other group of responsible persons, at a fraction of its cost for distribution locally at public meetings. In the distribution of these badges the purposes are:—To commemorate the splendid response made throughout Ontario to the Empire's call for increased production in the season of 1918; to stimulate community interest in local achievements; to recognize deserving effort in national service, and to encourage a continuance of the work next year and so long as the world's need of food is urgent. The badge may be awarded for other services besides gardening. Boys or girls who have helped materially in farm work during their holidays; those who have worked with their parents in a worth-while home garden scheme or those who have raised poultry or produced pork will also be entitled to the badge. The badge, a sample of which may be seen at this office, will be cherished in after years as a very interesting war-time souvenir.

Sir Clifford Sifton has resigned as Chairman of the Commission of Conservation.

Dr. Brown Dead

Dr. W. N. Brown, the well-known Newcastle doctor, is reported to have passed away at the residence of his son, at Redcliffe, Alta. Dr. Brown who was a specialist, visited Walkerton and neighboring towns occasionally. He was a man of culture and fine character and stood high in his profession.

Letter From France

Mr. T. H. Wilson, Durham Road East, had an interesting letter last week from his nephew, Jack Wilson, son of Mr. D. C. Wilson, Toronto. Jack has been in France since 1915 but never was in such good spirits. He was back in the trenches again after having been twice wounded. "We have them going" he writes. With so much stuff to move forward every body was busy. The civilians gave them a wonderful welcome. The only scarcity was tobacco.

PROTECT YOUR WATERPIPES FROM FROST

Thawing frozen water pipes has resulted in some very serious fires every winter and a lot of unnecessary destruction to property. The use of a blowlling torch and fires built around water pipes is a very dangerous practice, that should not call forth any special prohibitory comment. But notwithstanding that fact each winter seems to produce the usual crop of thoughtless, foolhardy, careless people.

As an example of what can happen from this source we need only draw attention to a fire which occurred in Toronto last winter in a mercantile building. The pipes became frozen, and the janitor, with the knowledge of the owner of the building, started to thaw out the water pipes by winding cotton rags around them which were saturated with coal oil, and then set fire to the coal oil. The result was that a very serious fire occurred which resulted in a loss of $28,952, and affected the business, and no doubt the profits, of five firms in the building. If the owner of this building had taken precautionary measures and properly protected the water pipes at a slight expense, in comparison to the enormous loss caused by the carelessness of his employee, great waste would have been avoided.

The only safe and sane method of thawing out frozen water pipes is by direct application of hot water and cloths to the pipes. If this does not prove effective, a plumber should be called in.

The prov. Fire Warden appeals to owners of property who have had frozen water pipes to protect them before the cold weather sets in and avoid the trouble and inconvenience of having the water frozen and the consequent necessity of having to thaw it out.

LIVERY BARN BURNED

Fire Started in Chimney at Lettner's Livery and Gutted Livery— The Horses Saved and Most of Contents—Loss Fairly Covered By Insurance.

Fire broke out in Lettner's Livery about eleven o'clock Monday night and badly gutted the building. The blaze appears to have originated in the chimney below the office and ran up between the walls of the roof which was soon in flames. Passers-by noticed the blaze before it had developed far and got the horses and most of the vehicles, harness and other contents out. Some hay and straw in the loft was also burned. Mr. Lettner cannot account for the fire. He states that he and some friends were chatting in the office until about half an hour before the bell rang and left for home. There was only a small fire in the stove but the chimney appears to have caught fire. The roof is nearly burned away and part of the left destroyed. The damage done to the ground floor is not so heavy. The owner of the building, Mr. Tory Gibson, will have several hundred dollars loss which is fairly well covered with insurance. The contents, belonging to Mr. Lettner were also insured. Mr. Lettner has found accommodation for seven horses in the barn at the rear of his residence on Victoria St. He has a phone in and is doing business there until he can arrange permanent quarters.

HONORED RETURNED MEN

Public Reception Given At the Town Hall Tuesday Night To Two Young Walkerton Heroes Recently Returned From Overseas—Jim Stalker Discusses The Returned Man.

The Town Hall was filled last night for the public reception to Jim Stalker B.A. and Frank Zettel, two of Walkerton's returned heroes. Rev. R. Perdue, of the Walkerton Preparedness League, occupied the chair, and words of welcome to the boys were given by Rev. J. W. Sanderson, Rev. W. H. Burgess, and Mr. John Rowland, who took advantage of the occasion to make some uncomplimentary remarks about Mr. F. Rennie's recent letter in the local papers. Frank Zettel thanked the ladies for the parcels sent Overseas and told them how much the boys appreciated them. Jim Stalker expressed his thanks in a few appropriate words. A splendid address which he had written out dealing with the problem of the returned soldiers was read by Rev. W. H. Burgess. The men coming home, he said, were sensitive, perhaps supersensitive, needed sympathy—not the consolatory kind, but a real fellowship of feeling and appreciation, not ostentatious but quiet and sincere, of what done. "Invest your faith in these men," were his final words, and you will receive interest a hundred fold."

OLD RESILENT CALLED

Late Mrs. James Flett Was One of the Finest Original Stock That Has Left Canada A Rich Heritage In Sterling Christian Character—Husband Was A Pioneer Merchant of Walkerton.

There passed away at her home, Colborne St. Walkerton, on Sunday, December 1st., one of Walkerton's oldest residents in the person of Mrs. James Flett in her 85th. year. Mrs. Flett had been in poor health for some time and for the last four months had been confined to her bed. Mrs. Flett, whose maiden name was Janet Muir, was born on the Island of Sandy, one of the Orkney Islands, on November 4th., 1833. She left the Old Land at the age of 18 with her father's family, settling at Smithfill in the Niagara Peninsula. She was married in September 1855, and came to Walkerton as a bride. Her husband, who was a son of Walkerton's first citizens as well as one of the oldest pioneer merchants, kept a boot and shoe store at that time on the present site of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. At the next corner the late Mr. Wisser had a store and the intervening space which is now the centre of Walkerton's business activity, was owned by Mr. Flett and Mr. Wisser. Mr. Flett carried on business successfully for many years and at length retired to his farm on the 8th., Brant for his closing years. After his death in 1896, Mrs. Flett and her two daughters came to Walkerton where they have since resided. Walkerton was but a sparse settlet when Mr. and Mrs. Flett first came in. Mrs. Wisser sr. is probably the only resident of those days still surviving. Mrs. Flett was one of the first members of Knox congregation, belonging to the original congregation which met in a little building on the Durham Road, and later in a frame church in the East Ward. She came of the pioneer race that was sturdy in physique and of sterling character. Her lovely Christian character afforded a daily example of right living to her family and friends. A better neighbor never lived, was the comment made to the Telescope by one who lived near her for years. Two sons and three daughters survive. They are:—John, wholesale merchant, of Vancouver, B.C.; James of Wiarton; Mrs. W. J. McNally of Brant; Elizabeth and Janet at home.

The funeral took place from her late residence on Tuesday afternoon to Walkerton Cemetery and was largely attended. Rev. W. H. Burgess B.A. B.D., conducted the service. The pall-bearers were:—Jas. Flett, W. J. McNally, William and Alex Tulloch (nephews,) and Donald and Douglas Flett (grandsons.)

Death of Miss Klein

The death occurred at the Bruce County Hospital, on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 3rd., of Miss Bella Klein, last surviving daughter of the late John Klein. She had been ailing the last six months or more with stomache trouble. Miss Klein made her home with her father to whom she faithfully ministered in his declining years. Six brothers survive. They are:—Judge A. B. and Otto E. of Walkerton, Isadore and Edmund of New York, Theodore of Cleveland, and Oscar of Milwaukee. Private funeral will be held from Judge Klein's residence on Friday.

Bell vs. Hunter

Two of Ontario's leading legal lights, Hartley H. Dewart of Toronto and Hon. Wm. Proudfoot, Leader of the Ontario opposition were pitted against each other in this case and showed their skill in the cross-examining of many witnesses. Before the case was concluded, the two parties got together and arranged a settlement the plaintiff to pay the defendant $2400 and each party paying his own costs. This action which is now quite familiar to the public, arose out of an accident which occurred at the Port Elgin Dominion Day Celebration in 1916, when an auto driven by the daughter of Mr. Wm. Hunter, Ex-Reeve of Kincardine, in order to avoid the crowd at a corner quickly turned aside and in so doing crushed Allan Bell a farmer of Bruce Tp. against an electric light post fracturing his limbs and injuring him permanently, he claimed.

KNOX HONORS MEMORY

Of Brave Boys "Who Gave Their To-day for our To-morrow"—A Thoughtful and Inspiring Sermon by Rev. W. H. Burgess B.A., B.D. —An Appropriate Program of Music

Memorial Service for the brave lads who have fallen was held at the Knox Church on Sunday evening. No less than 116 boys went out from Knox congregation to do their part Overseas and of these fourteen made the Supreme Sacrifice.

In an eloquent and thoughtful discourse, Rev. Mr. Burgess drew lessons, from the sacrifice that has been made by the boys in France, such as were calculated to inspire his hearers to higher ideals of living. He showed how in the easy-going pre-war days, we were wont to take for granted such blessings as the right to vote, the freedom of the press etc. Now our eyes are opened to a new understanding. We realize that our many privileges of citizenship come to us as the result of endless sacrifice on the part of those who have gone before. Life and what fill that means has been handed to us as a going concern but we have paid nothing for the "good-will". When we think of what might have been, and of the sacrifice that has been made, the question comes to us: Are we worthy of such sacrifice? The least we can do with the blood-bought lives of ours is to consecrate them to the highest purpose. Take up the torch thrown from their hands. Present your bodies a living sacrifice to finish the task which they have so well begun.

A fine program of music which harmonized perfectly with the spirit of the occasion was rendered by the choir under Prof. Leeson's able leadership. The numbers included an organ prelude: Trio from Chopin's Funeral March; Anthem, "They Laid the World Away"; Anthem, "There is a Green Hill," Miss Rowland taking the solo part, Solo, "The Prelude of Life," Miss Hazel Irwin. After the reading of the list of those who fell by the Pastor, the congregation remained standing, while Mr. Leeson rendered, "The Dead March From Saul."

Rev. Mr. Burgess referred to the tablet which has just been placed in the Church in honor of Flight Commander C. Eric Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Robertson who lost his life in France while leading a British fountain of planes into action on July 12th, 1917. Mr. Burgess said that he hoped before long steps would be taken by the Church to commemorate in a similar way all those who had fallen.

The full program of the day's special services is reproduced on page 6 of this week's Telescope.

Making Democracy Safe

"Making Democracy Safe For the World" was Mr. Burgess' timely topic at the National Thanksgiving Service in the morning. The task that awaits us, said the speaker, will not be completed in four years. It will take a century. We have seen how democracy or people-rule may be a greater menace to a nation and the world for a time at least than autocracy. Nor is this menacing form of democracy confined to Russia only but is to be found all over Europe and to some extent in America. It does not show itself here but its roots are in our soil and when the right conditions arise we shall feel its menace. Bolshevism, the offspring of ignorance and oppression, is one of the great problems we shall have to deal with.

The ignorance of our people in regard to morals, religion and politics is by no means as deplorable as in the case of Russia, and yet even a superficial investigation reveals the fact that it is deplorable enough. We must educate our children in morals and religion. Because of petty denominational jealousies the world's greatest text book, the Bible, has been kept out of the public schools. 25 hours a week are given to secular education, less than one hour to bible study. Many educators are beginning to realize this, and already Community Schools of Religious Education have been started in communities in the U. S. and the experiment has so far proven a great success. Since coming to this town, the speaker when passing the empty Public School building, had often thought what a splendid thing it would be if we could duplicate the Community work that has been started across the Line, and lead Canada in this work. One expert Christian teacher would be enough to start with. Nothing would [illegible]

Thos. Rankin,

A Remarkable Prophecy

A startlingly accurate prophecy made in Canada by the late Lord Roberts is referred to by L'Evenement of Quebec. The paper says Lord Roberts while in Canada ten years ago, stated on one occasion — "They refuse to believe me, we are asleep under a false security, for I do not hesitate to affirm that we will have a frightful war in Europe, and England and France will have the hardest experience of their existence. They will, in fact, see defeat very near, but the war will finally be won by the genius of a French general named Ferdinand Foch, professor in a military school in Paris." L'Evenement says Lord Roberts' prophecy was heard by a number of people, and that the Duke of Devonshire has repeated the prophecy, attributing it to the field marshal.

PA SAYS

(By Edmund Vance Cook)

"'Ja says my manners are a sight;
He says my language is a fright;
He says I ought to be perlite
To fathers such as he.
Pa says I ought to watch my jaw
And guard my tongue; but gee!
If I should ever jaw my paw
The way my pa jaws me!
'Pa says a life's fratered tooth
A-puttin' in the mouth of youth,'
And boys should set the seal of truth
Forever on their brow.'
But when I've took a trip or two
With 'pa,' he says, 'Remember now,
You're under twelve, Hell-fare for you
Is too much anyhow!'
"Pa says that while men fight and die,
He thinks boys ought to self-deny
Of candy, cake, and maybe pie,
He says you ought to jump
To help our solders play the game,
And take our little bourap,'
But fer his coffee, jest the same,
He sneaks a second lump!"

RATEPAYER MAKES SUGGESTION

Editor Telescope,
Dear Sir:—

Kindly allow space for a few suggestions re sanitary work &c. Judging by the complaints ratepayers are making, the town's sanitary system does not seem to be satisfactory. Walkerton is not alone in this system for other towns are having the same trouble. The only logical solution is a more perfect sewage system and connections for everyone on the sewer. The town has several petitions for sewers on file, and work has been held back on these due to war conditions. Now that the war is over and the employing of surplus labor is the problem, what better move could be made than to construct these sewers where at all practical and build some permanent roads. Debentures could be issued for a term of years and the tax rate need not be increased. Walkerton is in such good condition financially, that this could be easily done.

The 1918 Council deserves credit for what they have done, considering abnormal war conditions. The 1919 Council will need courage and initiative and it is to be hoped that the ratepayers will see to it that a good strong council is elected, worthy of the County town.

Yours for a model County Town.
Ratepayer.

Dr. McCullough, Provincial Medical Health Officer, says that "Whiskey is no good for influenza as it is not good for pneumonia."

The Bruce Peninsula News, published at Lion's Head which has been defunct since the war began, has been revived with Harry Oswald as Editor and publisher.

Everybody is anticipating a good Christmas trade and governing themselves accordingly. Money is plentiful and notwithstanding the Victory Loan Campaign, payments continue good.—Lucan's Bulletin.

Send us the news from your community, and keep on the map. Send it in early and don't be discouraged or offended if we sometimes condense, eliminate or alter the reading of parts of it; there may be good reasons for this doing. Lastly—sign your name; this for the editor's information only.

The Hospital for Sick Children

TORONTO

War Laid Heavy Hand on Children's Charity.

Dear Mr. Editor:—

The annual report of the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, marks a new record, despite the heavy handicap the war placed upon its work.

The task of ministering to the suffering youngsters of this province was no light one in view of the Hospital's splendid response to the national call 25 doctors and 43 nurses from its forces have seen service overseas.

Yet the number of patients treated is 5,048, or 1,305 more than last year. Of these in-patients, 759 were from 266 places outside of Toronto.

The tireless efforts of the staff made possible also a reduction in the average length of stay necessary for the little patients from 24 days in 1914 to 14 this year.

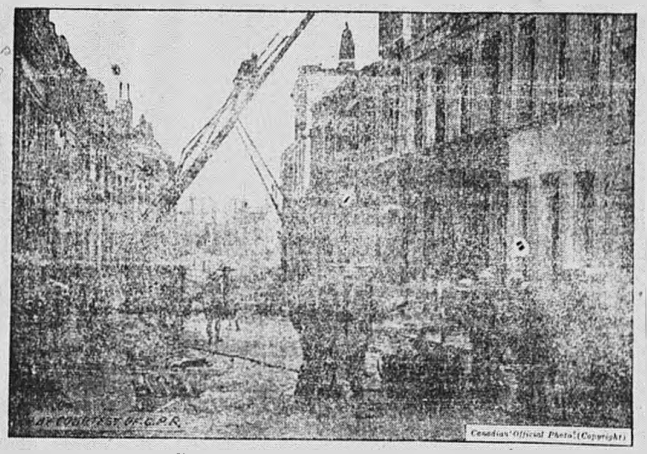
These results show that the Hospital has again paid to the children rich dividends of health upon the interested kindness of its supporters.

There has been careful stewardship of the funds entrusted to the Hospital. There has been saving—almost scrimping—in every direction except where it would prevent the Hospital's soothing the suffering or shortening the sickness of one child. The daily cost of operation was held at the lowest point which would still allow the children entrusted to the Hospital to get the best medicine and the best of care.

And yet so high has risen the cost of every item in the Hospital's budget—in labor, in fuel, in food, and, above all, in medical supplies—that the minimum expense of taking care of one child for one day has risen from $2.34 back in 1914 to $3.21¾ in 1918. Of that, $1.66¾—the amount per patient per day that the official Government grants do not cover—must come from voluntary contributions.

During the past four years debts were incurred to the extent of $100,000, which the Trustees felt assured would be wiped out by the public as soon as the war drew to its close, and those heavy demands cease which have been made upon the generosity of the loyal people of this province. The time has now come when it is necessary to make known the Hospital's dire need of financial assistance.

If this 43rd Christmas appeal fails to rally the friends of this Charity to its support, it will be necessary to mortgage its land, buildings and plant. By the bounty of the late John Ross Robertson that property has just been cleared of debt for the first time since it began its ministry of healing mercy.



Little children have lost a big-hearted friend, and the province a noble benefactor. It is for the public to decide whether his life-work shall be replaced with a mortgage within less than a year of his passing.

What think you?

Send your answer as soon as possible to the Secretary-Treasurer, Hospital for Sick Children, College Street, Toronto. Meanwhile the Charity will "Carry on," trusting in your support.

IRVING E. ROBERTSON,
Chairman of Appeal Committee.

TO END NOBILITY

Canadian Plan Strikes at Very Ancient Institution.

Proposal is Called Radical and Affects Titles That Run Back to the Old French Regime.

The report from Ottawa that the Canadian nobility is to be abolished may be the first news to not a few on this side of the border, as well as to many on this side, that Canada has a nobility. The proposal is called radical, and it certainly does strike at a very ancient institution, states a writer in Providence Journal. If such a law is enacted in accordance with the recommendations of the government, in the form of an order in council, "no hereditary title shall hereafter be conferred upon a British subject resident of Canada," and "appropriate action shall be taken by the government to provide that, after a prescribed period, no title held by a British subject now or hereafter ordinarily resident in Canada, shall be recognised as having hereditary effect."

The reference presumably is to the titles that have come down from the period when the King of France conceded his North American possessions in fiefs of duchies, marquisates, counties, viscounties, baronies and other seigniories to the members of the noblesse, military officers and other men of merit admitted to the noblesse" —according to the old chronicle. And although, as one of the ancient regime has plaintively observed, "democracy has a hatred for natural superiority and endeavors to crush it out," the titular nobility seems to have survived among the "bourgeoisie" and "peasantry" of the husky young Dominion.

Canada has its college of arms and a number of American citizens who can claim descent from patrician families, or who by feats of arms or other public achievements have shown their merit, have qualified in some of the orders, and are privileged to display the ribbons and wear the court dress of "dark blue, red cord, gilt buttons of the imperial two-headed eagle, cavalry saber, and blue, red or green sash." At about the time of the Civil war one of these orders invited the membership of "those of the American states disgusted with the vulgarity and tyranny of democracy," and its rolls contain the names of General Gordon, General Vance and other distinguished personages of the Southern confederacy. Among the old French titles are Duc d'Arkansas and Baronet of Nova Scotia.

Fire Losses in North America.

As has often been pointed out, the fire waste in the United States and Canada is extravagant. But Canada now proposes to reduce the damage by the adoption of compulsory fire prevention measures in accordance with the recommendations of the commission of conservation, says Providence Journal.

Excluding forest fires, the commission finds that since confederation the loss has been $700,000,000, while every year 200 lives are sacrificed in fires, and 500 persons seriously injured. Canada's per capita fire loss is the largest in the world—$2.73—and that of the United States—$2.26—is second. England's figures are small—64 cents—but large in comparison with the 12 cents reported in Switzerland. France has a per capita loss of 74 cents. Conditions in these several countries do not seem to justify such an extraordinary difference in the fire records. Probably the explanation of the poor showing on this side of the ocean lies in the better enforcement of safety regulations in Europe, and in holding property owners accountable for the damages caused by fires starting on their premises.

The remedy proposed in Canada is in putting more responsibility upon owners of buildings and other combustible property.

Colored Regiments.

In 1866 congress passed a law that colored regiments should be a part of the regular army. The Ninth and Tenth cavalry and the Thirty-eighth, Thirty-ninth, Fortieth and Forty-first regiments of infantry were organized March 3, 1869. A consolidation act was passed and the Thirty-eighth and Forty-first were reorganized as the Twenty-fourth regiment of infantry; the Thirty-ninth and Fortieth were reorganized as the Twenty-fifth regiment of infantry. The Ninth and Tenth cavalry won the reputation of being among the best Indian fighters on the frontier. At the outbreak of the Spanish war, in 1898, the four colored regiments were among the first troops ordered to the front, and they won distinction. At the first battle in Cuba, the Tenth cavalry played an important part of coming to the support of Colonel Roosevelt and the Rough Riders. The Twenty-fifth infantry took a prominent part in the battle of El Caney. The Ninth and Tenth cavalry and the Twenty-fourth infantry rendered heroic service in the battle of San Juan hill.—Boston Globe.

FRENCH GO BACK TO CANDLES

Scarcity of Materials Used for Lighting Has Led to Revival of an Ancient Art.

While the war has wrecked some industries in France, it has at the same time created new ones and revived older crafts. An excellent and interesting example of the latter is the art of candlestick making, which has taken on a new lease of life. Even in some of the big towns there are houses which are not supplied with gas, where before the war petroleum or spirit was used for lighting purposes. Now that the use of these is restricted closely, recourse has to be made to the old-fashioned candle.

This is true in the country especially where candlesticks are in great demand, and every one is buying them according to his means or fancy. At first they were made of copper, but when that metal became scarce brass was employed. Some of the modern examples have several branches and are very artistic.

A domestic art metal worker at Aix, who has specialized in this kind of work, and has become quite a celebrity, has just constructed a series of tall iron candlesticks of very solid proportions which can hold several candles. They have been critically inspected by art metal critics and are claimed to be true works of art, and to appeal to all lovers of ironwork.—Scientific American.

LONG FAMOUS IN HISTORY

Vicissitudes of Old City of Jerusalem May Be Said to Be Without a Parallel.

The capture of Jerusalem by English troops recalls the tragic and fascinating story of that day, which carries us back through the mist of ages to the days when the throne of David was established within its walls. From that date we pass to the glories of the temple built by Solomon, which for centuries was to stand as the center and pivot of the Jewish nation and faith. The time came, however, when her days were numbered, and the drama of Calvary was followed a few years later by the onslaught of Titus, the Roman emperor, who encompassed the city round on every side and leveled it to the ground.

Round its ruined walls Saracen and Crusader were to fight continuously for its possession, and Christian knights flocked from all lands to the rescue of the holy places, until in 1099 Godfrey de Bouillon defeated his enemies and was chosen as the first Christian king of Jerusalem.

Following this, for a considerable period the city remained in Christian hands, until in 1517 it was captured by the Turks.

Strain of Flying.

Aero-neurosis is the name which is sometimes given to nervous troubles brought about by the strain of flying. It has been said that an airman's life consists of "long spells of intense fear." He has to endure intense cold, rain, wind, and fog, the nerve-racking noise of the engine, the anti-aircraft fire, and to "loop, spin, dive, or sideslip, apparently out of control, to deceive an opponent. An interesting nerve test has been devised in France for selecting the best type of airmen for fighting. Around his chest is a pneumograph, in his left hand a trembler, and around two fingers of his right hand a pneumatic "deigiter." Behind the candidate a revolver shot is fired or a magnesium flare is set off, and a record of the effect on his nerves is obtained by means of stylets writing on a blackened revolving cylinder.

One of Uncle Sam's Boys.

Although he had twice been unable to make his way through a steam-filled compartment, Walter D. McLea, a chief machinist's mate, national naval volunteers, United States navy, made a third go at it, and with success. In doing this he prevented a much more serious accident, and for his valor has been commended by the secretary of the navy. The engine room had been filled with live steam when the breaking of the filler carried away the exhaust lines of the steering engine. At the first alarm McLea tried to enter the compartment where the steam was escaping, but it was not until he had made three trips down the ladder that he was successful in stopping the flow. McLea went into the navy April 8, 1917, entering the naval volunteers at Erie, Pa.

You Should be as Loyal To Your Community as To Your Name

The Walkerton concerns listed below, conscious of the fact that thousands of dollars are being sent out of this territory for merchandises that can be bought at home, have launched a campaign in the hope that it will create a stronger feeling of community interest—a sentiment most vital for the prosperity of the entire Community. In bold type, you therefore read the slogan that they propose to popularize "BUY IN YOUR HOME TOWN".

It is the purpose of the progressive concerns whose names appear on this page, to present arguments of such convincing nature that the people of this community will respond thereto with the result that they will make a solemn pledge, to first endeavor to get what they need from home merchants before sending their money out of town.

The time for considering this question couldn't be more opportune than the present. "Preparedness," the watchword of Canada, should begin at home and can be exemplified in no more far reaching manner than by real co-operation in this vitally important "BUY AT HOME" movement. It is a thought that should be taken to heart and given consideration by every person who cares their living in, or owes their success to this community.

This campaign is launched in the firm belief that the people of [illegible] county will follow the dictates of their good sense, and bring the "BUY AT HOME" to an actuality that will be of vast benefit to the entire territory.

This movement is no selfish propaganda of these progressive concerns who have combined in co-operative community appeal. They urge that you read the brief message they will give each week through the columns of The Telescope. They invite you to give careful consideration to the facts which will be presented. To talk this matter over with your friends and neighbors. Results are sure to follow.

The firm resolve to "BUY AT HOME" will not only help the retail merchants, but the manufacturer and jobber, the farmers, adjacent to our town, the general merchants in the nearby towns, it will help every line of business, it will either directly or indirectly benefit every individual of this section.

High School Notes

There will be much weeping and wailing on the part of those students, who, having been neglectful of their studies, failed to imbibe sufficient knowledge to obtain an average of sixty per cent on the examinations of the past month. It is hoped that any such delinquents will turn from their evil ways, and walk henceforth in the straight and narrow path. The all too frequently published report appears in this week's issue of the local papers, and some of the young pupils are afraid to go home for other reasons than that of darkness.

* * *

The pupils were very busy on Saturday gathering papers. Their collection was quite a success, as a great many newspapers and magazines found their way to headquarters. Those on the reception committee, whose duties were to tie up all loose papers, had a busy time of it; but nobody died from over-exertion, strange though it may seem.

* * *

Some of the boys became greatly interested in the fall assizes here recently, and went so far as to attend court instead of appearing at school. While they enjoyed themselves at the time, they had to serve another little court on their return, and they have since decided to leave courts strictly alone.

* * *

The students are becoming anxious about the number of cases of influenza in town. They fear that the schools will be closed and, ready to submit to any ruling of the Board of Health, they hope no such action will be taken. The situation, however, warrants this step and the citizens endangered for their children. They feel that it is their duty to make the sacrifice and are prepared to shelve their own interests.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORING TOWNS, VILLAGES AND COUNTRYSIDE

:-: Happenings of the Past Week Collected for the Readers of The Telescope by a capable Staff of Wideawake Correspondents :-:

CARGILL

Don't forget the big concert "Ellan Comes Today", in the Foresters' Hall, Dec. 13th. Have a jolly evening and help the Red Cross.

Mrs. Johnston (nee Estella Keyes) and babe are visiting at Mrs. Thos. Keyes'.

Rev. Ferguson of Stratford occupied the Methodist pulpit on Sunday night in the interests of the Lord's Day Alliance.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sparling of Norval, Ont. who visited at Mr. H. Cliff's the past week or so have returned home.

The merchants are busy getting ready for the Xmas trade.

Wm. and Karl Cliff left this week for Oshawa where they will reside in future and where their brother have good jobs.

Mrs. Wells of Southampton visited at Mr. S. Cargill's on Tuesday.

EDEN GROVE

Many were the pies burned and cakes scorched last week while our curious cooks flattened their nasal pianos—I almost said nasal organs but Eden Grove is up to date, against the window pains to watch the real estate shuffle. .

It was some shuffle. , The slums of our great City resembled an active ant hill or Camp Borden in its palmy days. Firstly Mac Scott, our genial Merchant Prince, moved from his old home at 309 Chicken Row to his new abode in the old McKeeman mansion at the corner of Bargain avenue and Cheap Street. Secondly the Mayor of Palmerston in 1920 moved to that City from his residence in the shade of the Century Building. Mr. W. Fair was one of our oldest and most esteemed citizens. In fact, with the double exception of myself and the late lamented Monsieur Bum, he was the best loved of our vill—I mean City. A Methodist expressed the sentiments of all when he said, "He hoped Allah would, among his new kids, enjoy a lucky run of cards now enough to boost the pot." (Did he mean anyhow?) A carving set was presented to Fair and a gold watch and a good sum of money to William as a parting gift by his neighbors.

Just come to my notice that Edmore in the county police Ha, Ha, Ha, Ha, Ha, Oh, Ha, Ha. What am I laughing? I don't know, Ha, Ha, Ha, Ha. Someone please tell us who the mysterious figure that in the air regularly winds his way down the main artery of our City with a hunt hook over his shoulder? Please explain how this instrument is used in an affair of this kind.

Is the fact that the extra men laid off this section at the same time a large proportion of the present on strike prove that they had eggs?

Don't you glad you're not burning coal this Xmas? Santa would have to risk a slide down your chimney if you were.

I laughed in my sleep last night. A little mirth provoking frag- ment of my dream still abide with me.

It appeared to me that in the land of Nod, they were choosing a delegation to the Heavenly Alliance. Purgatory or something and several of Eden Grove were trying to get the job by giving reasons for sending them down.

"The time I spent a nickle foolishly" suggested John Seiler with pardonable pride.

"Mine was no time. I am still building a house" said Scudy Gallingly.

"Your alarm clock is too quiet. I'd like one that wouldn't" exclaimed T. R. Agent.

"I haven't sold my house yet" was Hansen's contribution.

"Get me a wife and I'll tackle anything" cheered Mike.

Finally they gave John Killen the job of ten days leave of absence with his mate.

The funds thus secured are to be given to a most worthy cause, the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto. We commend the industry of both Mr. J. T. Kidd and Mr. Jacob Schwalm and all- so by the pupils in this work.

The time of the falling of snow has come and the voice of the dying porker is heard in the land.

The season for skating is near now but no one has leased our rink so far. It is to be hoped some one will take it in hand so far.

The young mens' organized Bible Class of the Evangelical Church met last Monday evening at the home of Mr. Garfield Eickmeir. A good meeting was held and some fine singing was given. Mr. and Mrs. Eickmeir then served the boys with an appetizing lunch. These are monthly meetings and are a fine thing for the moral welfare of not alone the young men but the entire village.

Mr. Fred Buhlman who was working near Edmonton in Alberta came home last Sat. night and will spend a month or so of his home here.

No work has been done at the water tank near the fire hall for the past six days the cold wet weather being the cause.

Mr. Garfield Eickmeir is open for business as usual in his barber shop.

LIEUT. JACK McGARITY

Mr. and Mrs. P. McGarity of Brant have certainly reason to be proud of their son, Jack, whose commission as a lieutenant has recently been gazetted. Jack enlisted as a private, as did his gallant brother, Dan, who was killed in action early in the war, and besides winning promotion at the Front step by step Jack has been twice decorated for gallantry, winning the Military Medal with bar. Jack was in old London the day the Armistice was signed and he wrote home the following interesting letter:—

Dear Father and Mother,

Well I am back once more to my reserve unit in England and am quite pleased the way things are going. I passed my examination O. K., came second so that isn't too bad is it?

We had seven days leave and say I was in London on Monday 11th, Nov. and talk about a night, say the people nearly went mad. The doings were a sight worth seeing. Isn't it great that the war is practically over. I can hardly believe it and now I am longing to get home. I may have to go to France for a time but I am not sure. Anyway I won't have to dodge bullets this time. It is going to be a big job getting the men all home again. I hope I make it for Christmas. It surely will be a big day when all land in Canada. I would like to go back with the old 38th Battalion I am not sure if I will. I can hardly believe the war is over but we sure beat them to it. I hope those in authority get after those responsible for the war good and strong. I would like to deal with them and believe me they would suffer.

The training is still going on here but men are being sent home all the time I believe.

We have very good quarters here. This is Saturday evening and I am devoting my time to letter writing. I owe many and hope they won't get sore at me for not answering. I am in charge of the Roman Catholic parade to-morrow. I will write you about it later. How is Dad, I will be able to give him a hand in the spring I hope. By Jove it will be great to be home again.

I hope everybody is well. I will write soon again.

Best Love,
Jack McGarity.

value to our churches and he hoped that those who are interested in Educational things would give this more than a passing thought, and help to see that something definite is done. If democracy is to be made safe for the world, rabid partisanship must go, and there must be a readjustment of social conditions. Not only must we discourage the formation of an aristocracy in Canada but we banish the class distinction that exists between the laborers and the idle rich. We must educate people to the dignity of laboring with their hands as well as with their heads. There must be a readjustment of industrial conditions. The laborer is worthy of his hire and we must see that he gets it. The church must come out strongly for democracy. Democracy can be made safe for the world only by Democracy being made Christian, and democracy can be made Christian only by Christianity being made democratic.

From a church announcement in Minneapolis: "What punishment is adequate for the Kaiser? Singing by the quartette."

IN FLANDERS FIELDS

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses row on row
That mark our place, and in the sky
The larks still singing bravely fly.
Scarce heard amidst the guns below.

We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe.
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

AN OLD ILLUSION BOBS UP

(London Advertiser)

The controversy which broke out two years ago over the "disappearance" of Lord Kitchener is once more raging throughout the British Isles and threatens to become a minor issue of the election campaign. Although the government has made it very clear that Kitchener perished while on his way to Russia when the Hampshire went to the bottom, there is still an amazingly large number of his countrymen who believe the official report of the disaster was a dodge to blind the enemy while the great soldier put over some sensational military feat.

The most popular of these explanations is that as a spy he assumed the task of penetrating to the innermost war secrets of the Hun. Later he was heralded as leader of the great Russian drive against Austria, camouflaged as "General Brussilof." Even the grotesque suggestion that he was leading some of the armies to destruction as Kaiser's German commander disguised as a porters. Now ...et found its supand Kitch... that the war is over, these ...ncer has not turned up, ne... sincere romancers profess to ...ing something political in his non-appearance. "Where is Kitchener" may become a slogan of the ballot-battle which has just opened in the Old Country.

The Kitchener illusion illustrates an odd twist in the mental make-up of many. Once the victim has become possessed of an idea, however unreasonable and easily refuted it may be, he sticks to it, or rather it sticks to him. He will never be convinced by explanations that are at once accepted by the average man as absolute proof. Right here in Canada we have an instance of this. Hundreds of citizens still believe that a huge Russian army passed through Canada two years ago bound to the western front. It doesn't matter that the British government has officially stated the Russians were brought from Archangel by sea or that a high C.P.R. official has declared the system has not carried a solitary Russian soldier. Folk at Winnipeg, Port Arthur, Toronto and Montreal had seen miles and miles of troop trains carrying Russians hurrying through at readnight, and that was all there was to it. Some of these clean-cut, spruce Canucks, from the coast and the prairie will not feel flattered perhaps, when they ... mistaken for a lot of shaggy, lumbering Muscovites. Those who "saw" what they couldn't possibly have witnessed are quite sincere in their contention. They are not Munchausens or just plain, every day liars. They "know" they are right, and will believe so to the end of the chapter, even were proofs to the contrary piled heaven-high. They will carry the illusion into the next world and will smile knowingly when the celestial information bureau tells them they were wrong.

WAR SAVING AND THRIFT STAMPS AT POST OFFICE.

It is the intention of the Canadian Government to offer for sale on and after December 2nd, War Savings and Thrift Stamps.

By this means not only will the Canadian Government, it is hoped, secure moneys that can be profitably expended in the reconstruction period, but the war savings plan offers to the small investor an ... absolutely safe security at an ... absolutely interest, being or ... cellent rate of compounded ... er 4½ per cent., Savings S... emi-annually. A War the G... amp is a stamp for which or ...overnment will pay you $5.00 ... Jan. 1st., 1924, and will cost you between $4.00 and $4.11 during 1919 depending upon the month in which it is purchased. A thrift stamp is a stamp costing 25 cents to be applied in payment for a War-Savings stamp. It does not earn interest. The purpose of its issue is to enable people to accumulate in small sums the amount necessary to pay for a War-Savings stamp. If you want to begin to save on the War-Savings plan take $4.00 to the post office, buy a War Savings stamp and ask for a War Savings certificate. You will get fuller information on application.

TO CHECK CONTAGION.

"Do not cough or sneeze without a handkerchief before the face." Since the outbreak of influenza, how often have doctors, and others interested in public health, advised us of this, and yet how frequently is the warning disregarded?

The failure to obey this simple rule is probably responsible for the spread of much contagion. Take for example those in the early, unaffected stages of consumption — a single, unguarded cough may release millions of deadly tubercle bacilli; to be breathed in by others around.

Until recent years consumption was considered incurable, but we now know that it can be cured if taken in time. The Muskoka Free Hospital has proved this without a doubt, for thousands of its patients have been restored to health and lives of usefulness.

One ex-patient of that hospital writes as follows: "Just eight years ago this Christmas time I entered your Sanatorium. I was a very sad and discouraged girl that Christmas Eve, but I have been home over seven years, and I can hardly believe that I ever had T. B. I look back to the days I spent there, with great thanks to God and those faithful workers who understood our cases and needs, and ministered to us so faithfully."

To carry on this great work the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives is again appealing for help. There is much to do. Will you lend a hand?

Tara Farmer Lights His Buildings, Yards, and Uses "Juice Freely For Power

One of the most prosperous farmers of ...cesaive and Mr. Allan Donald ... this district is ...ead of Derby ... of the 6th., side Tara Leader ... Township, says the the hydro ... He recently installed what ... on his premises and on in... Tara the Reeve and Council of ...ara accompanied by Messrs. Wm. Collins, W. J. Taylor, Chas. Koehler, John Watson (jr.) and C. R. Van Buren motored to his farm last night to inspect the lighting system. On approaching Mr. Donald's premises the first thing that is noticeable is that the yards are brilliantly lighted. That Mr. Donald is an up-to-date farmer was quite apparent when one looked through his buildings as they are a model of cleanliness and convenience. The barns and stable are completely equipped with the hydro and in the stalls running water is provided for the stock. Mr. Donald informed us the cost of installing the hydro system was about $400.00 and he expected the cost to him for light would average about five dollars per month including service charge.

T...A ROOM'S GOOD WORK

...oung Ladies Raised Over Thirteen Hundred Dollars the Past Year To Meet the Expense of Sending Parcels To Our Boys in The Trenches.

The Walkerton Soldiers Overseas Auxiliary have met with great success during the year just ended. In the winter months the tea room was carried on as usual in a building given rent free by the owners, fuel, stoves, and light were kindly donated as before. The people of Walkerton and our friends in the country kept up our supplies every week. A lecture was kindly given by Lt. Col. Fraser and it proved both interesting and financially successful. The Garden Party had as an attractive feature a splendid parade showing the energy and genius of some of our patriotic citizens. About 250 parcels were sent during the year to boys of Walkerton and vicinity and letters received from them show how much these parcels were appreciated. Money was sent every month for our two prisoners of war, letters of sympathy were written to all whose sons had made the Supreme Sacrifice. One Honor Roll (the work of B. H. Farewell) was completed and placed in the public library and now that the war is over we hope to complete the other one in the coming year. The following officers were elected:—

President, F. Rowland, vice president, M. E. White, sec. treas. D. Benton, overseas sec. M. Robertson, D. McFarlane, and C. M. Wettlaufer, were added to executive, other members are R. Schwindt, G. Eckel, G. Oberle, F. Vogt, N. Rowland, F. Cosens, H. Farewell, E. Greig, and H. Whitehead.

JUROR FELL FROM TRAIN

Returning From Court At Walkerton Arran man Took Mysterious Tumble

Mystery surrounds the circumstances as to injury to Mr. Wilbert Simpson, of the 10th., Con. of Arran, who was returning home on the train Tuesday night from attending the Fall Assizes at Walkerton where he was one of the jurymen, says the Tara Leader. It is surmised that he went out on to the platform of the coach to see if the train were approaching Tara and as the train swung around the curve at Arrauvale he was thrown on the ground unconscious for over two hours as it was nearly one o'clock in the morning before he was able to walk to the home of Mr. Sam Harwood near the track to inform him of the accident and get assistance. He is suffering from injuries to his head and shoulder. It is hoped that he is not seriously injured. He was taken to his home yesterday afternoon.

The Boy Who Lies Out Yonder

These are the fathers and mothers who wept when the whistles blew,
Visioning over and visioning over, a little lad they knew;
Visioning over and over, and seeing once and again,
The little lad they had seen march off—a man—with men;
Broken of heart, undone, visioning now in their tears
An empty chair.....and the lonely, empty years.

What shall repay the services which nought on earth can repay?
How shall a nation render a thanks in its heart this day?
Whistle and horn and clamor, trumpet and shout and song—
But the boy who lies out yonder.....he will sleep long.
And the father and mother who lost him steal up to an empty place,
The mother with lips a-tremble, the man with his stony face
His room, she had kept it ready to welcome him back again.
Since the little lad they had cherished marched off—a man—with men
What shall requite their service, which nought on earth can requite?
Who shall appraise or name it who measures its worth aright?
Out from the noise and clamor, now while the siren blows,
What shall a nation whisper, knowing the debt it owes?
When the father and mother who lost him steal up to his room to weep
What word shall a nation send them to lighten the watch they keep?
For not in whistles or trumpets, and not in the tunes they play
Shall a broken heart of a mother find comfort and strength this day.
Not in the horns and trumpets—but e'en as the mourners kneel,
Thus shall a nation whisper "Now ye the pride we feel.
Ye who have paid your ransom, paid it in blood and tears,
Your sons have bought us freedom. Look! They have cleansed the years
And the thing they have bought us finer than palace of jewels and gold
The right of the weak to flourish as the strong have flourished of old,
Ye—ye have sown in your tears that a world may reap in joy.
Ye also have cleansed the years.....with the life of your boy."

These are the fathers and mothers who wept when the whistles blew,
Visioning over and visioning over a little lad they knew:
Visioning over and visioning over, and seeing once again
The little lad they had seen march off—a man—with men;
They have bought freedom....theirs are the holiest tears;
They and that sleeping boy, who have cleansed the years.

Should Let 'Em Grow

Mrs. Bridley was doing her marketing, and she was determind that the grocer should not take advantage of her youth and experience. "These eggs are dreadfully small," she criticized. "That's the kind the farmer brings me," answered the grocer. "They are just fresh from the country this morning." "Yes," said the bride, "and that's the trouble with those farmers. They are so anxious to get their eggs sold that they take them off the nest too soon."

Hydro At Pt. Elgin

Reports from reliable sources show that it is quite probable that the Hydro Electric commission will undertake large construction in Port Elgin by next Spring. For some time it has been known that Eugenia Falls is not sufficient to meet urgent requirements. Port Elgin plans were completed, but were held up on account of the war. Termination of hostilities has caused the Ontario government to turn its attention to the resumption of work which has been suspended, and the Hydro work will likely be pushed ahead. It is understood that two or three hundred men will be used to construct the work planned and that the job will take a couple of years—Port Elgin Times.

Compensation To Workmen

The total number of accidents reported to the Workmen's Compensation Board during the first three-quarters of 1918 was 16,602, as compared with 26,729 during the first three-quarters of 1917. This was an average of 156 accidents per day. The number for the first three-quarters of 1918 exceeded the total number reported during the whole of 1918 by 88. The fatal cases, however, showed a falling off, there being only 307 fatal cases during the first three-quarters of 1918 as against 382 fatal cases during the corresponding period of 1917. The total amount of compensation awarded under the provisions of the Act during the three-quarter year was $2,479,081.95, being an average of $16,-833.70 per day. The amount of compensation awarded during the first three quarters of 1917 was $2,284,811.-20.

PAPER CONTROLLER ABOUT TO "ORDER CUTTING OFF"

OF

UNPAID SUBSCRIPTIONS

At a public hearing in Ottawa the other day in connection with paper conservation, the Paper Controller for Canada intimated that regulations about to be issued would include one of the effects that:

> Publishers of newspapers must cease sending their newspapers to subscribers three months in arrears, unless subscriptions be definitely renewed, and all arrears fully paid.

The reason for this regulation of the Paper Controller is that it is the practice of some publishers to send their newspapers until ordered stopped. It is to prevent paper waste that the new regulation has been decided on.

The manufacture of paper consumes labor, wood, coal, chemicals and transportation facilities, and every ton of paper means just so much more labor, raw materials, chemicals, fuel and transportation available for urgent war needs. For these reasons the Government insists that paper shall be saved and proposes that only these who pay for their publications will receive them.

Under these regulations The Telescope will have no choice in the matter of dealing with subscriptions in arrears for more than three months.

We need The Telescope, and we want to continue sending it to you. So, if your subscription is in arrears, please pay up at once to prevent a discontinuance of your subscription.

YOU WILL !

Remember your friends at Christmas with some token of friendship and you cannot think of anything more suitable than your photograph which must come from YOU. They cannot buy

Miss Florence Cunningham spent a few days last week at Riverdale.

The principal of the Binscarth, Man., school carried on a correspondence course of study with his high school pupils while the school was closed on account of influenza.

It is estimated 25,000 persons anxious to go abroad remained in New York when three large Atlantic liners sailed, being unable to get accommodation on board the ships.

One of the first discharged men to reach home here was Herbert Erb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Erb of Culross, who arrived home last Thursday from London where he had been training since June.

Mr. Frank Secord, editor of the Meaford Express, and son-in-law of Mr. Reid. Pinkney of Maple Hill, won the recent suit brought against him for criminal libel, the suit being dismissed and the plaintiff having to bear the costs of the action.

Report Not True

Mr. Peter O'Connor of Preston, must have been surprised last week when he read an item in a local paper stating that he was the father of a new daughter. The only thing wrong about the item was that it was not true.

Transferred To Toronto

Mr. Wm. Lumsden, son-in-law of Mr. R. H. McKay, who has been in charge of the out door plant in the Kingston—Toronto district for the Bell Telephone Co. has been promoted to an important post at Toronto, which will necessitate Mr. and Mrs. Lumsden removing from Belleville to the city.

Use The Telescope advertising columns to tell your story. It's the best way. Make arrangements for special display space, if you have not done so already.

He Stopped Chautauqua

Miss Rita Irwin daughter of Mr. Wm. Irwin, publisher of the Durham Chronicle, returned last week from the West, where she was engaged in Chautauqua work. Owing to the prevalence of influenza the company had to give up after a couple of weeks work, and were sent to Swift Current where they spent five weeks waiting. The Company decided at last to abandon the work for the present. It may be taken up again next Spring but nothing definite is yet known.

Memorial For Our Soldiers

A Walkerton lady phoned the Telescope this week that she approved of the suggestion made in these columns last week to establish a soldiers' ward or endow the hospital as a memorial to the Walkerton boys who fell, and suggested further that if a down town monument be erected it take the form of a fountain on the armoury grounds which would add to the attractiveness of the Town's beauty spot. The Collingwood Bulletin last week suggested that a suitable memorial for that town would be to provide an endowment for the hospital, sufficient to ensure hospital attendance and service for returned men in years to come. This would stand as a reminder of those who died that others might go on enjoying the liberty of free men and at the same time bearing recognition of the services rendered by those who were privileged to take part in the struggle and return.

We still cannot believe in our hearts that the war is over. It has lasted so long that it is a habit of thought which we find difficult to throw off. Then how much harder will it be for the men who have been soldiers for so long that they forget all about a civilian life.

Mr. Cosens At Paisley

Paisley Methodist congregation made a big push against that huddle-out fee of church organization—lack of financial support—on the occasion of their anniversary on Sunday and Monday last, and latest reports indicate that the objective of $3500 offering will likely be attained. In point of spiritual and intellectual interest the anniversary was also a red letter occasion, as the people had the opportunity and privilege of again hearing a former pastor, Rev. C. W. Cosens, now of Walkerton, who during his pastorate of four years had won a warm place in the hearts of not only the denomination he ministered under, but also with the community in general. Mr. Cosens has lost none of his interesting individual style of preaching.—Paisley Advocate.

They Have Their Cross

A Canadian lady, who has lost her husband in the war, and who had sent her congratulations to one who had received the Victoria Cross, received the following in reply, a message to the bereaved so timely and helpful that one could wish that all sorrowing ones should see it:

A word of thanks for your congratulations. There are crosses and crosses—the Iron Cross of the Kaiser; the Victoria Cross that (by some fluke) is mine; but there is another and a greater, and those people at home have it who have lost husbands, fathers, and sons. I think Christ has conferred on them His Own Cross—the supreme distinction. And they have their Cross with little Crosses (my medals for them) their beloved are under Flanders mud—and all those sacrifices have only led down the ages of time, and will be in vain, for us, if we do not learn the lesson they have taught us. Those who have made the supreme sacrifice have only led down the Ages for their friends.

PATRIOTISM.

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead
Who never to himself hath said,
"This is my own, my native land."

Thousands upon thousands of men have met untimely deaths during the past four years; never has the love of home and country called for such a sacrifice. Patriotism does not begin nor end with war. We cannot all serve on the battlefield—but we can be as truly patriotic in looking after the welfare of our countrymen here at home.

There is an enemy in our midst—consumption. Lurking in unsuspected places, it seeks but a foothold to drag its victims down to death. Surely it is a true test of love of country to devote our energies and our means towards exterminating such a foe.

We have just learned of a family, once quite comfortable, now in the grip of poverty and suffering. The father contracted consumption; after a [illegible] illness that exhausted their [illegible] he died, leaving the mother and four little ones penniless —worse still, all the children have contracted the same disease. Home From Overseas

Pte. Bob Turner, a Walkerton boy who went over with the 34th Batt'n in 1915, arrived home Tuesday night. Bob saw a lot of service in France but, latterly was recuperating in England. He is with his Aunt, Miss Margaret Baird, East Ward, with whom he made his home before enlisting.

Reported Improving

Mrs. H. Heffernan had word from Toronto on Saturday that her son, Sergeant Harry Heffernan, who underwent a second operation at the Hospital at Davisville last week was doing nicely. On the first occasion a rib was removed from his side and grafted on the injured arm but was successful. This time a portion of his skin bone was grafted on.

In the horse class several specials are offered in addition to the regular premiums. These include a special for the best heavy horse any age to be shown on the halter, $5; best light horse any age, to be shown on the halter, $5; Potato Race (Saddle horse) $5, $3, and $2. Jack Clancy Home.

Sergt. Jack Clancy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clancy, Cargill, was one of four 160th Batt'n men who arrived home from Overseas yesterday noon. Jack went to France with a Railway battalion soon after the Bruce Batt'n arrived in England in 1916 and put in a lot of hard service at the Front. He is tickled pink to get home and is receiving a hearty welcome from his many old friends. Jack says he can't get back into civies too soon, if its only overalls.

Another Bruce man the team, Chas McKenzie of Underwood took third.

Mr. Wehengel expects to receive it on [illegible] that the [illegible] from England first.

"I was never exactly buried alive," said an old clerk, recounting his experiences, "but I once worked in a store that didn't advertise. When I came out my head was almost as white as you now see it. Solitary confinement did it."

Struck Luck on Island

Jos. Cope was on the Manitoulin Island recently selling scales and had phenomenal luck. He and his two colleagues sold eighty on the trip and 210 during the summer. The U. F. O. who elected the Memonite preacher to the Legislature, picked up those scales like the boys take to Coney Island red-hots at Toronto Fair. The three agents had four legs amongst them, and as Joe's walking outfit was of flesh, blood and muscle, it will be seen that the others were half a man and half a tree. Joe was fed on the best to be found on the Island that was once Bob Gamey's stamping ground, and all he paid was 50c per meal. There is a stylish little hotel at Little Current where the charges are $4.50 per day, but there were no scales on Joe's eyes and he eschewed the swell hotel where the grub was only average, the linen spotless, and the chinaware and silverware of the richest quality, with a history that dates far back as the Hohenzollerns.

RESULTS OF INFLUENZA.

Medical authorities have stated, "There is no knowing how far-reaching the results of the influenza epidemic will be."

From the nature of the malady it is feared many cases of tuberculosis will develop. If you have not fully recovered from the "flu," or you are run down in health from some other cause, seek a doctor at once. Consumption may have developed, but even that may be cured if taken in time. A case in point has recently been brought to our attention—a farm laborer with a wife and five small children. He had not been feeling right for some months, not sick enough to go to bed, or stay indoors, but always tired. His daily work on the farm had become a task to him. So of his own accord he went to the Muskoka Free Hospital, to try and find out what was the matter. He was found to be suffering from tuberculosis, and was immediately taken in and put to bed. The doctors say this man is making a good recovery, and that he will shortly be able to return home.

The Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives is now appealing for aid in fighting the Great White Plague. The money you give will help restore to health just such deserving cases as this, bringing happiness untold to reunited families.

Contributions may be sent to Sir William J. Gage, 84 Spadina avenue, Toronto, or to Geo. A. Reid Secretary-Treasurer, Gage Institute 223 College street, Toronto.

PIONEER COUPLE TAKEN

Mr. and Mrs. Robert White, of Culross, Called Away Unexpectedly Within Two Days Of Each Other, And Were Laid Side By Side In Greenock Cemetery At Double Funeral Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert White, a highly esteemed couple, of Culross, passed away within forty-eight hours of each other last week and were buried at the same time, being laid away side by side in the Greenock Cemetery. Mr. White succumbed suddenly to heart failure on Wednesday afternoon of last week in his 78th. year. He had been about his work as usual a few hours before but not feeling well he laid down. When an enquiry from his son, John, as to how he was feeling brought no response, the shocking discovery was made that the spark of life had fled. His beloved partner in life, who had been in poor health since sustaining a slight stroke two years ago took another stroke the day following her husband's death, due no doubt to the shock of his sudden demise and passed away on Friday. The funeral which had been previously arranged for Friday, was then delayed another day, and a double funeral held on Saturday. While the shock of the double loss is a sad blow to the bereaved son and daughter-in-law, there was something beautiful about this fine old couple being called away at the same time after a life happily spent together. Their memory will be revered by all.

The late Mr. White was born in County Down, Ireland, and came to this country as a boy with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. White. At first they settled at Halton Coun-

FIRST BOYS TO ANSWER COUNTRY'S CALL

WALKERTON LADS WHO ENLISTED IN AUGUST, 1914.

Back Row:—Jos. Reichenbach, Walter Pitt, Jack Anderson, Austin Gransden, J. Jerome, Tom Reinhardt. Front Row:—Art Curtis, Herb Hehn, Walter Eliff, Charles Sutton.

The above picture is from a snapshot taken on the Armoury Lawn in August, 1914, when Walkerton's first Contingent for Overseas were lined up ready to proceed to Valcartier Camp. Only four boys in the group (Sutton, Jerome, Gransden and Pitt) were accepted at Valcartier and it is a remarkable thing that all four boys have survived the terrors of four years warfare. One of the four, Chas. Sutton, has never even been wounded. All the others in the group except Arthur Curtis were later accepted for service. Not a single one of these boys, who were the first to volunteer and have seen years of hard fighting was killed in action. We are endebted to Mr. T. Boss for the above photo.

Candidates Look Scarce

We understand that all the present Town Council is dropping out at New Years except Reeve Douglas who says he will stay if the people want him. Alex McNab is the only Mayoralty probability we have heard mentioned. Ex-Coun. Sandy McCarter announces that he is in the ring. Ever since Sandy's two boys, Reg and Milt left for Overseas he has said he wanted to be in the Town Council the year the Walkerton boys come home.

"A Man's Job" Ahead

Good men are needed in the Town Council more than ever this coming year. So many matters have been shelved until "after the war" that men of ability and initiative will be required to handle the Town's business during the year's immediately following peace. The taking over of the Power Plant, the building of permanent roadways, and sewers are matters that will have to be dealt with. The Town's most capable men should be on the job. During the past year the Council's job has been to "sit tight" and keep the lid on the financial chest. They were unable to initiate anything and at the same time practise war time economy. We believe they have given the town pretty good service and trust that there will not be the wholesale dropping out that is threatened. In the meantime it is up to our citizens to select some good men for vacancies at the next Council and get them to stand for election.

OUR HEALTHY TOWN

Practically No Infectious Diseases In 1918, Is the Report of M.H.O., Dr. Porter—No Street Lighting By-law Will Be Submitted—Council Adjusts Scavenger Rates With Dissatisfied Citizens.

The Town Council held its regular monthly meeting on Monday night.

Present, Mayor Johnston, Reeve Douglas, Couns., George, Pletsch, Vogan, Lippert.

Jos. Yarch was paid $2 for his services as Sec.-treas. Fire Brigade for 1918, Simon Herrgott $3 as steward.

Fire Chief McCartney asked that Fred Fry be appointed fireman in place of John McIntee resigned.

Chief McCartney said that at present the Firemen were greatly handicapped in getting the reels to a fire. As the town owned its own team the other teamsters naturally held back, and there was no regular town teamster to get the team out. The Council gave the Chief authority to name one of his men to be responsible for getting the team out in case of fire. The Chief appointed Anthony Wingefelder.

No Electric Light By-Law

Reeve Douglas asked whether the Clerk had got ready a by-law to submit to the ratepayers making a contract with the local company for street-lighting.

Town Clerk Collins replied that he had not done so, as the company had not demanded a contract.

Mayor Johnston asked why the town should worry if the Company was satisfied. They were providing street lighting at the old price without any contract.

Reeve Douglas—They might raise the price. They might shut them off.

Mayor Johnston—Let them do so if they wish.

Grant For Christmas Fair

President Robt. Goode and Secretary D. McKerracher appeared before the Council asking for the usual grant of $50 for the Christmas Fair. Mr. McKerracher said the public were subscribing more than ever this year and the prize list had been increased. Their request was granted.

John McKinnon, Chas. Huck, Thos. Jenkins and Lou Anderson were paid $3 each for acting as special constables on Armistice Celebration Day.

Collects For Boxes Taken

Albert Benninger, boot and shoe merchant, billed the Council for $12 for 40 packing cases taken from his shed to make a bonfire on Nov. 4th.—Paid.

Mrs. Geo. Inglis, whose house was burned last summer asked for three months' rebate of water rates—Granted.

Mr. David Robertson asked for rebate of taxes on Soldiers Aid Tea Rooms which he and the other owners had been giving rent free—Not Granted.

Town Scavenger Quits

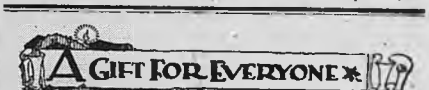
George Siegfrid sent in his resignation as town scavenger. The Council considered this not necessary as his term has expired.

Louis Severson asked for three months' rebate of water rates.—Granted.

Chief Ferguson reported he had turned in $19.43 Court fees to the Town Treasurer for the month of November.

Money For Road-work

Town Treasurer Collins reported the receipt of $712 from the County Treas. as a grant from the County Council towards road work.



Work Was Not Satisfactory

The Special Committee composed of Mayor Johnston, Reeve Douglas, and Coun. Lippert, which was appointed to investigate complaints re the Town Scavenger reported that they had called a meeting on the 29th. ult., when ratepayers had been invited to bring in their complaints. They found that the work had been done in a most unsatisfactory manner. The Committee recommended that the Scavenger tax be adjusted by charging citizens where the scavenger had only called once $1, where he had called two or three times $1.25, four times $1.50 and more than four times the full fee of $2.50. All citizens who refused to allow the scavenger to enter their premises $2.50. The report was adopted.

The Scavenger was allowed $537 for his year's work, instead of the full amount $685.

Reeve Douglas complained that Town plumbers were making indis-

SAYS FARMERS ARE WAITERS AND JANITORS IN A COW HOTEL

"Life is Just One Hunch of Chores After Another" Says Old Man Wrinkle—"The More Acres Yuh Got, the More Feedlies Yuh Have to Feed and Less Time Yuh Have Yourself."

In these days when city folks are prone to say many unkind things of the farmers because of the high prices of everything eatable, it is rather refreshing to hear something from the farmer's viewpoint, which is as full of fun as it is of facts. It was written by Malcolm McDonald and is reprinted from the Canadian Countryman—Old Man Wrinkles is talking:

"This country's no darn good," he said. "The pioneers logged up all the enjoyment, and burned it. They cleared the country of timber and a good time. Some feller said they built a land of homes where toil could make us free. He lied like blazes; what he got is a penitentiary grounds of big stock barns where toil had made us slaves to a lot of cows. The people are just cow-lackeys to the millionaires.

"We've gone plumb to the bad. This place where we are now was a nice swamp when I was a boy. You could wade out there where that golden-rod sticks up, and in the winter you could trap minks and coons. Now look at it; just like an asylum grounds, with fences penning everything off every few feet. It's like a fair ground when there ain't no fair goan on. If a man has a tree, he puts a fence around it, and calls it a wood-lot. When you take a huntin' trip, you walk around that tree and sic your dog on the crickets. When you go fishin, you buy one of them corustalk-things with a spool on it, and sit beside a puddle in the head of the crick, watchun a carp that got strayed away. No fish went come up the crick. The ground is so full of tile that the rain starts for the lake the minit it falls, and drives the fish back home.

"My first farmun outfit cost me thirty dollars. I farmed forty acres and you bet I had a good time. I could shear a sheep, get the wool carded up and make it all into sox and things with less labor than it takes now to earn the money to buy the shoddy, make-believe stuff, we get. I cut my wheat with a cradle that cost me a dollar and a half and raked it up with a rake that cost a few cents. What wasted on the ground went to the hogs and then I butchered the hogs. Juthink I lived on pork rinds and embalmed cold shoulder—posteur-ed?

"How many days a year did it take me to grow my livun? Did I go fishun when I felt like it? I guess I did; and I just guess I could take my old cradle and harrah and plow and go it f'r a good time right now.

"People started off to make money. That's where the goblins and Jabberwrocks got 'em. As long as we lived the simple life and were contented with a good livun, we were all right. We aren't working for our daily bread no more; that's easy. didn't have to grow a million acres of wheat and so I didn't need no binder. Everybody's raeun to see who'll get the most money. That's why they want binders and three-thousand-dollar outfits a to farm with.

"Everybody can run in a race, but everybody can't win. In theory, everybody can be president or prime minister; but in practice there's only one. There's some winners, but there's a lot more also rans.

"Ontario used to be a lovely place to make a livun in. Stuff was so cheap that you had to eat it to get rid of it; people not fed up on everything that was worth while and despised it. Butter at ten cents a pound was hardly worth eatun. They wanted money, so they borrah-ed it. When we started that stuff about developun the resources of the country, everything went to the bad. We peddled the bush and everything for a chanst to get a jackpot, and now there's no place to hunt and people take to breedun cricket-hounds to have a bit of sport. I'd rather have the resources right here where I could lay my hands on them. I'm a great hand for resources. Stock exchanges and banks forty stories high aint never goan to satisfy a man with an appetite f'r the real things.

"Put people wanted the money. We had to get the country opened up. We had to build a lot of international continentals and intercontinental suppercolonials and soo-pee-arms and gee-tee-arrs, and we had to go to Europe and borrah the cash to do it. Then we went and spent a butter. Now a lot of people are payun for oleomargarine.

"Railroads are no good to a man who jist wants to make his livun. They're f'r the man who wants to get rich. And why doos a man want to get rich? Jist so he won't have to make his own livun. And if he don't make his own livun, who makes it f'r him?

"All the papers are bawling every time a cargo of cities is shipped over from England. They're afraid knight-hood 'll flower out again. The only aristocracy there is, or ever will be, is the feller who's got you so you have to make his livun f'r him. We have it right here, whether it comes out in blow or not, and every tomdickandhurry is huslin for a piece in it. The papers is jist chokun on the tail. We let a man sit there holdun stock all his life, and we hustle around twenty-five hours a day to make cheese and butter f'r him, and gather eggs and grow broilers f'r him, and feed a man to go and fetch him his hat; then we kick at calling him 'sur.'

"There's where we are at. We get up at three o'clock so we can grow milk f'r these fellers that developed the resources of the country and borrahed the cash—and keep it. There's also fillers to the right of us and silo fillers to the left of us, all rushing to feed more cows to get more milk to make more money to buy more binders to grow more corn to fill more silos; it's an endless circle with a stockholder aristocracy in the centre.

"There's my Pete; he hardly takes lot of money tellun lies to the Pollocks to get them to come in and settle and boost the price of land and time to wash his hands; and Marthy's so stingy she'll hardly let him have clean water to do it with. She hasn't opened her pevannah f'r ever so long. Jist rush. I told her t'other day to put it in mournun.

"The papers coun; there's three dailies, all with the same stuff in, and it's all mostly about the war; that and baseball; not the kind we used to play, but the baseball with money in it. They jist nibble the news and rush f'r 'Say Farmers are Just Waiters'—Two waiters, the ushers, proprietors and the stables. Milk; milk; milk; they come rushing in, all sweaty and plastered and got to bed jist in time to get up in the mornun.

"Hello Bill, George,—cow time.' And away it goes again. 'Coboss, coboss, coboss, coboss; here Coly, Coly, Coly; hey, hey, hey;' and the sun gets up to see what the darn-fools are makun such a row about.

"The cows have a fair time; and the hens and pigs. Pete and Marthy and George and Bill—they're the waiters, the ushers, proprietors and janitors of a cow hotel—a summer resort for pigs and hens.

"Life is jist one darn bunch of chores after another. On they rush—forever; the sundmen, the hailtics, a moonstruck mob crazier than all out-doors. Rush, rush, rush.—to sow, to plant, to reap and pulverize nice things f'r the cow; fill silo; engines snortun, f'r heaven, f'r hell; jist poor overworked lackeys f'r someone else's cows.

"Some day they'll die and leave the kids their glorious heritage of waltun on them cows. The neighbors 'll take 'em off and plant 'em in a nice pruned graveyard in a sandhill and then rush home to the milkun. The cow'll bawl a dead march, and the hens 'll cackle an elegy; and then Marthy and Pete'l be plumb forgot, lyun there in their nice pruned cemetery in the sandhill, and their heirs 'll holler 'Coboss, coboss, coboss, coboss, hey, hey, hey hey.

"A deed for a hundred acres is jist a privilege of grown a livun f'r six or eight families of darn do nothings. The more acres yuh got, the more families yuh have to feed and the less time you have for yourself. A teal big farm is a school f'r a lot of half-baked hired men. When you aren't waltun off the cows yuh have to wait on the hired man."

MEMORIAL SUGGESTED

Rev. W. H. Burgess, B.A., B.D., Points Out How Supreme Value of Religious Education Is Coming To Be Universally Recognized and Suggests That The Vacant Public School Building Be Utilized As Community School of Religious Education.

The War has opened people's eyes regarding education. It is now seen that education without religion is worse than useless. Rev. Mr. Burgess, in connection with his National Thanksgiving Service told his congregation something about what a few communities across the Line are attempting in religious education and incidentally suggested a way which Walkerton might fittingly honor the memory of her lads who have fallen. To make democracy safe for the world, said Mr. Burgess, we must educate our youth in morals, religion, and politics. Because of petty denominational jealousies the Bible, the greatest text book of religion and morals, has been kept out of the public schools. At present twenty-five hours a week are given to what we call secular education, and less than one hour a week to religious education. In the small city of Malden in the Eastern States the several churches have united, and co-operated with the Board of Education to found and carry on the Malden School of Religious Education. All the children in the public and high schools are released a certain number of hours each day to attend this school. All the children of the community are getting a definite efficient education in religion and morals. The experiment has proved a great success and will no doubt soon be duplicated in many other places.

"Since coming to Walkerton," said Mr. Burgess, "when passing the empty public school, I have often thought what a splendid thing it would be if we could duplicate the Malden School of Religious Education here. And we could do it if we would and lead Canada in this work." Nothing would be of greater value to our churches, and what is more important, nothing would be of greater value to our young people than that they should be trained morally and religiously in this way. One expert Christian teacher would be enough to start with. He hoped some of his hearers who are interested in Educational things would give this more than a passing thought, and help to see that something definite is done.

REV. PROFESSOR LAIRD

Challenges Knox Congregation To Rise To The Opportunities For Service—One of the Finest Sermons Ever Heard In the Church

Knox Congregation heard inspiring messages on Sunday from one of the Church's greatest leaders, Rev. Dr. Laird, who is secretary of the Financial Board for Canada and Chairman of the Forward Movement Committee of Fifty. Dr. Laird presented the situation, which confronts the Church in Canada to-day pointing out the great opportunity and responsibility that lies before the Church. At the morning service, in answering the question, "are missions worth while?", he told how comparatively few years ago the people of the Fiji Islands were cannibals. In the great war they sent a contingent to help the Allies. It was wiped out. They sent a second. It was wiped out. A third, and a fourth. India maintained her loyalty and contributed a million men. Those in a position to know gave the missions the credit. He illustrated the need for workers by referring to the fact that in the island of Formosa, one Medical missionary had to serve 112,000 and when he was taken away, the door of the hospital had to be locked. The first Canadian student to offer his life service to minister to the Ruthenians in our Canadian West, had recently died of the Flu at Winnipeg. He challenged his hearers to rise to their opportunities. Knox congregation is engaged in the Every Person Canvass this week. The objective for Missions has been increased to $2310.

Very Much Alive

An item went the rounds of the district press a couple of weeks ago that Dr. Brown, the well-known specialist, of Neustadt, had died while on a visit to his son in the West. The Telescope published the report but now learns it was "very much exaggerated", the doctor now being on his way back East in halo and hearty condition. We feel sure when the Doctor reads the nice obituaries published in the local papers he will cherish a kindly feeling towards the men of the press the rest of his natural days.

BRANT TP. PIONEER

Late Uriah Curtis Was One of the Grand Old Men of the Township

One of the first pioneers of Brant and a man whose life was so splendidly lived that it entitled him to be called "one of the grand old men" of the district, has gone the way of all flesh in the person of Mr. Uriah Curtis. A man of genial and kindly disposition and a man of deep religious convictions but of very tolerant views, he may be called the founder of the Methodist church in this section and the names of Uriah Curtis, and Rev. John Garner, recently deceased, will go down in local history as two of the brightest lights in Methodism of this district. He had attained the remarkable age of 91 years and 7 months, death taking place at the old homestead in Brant now conducted by his son, Robert, on Nov. 27th. He had only been ill a day or two before the end came, death being due to a general break down due to advanced age.

The late Mr. Curtis was born in Wiltshire, England, on April 8, 1825 and emigrated to Canada with his brother, Samuel, when a boy of 15 years. They took up residence in Peterborough. In 1843 he married Miss Agnes Patterson, who proved a fitting helpmate for a man of Mr. Curtis' trait of character. She was one of the most hospitable, capable and kind-hearted women of the district and with characteristic power adaptability, she "lent a hand" in times of sickness and distress, in fact the late Mrs. Curtis was one of the "mothers" of the early pioneer days in this vicinity. She passed away 18 years ago. After their marriage they spent a few years in Toronto, Rochester and Cayuga and came up to Brant township in 1854 and settled on lot 34, con. 6 then known as "Queen's bush," which has been the family homestead ever since. Their marriage was blessed with eleven children, two, Mrs. McNaughton of Chesley and Mrs. Somers of Dayton, Ohio, being deceased. Those living are Mrs. Ingals of Vancouver, B.C., Mrs. Christie of Sullivan, Mrs. Pfaff of Paisley, Samuel of Chesley, Mrs. Welch of Detroit, Robert of Brant, Joseph of Revelstoke, B.C., and Mrs. Schroeder of Southampton.

Shortly after the young couple took up their residence in Brant, Mr. Curtis, donated a half acre on the corner of his lot to the Methodist church, and all the people of various denominations worshipped there for many years. Mr. Curtis preached himself and also acted as superintendent of the Sunday School for many years. Rev. J. H. Watts and Rev. Mr. Moffat were among the itinerant preachers who conducted services in the church founded by Mr. Curtis.

ANOTHER POEM BY COL. McCRAE

Before the war, Col. McCrae was unknown as a poet. Now his memory is revered wherever the English language is read. His poem, "In Flanders Fields" is generally well known, but many of our readers have not read the other, "The Anxious Dead". It is appended:

THE ANXIOUS DEAD

O guns, fall silent till the dead men hear
Above their heads the legions pressing on!
(These fought their fight in time of bitter fear
And died, not knowing how the day had gone.)
O flashing muzzles pause and let them see
The coming dawn that streaks the sky afar!
Then let your mighty chorus witness be
To them, and Caesar, that we still make war.
Tell them, O guns, that we have heard their call:
That we have sworn and will not turn aside:
That we press onward till we win or fall:
That we will keep faith for which they died.
Bid them be patient, and some day soon,
That shall fell earth unwrapt in all-once sleep—
Shall greet in wonderment the quiet dawn,
And in content may turn them to their sleep.

Died In The West

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kelly received the sad intelligence by wire on Tuesday of last week that their eldest daughter, Mrs. (Ellen) Louis Hogan of Kindersley, Sask., had died of influenza the previous day. Mrs. Hogan who was in her twenty-eighth year was born at Chepstow and had been six years married. Three small children, including a baby girl two weeks old are left motherless by her sad demise. The funeral took place at Kindersley on Dec. 4th.

The Girl and the Tambourine

by Martha Gaiser

IT WAS the Saturday before Christmas. The winter's day was fast disappearing as Tom Danvers and John Harding stepped out of the club and joined the moving holiday crowd. For an hour they had watched it through the window as they smoked and talked, and Tom, while he had been much amused at John's cynical comment, had taken it all as a joke, for John was never pessimistic. Now, as they walked down the crowded thoroughfare conversation was difficult, and John was unusually silent. Recalling bits of phrases in their recent conversation, it suddenly occurred to Tom that there had been no unaccustomed tone, even a note of bitterness, underlying the smile and lightly spoken words of his oldest and best friend, whom he felt he knew as he did himself. At the thought he looked sharply and piercingly at him, but the strong, resolute profile bore no trace of the cynicism of the last hour, much less evidence of its cause. It was just imagination, Tom concluded.

As they stood waiting for a cross-town car an observant and clever beggar approached. Tom answered the appeal with a coin.

"Not from me," said John, in a disapproving tone.

"Oh, well, it's Christmas time," said Tom.

"Yes, that's just it, and he knows it and makes capital of it. It is sympathetic or sentimental charity, and I don't approve of it."

"Upon my word, Tom, you are funny this afternoon. What is the matter with you? First you condemn women, then you denounce this happy holiday crowd as a 'passing show,' and now this poor beggar. It's well you are going to be with me for a while; you need the home influence, and—by Jove! you need a wife! That is the antidote for you, old fellow," he concluded, emphasizing his conviction with a slap on the back.

"It's Christmas, You Know."

"No, thank you," was the laughing reply as they stepped aboard the car.

It was well filled. Across from the friends sat two good-looking women, evidently mother and daughter. Next to the younger woman sat a sweet-faced Salvation Army girl, with her tambourine in her lap. Her plain dark blue dress was in marked contrast to the fashionable suit and beautiful furs of the ladies beside her. Suddenly the younger of the two turned and spoke to her. She smilingly responded and shook her head, but as the other continued to urge a wistful look came into the Army girl's face as she glanced about the car.

"No, no," they heard her say; "the conductor would not allow me. The rules are very strict," she added in explanation. For a moment or so there was silence, and over the faces of both showed disappointment.

Then suddenly the younger woman, with the color suffusing her lovely face, caught up the tambourine and, depositing a coin in it, started down the car, ignoring the shocked and expostulating "Nancy!" and the detaining hand of her astonished companion. Passing from passenger to passenger, she extended the tambourine, always with a little smile and "It's Christmas, you know," or some little word, until each one felt it a privilege to contribute something. As she turned by the door the conductor stepped forward with, "Please, miss, I want to add something to that, too."

Flushing, she exclaimed, "Oh! thank you so much."

She passed on to her seat and returned to its owner the tambourine, that never before had received contributions so promptly and cheerfully bestowed.

John Harding's hand had gone at once into his pocket when he realized what the girl was doing, and now he was watching her with an almost awe-struck interest—her lovely, sympathetic face, as she talked earnestly to the little worker, in fine, apparently unconscious that her sudden impulse had first astounded and then knit together in kindly sympathy an entire car of strangers.

"By Jove! that was a great thing to do," said Tom enthusiastically, when the tension of an absorbing interest had subsided a little.

"Yes, I never saw its equal," replied John. After a moment's hesitation he added: "I should like to know that girl. Do you suppose we could find out who she is?"

"We can try," his friend replied; "but why do you want to know?"

"Well, I do," John answered curtly. Tom glanced quizzically at him and smiled to himself. This was another phase of John he was just getting acquainted with. When the car reached the railway station where John and Tom were going to take a train for Tom's suburban home, the two women also left the car. They went straight to the ticket window. Tom took out his commutation book and passed it to John.

"You follow them and I will join you," he whispered, the spirit of mischief at an adventure now possessing him. Having bought their tickets, the women turned from the window and hurried to the train. There in the same car Tom found them all.

"Well, if this isn't luck," he exclaimed, as soon as he was seated. And then, with the air of a boy bursting with news, he said: "They are going to D——."

"Yes, I know it," Harding replied. But as he vouched no information and did not seem inclined to talk, Tom took refuge in his paper and promptly forgot the whole affair, until he was abruptly called back by:

"Tom, I cannot tell you when a thing so impressed me as that did"—as if there could be but one "that."

"That?" asked Tom, a little puzzled. Then, "Oh, I thought you did not believe in that kind of charity—sympathetic and sentimental, I think you called it," he teasingly reminded him, remembering the crisp bill John had dropped in the tambourine.

"Oh, that is altogether different," John answered, half defiantly.

"Yes, different because a pretty girl made this appeal, an old man the other," laughed Tom. "But, tell me, how do you adjust your acts to theories?"

"Oh, theories, the dickens! What are they ever compared to acts? And that act this afternoon was a spontaneous expression of the true Christmas spirit, from which springs the desire to help, to bring some joy to a lot of poor unfortunates, because 'It's Christmas, you know,'" he quoted softly. "It was the real thing, and everybody in the car felt it."

And having, as it were, justified his position and interest, he looked across at the unconscious subject of their remarks. Truly she was good to look at, though at present all he could see was the well-cut profile and the glorious copperish-brown hair turning to dull gold where the western sun struck it, and eyes, that with her mood, he knew, varied from hazel to brown. A veritable gem of a girl, he thought, as she began adjusting her furs. With an intuitive feeling of understanding her, he turned to Tom.

"Don't mention the affair to anyone, not even Mary, for it would not please her. I am sure," he added, as the train pulled up at D——.

The station was small and John had just finished greeting Mrs. Danvers, when Billy Grant's deep voice broke in: "Hello, Harding; glad to see you," as they shook hands.

Grant, an old friend of both Harding and Danvers, also lived in D——.

"Now, I want you to meet our friends, for its cold and I want to get home."

While Tom and John were bowing in acknowledgment to "Mrs. North and Miss North," their host chatted on about its being "too bad they couldn't have met at the other end of the line, as long as they happened to be on the same train."

Nancy North threw a quick glance at Harding, but otherwise no outward sign was given, as he walked with her to the car, that they had ever seen one another before or that the same thought was in the minds of both, but John was so strangely elated that Miss North's color deepened each time she looked up and met his smiling eyes.

"Now, don't you fellows keep our bridge waiting tonight," called Grant, as he gave the signal to start.

"I'll guarantee our arrival on time, Grant," answered John, well satisfied with the arrangement, whether it was chance or fate, for somewhere within him something was thrillingly alert, tantalizingly expectant, confidently hopeful and the feeling of the afternoon that had expressed itself in cynicism and manifested itself in loneliness was gone.

At the wedding reception of John Harding and Nancy North, six months later, many of the guests were curious as to the presence in the gay assemblage of guests of a sweet-faced little woman in the dress of the Salvation Army, who was the recipient of much attention from the bride and groom, and was quite a center of attraction as she related again and again the remarkable story of that December afternoon, after which all looked with greater interest and understood why in the array of handsome and costly wedding gifts an old and battered tambourine occupied the place of honor.

Lost.

She stood beneath the mistletoe
And she was fair to see.
My wife was in the room, and so
Your chance was lost, you see.

AGED RESIDENT CALLED

Mrs. Bottenhorn Who Passed Away In Her Eight-Sixth Year Was A Remarkable Woman

The death occurred on Monday afternoon, December 9th., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Julia Ball, Victoria St., of Mrs. Mary Bottenhorn, aged 86 years, 4 months and 15 days. Mrs. Bottenhorn had been poorly about a week before her demise, due to old age. She was remarkably active for one of her years. She took lively interest in all that was going on about her, and ever since the beginning of the war her knitting needles were never idle. She was a woman of lovely character, kind, patient and neighborly and always took pleasure in making those about her happy. Mrs. Bottenhorn was born at Redford, Jefferson County, New York State, and came to Hanover when it was only a small settlement. Her late husband was a boot & shoe merchant, conducting business in our neighboring town for many years. For the last seven years she had made her home with her daughter Mrs Ball. One son and three daughters survive. They are: Henry Bottenhorn of Saskatoon; Mrs. Ball and Mrs. James Raeburn of Walkerton; Mrs. Luesing of Patoose, Washington, U.S. On the same day as Mrs. Bottenhorn's death, a beloved grand-daughter, Miss Edna Luesing, was also called away. Miss Luesing, who was a talented and attractive young lady of twenty-three years, was attending college at Spokane, Wash., and was a victim of the Flu. Mrs. Bottenhorn's funeral took place from her daughter's home yesterday afternoon to Walkerton Cemetery. Rev. G. C. Rock, pastor of Walkerton Baptist Church conducting the service.

Contest Ahead in Greenock

Reeve Denis Phelan, who has been frequently dubbed the uncrowned king of Greenock, is to have opposition for the Reeve's chair again this year. His former opponent, Michael McNab, of Chepstow, is understood to be in the field again. Phelan has been Reeve about ten years and this will be McNab's third attempt to put him out

Chief's Niece Dead

Chief Ferguson had word on Monday that Miss Grace Ferguson the daughter of his only brother who is a farmer near Wingham had died of the Flu. Miss Ferguson, who had been head nurse of the Niagara Falls Hospital for four years, came home to nurse her mother who was ill with the flu, contracted the disease and died.

Reid—Birkholtz

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Manse, Walkerton, yesterday afternoon, Dec. 11th., when Miss Emma Birkholtz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Birkholtz of Chesley, was united in marriage to Mr. William J. P. Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Reid of Pinkerton. The happy couple will reside on the groom's farm in Greenock.

May Be Election In Brant

There will be no election in Brant this year unless Reeve Willoughby fails to carry out his pledge made to the electors last year that he asked for the reservation only for one term. But as Mr. Willoughby is now reported to be making longing eyes at a second term, there is the prospect of a contest. If Mr. Willoughby retires he will be succeeded by Deputy-Reeve Rowand who has sat for a number of years in the Council, the last two as Deputy Reeve. The ratepayers showed their confidence in Mr. Rowand at the last vote two years ago by giving him a tremendous majority. In case Reeve Willoughby forces an election Ex-Deputy Reeve Archie Weir might possibly try the present Reeve another heat. Councillor Walter Findley will, we understand, be a candidate for the Deputy Reeve's Chair when Mr. Rowand steps up higher.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Ball wishes to thank her many neighbors and friends for much kindness shown, during her bereavement.

High School Notes

The Cadet Corps is now thoroughly organized. The senior officers were appointed a couple of weeks ago, and, on Monday, the remaining offices for four sergeants were also filled up. The sergeants are,—Cecil Wilton, H. S. McCool, S. Reichenbach, and C. McNab, in charge of sections one, two, three, and four respectively. One section is better than the others. Connundrum,—which and why.

The students will be pleased to observe the smiling countenance of William Ramsey once more in their midst. William has been spending some enforced holidays owing to an accident to his arm at the Bobbin Factory.

It is very difficult to account for the number of snowballs coming in the direction of the High School students who have to go through the Public School grounds. It is rather annoying to suddenly find a large amount of snow pressing tightly against one's eye and the pupils are righteously wrathful when anything occurs. Reprisals are made sometimes to the discomfiture of the enemy and on the whole, there are very strained relations between the schools.

It would be a good idea for some energetic senior to organize an orchestra for the school. Of course this would be quite a step for any pupil to take on his own initiative, and it is respectively suggested that the Faculty take a hand in the game. There is plenty of talent in the school and it would liven things up if there were more music. Far be it from us to drop any hints, and yet the movement, if only commenced by the authorities, would be welcomed by the scholars. While, perhaps, the scholars would not produce anything like the Tschaikowsky quartette which most people in this locality heard during the summer, they could certainly make noise enough to lead singing, which in itself would be a good thing. The High School will hold Commencement Exercises before the fall term ends and the presence of an orchestra would interest people in these. Something should certainly be done right away and it is hoped that ere long sweet melodies will be proceeding from these halls of learning.

The whole school was delighted to find Cadet Gordon Pfohl in his old place last Monday morning. Enlisting in the Royal Air Force on April 18 1918, as soon as he had reached the age of eighteen,—Gordon graduated from the various camps, Jesse Ketchum, Long Branch, School of Aeronautics, etc., in short order. At the Armament School, in Hamilton, although the youngest cadet there, he broke all records in gunnery, taking a score of 297 out of a possible 300. He was congratulated on his ability by Brigadier-General Hoare and, later, General Hoare watched him fire eighty rounds. At this test, Gordon smashed the target, making seventy-five bulls. For the last two months, Gordon has been flying at Camp Borden and he is now an expert aviator. It will be difficult for him to come back to ordinary life after doing loops, and spiral nose-dives at two hundred miles an hour, each day. Last year, Gordon was a very brilliant and popular student, and it was expected that he would capture the Carter scholarship. He was a prominent member of the famous S.O.L. society, and T.D.W.L. club, and was generally making things lively in Fourth form. Gordon looks fine in his uniform and the students are certainly glad to have him back, especially the girls, who seem to have forgotten the other gallants entirely. Gordon deserves great credit for enlisting. He tried to get Overseas but was not able to do so. All the pupils join hands in singing that "he's a jolly good fellow, which nobody can deny".

It is hoped that Cadet L. J. Illiger another big man of last year, who enlisted with Gordon, will also be able to return to school. Leander was another such as Gordon and the pupils would be delighted to see him.

Life is a Give and Take Proposition

No Man, Under Modern Conditions, Can Live Entirely Unto Himself—Each Dependent on Others—The Citizen Who Does Not Aid in Building Up His Community Cannot Expect to Have Prosperity Himself.

There was a time in the world when a man could do pretty much as he pleased. What one man did was of little concern to anyone else, for it had little effect on anyone else. Those days are gone, however, and they will never return. To-day, no man can live entirely unto himself. Life is a complicated affair under modern conditions. No one man in any community is entirely independent of all others in the community.

Organized society, in the form of governments, national, state and local, have recognized the new conditions and have decreed that every man must observe certain rules in his relations with his fellow men. He must not do certain things that would endanger the health of other people in his community. He must not do such things as would disturb the peace and quiet of his neighborhood. He must remember that he owes a duty to his community.

Not a Question of Right.

A man may say that he has the right to spend his money where he pleases, that no one can stop him if he wants to buy his groceries, his clothes and his furniture in some city miles away from where he earns the money to pay for them. He is right. There is no law to prevent him doing so, unless it is the law of self-preservation. The man who has the right to send his money away to some distant city instead of spending it at home also has the right to send his children to that city to be educated in the schools which his money helps to support, but he doesn't exercise that right. He sends his children to the local schools, the maintenance of which is made possible by the men who spend their money at home.

Life in any community to-day is a give-and-take proposition. A man can not take everything and give nothing and get away with it for any great length of time. He can not take his living from a community and give nothing back to help the other fellow make a living. If he cuts off the other fellow's living he is bound eventually to cut off his own, for, unless the other fellow has money to buy his labor or his goods, he cannot make a living himself.

You may say that what you buy doesn't amount to much and the money that you send away to the mail-order houses in other cities can not have any direct effect upon the general business conditions in your town. Maybe it doesn't amount to much, and maybe it doesn't have any great effect upon the community's prosperity in itself, but what will be the result if every person in the community, or half of them, or a tenth of them, take the same view of the matter. Your business, itself, may not amount to much, but, taken together with the business of a hundred others in the community, it amounts to a great deal. It amounts to the difference between a prosperous community and a "dead" one. It amounts to the difference, in the end, between good times and bad times for yourself and your family. If you lived on a desert isle it would make no difference where you sent your money, because it would make no difference whether you had any money at all or not. But you are not living upon a desert isle. You are living in a modern community. To do everything possible to build up that community is not only a duty which you owe to the community, but—more important still—it is a duty which you owe to yourself.

Taxes Will Increase

You have children to educate. You want this community to have good schools so that your children may have the same advantage that the children in the big city have. If you live on a farm you need good roads by which to haul your products to market. You may say that you pay your share of the taxes out to which the school-houses are built and the highways maintained and the roads constructed. Maybe you do pay your share, in proportion to the value of your world's goods, but where is the other fellow to get the money to pay his share of the taxes if, after you pay your taxes, you send the remainder of your money to some other community to help build their schools and construct their roads. The merchants of any community pay a very considerable part of the taxes collected in that community. Go to the tax-books and you will find this to be the case. When the business of the merchant falls off, and he carries smaller stocks, and has less money in the bank, he pays smaller taxes, and, as the amount he pays in taxes decreases, the amount you pay must increase if the schools are to be maintained and the roads kept up. It may be a man's own business if he wants to send his money to help build up the big cities where the mail-order houses flourish, but it is poor business for himself, as well as for everybody else in the community in which he lives.

Our Healthy Town

Medical Health Officer Dr. Porter, in his annual report for 1918, said that Walkerton had been practically free from infectious diseases up until the recent Flu epidemic. Only one person had died of the Flu and the disease was now ceasing to be troublesome in the town. There had been four cases of typhoid at the County Hospital but they had been brought in from outside points.

Dr. Fortune presented a bill for $64.00 for inspection of dairies in connection with the local Sanitary By-law. The account was held to be looked into.

A number of small accounts were paid.

The Council adjourned to meet on Monday December 16th., at 7.30 p. m. for the statutory winding up of the year's business.

Died At Brandon

Mr. William Carnegie, an old and highly respected resident of this section of Bruce Co., died in Brandon this week. The remains are being brought East and the funeral will take place from the home of relatives near Mildmay on Friday to the Clifford cemetery for burial. The late Mr. Carnegie who was over eighty years of age, was an extensive traveller, having made over seventy trips to the Canadian West besides many journeys across the Atlantic.

Doing A Good Service

So many people wrote their good deeds heralded from the house-top that it is refreshing to find occasionally a citizen who is content to do his unselfish bit for the public good without any public recognition whatever. For several years sidewalks in the Knox Church district for several blocks have been kept clear of snow by Mr. Thomas Etsell, caretaker of Knox Church. After a snow storm out before daylight with his horse and plough and has his streets cleared as early as any in the town. He has never billed the Council for his work. So far as we can learn, he has never even been thanked for it. Apparently he hasn't looked for thanks or recognition. He has got his fun and reward out of doing the public a good service.

LETTER FROM JOE RENNIE

Walkerton Boy Writes Chatty Letter Telling Of Experience In The March Through Belgium Towards Germany "Glory To Canadians" is The Sign That Greets Our Boys In Belgium.

The following interesting paragraphs are extracts from a letter from Joe Rennie, written to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rennie:

Belgium, Nov. 17th., 1918.

Nothing very exciting has happened in the last week except the war has ended. But I suppose you heard about that shortly afterwards.

I am working in the Company Orderly Room now, and there was a fellow in the other day. I was taking his particulars and asked him where his parents lived. He said, "Eden Grove" I said, "That's a nice big town," and he said "What do you know about Eden Grove?" His name was Scott. They used to run a threshing machine and I suppose Dad would know him.

You will be surprised to hear that we are in Belgium now. We marched out of France yesterday and you could notice the difference in the people at once. The Belgians are a lot the better class of people. The Coy is away to Church parade and I am Coy clerk so I stay behind. We have a dandy billet here, nice and clean and the old man can't put enough wood on the fire. His wife is running in all the time asking us if we want coffee. They had a fire on this morning before we got up. We are sleeping in the parlour. I can imagine what some of the people in Canada would say if a bunch of soldiers were dumped down in their parlor. They have loosened up a bit on the censoring of mail so I will be able to tell you a few of the places I have been lately. We have been staying in Valenciennes the last week or so. It is about the last big town in France on our way to Belgium. We captured it on Nov. 1st. The 47th. was the first in the town. They had a big celebration there a few days after we took it. The Prince of Wales was there and a few more British officers. The French people certainly had it fixed up swell. There is a fine City Hall there and some fine theatres. We are in a town now called Engles. It is a very nice place. The Belgian people dress very smartly and have a lot more to eat than the French. You should see the French people digging now that the Germans have gone. I saw one woman digging up a big box of dishes. They hid everything they could when the war started. Yesterday when we were marching along the road there was a bunch of refugees going down the other side. There was a line almost unbroken for the fourteen miles we walked. Old women carrying bags and men and children wheeling barrows full of clothes and dishes. They must have come through some terrible hardships but they all seem to be happy now. The Belgians have signs up all over, Glory to the Canadians and a lot more like that. We certainly have a stand in around here.

One of the boys that was wounded awhile ago was in Marion Hoegbam's ward in the hospital at the Base. Does anybody ever hear from Capt. Todd? I saw him at Agnes Les Dusans but wasn't speaking to him. I saw some of the boys yesterday that went to the 1st. Bn. There aren't very many of them left there now I don't think you could get a very big Bruce Bn. gathered together now, although quite a number were only wounded. Bob Rowland is around here some place. His Bn. is always near us as we are in the same Brigade. Well I will close for this time with love to all and wishing you a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Joe.

Council's Work Lightened

The County Council finished December Session a day earlier than usual. We understand nearly per cent of the time spent discussing the Good Roads Schedule. As the Schedule now then fixed by By-law Roads System placed in the hands of the Sup. and a committee of three, it looks as if the Councillors job would be a light one from now on. Perhaps after we shall see one day week

LIVE NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORING TOWNS, VILLAGES AND COUNTRYSIDE

:-: Happenings of the Past Week Collected for the Readers of The Telescope by a capable Staff of Wideawake Correspondents :-:

CARGILL

We are sorry to learn of the death of the wife of our former townsman Mr. Wat Clark, which took place in Southampton on Wednesday of last week of the Flu. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family.

We welcome home two of our heroes, Sergt. J. J. Clancy and Sergt. Fred Anderson who arrived home last week from across the pond. Both boys look well and are glad to be home again.

With fuel as scarce as it appears to be when you try to buy it, it seems remarkable how much of it the farmers can lug to the station to ship to outside points, while the home consumer can go abegging for it.

We are pleased to hear that Mrs. Wm. Clark is on the mend, after being confined to her bed for the past few weeks.

Dr. Bricker is on the jump these days, there being quite a number of serious cases he is attending in the neighboring villages.

Mr. Jas. Alexander of Oshawa was here over Sunday.

EDEN GROVE

They were four. Four daisies. Like unto a garden in full bloom, they passed through our City resembling a rainbow with St. Vitus dance. Seated on a back-to-back arrangement manufactured with an axe and spikes by Cameron of Cargill and pulled by the latter's stiff-legged quadruped, Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. Foley, Miss McCoy and Miss Moreland flashed through the slums, up Quality Hill and away, leaving behind them a suggestion of sparkling chatter, tinkling laughter and toilet powder.

I cannot vouch for the truth of this yarn. It sounds a little improbable. However I am told that Gordon Brown and Cecil O'Reilly clambered to the top of the latter's hennery flapped their wings, crowed and attempted to fly. When asked by their nurse why they had been so foolish, they explained that they had "Flu" at Port Colborne and wanted to do it here.

There will not be any Fall Fair here this year as all the "Fairs" have gone to Palmerston.

Pte. Clancy and Anderson are back to Cargill. I went over to see them but they got on the train I got off. I was hoping they would be able to show me something I have never seen. Thought they might have brought one back as a souvenir. I refer to a "Cootie".

In the list of cases to come off at the Fall Assizes at Walkerton one was left out and never brought to trial. Why? Was it because the crime was such a hideous degenerate nature that the County did not desire the public at large to know of it? Or was it because someone wished to curry favor with the rogue? Or (This is absolutely the last "or" the Editor will allow me) was pressure brought to bear on those higher up in favor of the unfortunate lady? Anyhow, in justice to those who so gladly and generously donated their money toward buying Garland a new coat, I wish to state the said wretch only patched up his old one and used the money thus illegally gotten to reimburse a minister of the Gospel for a few mumbled words.

Here is a suggestion. Hand it to your neighbor. Talk it over. Then, when you have chewed on it, let me know you think of it:—

"A Christmas tree celebration for all the kiddies of all denominations in Ward's Hall a few days before Christmas. We could ask Santa Claus to come and maybe some of the little toddlers would entertain us older children. A small subscription would foot the bill. What do you say?"

BRANT AVENUE

Sleighing was here and gone again. Hope we get a fair supply back for Christmas.

Quite a few of our farmers are taking in the Fat Stock Show at Guelph

Mr. Ed. Ernest writes home from Tribune, Sask. that the Flu is very bad in that section. Ed. himself has had three attacks of it. After recovering from the first dose, he chore for his brother-in-law, John Ulrich who had the Flu, and got it again, and later while helping his brother, John, [illegible], he contracted it a third time. A cousin, [illegible] Kramer, an old Formosa boy, also of Sask., died of the Flu, leaving a wife and young family.

Mr. Gutcher who works for Mr. Ronnie is away on three week's [illegible].

CHEPSTOW

Mr. Mack Meagher left on Monday for his home in Young, Sask., after renewing acquaintances in this vicinity.

Miss Beatrice McNab nurse-in-training at St. Joseph's Hospital, Guelph, returned on Monday after a week's visit at her home here.

By order of the Board of Health the local schools are again closed for two weeks on account of the flu, Miss Fitzpatrick, the teacher having contracted the disease.

SOLWAY

Annual report of the Solway Branch of the Bruce Preparedness League No. 9:—

Our society has met with great success during the past year. Our meetings are held in the Township Hall every three weeks, and we thank one and all who have helped in any way to make this society successful. Although we have not had very large meetings, there are those who in their homes did not forget that the boys in France were fighting for them and did their utmost in the way of knitting and sewing so that the men in the trenches, might be more comfortable, and each meeting day, the work kept coming in, thus showing they were not too busy to think of those in need. The parcels are done up at the meetings, and sent direct to France. This society sent overseas 91 parcels containing 462 pairs of socks, 152 shirts, and 8 pairs of gloves, also sent something in the way of a treat in each parcel, which was contributed by two or three of the ladies at each meeting.

Cash on hand Dec 1st, 1917, $74.39.

Walkerton Boy Asks Fair Show for Soldiers

Gives the Home Town Folks An Intimate Survey of the Boys' Attitude —"Invest Your Faith in These Men and You will Receive Interest a Hundred Fold"

In these present days it is difficult to choose a topic which will prove interesting and instructive and still not smack of something you have read or heard, or thought out yourself. We are living in an age of hackneyed ideas, hackneyed sayings, hackneyed efforts. It remains therefore, to attack a topic with renewed vigor, to seek to knock into it, or out of it some new thoughts, or new phases of old thoughts, and await the issue with some hope.

You have come here to-night to show your good-will towards two men who tried to do their part in a cause that you all acclaimed. This Preparedness League has, I believe, for its object the welfare of men returned from the war. And it is about these returned men that I should like to tell you some things to-night.

It would be well perhaps to assure you at the outset, that I am not the agent or propagandist of any society, and that any statements which may follow are merely facts that have impressed me, from my intimate association with many men who have already returned or will soon return to this country. I know little or nothing about the Great War Veterans Association, unless it be some unsavoury remarks about it which have fallen on my ears. I have not even considered becoming a member of it.

A man who has been on active service coming back to resume his civil duties requires readjustment. Some even need remodelling. The army and the war have wrought tremendous changes in the man who left home, and the changed product is called a soldier, and he has to be thrown into the melting-pot again. And according to the treatment meted out to him during this transition stage so shall the quality of the re-instated citizen be determined. You may think that your boy, and your boy, and your boy are impervious to change. Do not congratulate yourselves too soon. Some of the changes are extremely subtle and not readily apprehended. Few, if any, come back who do not bear the mark of the war upon the personality. You should learn to understand these altered men, and to assist them to get back into the normal habits of living.

Above all things the ex-soldier is sensitive, yes he is hyper-sensitive. During the period following his discharge from the army, he feels the new life strange. It will take time before he can properly adopt himself to his new environment. He needs sympathy—not the consolatory kind, but a real fellowship of feeling, an appreciation, not ostentatious but quiet and sincere, of what he has done. Let him know that you mean to be on the level with him. Make him feel that there is a place for him in the business and social life of the community. This is worth more than gold to him. One thing a man can't help but learn in the army, and that is to be suspicious. He is like the devout American that tell of, whose motto is "In God we trust," and suspect everybody else. I think the American troops, if they are of their countryman's persuasion should be more fortunate than some of the fellows I have known who frequently found some of their possessions missing before they learned to suspect. The soldier, then, is suspicious. He scents trouble afar off, so that when it comes he is fully prepared to meet it. Thus on returning he hears of how his comrades have been treated in this land. A young fellow in Toronto, a student at Osgoode Hall, who is pretty well posted on city doings, told me a short time ago, that if a fellow is looking for a job in Toronto it is advisable not to say that he is a returned soldier. Can you fancy anything more utterly disheartening, not to say galling, to a man who has come back and wants to make good? Would you like to send that advertisement to France for the boys to read?

Tips to Canadian Soldiers

"If you want a job when you get back, don't let on you're a returned soldier?

I know that there are ranting extremists and undesirables among those who come back. There are black sheep among every flock. The conduct of these ultra-revolutionaries gives a bad name to the entire body of soldiers. We suffered? Idiot in England. The few fools spoiled it for the bunch. So when you hear tales of the unholy doings of returned men, you may safely put it down to some of such. Do not consider all guilty of the crime of a few. I wish you could know some of these men as I have been privileged to know them. They are made of such splendid stuff! They are a treat to know. And all they ask is a fair chance. They don't want a big fuss made about them. You have probably heard stories to the effect that returned men want all Canada and then some. It's falsehood. If Canada receives these men back into civil life as she ought, I think you will find them very humble in their demand. But of course don't forget, there are extremists.

Patience, forbearance, kindness, justice are virtues that should be employed in your relations with returned men. I have not seen the soldier yet who did not respond immediately to acts of kindness. Do not be condescending. That is an insufferable attitude to hold towards the man who has been "over there". It alienates a man straightway. You can't be too patient with him. The process of readjustment may require a long period of time. Try to consider what he has been through (and you are powerless to form any adequate conception of it all) and then make allowances for him. His sufferings, his misery may leave altered him entirely. Think of these things in your dealings with him. He may err in a heated moment, unthinkingly. Be just with him, and you will find yourself amply requited for the trust you have reposed in him. The country needed your money and you invested freely in Victory Bonds. Invest your faith in these men who have represented you in France, and you will receive interest a hundredfold.

President Resigns

Mr. Andrew Schmidt, who has been president of the Carrick Agricultural Society during the past eleven years and has been very active in its support has sent in his resignation, the same to take effect at once. He gives as the reason for his resignation, the unfair and false rumor circulated concerning him by one of the directors of the society. —Mildmay Gazette.

Better Value for Your Money

THE size and the resources of the producer have a big effect upon values. A large volume of business reduces the cost per unit of product. Great buying power means the ability to secure materials well in advance, and at lowest prices.

Ames Holden McCready supply the shoe requirements of a large part of the Canadian public. More than 5,000 dealers, in all sections of the country, sell A.H.M. shoes. No other Canadian shoe house has anything like this volume of output.

And in financial resources this company occupies the same dominant position. It is able to place contracts for materials far in advance of actual requirements, and at better prices than would be possible for smaller purchases. These facts are important in normal times; they are doubly important now.

The A.H.M. trade-mark on a shoe is a warranty of value based upon the large output and greatest buying power.

A.H.M. War-Time Selections offer Special Service Value for Men, Women and Children. Ask your dealer for them.

PAPER CONTROLLER ABOUT TO "ORDER CUTTING OFF"

OF

UNPAID SUBSCRIPTIONS

At a public hearing in Ottawa the other day in connection with paper conservation, the Paper Controller for Canada intimated that regulations about to be issued would include one of the effects that:

> Publishers of newspapers must cease sending their newspapers to subscribers three months in arrears, unless subscriptions be definitely renewed, and all arrears fully paid.

The reason for this regulation of the Paper Controller is that it is the practice of some publishers to send their newspapers until ordered stopped. It is to prevent paper waste that the new regulation has been decided on.

The manufacture of paper consumes labor, wood, coal, chemicals and transportation facilities, and every ton of paper saved means just so much more labor, raw materials, chemicals, fuel and transportation available for urgent war needs. For these reasons the Government insists that paper shall be saved and proposes that only those who pay for their publications shall receive them.

Under these regulations The Telescope will have no choice in the matter of dealing with "subscriptions in arrears for over three months.

You need The Telescope, and we want to continue sending it to you. So, if your subscription is in arrears, please pay up at once to prevent a discontinuance of your subscription.

YOU WILL!

Remember your friends at Christmas with some token of friendship and you cannot think of anything more suitable than your photograph which must come from YOU. They cannot buy it. Not too soon to have the work done now as we shall be extremely busy later.

The "Drys" of the United States were jubilant over the President's signature to the bone dry measure. By this law nation-wide prohibition becomes effective July 1, 1919, until after demobilization is completed. By that time prohibition forces claim enough states will have ratified the prohibition constitutional amendment, now before them, to make national prohibition permanent.

Died In West

W. J. Ryan of the 14th., of Brant received a telegram last week that his sister, Mrs. Frank Moran, had died at Edgerton, Alta., and that the body was being shipped to Chesley. Mrs. Moran was married a little over three years ago and moved to Alberta. She leaves a husband and two babies. As Mr. Moran has to take care of the little ones, it was impossible for him to accompany the remains to the East.

The maiden name of deceased is Mary Ryan, a daughter of the late Daniel Ryan, and her widowed mother lives with her son W. J. on the old homestead. Mrs Ben Waechter of South Brant is a sister of deceased, and a brother John E. Ryan of Hamilton was also called home by the sad event.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE

When Ma is Sick

When Ma is sick, she pegs away;
She's quiet, though, not much to say
She goes right on seein' things,
An' sometimes laughs, or even sings
She says she don't feel extra well.
But then it's just a kind o' spell.
She'll be all right to-morrow, sure.
A good old sleep will be the cure
An' Pa he sniffs an' makes no kick,
For women folk is always sick,
An' Ma, she smiles, let's on she's glad
When Ma is sick it ain't so bad.

When Pa is Sick

When Pa is sick he's scared to death
An' Ma an' us just holds our breath
He crawls in bed, an' puffs and grunts,
And does all kinds of crazy stunts
He wants "Doc" Brown an' mighty quick,
For when Pa's ill he's awful sick.
He gasps and groans, an' sort o' sighs,
He talks so queer, an' rolls his eyes,
Ma jumps an' runs, an' all of us,
An' all the house is in a fuss,
An' peace an' joy is mighty scarce
When Pa is sick It's something fierce.

After an Illness of less than two weeks' duration, Louisa Seitz, relict of the late William Lambertus of Hepworth, succumbed to an attack of influenza, complicated with pneumonia. Her serious condition was not realized at first and her death came very expectedly.

Deceased was born at Formosa in 1867, and was the second youngest of a family of seven.

In the Spring of 1891, she with her husband came to Hepworth and there made their home, having been married in 1890. Mr. Lambertus died last February.

The late Mrs. Lambertus was of a quiet and reserved disposition, and was a faithful member of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church where the funeral was held on Saturday morning.

The following sisters survive: Mrs Beuninger of Wallaceburg, Mrs. A. Meyer, Mrs. Jno. Vogt, Mrs Bernard Meyer, and Miss John Meyer, of Formosa, and Mrs. Louis Meyer of Saskatchewan.

Joke On Reeve

Some County Councillors had a laugh at the expense of a well-known Irish member of our County parliament here who by the way likes a joke pretty well himself. He had arranged with a deputation of his ratepayers to come in on Thursday and wait on the Council when the Good Roads Schedule was being discussed. Then he discovered that Thursday would be altogether too late and there was nothing to do but to call each and every member of the deputation up on the phone and tell them to come Wednesday instead. It was some job but he went down to his hotel and tackled it. After he had been at the phone half an hour, another Councillor saw a chance for a joke and got on a private phone in another part of the house. "Hello, Reeve," said the Wag, "This is Central office." Your bill is already $8.50. How much longer are you going to talk?" similar to St. Patrick. Eight dollars and a half! Our Irish friend waxed indignant at the prospect of having such a crimp put in his role and could be seen shaking his fist at the phone held up his end then, while that could be heard all over the building. The chap at the other phone filed up his end fine while the crowd who could hear both ends of the conversation, rocked with mirth.

Rev. H. M. Gale of Pinkerton Is Invited To Accept Pastorate of Knox Pastor's Former Charge.

Rev. H. M. Gale, pastor of the Presbyterian charge of Pinkerton and St. Paul's Cargill, has received a call to the pastorate of St. Paul's Harwich, near Chatham, where Rev. W. H. Burgess, B. A., B. D., is stationed before coming to Knox Church, Walkerton. We understand that Rev. Mr. Gale was asked some weeks ago to preach at St. Paul's with a view to a call but declined as he has no thought of leaving Pinkerton where the work has prospered and where he is held in the highest regard by his people. The St. Pauls people insisted and have now sent a very hearty call which has been sustained by the Chatham Presbytery and now awaits action by the Bruce Presbytery. Mr. Gale has not expressed his intention in the matter. This is the second invitation to a larger work which has come to him within a year. The first invitation he declined without allowing it to proceed to a call. A man of Mr. Gale's engaging personality in which earnestness, sympathy and sincerity are clearly reflected would seem to be ideally fitted for the ministerial calling. In both pulpit and pastoral work he shows equal gifts. An elder brother is one of the leading missionaries sent out by the American Presbyterian Church and has done a great work in China. Mr. Gales son is also embarked in the ministry and is beginning a promising pastorate at Hyde Park. The stipend at St. Pauls, Harwich, is $1200 and manse.

THE NEGLECTED SICK

Editor Telescope,

Dear Sir:—

Within a few days, 2 indigent patients—both over 65 years of age—from Chesley, were sent into the county of Bruce General Hospital in a dying condition. It is not only cruelty to the sick, but very unfair to the hospital. "The poor we have always with us"—and surely the authorities of Chesley, or elsewhere, might look after their poor a little better and have them cared for while there is some chance to save their lives. A long cold drive is certainly not conducive to a patient's recovery, particularly a an advanced stage of the disease. Truly: "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn." It is to be hoped that in the future all municipalities will realize the vital importance of sending indigent patients to the hospital before it is too late.

Humanity.

PAY IN ADVANCE

Recent advices from Ottawa seem to indicate more surely that the Canadian government will follow the lead of the United States authorities in requiring newspapers and magazine subscriptions to be paid in advance. The purpose of this measure is the conservation of news print paper.

The increased cost of everything used in the production of a newspaper makes it imperative that the Telescope should have unpaid subscription on books. Please examine label on your paper, and find that you are arrears do not delay but make your remittance at once, either by express or postal note, if you are too far away to make personal call at The Telescope office.

Brant Pioneer Gone

Mr. John Fisch sr., one of the oldest settlers of Brant Tp. passed away at his home on Monday evening, Dec. 2nd. Deceased who was in his 81st year, had been troubled for the past twelve years with dropsy. He was born at New Glasgow, Waterloo County, and came as a boy of eight years with his parents to Brant, settling on the farm at what is known as Fisch's Hill where he resided up to the time of his death. His father is said to have built the first bank barn in the township which was something of a wonder of those days. Fifty-one years ago he was married to Gertrude Reinhardt of Carrick who predeceased him about fifteen years ago. He was a good neighbor and was respected by all who knew him. A family of three sons and three daughters survive him. They are: John of Dunkeld, Albert of Brant, Louis of Kerrobert, and three daughters, (Barbara) Mrs. Louis Kunts of Formosa, and Misses Catherine and Hannah at home. The funeral took place at Formosa R. C. Church on Saturday morning.

Mayor Gives Retiring Council a Banquet and Is Presented With Gold-headed Stick

All the last Council meeting of the year adjourned on Monday night the members and the Press and Town Officials were invited by the Mayor to Erdman's where a fine supper was in readiness. Everything was gotten up in Erdman's best style and after full justice had been done to the good things, Coun. Lippert rose and on behalf of the members of the Council made some laudatory remarks about the way in which His Worship had filled the chief magistrate's chair the last two years, and Coun. George Leitner on behalf of his fellow members presented Mayor Johnston with a handsomely engraved gold-headed cane, bearing the inscription: "Presented to Mayor Andrew P. Johnston by fellow-members Town Council 1918." Other members spoke along similar lines, and the Mayor replied thanking the Council for many kindnesses shown him during his occupancy of the Mayor's Chair.

PTE. BOB TURNER M. M.

Given A Hearty Welcome Home By Big Audience of Fellow Citizens At the Town Hall on Monday Night—A Hero of Vimy Ridge.

A rousing welcome home was given Pte. Bob Turner M. M. by the citizens at a public reception held in his honor at the Town Hall on Monday night. The hall was filled for the occasion. Mr. W. M. Shaw was chairman of the meeting and called on Rev. R. Perdue, Secretary of the Local Preparedness League, to present to the guest of honor the ten dollar gold piece and certificate of honor. Bob were, by request, the Military Medal won by bravery on the field at Vimy Ridge, and in a nice reply thanked the ladies of the town for their kindness to him and the other Walkerton boys Overseas, and thanked the people of the town for the splendid reception given him. A Brant boy, Pte. Fred Sarvis, just returned from the Front, was noticed in the audience, called to the platform and given a welcome. The speakers of the evening included Lieut. F. B. James, L .C. Benton and Rev J. W. Sanderson.

Pte. Turner enlisted with the 34 th., Batt'n. and went Overseas with the first draft from that unit in June 1915. He was in much of the hardest fighting in France. He was first wounded in the knee and later after returning to the Front took trench fever, which put him out of the fighting for keeps. He was among the number of Canada's gallant sons who were decorated for bravery on the battlefield.

The reception closed by the singing of God Save the King, and "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

FIVE LOCAL SOLDIERS

Reached Home From Overseas On Tuesday and Were Welcomed By Big Crowds At the Station—Town Bell Will Be Rung After This To Let Citizens Know Boys Are Coming.

Many of Walkerton's soldier heroes who have done their valiant part in Flanders and elsewhere are now homeward bound. It will make a glad Christmas in many homes, when the boy returns. The Olympic, which docked at Halifax a few days ago, had a number of Walkerton boys aboard. Edward Diss, Walter Yneck, and Thomas Liddle reached home on the noon train Tuesday and were given a rousing welcome by the citizens at the station. Capt. Roy Whitehead and Fred Jewell were on the night train and there were several hundred citizens at the station to greet them as they stepped off the train. Hugh Threndyle was also a passenger on the Olympic and is expected home Wednesday night.

From now on, the Town Bell is to be rung wherever it is learned that returned men are coming on the train. This will give citizens an opportunity to get to the station in time to welcome the home-coming boys.

Coming New Years Day

David W. Griffith's supreme triumph "Hearts of the World" which is coming to Walkerton Opera House Wed. Jan. 1st., might be called a cinema grand opera, so well does the musical accompanied fit the picture. There is a theme running through the symphony indicating every important character and every gesture is timed with the music. The picture might easily be understood without titles as some of the music to which everyone knows the words, described the scenes exactly. Seat sale at McCrum's Book Store.

A County Memorial

Some of the towns in Bruce are discussing the question of suitable memorials for their boys who have fallen and no doubt every hamlet will have at least a tablet if no more elaborate memorial. But over and above all this should not Bruce as a whole honor and perpetuate the memory of the boys from this country who have given their lives, by a worthy memorial? The County was the unit in our recruiting organization and it was the unit in patriotic efforts. The County as a whole might well take up the matter of a memorial. This would be a matter for the County Council to show leadership in. We hope it will be one of the first matters to receive the attention of the incoming County Council.

ANOTHER OLD SETTLER

Passed To The Great Beyond In The Person of Mrs. Robert Steele of Brant —Succumbed To Acute Bronchitis At the Home of Her Son At Treherne, Man.

Many old friends in this district learned with deep regret of the death at Treherne, Man., on Thursday, Dec. 12th. of Mrs. Robert Steele, an old and highly esteemed resident of Brant. Mrs. Steele who was in her 74th., year, succumbed to an attack of acute bronchitis after eight days' illness. Her death took place at the home of her son, Robert F. Steele, where she had been staying the last couple of months. Her son, James, of Bellaplains, Sask., accompanied the remains to the East.

Mrs. Steele, whose maiden name was Agnes Hyslop, was born in Dunfriesshire, Scotland, and at the age of 8 years came to this country with her parents. For a short time they lived near Paris, but soon came up into the Queen's Bush, being among the early settlers of the East Durham Road. She was married to her late husband in 1868, and together they braved the vicissitudes of early pioneer life. She was a lifelong member of the Knox congregation, worshipping first in the little Church on the East Durham Road. It was when the congregation met in the East Ward that Mr. and Mrs. Steele were married at the old Manse over the river by the late Rev. Dr. Moffat. Mrs. Steele was a woman of sterling character and a kind-hearted sociable body. Her memory will be ever cherished by her devoted family. Good For Bruce

Bruce County rarely fails to keep up its record as one of the banner counties of the Dominion. Bruce's fine showing for the Victory Loan is still fresh in the minds of our readers. Last week the County Council heard Bruce's effort along the lines of patriotic giving praised in the highest terms by the head of the Canadian Patriotic Fund. At the Chicago Fat Stock Show, recently where practically all the Agricultural Colleges in North America were represented in the Judging teams, and Canada carried off the Premier honors three of the five Canadian judges on the team were from Bruce, and a Bruce boy led the bunch. One of the features of the big show was the unveiling of a portrait, presented by the American Shorthorn Breeders Association of Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, and an old Bruce boy. Continued Page.

HOW PERCY SHANNON FELL

Walkerton Chum Tells How Young Doctor Met Death Tending To the Wounded—Hit By Piece of Shell At Base of Skull and Never Rallied—Buried With Full Military Honors.

In a letter received from Lieut. Cecil O. Miller he records the death of his chum, Lieut. Percy Shannon. These two boys were playmates in their childhood days in Walkerton, being separated for a few years, met again in Toronto and started their Medical Course together. They studied together and roomed at the former's sister's, Mrs. Wm. McConnel. They went to France together and was together nearly ever day.

Lieut. C. O. Miller's letter is written on Nov. 5th., and remarks that his letter maybe somewhat flat as it is a sad lonely boy he is.

Lieut. P. Shannon was ordered to return from his advanced position about 7 p.m. Sat. Nov. 2nd. but due to caring for wounded he delayed leaving till after 10 o'clock when he loaded his Ford car with stretcher cases and started to walk back himself leading a number of walking wounded back to the main dressing station as it was so dark that without a guide they would have been helplessly lost. About three-quarters of a mile from the dressing station the car was held up by a blockade of waggons due to some artillery transports having been hit by shells which were falling very thick on that part of the road so Percy stopped to dress some of these wounded ones. While bending over one of these men a small piece of shell hit him just at the base of his skull which it fractured and rendered him immediately unconscious. He never rallied. He was rushed down to the M.O.S. where two doctors worked on him incessantly for over an hour, till he quietly passed away.

We buried dear old Percy, his friend writes, in a quiet secluded French civilian cemetery, half of which is being used for military funerals. The funeral took place from No. 10, F.A. which was doing duty in this village.

First there was the limber with the body covered with a huge British flag, then came an escort from each Field Ambulance headed by the ambulance commanders, and finally an escort of officers made up of Colonels, Majors, Captains, and us Lieutenants, which escort includes the A.D.M.S., who is the head of our medical service for the Division. Within two hundred yards of the grave yard, we halted and from here the body was carried. As we entered the cemetery the Methodist Padre started the service then a C. of E. Padre continued the service and the Methodist Padre finished. Then the bugles blew the retreat, while we all stood attention and saluted. Then quietly and with that inexpressible feeling of depression we silently filed away and returned to the village theneu by ambulance to our own village.

I might add that the cemetery is on a sunny slope facing West, surrounded by a well kept hedge on three sides and fourth side bounded by a huge brick wall in the centre of which is the arched entrance. The whole place and surrounding country has been shared the ruthless' distruction of shell fire and still maintains the quiet solemn silent rest that prevailed in pre war days.

HELP! HELP!

Help to make the town better,
Help to make the town clean;
Don't be just a constant fretter,
Add some beauty to the scene;
You may not indeed be able
To erect a gleaming dome,
But clean up around your stable,
Beautify your little home.
Help to make the town attractive,
Help to stop the ones who sneer;
It will pay you to be active,
Since your interests are here.
Would your backyard stand inspection.
What about that vacant lot?
Rubbish helps to spread dejection,
Neatness brings the cheerful thought.
Help to make the town fairer,
You can do it if you try,
And you'll be a profit sharer
In the splendid bye and bye;
Don't forget while you are grumbling
That you might do something more;
Let there be no future stumbling
O'er obstructions at your door.
Help to make the town more splendid,
Do the part you have to do,
There is much that may be mended
Through a little old from you;
Help dispense the dirt that's blowing,
Help to purify the breeze;
When it happens to be snowing
Clean your sidewalks if you please.

Telescope BUY-AT-HOME Campaign

TWELVE SOUND REASONS FOR BUYING AT HOME . . .

BECAUSE loyalty to a community by its men and women is the first essential to national patriotism.

BECAUSE the interests of the home dealer and the home consumer are mutual—what hurt one must hurt the other.

BECAUSE the home business man pays the lion's share of assessment rates and all public welfare donations—whereas the foreign dealer contributes nothing and has absolutely no interest in your community other than the cash he takes out of it.

BECAUSE continued patronage of the big city catalogue concerns is a short-sighted unprogressive, and in the long run an economically suicidal practice.

BECAUSE the fundamental law of commonwealth economy is to spend your money where you have earned it.

BECAUSE your home business man is entitled to your cash. He stands behind the goods he sells, while you have no redress from being "stung" by outside dealers.

BECAUSE spending your money away from home is like sowing grain in a stranger's field so that he may reap the harvest.

BECAUSE when you drain your community by diverting the legitimate channels of trade, you also drain it of its young men and young women and all energy and substance for development.

BECAUSE prices of farm and town property and local markets go down to zero where there is no healthy, progressive community trading.

BECAUSE the more money circulating in a community the more valuable property becomes, the higher are wages and the better the general conditions that prevail. "In unity there is strength," and united home buying builds up a community bulwark that will weather the severest economic storms.

BECAUSE you must send cash in advance to the big city dealer and you have no opportunity to inspect the goods. Apart from the hundred and one good, sound reasons for home buying, it never pays to buy a pig or a suit of clothes in the dark.

BECAUSE it is a duty you owe to yourself, to your family and to posterity to build up your community so that it has a wholesome atmosphere and is advancing with the times instead of drifting into habit of sloth, ruin and decay.

Power of the Dollar is Easily Shown

Keep One Moving and See What It Will do for Your Community—Pays a Multitude of Debts—When it is Sent Out of Town, However, to Pay for What Can be Bought at Home, it is Gone Forever.

It is a wonderful thing, when you stop to think about it, what on lone dollar will do, if it is kept at work. This has been illustrated in a striking manner on several occasions by means of a very simple experiment. If you want to see just how important a role a dollar or a dollar bill plays in the life of a community here is the way to do it. Just attach a tag to the dollar and turn it loose, with the request that every person who receives the dollar make a note on the tag as to how he received it. The result will be an eye-opener.

Here is the way it works: Smith, the lumber dealer, who first possesses the dollar, buys some groceries from Brown and pays for them with the dollar. About that time Jones, the plumber, who had some work for Brown, sends his collector around and Brown pays the bill with his dollar. Jones owes Green, the printer, a small advertising bill, so he sends this dollar, with possibly some others, to Green to pay his bill. Green had just put the dollar in his cash drawer for milk delivered at his house. Green takes the dollar out of his cash drawer and pays Black. For some time Black has owed White, the carpenter, for some work done on his oatey house, so now he takes the dollars that Green has paid him and pays up what he owes White. White still owes for some lumber he bought from Smith, the lumber dealer, so he takes the dollar and squares up his account with Smith. Smith now has his old dollar back. Brown has been able to pay his plumbing bill, Jones has squared up with the printer, and so on, all around the circle.

What Might Have Happened

Now suppose that Smith, instead of buying his groceries from Brown, had purchased them from a mail order house in a far distant city and sent his dollar to pay for them. Brown would not have had that dollar to pay Jones, the plumber; Jones could not have paid his printing bill; the printer would have had to stand off the milkman; White, the carpenter, would not have got the money for the work he had done for the milkman, and Smith would not have got the money which White owed him for lumber.

This is all so simple that it requires no student of economics or professor of mathematics to figure it out. Anyone can see that when Smith sends that dollar to Toronto or some other city where the mail order houses flourish, that dollar is gone, so far as Smith and Jones and Green and the rest of the people in Smith's town are concerned. It is a sure thing alright that that dollar will never come back to Smith's town. And the thing that stands out most strikingly, but is most often overlooked is that Smith, the man who first spends the dollar, is hurt just as much when he sends the dollar out of town as is the home grocer from whom he might have bought his groceries.

Now, just multiply this one dollar by a hundred or a thousand or ten thousand. One dollar may not seem to make much difference in the average town, but a thousand dollars or even a hundred dollars does make a difference. Just as one dollar will pay a dozen or a hundred or a thousand big ones. When Brown, the grocery man, owes a thousand dollars and can't pay it, he is headed for the bankruptcy courts. When Jones, the plumber, can't collect the money which is due him from Brown, or maybe a dozen Browns, he is headed in the same direction as Brown. And so it goes all around the circle until it hits Smith, or a dozen Smiths, who have sent their money out of town to add to the fortunes of the mail order men.

Buyer the One Who is Hurt

Thus, it will be seen that this buy-at-home proposition is really a selfish one with the man who buys the goods. He is not hurting the home merchants when he sends his money out of town, any more than he is hurting himself.

Every sensible man knows that his livelihood depends upon whether business in his town is good or not. If business is not good he cannot make a good living for himself and his family, no matter how hard he may work, and business is not be good if the business men in town are making both. This is a plain business proposition for every man and woman in the community. By spending their money at home they are helping the home merchants incidentally but—a thing more important to them—they are likely to be taking the bread out the mouths of their own children.

Buying Upon Faith

UNLESS you are an expert, you cannot judge the quality of a shoe by looking at it. It is possible to take most of the wearing qualities out without changing its appearance. Shoes are bought largely upon faith in the integrity of dealer and manufacturer.

In these days of high-price levels, your confidence should be well placed. Go to a reliable dealer, whose judgment you can trust. Get his candid advice as to values. Buy for the best service at the price which you wish to pay.

Look for the manufacturer's trade-mark on the shoes you buy. It is a sign that the manufacturer himself has confidence in the shoes, and that they are worthy of your confidence. A responsible manufacturer will not jeopardize his reputation by placing his business signature upon an unworthy product.

Buy shoes of a brand you know, from a dealer whom you know. Buy for service rather than merely for appearance. Thus you may be assured of Quality Shoes at Fair Prices.

A.H.M. War-Time Selections offer Special Service Value for Men, Women and Children. Ask your dealer for them.

High School Notes

The students would be very grateful if the people who live in the district around Walkerton, would assist them in their campaign to collect newspapers and magazines. The students have cleared the town out and they need a great deal of paper yet, in order to complete a carload, which is their objective. They can not do much collecting in the country without vehicles, so they appeal to the farmers for help. The papers are stored at Rev. C. W. Cosen's barn which he very kindly allows the students to use. It is hoped that some of the people in the vicinity will be able to help the pupils in this way.

It is pleasing to note that Pte. Bob Turner, who was tendered a reception last Monday night, is an old High School boy. The school gladly welcomes him back to Walkerton. Another ex-student, Capt. Roy Whitehead, who went over with the 160th. and was wounded in action, has landed at Halifax.

On the afternoon of Wednesday, the 18th., the school held Commencement Exercises, a full report of which will appear next week.

A school orchestra is in process of organization and, although not ready for action at present, will be able to take part upon the next occasion that the school appears in public.

TELESCOPE LETTER BOX

FROM MAYOR HALLIDAY OF CHESLEY

Editor Telescope,
Walkerton, Ontario.

Dear Sir:—

Under the heading "The Neglected Sick" there appeared in your last issue a letter signed "Humanity," reflecting on the good name of the "Authorities of Chesley."

We think in justice to all concerned, "Humanity", before rushing into print and making charges of cruelty, should have at least taken a little trouble to ascertain the facts. It is quite an easy matter to put a slanderous report in circulation, but a more difficult thing to check it.

The first case referred to is that of the late John Dieter, who from your news column we learn formerly lived in Walkerton. He moved to Chesley about four weeks before his last sickness, and, with his son, took up his abode in a small store on Main Street, with no conveniences of any kind and the crudest apology for furniture. On the night of December 2nd, one of our Doctors was called to see him. He found pneumonia developing. Every effort was made to secure a nurse and more suitable quarters in Town, but without success. His doctor said that it was impossible to give him proper treatment and hope for his recovery in the quarters in which he was located, and advised that he be promptly sent to either Walkerton or Owen Sound Hospital. It was thought the Walkerton trip was the safest and quickest. He was accordingly made as comfortable as possible with warm clothing and fur coat and taken in a closed auto to Walkerton. This was the morning of December 3rd. He lived until December 12th, when he passed away, the Town of Chesley paying for interment. It will therefore be noted that although the ident of the Town, yet the Authorities did the best they could for him and all under medical advice.

The second case referred to is that of the late Miss Mary Campbell, who for some years lived alone in a small apartment over one of our stores. She had repeatedly been urged to allow herself to become an inmate of the House of Refuge, but always declined. However, the week before she was taken over to Walkerton she was prevailed upon to change her mind. In order that we might be assured that she was in a fit condition to make the trip we had her examined by one of our medical men. He advised that she was not a House of Refuge patient, but should be sent to the Hospital. He also expressed the opinion that she was in a fit condition to move. We accordingly arranged that she should be taken to the Hospital and arrangements were made for her being taken over, the following day. However, by this time she had changed her mind and refused to go. In the early part of the week following she consented to go, but in order that we might be assured that she was then in fit condition to be moved we had the doctor again visit her and report her condition. He advised that it would be quite safe for her to be taken to the Hospital. We then secured a woman of the Town to fix her up as comfortably as possible and she was taken to the Hospital in a closed automobile. This was on Thursday December 5th. She passed away on the morning of the 7th. While it would appear that the trip over may have hastened her death yet the Authorities did what they thought best in the interests of the patient and under the direction of her medical adviser. No one can justly charge that everything was not done which kindness and good will could prompt.

We are not in the habit of taking notice of annonymous letters, but as some people might be misled by the slander we prefer to make public the facts.

Yours Sincerely,
M. A. Halliday,
Mayor, Town of Chesley.

Reluctantly I turned my eyes from the stage to the speaker. He was a man of such and such a height, so and so age, big feet, swelled head and glasses. I knew him at once for the Grand Trunk Agent at Pinkerton.

"Cannot you see", I grunted. "It is McBurney, the leading man, kissing Miss Eliza, the dangerous leading lady."

"Dear me; He is a great actor. So natural," replied he and turned his absorbed gaze once more toward the little comedy.

A moment later I heard him muttering to himself Leaning toward him and listening intently I overheard these words "Bet Eliza came from Cargill. I've seen dozens like her there."

I thought this too frivolous a remark to deserve an answer.

"That leading man has a great vehicle for his peculiar talent but it isn't true to life," he remarked a moment later.

"In what way," I asked curiously.

"He has kissed every woman on the stage except his fiance," he replied critically. "In real life I'll bet he'd kiss her too."

On his way out I asked him his idea of the play.

"Topsole. Bright and sparkling conversation with a plentitude of action. Each part taken with decided individuality, and the total ensemble was a magnificent success. I was quite led astray by it," he replied.

Bring me a dictionary, James.

This morning I met him again and he wasn't nearly so much in love with it. It seems his wife had been asked to Miss McCoy's and also to Mrs. Clark's for a little luncheon after the show. As he didn't know which one she was masticating and sipping at with her protrudingly bent aristocratic little finger and the two houses were exactly opposite one another, he stood in the centre of the road smoking a vile cigar, getting drenched by the rain and swearing softly.

It is reported that the Methodist choir had a very nice time at their practice last week at the home of Mrs. W. Alexander. I will not go into details But simply state that it was a very, very, very, nice time.

Unique and unusual events are most desired by a newspaper but just to fill up I gives a little item that is commonplace, to be expected, happens every time:—

"Cargill longhorns came over for a game of euchre the other night, and were cheerfully taught a bit of the game."

The sympathy of all goes out to the husband and five children, four of whom are also very sick, in their sad bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Clark attended the funeral of Mrs. Walter Clark of Southampton.

Death again visited our village on Thursday and claimed its victim, the late Mrs. N. Fitzsimmons, who succumbed after a two weeks illness. The late Mrs. Fitzsimmons has been a resident of the village for a number of years, her husband having predeceased her about fifteen years ago. The funeral was held on Saturday interment being made at Tiverton.

Miss McLean, a sister and Mrs. Cummings a niece, of the late Mrs. Fitzsimmons attended the funeral in Saturday.

Purdy's Church Celebrates Fiftieth Anniversary: 1868-1918

INTERESTING Sketch of Old Pioneer Church which Has Filled an Important Place in the Life of the Community for Half a Century, and the Circuit-Riding Preachers who Laid the Foundation of Christian Work in the Queen's Bush, Written for the Telescope by Mr. Thos. H. Purdy of Greenock.

On Sunday Dec. 1st., 1918, the congregation of what is known as Purdy's Methodist Church, situated on concession fourteen of the Township of Greenock, County of Bruce, and Province of Ontario, celebrated the fiftieth year or Jubilee Anniversary of the building of their Church. Three services were held at which the Rev. W. J. Fiddes of Cayuga, a former pastor, preached to good congregations and was well received.

This occasion quite naturally points our memories back over the years that have gone and the many changes that have taken place, and the question arises. How did this Church come to be here? It must have a history. What is it?

The earliest settlers in this neighbourhood came in the fall of the Land Sale 1854, located and some of them built their shanties, purposing to hew out a home for themselves in what was known as the "Queen's Bush." In the spring of 1855 quite a number of families moved in and undertook the pioneer work of turning the forests into fruitful fields. The tiller of the soil was followed closely by the Pioneer Missionary who occasionally called on his way at a settler's cabin, held a service, passed along and in this way the seeds of truth were sown and the tender plant of grace in the heart of men was watered. However, these sturdy pioneers like Abraham realized that a home could not be a home without an altar where man can meet and hold fellowship with his Creator. During the summer of 1861, the late Rev. Geo. Watson, a Primitive Methodist Missionary, whose home was about two miles west of Walkerton, came through the bush on horseback and called at the home of the late Adam Purdy Lot, 15, con. 14, Greenock. Here he arranged to hold a service on the following Sunday morning, this developed into a fortnightly appointment on the Sunday morning, which continued for seven years under the guidance of Revs. Geo. Watson, Thos. Foster and David Gilbert, assisted by Messrs. Williams, Wilson and Stemlhorn, Episcopal Methodist Missionaries from Armow, in Kincardine Township, each of whom came in occasionally. During the term of Geo. Watson, one Sunday morning before the time for his service he was out taking a walk and on his return he said, "I believe there will some day be a Methodist Church near here."

Log Church In 1868

Time passed on and one day during the winter of 1867 and 8 the late Owen Webb and Adam Purdy were talking, and the question of a Church was introduced and they arranged that a meeting would be called at the home of Adam Purdy to see what would be done. The result was that by Spring, the pine logs were hewed and hawled to the site, at the North East corner of Lot 15, con. 14, and here on the 8th., day of April 1868 in the face of a severe snow storm the log walls of the present Church were erected. We cannot tell who all were at the raising but there were Anglicans, Presbyterians, Baptists, and Methodists. There was union in those days, everyone being anxious to help in the making of the House of Worship.

The cornerman held an important place in those days and of these we believe, John Cameron, who attended the Jubilee services, is the sole survivor. The late Owen Webb, a Baptist, and a life long attended the Jubilee services, is also the late James McKee was a third, and probably the fourth was Adam Purdy, while the late Jonathan Metcalf, had the oxen to hawl in the logs as required.

During the season of 1868, the shingle blocks were cut, the shingles split and shaved and finally placed on the roof. The late Wm. Geary of Pinkerton, then living on Lot. 11 Con 12, made the sash and helped finish off the inside, the ceiling being half inch pine just as it came from the saw, the cracks in walls being chinked and plastered outside and in.

The Pulpit consisted of a small table together with a chair for the Minister. These were brought from near Ottawa by a Mrs. Patterson, a former resident on Lot 16, Con. 14, loaned these to the Church. The chair now belongs to Mrs. Jos. Purdy while the table was given to Mrs. A. Groves, a granddaughter of Mrs. Purdy's.

The pews were somewhat old fashioned, but quite substantial, being made of small Basswood logs split through the centre, then four holes bored in the round side with an auger into which feet or legs made from a small sapling were tightly driven and then cut off to the proper height for a seat. The flat side or top was then planed off with an axe or adz, and it was then ready for use. These seats gave good service for six years.

The heating system is still the same, the old box stove, which was second hand fifty years ago still gives good service. The lighting system was a marvel and would be quite a curiosity in a City Church to-day. The old tallow candle, in the old tin candle sticks, hung from nails driven in to the pine logs, gave excellent service and the light of the Gospel shone out as brightly as under the Electric system of the present day.

"The same old way, the same old way,
There is just one road to Jesus,
By the way of the Cross of Calvary,
We must travel the same old way."

The Church was completed and opened for service during the summer or fall of 1868 by the late Rev. David Gilbert, the pastor then on the charge, and the occasion was just as important and as joyful as the opening or dedication of Solomon's Temple only on a smaller scale.

In the Fall of 1874 improvements were made, by wainscotting and plastering the walls and ceiling, also seating platform and railing were put in and the candles changed for lamps. The late Wm. Cox then of Brant was the contractor assisted by Wm. Kerry.

Some years later siding was placed on the outside walls, painted and new shingles put on roof..

In 1906 an up to date enclosed shed was put up to replace the old open one.

In 1914 the interior was papered and painted giving it a pleasant appearance.

The Social Side

This is the outward history as it were, but above and beyond all this there is another history. There is a social side to the history, and one of the great events of the early days was an old time Tea Meeting under the auspices of the Baptist people held somewhere about the early seventies. This was a great success, just to think of bringing a Melodeon from David H. Bowan's two and a half miles south of Glamis or a distance of five miles just to give a better tone to the entertainment. The Choir was fine and the meeting was a great success for every family was represented, and the Church had the honour of perhaps being the first one in the County to have an Organ, even if it was but temporary for a special occasion but the event is not forgotten even yet.

Why was the Church built? That men might have an altar, a meeting place where they could commune with the Father, and here we enter the larger history of the Church, the moulding and uplifting of men. Many faithful men laboured here as pastors or assistants during these years, giving their best for the people.

The Pioneer Missionaries

From the year 1861 to 1884, the time of the Union of the different branches of the Methodist Church, the work was carried on under the Primitive Methodists, with the Minister living on the Durham Road about a mile and three quarters west of Walkerton, near what was called the Bethel Church, the old site of which is marked by a little Cemetery. Baird's School on the 6th., Con. of Brant, and Ebenezer a little church on the 10th., of Brant a mile or so East of the gravel were two other appointments and for a number of years a fifth place known as Harringtons, some two or three miles south of Walkerton. This gives an idea of the work of the Pioneer Missionary in working a circuit like this, but they were in the work not for ease or pleasure but for the uplifting of mankind. Of the fifteen or more men who ed the longest, first as the pioneer of all and then a few years later being back for another term of two or three years, he was loved and esteemed by all. Others who laboured in those years were, Thos. Foster, David Gilbert, Mr. Anger, Thos. Dudley, Mr. Cowling, A. Sims, Mr. Nixon, T. G. Scott, Mr. Weatherell, Mr. Rowe, Chas. Mattenly, Thos. Crompton, John Garner and J. Stonehouse. Some of those were students sent out as assistants, but all were faithful men. Then there were the Local Preachers men who devoted a good deal of time to the work among them, the late Samuel Hoar, Wm. Cox, Wm. Anstett and John Watson now of Chesley and Jas. Purdy.

In the year 1884 Union came and this made a change in the Circuit reducing the limits to Eden Grove, Cargill, Glamis and Purdy's, Glamis joining in with Purdy's a few years ago. During this period the following Ministers have laboured with us, James Wass, Thos. R. Fydell, J. J. Noble, Mr. Parker, H. Berry, D. Sharp, J. W. Sanderson, R. L. Ockley, M. C. Peart, J. Truax, W. A. Fortune, J. F. Kay, W. H. Sterne, W. J. Fiddes, W. C. Almack, H. B. Storey and H. D. Tyler our present pastor. Mr. Parker deceased while on the circuit, and his term was filled by J. Truax then a student. All those men laboured and held forth the word of life in the little log Church and who can measure or estimate the influence and the power that has gone forth during those years in ever widening circles, to Canada's remotest bounds.

The Sunday School

Another part of the history is the Sunday School work. Somewhere in the early seventies a Sunday School was organized with the late Adam Purdy as Superintendent. This was a Union School, and was carried on for a number of years. There were no Lesson helps, leaves or Sunday papers in those days. Just the Bible, and a portion of a chapter was chosen usually a week ahead for the lesson. The Supt. would read this, and the Teachers explained as best they could and thus the seeds of truth were sown. After a number of years for some reason the school closed.

Again about the nineties another Sunday School was organized and kept up for some years. Then about the year 1903 another start was made and the work still goes on trying to instill principals of truth and righteousness in young and old.

Another branch of work that has gone hand and hand with all the others was the week-night prayer meeting. This began in the very early days of the Church when the tallow candle gave light, and no matter how busy the season these pioneers could find time for this service. And during a great part of the life history of this Church these meetings have been kept up and have proved to be a source of strength not only to the Church work as a whole, but especially to those who have taken an interest in them.

And now as we look back over these fifty years that are past and gone, we take courage and go forward to make more history.

. Thos. H. Purdy,
. Glamis.

Nearly A Fatality

Dr. Murray of Flesherton had an exceedingly close call from death one evening last week while working in the new garage which he recently erected. He had been letting the engine of his car run and the gas from the burned gasoline—a particularly deadly variety—had apparently accumulated in the building. At any rate the first thing the Dr. discovered was a peculiar sensation in ears and eyes. He made for the door and fresh air but was dizzy and staggering when he got there. Had he not been wise to the effects of this gas and the speed with which it operates, his days, hours and minutes were numbered. Had he sat down to think over the matter and decided as to what was wrong with him he never would have got up again, and another mysterious death would have been chronicled. Air tight garages and burnt gasoline are about as deadly a combination as can be produced, and many deaths have occurred in

BRUCE COUNTY PRAISED

For Magnificent Support Of Patriotic Efforts During the War—Good Roads By-law Passed By County Council Fixing Schedule of County Roads.

The December Session of the county council of the County of Bruce, was held at Walkerton, opening on December 3rd.

The statement of the County Treasurer was presented early in the session showing receipts and expenditures for the year up to 30th of November. This showed a total expenditure for the eleven months of $193,143.31 This of course, is very largely in excess of the annual expenditure. The chief items were for Patriotic Grants $99,-874.18 and on County Highways $29-901.61. Deducting these two items brings the expenditure down materially and about on par with that of pre-war days. The other main items were Public Schools $14,507.46 and on maturing debentures $3,125.48. There are still considerable amounts to be paid during December for Patriotic Grants, on County Highways and debentures but this will largely account for the heavy rate this year and show where most of the taxes went. A communication was read from the Canadian Patriotic Fund Chairman saying that they did not expect to have to ask this County for further funds and warmly praising the County as one of the banner counties in the Dominion in the matter of contributions for patriotic purposes.

It was decided to petition the Legislature to repeal the Ontario War Tax Act and the Moratorium Act. Both of these were considered war measures only and the war being over they should be repealed.

The County Highways Committee and Superintendent presented their reports. The Committee report they found it very difficult to get as much work done on the County Highways as they desired owing to the great trouble in getting labor and machinery. They had done what they could with the resources at hand and hoped now the war was over that the situation would materially improve and that next year considerable progress could be made. The discussion on this report took up much of the time of the Council as the roads to be comprised in the system were again discussed. Mr. Phelan had a strong delegation present to protest against the dropping of part of the 5th sideroad of Greenock from the system and Mr Craig, of Amabel, made a determined fight against dropping a road in Amabel from the system, but the Committee after going over and seeing the whole situation recommended dropping these two roads and the Council agreed with the Committee. A by-law was passed changing the description of the roads and adding the parts in Towns and Villages which it is agreed to have placed on the system since the original by-law was passed. This By-Law must be confirmed by the Lieut. Governor before it becomes effective.

The Warden in his report congratulated the County on the very successful termination of the war and expressed his appreciation on being Warden of a County that had so nobly done its full share in every way in the good cause. He also expressed the deep sympathy of himself and the County with those who mourn through the war.

Captain Coles, Judge Greig, Judge Klein, and Messrs. D. Robertson and Lay, were a delegation asking for a grant to the Canadian Navy League to assist the men and the orphans and widows of men of the mercantile marine, pointing out that the whole Allied cause had depended on these men and nothing had yet been done for them. Council decided that a grant of $20,000 should be made, this being of about the rate of 25c a head of Bruce's population. The grant is to be provided for next year.

John Niven, Lucknow and Peter Akeswaue, Cape Croker, were recommended for the appointment as County Constables.

Council decided to pass that the Durham Road, the Elora Road, the Saugeen Road and the 20th Sideroad from Allenford to Hanover be assumed by the Department as Provincial County Highways.

The usual large number of Committee Reports of the work done since June Session and large number of accounts coming up business for the year were attended to.

A record was made with the work and no time was lost with the result that Council was able to adjourn on Thursday instead of, as usual, on Friday.

Masonic Officers

Saugeen Lodge No. 192, A. F. and A. M. elected officers for the ensuring year on Tuesday night as follows:—Im. Past Master, John Jones; Wor. Master, David George; Senior Warden, Talbert Boss; Junior Warden, H. J. Boan; Secretary, R. H. McKay; Treas. H. G. Hunter; Auditors, D. McKerracher and A. P. Johnston.

POOR Mrs. Midgely sat in her disordered living room in an utterly hopeless attitude.

"Oh, dear," she sighed, "I haven't the heart to tidy the house or even myself. To think of Christmas only three weeks away, and not one gift for the children and no hope of getting any. I am glad they are at school; I can at least have a good cry!"

Just as she was getting out her handkerchief preparatory to enjoying this unusual luxury she heard the postman's step on the porch. Habit forced her to gulp back the tears and go to the door. He handed her several letters, all of which she recognized as bills, with the exception of one, which bore the handwriting of her sister Judith.

"Anne, dear," she wrote, "at last I can visit you, and shall be with you in a few days."

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! To think of Judith visiting us at a time like this, when we can hardly manage, with the high cost of living, to set the table, let alone having a holiday time!"

Mrs. Midgely indulged in the desired cry, then, realizing there was much to be done, she dried her eyes, and with the relief that the shedding of tears gave her, she started in to put the house in order.

Became a Great Help to Judith.

"At least we'll be clean," she said to herself, as she made broom and duster fly about.

Some months before this time Henry Midgely had lost his position as bookkeeper on account of the failure of the firm for which he worked. They had had no idea of impending conditions and were almost staggered by the blow. The Midgelys had four growing children and every month had lived up to the salary. Mr. Midgely had just found another position. When Anne wrote home she did not tell her family of their loss, and she bravely set herself the task of making up for the months when debts had accumulated.

Christmas! That was the hard part. Nothing for the children! They had had such jolly times before, with presents for everyone. Now she had more work than ever to do and less time for making presents, even if she had the money with which to buy material.

"I shall have to tell Judith," she said to her husband that night, when they were seated by the lamp and the children were in bed, "how sorry we are that we cannot make her visit a pleasant one."

"It is too bad," said he. "Judith is such a slave to your father, looking after his every whim and never thinking of herself. I wish she had a home of her own. I always planned to give her a really good time whenever she should make that long-deferred visit."

Judith arrived, her face shining with happiness.

"At last I am here! Are you quite well, Annie?"

"Oh, yes dear." Mrs. Midgely's voice had a strange note in it. Judith looked up quickly.

"You don't look well, Anne. What is the matter?"

Poor Anne let the floodgates of her tears open and told Judith her troubles.

"It's only that we don't want you to have a stupid time, Judith."

"Never mind about me," answered Judith. "I am wildly happy just to be here with you all. But I am glad you told me."

The children were delighted to have their aunt with them. They had often visited the pleasant old white house that had been their mother's home and it was a happy party that surrounded the dinner table that night. Mrs. Midgely [illegible] and her sister's high spirits.

Next morning after Judith had kissed the four children as they left for school, she turned to her sister and said:

"Anne, dear, we must take an inventory of stock and see what we can make for the kiddies for Christmas."

"There is nothing," said Anne.

"We'll find something!" determinedly answered Judith.

"You can make things out of comparatively nothing," laughed Anne, "but you can't make them out of absolutely nothing."

"Yes, we can! I'll send for my yarns and knit a cap and mittens for each child. They are using bright colors and combinations of colors. In that way we can use your left-over yarns, too. We'll have plenty without buying any more, and I knit rapidly. I've done lots of this work for the Red Cross."

She made looms with empty spools and pins, from which each child helped to make a round string which they worked on at odd moments. They were to be sewed on the mittens. No more hunting for the "other mitten." The children were entertained with the idea of being useful and of helping Aunt Judith.

The sisters looked up discarded dolls and sewed up legs and arms, painted the faces and restored the hair. Entire outfits of clothes that could be taken off and put on were made from bits of cloth found in the scrap bag, and they crocheted lace enough for the trimming. These were for the two little girls, Martha and Peggy, aged seven and nine.

How to make eleven-year-old Ralph happy with left-overs was the problem. Then Judith remembered that years ago she had been the recipient of a stamp book which she had not used. She wrote her father for it, and then invested in some mixed stamps for Ralph to make a beginning with. A few new puzzles and toys from the ten-cent store made a goodly array of bright things for Tommy, who was the youngest child.

"Now for the dinner," said Judith. "Let's not try to have the usual Christmas dinner, but think up something different."

"I did so want to ask Mr. and Mrs. Lambert," sighed Anne. "They came from England several years ago, and are so alone at Christmas time. I had hoped to have them, but of course I cannot do it this year."

"That gives me the very idea, Anne. We'll invite them and surprise them with a regular English dinner—roast beef, Yorkshire pudding and gravy, and have roly-poly pudding for dessert."

The days flew by with the sisters as busy as bees. Anne was never happier in all her life. She had not time for repining, and found that by simply making the best of everything she had no real troubles at all. Henry, too, caught the spirit of hope, and remarked to his wife:

"It won't be long until we have made up for lost time, and I like my new position better than the old one, because it has more of a future to it."

The Lamberts were delighted with the invitation, as they were expecting a lonely day, far away from Merrie England.

One day, when Judith came in from shopping, Anne met her with the news:

"A nephew, John Leigh, has surprised the Lamberts. He has been service in France, and is sent here by the British government on a mission to Washington. He has a week's vacation and has come to spend it with them. I insisted that he come to our Christmas dinner, and they are all going to call tonight."

"How interesting," exclaimed Judith. "Perhaps he can advise me about my Red Cross work."

Everyone was delighted to meet the handsome young soldier and eager to hear stories of "over there" from one who knew. John became a great help to Judith with her plans for the children's Christmas and her Red Cross work. In fact, he thought of so many things that he came to the Midgely's at least once a day and every evening. He trimmed the tree while Judith made the simple things to adorn it.

One evening Mrs. Midgely remarked to her husband: "I never saw a young man so interested in children."

He looked up from his paper in amused surprise. "My dear, do you really think he is interested only in the children?"

"John, you don't mean Judith?"

"Certainly. It has been evident from the first."

Christmas arrived—a glorious day, with snow on the ground. The children had hung up their stockings into the bottom of each had been placed the bright new cap and mittens, and a gay bag of candy or nuts, while the other gifts were grouped about the tree.

After the successful dinner was eaten they spent the evening in singing carols, John had a good tenor voice and Judith accompanied him on the piano. Then he sang stilly songs he had learned in the trenches.

The guests voted that a delightful time, voicing in the happiest Christmas of all. Mrs. Midgely turned to her sister.

"Only think, Judith, I was afraid you would have a dull time. The children have guessed nothing, and you have been an angel of mercy!"

"Happiness has nothing to do with the [illegible] of things," smiled Judith; "it is all a state of mind. And—John and I will have something to tell you tomorrow, when he leaves for the front."

His Day.

"I presume you had a great time Christmas, Willie?"

"Yes, I didn't have no [illegible] Christmas day, but I did the [illegible]."

"Were you sick on Christmas?"

"Nope. But you see the [illegible] Christmas ya had to go to work and I got a chance to play with [illegible] my toys then."

EVERY year about the middle of November a small sign appeared over the door of the Thomas cottage which bore the legend, "The Evergreen Shop."

Every year during the Christmas season Ruth Thomas made hundreds of evergreen wreaths, which she sold for Christmas decorations.

This was why the people of Brierly called her the evergreen girl.

The day before Christmas Ruth sat in her little shop finishing the last wreath she would make that season.

"There!" she said, deftly twisting a sprig of bright red berries among the evergreen stems, "that finishes Helen Stanwood's order, and thank goodness it's done in time. Oh, dear!" she sighed, laying the wreath aside, "I do wish I could spend one Christmas time enjoying myself a bit others do. Why, there has not been anyone here over the holidays since I can remember, and I have not been to a Christmas party in years—not since the time I went over to Dolly Blair's with Dane."

A warm color suddenly glowed in the girl's cheeks and there was a soft light in her brown eyes as she thought of that memorable night.

Dane Stanwood had taken her to that party. Once during the evening he caught her as she was standing under the mistletoe bough, and—The sudden roar of a high-power automobile broke in upon Ruth's musings, and she looked out in time to see a long blue roadster flash past the gate.

The car belonged to Dane Stanwood.

Shortly after the Christmas party at Dolly Blair's Dane had gone West to become a mining engineer. He had written a few times to Ruth and then the letters had stopped coming, and she had not heard from him for nearly four years. Then, just a month ago, he had suddenly appeared in Brierly with the blue racing car. Soon it was rumored that he had made a fortune in the mines.

"The Girl I Expect to Marry Is Here."

The second week after his return Stanwood bought the old Blair mansion and gave the information that he intended to move into his new home before Christmas. Next he announced that preparations were under way for a party which he was giving Christmas eve.

The evergreen girl had been surprised and a little bit hurt because Dane had not even called. She had thought it strange, too, at first, that she did not receive an invitation to the party, for she knew nearly everyone in Brierly was going.

But when Ruth was told the party was to be given in honor of Stanwood's fiancee, she understood why she had not been invited.

"That is why Helen Stanwood didn't mention the party when she ordered these wreaths," Ruth thought, as she began tying them together. "Of course, I would not go anyway now. My, but they will have to hurry if they hang all these wreaths before eight o'clock."

The evergreen girl was so busy getting the Stanwood order ready that she did not notice that the blue roadster had returned and stopped by the gate. Neither did she observe the broad-shouldered young man who was striding up the path. The bell jingled merrily.

"There's Helen now, after the wreaths," Ruth thought, and she ran to the door. Dane was standing in the porch.

"Why, Dane!" she exclaimed, drawing back in confusion. "I—you—I startled me. I thought it was your sister, and—"

"Helen has gone to Toronto to meet a friend who is coming over the holidays with us," said Dane, "so she sent me after the wreaths." He rolled down the sleeves of his evergreen shop, don't it?"

"Yes," said Ruth, forcing a smile in return.

"And you are the evergreen girl?"

"I believe they call me that," she answered.

"Well," said Stanwood, "She told me to be sure and fetch you back with me when I returned."

"Back with you!" echoed Ruth. "Really I—I can't go. There is so much to do here, and—"

"Rot!" laughed Dane. "Of course you will go back with me. Fact is, you'll have to." He waved his hand as Ruth started to speak. "No excuses now, for I won't listen to 'em. You see," Stanwood went on, "Sis and her friend were supposed to help me things ready for the party tonight, but she telephoned just as I was leaving the house that the train on which her friend was to arrive is very late. She may not get back until nine o'clock, and the party begins at eight. I told Sis I could never get things ready in time, for the decorating isn't half done. Then she happened to think of you, and I said right off that you would be just the one to help us out. You're not going to disappoint us, are you?" very seriously.

"Well, perhaps I can go for a little while," said Ruth. "I'd dearly love to trim that Christmas tree."

"Of course, I won't stay to the party," she thought as she scurried upstairs after a wrap. "So I won't take Dane's sweetheart, for of course she is the one Helen is to meet at the train. And I really ought to help Dane and his sister out, for they have been such good customers."

Dane ushered Ruth into the big drawing parlors of his new home, which the Christmas tree had been placed.

"Do you suppose," he asked, pointing to a great pile of evergreen at one end of the room, "we will be able to hang all these wreaths and then decorate the tree before eight o'clock?"

The evergreen girl gave a merry little laugh.

"I am sure we can if we work fast," she answered. "I am used to this work, you know, and with your help it won't take long."

"How long have you been the evergreen girl?" Dane asked, as he and Ruth were trimming a chandelier.

"This is my third season," Ruth replied. "I found that there was a big demand for wreaths and laurel trimming during the Christmas holidays, so three years ago I opened an Evergreen shop. I love to do this kind of work, and although the season is a short one, my little shop pays well."

The evergreen girl might have added that, more than this, the rush of work just at Christmas time helped her to forget the dull ache in her heart which was always so hard to bear during the holidays. She said nothing of this, though, but smiled instead.

"Tell me, Dane, how you have spent Christmas while you have been away. Have you been where there was much merry-making?"

"For the past three years," said Stanwood, "I've celebrated Christmas by working from dawn 'till dark. This is the first enjoyable Christmas eve I have known since I left Brierly."

"It has been a very pleasant evening for me, too," said Ruth, "and I have enjoyed it ever so much. Now we'll trim the Christmas tree, and then you can take me home and get back in time for the party."

At half-past seven Dane surveyed the big double parlors with satisfaction. With the help of the evergreen girl he had finished the decorations and everything was in readiness for the guests.

"The rooms look just as they did four years ago at Dolly Blair's Christmas tree—even the mistletoe bough," said Dane. "Don't you remember how that one hung right over our heads, as this one does now?"

The evergreen girl was silent.

"Had you forgotten, Ruth?" he persisted.

"No," softly, "I had not forgotten."

"You never thought I had forgotten, did you, dear?"

"But you never wrote, Dane."

"Because for a long time I was miles from a railroad or post office and could not send any mail. But I've thought of that night, though, and all these years I've been planning to have a Christmas party as much like that one as I could, only this one tonight will be for you."

"But isn't the friend who is coming with Helen your fiancee?" faltered Ruth.

"Not exactly," laughed Dane. "That friend is Harry North, Helen's fiance. The girl I expect to marry is here, now, and, by Jove! I've caught her again standing under the mistletoe bough."

Increase the Dog Tax

Nearly everybody likes a dog but these times Walkerton appears to have more than its share of stray canines. Somebody has figured that it costs $16.25 a year at present prices to feed an average dog. To keep useless pets in these days of high prices is a luxury that no one should be made to pay for. A recent provincial statute gives municipal councils authority to go the limit in taxing dogs. Here is a chance for the next Town Council to increase its revenue within bounds by shoving up the tax a couple of notches.

Bracebridge Alien Case

Walkerton people followed with interest the Bracebridge case in which citizens of alien origin appealed convictions for not registering. The cases were the same as those tried in Walkerton a few months ago when several residents of Brant and Bruce were fined $300 each, the fines afterwards being remitted. In the Bracebridge appeal Mr. Justice Riddell decided in favor of the appellants and did not even take the usual course of protecting the magistrate, who is now in for heavy costs and may have to defend an action in the civil courts.

No Departmental Exams.

To enable schools to make up the loss of time occasioned by the Influenza epidemic, Hon. Dr. J. H. Cody, Minister of Education, has stated that he had decided to circularize school boards, inspectors and teachers to the effect that it will not be necessary to hold any of the departmental examinations in June next, so that the second term of the school year will be longer than it has been for several years. The minister said he believed that with this provision made in the regulations for the conduct of these examinations, the ill effects on the school work of the interruptions that have occurred may be reasonably well overcome without encroaching on the holidays of the pupils.

A Merry Christmas To You All

From Grandfather who carries so cheerily the weight of his fourscore years to the tiniest toddler just being introduced to the mysterious visit of Santa Claus, we extend our Heartiest Greetings at this season.

Since Christ was born in Bethlehem, Christian peoples, down through the years, have treasured the observance of Christmas Day, with its glorious message of "Peace on Earth, Goodwill towards Men." During the last few years the joy of the Christmas season has been marred by a world at war. It has been difficult to rejoice with the thoughts far away at a lonely grave in Flanders; it has been hard to be glad in the face of a hovering dreaded fatal news from the battle-field.

But now the fighting is ended; the Victory is all but won. In the conflict many of our men have given their all for high ideals. By the supreme sacrifice of life, they have shaped a new world, and a better one. To what glorious purpose have they lived and died! This is the great consolation that this Christmas brings to those who mourn for the gallant men who have paid the price of victory.

In order that we may show ourselves worthy of them, let us now surrender to the season, let us not be afraid to be a bit soft towards everybody, let us obey the impulse to kindness and throw off the inhibition on spontaneous friendliness. Let our thoughts reach out to the great privilege of helping those little ones who have been deprived of even the ordinary comforts, let us glorify this Christmastide by sharing our blessings with others.

Mr. Joe Dietrich of the University Officers Training Corps, Toronto, is home spending Christmas leave at his home at Riversdale.

Mr. Frank Smith of the Royal Bank, Clifford, came home Tuesday of last week with the flu. A slight touch of pneumonia has developed but at latest report Frank is doing well.

Mrs. Zavitz and babe, who have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kelly, returned this week to her home at Windsor. Her brother, Leonard accompanied her to spend the holidays at Windsor.

Mrs. Wm. Long, Durham Road and three daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Long and family, and Mr. Ben Long have all been victims of the Flu. Mr. Bob Long's case developed into pneumonia but he is now on way to recovery.

CHIEF'S SON IS ALIVE

PRIVATE ARCHIE FERGUSON

A post card received here on Saturday morning brought a happy Christmas to Chief Ferguson and his family. The card was from his son, Pte. Archie Ferguson, who had been reported wounded and missing since Oct. 1st. It was written on October, 16th., and stated that he was alive and a prisoner in Germany, but is wounded in the legs. From earlier reports Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson had little reason to hope they would ever see their son again, and the word that Archie is still living brought joy to the family which citizens in general shared. Archie is the youngest of the Chief's three sons Overseas, in fact, the youngest in the family. He enlisted with the 160th. at the age of 16, and got to France along with his brother Jack in time to take part in the final offensive, as a member of the 1st. Regt. Can. Machine Gun Batt'n. The Chief cabled the good news to his daughter Nursing Sister Annie Ferguson on Saturday morning so that it should reach her in time to make a joyful Christmas for her and her other two soldier brothers.

Died At Rochester

Mrs. J. A. Rowland received word on Thursday last that her father, Mr. W. Clark, had passed away at his home in Rochester, N. Y. The deceased was in his 85th. year.

The Greatest Ever

"Hearts of the World," the great film production which Mr. Leeson is bringing to Walkerton Town Hall New Years' Day, is acknowledged to be the greatest film ever staged. The scenes were photographed right at the Battle Front.

McNab Likely Mayor

Ex-Warden Alex McNab is coming out, we understand, for the Mayoralty. Six years at the municipal at table, on top of a legal training, put him almost in a class by himself, so far as municipal wisdom is concerned. If he has forgotten anything he has only to refer to his side-partner, Ex-Mayor Fred Lippert, who knows a few things about municipal matters himself. We predict that if McNab is Mayor for 1919 he will fill the chair with dignity and ability.

"Still Going Strong"

It is nearly four years since Fred Jewell, one of Walkerton's heroic boys who arrived home last week, left for the Front. Fred was only seventeen then and he has since grown a bit both in stature and in soldierly appearance. He looks well in spite of everything he has come through, which is saying a good deal. Fred enlisted with the 34th. in March, 1915, went Overseas with a second draft from that unit in August 1915, and on arriving in England, crossed the Channel to join the 15th Batt'n. After six month's fighting he was buried by a shell. After an hour and a half he was unearthed more dead than alive and with both legs paralyzed from the feet to above the knees. For some time it was thought he would never use his limbs again, but youth and determination were on Fred's side and next thing we heard of him he was hiking off to France as an Artillery driver. After ten and a half months more at the Front he was gassed at the Battle of Passchendaele Ridge and shipped to Blighty where he has been since January last. Before returning home Fred was re-examined and put in B 2 Category, the doctors telling him he had chronic ronchitis. But Fred has no regrets and says he's "Still going strong."

Expected Home This Week

Nursing Sister Lizzie Bennie who has been on duty in hospitals in England for some time is expected to arrive here this week having been called home on account of the serious illness of her mother. The condition of Mrs. Bennie, who has been ill for several weeks, remains unchanged.

Back From Overseas

Mr. William D. Thompson, formerly Public Librarian here, was one of the Canadian Soldiers who landed from the Teutonic, W.B. is spending a day or two at Wingham, where Mrs. Thompson has been making her home, before coming to Walkerton. Mr. Thompson is said to be looking fine and fit, and his many old friends here will certainly be glad to welcome him back.

Hand Badly Cut

Mr. Harry Farr, son of Mr. James Farr, Durham Road, was the victim of a bad accident recently while sawing wood with a circular saw at the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. Ed Hopkins, South Line. He tripped and fell and in trying to save himself, his hand touched the buzz-saw which cut through it from the middle finger almost to the wrist. The doctor will be able to save the disabled member but it will take some time to bring it back to usefulness.

Death of Gordon Helm

Word reached here this week of the death of a former Walkerton young man who was highly respected here, Gordon Helm, who passed away from the flu, while visiting at his brother, Will's, at Calgary. Gordon was in the undertaking business at Youngstown, Alta. His mother had been visiting him and when she left to go to her son, Will's, he accompanied her on the journey. He passed away at Calgary Hospital, after a short illness. Gordon was in his 34th. year and leaves a wife and five months' old babe to mourn his untimely death. His mother, mother, who makes her home at New Hamburg, his brother at Calgary, and a sister (Annie) Mrs. Sterling of Youngston, Alta. also survive. The deceased was a nephew of Messrs. C. Patrick and E. Walford of Walkerton.

Good Men Needed

The election of a Town Council for 1919 is important business that concerns every citizen of Walkerton. During the past year the Town Council sat tight, held onto the purse-things, wisely we think, and initiated nothing new, waiting until after the war. During the next few years there is the need for men of initiative and business ability at the Council Table, and it is in the highest interests of the ratepayers that such men be brought out and put there. There are good men on the present Council and it is regrettable to hear practically all of them say they are dropping out. It is to be hoped some of them at least will stay in the field. Town business is handicapped if every year the Mayor has to face a new set of greenhorns. We trust a good line-up of candidates will be brought out next Monday and that the citizens will show their interest by filling the hall next Monday evening when municipal matters will be discussed.

Death of Janet Carr

Mr. Alex Carr, who removed to town recently from Pinkerton, was sadly bereaved on Monday by the loss of his eldest daughter, Miss Janet May, a fine young lady of 18 years. Miss Carr was a student at the O.A.C. She came home a couple of weeks ago to see her brother, Lorne, of the Bank of Commerce, Winnipeg, who was home on a short visit. While here the flu broke out badly at Guelph and she decided to go down and pack her trunk and return home until after the epidemic had subsided. But in the short time she was there she contracted the influenza and came home sick a week ago Saturday. Her death took place on Monday morning and the funeral took place the same day at Purdy's Cemetery, service being conducted by R. M. Gale. Miss Carr was a bright, active young lady of more than ordinary intelligence and her taking off just when the bud of winsome young womanhood was breaking into bloom, is a sad blow to the family. Besides her father and mother, she leaves to mourn an older brother, Lorne of Winnipeg and Murray, [illegible]

LINGERIE TO BE ADORNED

"Frillery" Must Be Ornamented With Hand Painting, Is a Coming Edict of Fashion.

Well, girls, you will soon be wearing your own art gallery. Painted lingerie is coming, and who knows but what you will have a birdseye view of the Steel city, with its mills in full blast, running around the bottom of your shirt? For it is said that lingerie that once screamed will make its painted approach much more noiselessly and without ostentation, but with force. Oil paintings done to suit individual taste on the lingerie are among the fall announcements. Each place is to follow a master design, and sets will have their day in court. Thus, a mosquito-net dress will put a spider web stocking most eminently in the shade, if not entirely out of business, and a whole flock of vistas opens up before those of us who have eyes with limitless possibilities as to scenic effects, with startling backgrounds and atmospheric tonalities. "Washington Crossing the Delaware," "Joan of Arc Listening to the Voices," "The Battle of Waterloo" and examples of the shot-to-pieces school may all be harnessed to the new fad. The artistic temperament may now take on a new lease of life, in spite of the agitation in favor of a tax on art ranging up to 25 per cent. It may mount upon eagle's wings. It may run without weariness. It may—but what's the use? The new fad is a positive boon to struggling artists from Maine to California, whose productions have, since the war, had to confront not only a sluggish, but a positively dead market. Let us all rise in our places and give three rousing cheers for the application of painting to lingerie.—New York Times.

LINKS ITALY AND AMERICA

Newly Installed Wireless Telegraphy Plant Is the Most Powerful That Has Yet Been Built.

The announcement that Italy and the United States have recently been connected by wireless telegraphy deserves more notice than it has received. This achievement probably makes a back number of the great wireless station at Nauen, near Berlin, which has been so useful to Germany and which, when the war broke out, claimed to be the most powerful in the world, with an effective range of between 6,000 and 6,000 miles. From the nearest point in Italy to the United States transatlantic station at Arlington, near Washington, is not less than 6,200 miles, and to send an intelligible message across that distance might be more than even Nauen could accomplish. Owing to the hostility between the ether waves which carry wireless messages and sunshine, it is always easier to send messages long distances in northerly latitudes than in those more South, and the power required to cover a given distance increases with nearness to the equator. The wireless route between Rome and Arlington is for a good part of the way at least 800 miles nearer the equator than that between Nauen and the United States, which fact considerably adds to the achievement of the Italian and American experts.—London Candidate.

Women as Aviators.

"Out of a thousand women who want to fly," says C. G. Grey, London aviation expert, "you might find one who has the right kind of nerve for flying. A great many women learned to fly before the war, but I never came across more than one who could really fly. She was a very exceptional woman altogether. In the United States Ruth Law was the first woman to fly from Chicago to New York. She came of an acrobatic family, Katherine Stinson, another American girl, nearly completed the same feat recently. But for one woman of this type you have thousands hysterically anxious to fly, and they would only break their necks as well as government property and be a general nuisance."

Airplane Mail Popular.

An average of 1,000 packets of mail are now being carried regularly every day between Vienna and Kiev by airplane. The distance between the two cities is 750 miles and the claim is made that this is the longest route now being operated in any part of the world. The trip takes from ten to twelve hours, compared to forty hours by train. It is made in four stages, the intermediate stops being Cracow, Lemberg and Proskurow.

Blow Up the Family Wash.

Down in Galveston recently an innocent looking chunk of iron propped a family boiler over the fire for the Monday wash. But there wasn't any washing that day. The prop proved to be a civil war shell, vintage of 1863, and fulfilled its destiny by seeding the boiler through the roof and shaking the surrounding territory.—Omaha Bee.

Ministerial Warriors.

Probably no town in Maine has equaled Dexter as far as sending its ministers into war work is concerned. Four out of its six active pastors will have answered the call within a short time. They are Rev. Ambrose B. McAlister, Rev. George C. Sauer, Rev. H. Lincoln MacKenzie and Rev. Stanley Gates Spear.

Guarded Treasure.

"Going to stay home all summer?"

"I'm obliged to. I've got a load of coal in the cellar and I can't afford a private watchman."

Telescope BUY-AT-HOME Campaign

TWELVE SOUND REASONS FOR BUYING AT HOME . . .

BECAUSE loyalty to a community by its men and women is the first essential to national patriotism.

BECAUSE the interests of the home dealer and the home consumer are mutual—what hurt one must hurt the other.

BECAUSE the home business man pays the lion's share of assessment rates and all public welfare donations—whereas the foreign dealer contributes nothing and has absolutely no interest in your community other than the cash he takes out of it.

BECAUSE continued patronage of the big city catalogue concerns is a short-sighted unprogressive, and in the long run an economically suicidal practice.

BECAUSE the fundamental law of commonwealth economy is to spend your money where you have earned it.

BECAUSE your home business man is entitled to your cash. He stands behind the goods he sells, while you have no redress from being "stung" by outside dealers.

BECAUSE spending your money away from home is like sowing grain in a stranger's field to that he may reap the harvest.

BECAUSE when you drain your community by diverting the legitimate channels of trade, you also drain it of its young men and young women and all energy and substance for development.

BECAUSE prices of farm and town property and local markets go down to zero where there is no healthy, progressive community trading.

BECAUSE the more money circulating in a community the more valuable property becomes, the higher are wages and the better the general conditions that prevail. "Unity there is strength," and united home buying builds up a community bulwark that will weather the severest economic storms.

BECAUSE you must send cash in advance to the big city dealer and you have no opportunity to inspect the goods. Apart from the hundred and one good, sound reasons for home buying, it never pays to buy a pig or a suit of clothes in the dark.

BECAUSE it is a duty you owe to yourself, to your family and to posterity to build up your community so that it has a wholesome atmosphere and is advancing with the times instead of drifting into habit of sloth, ruin and decay.

Markets Needed by the Farmers

Presence of Thriving Cities, Near by, Important to Residents of Country.—Merchants do Their Part.— Town and Rural Community are Dependent upon Each Other, Co-operation Alone Brings Prosperity To Both

Residents of towns and cities everywhere are beginning to realize more acutely the fact that, except under very unusual conditions, their communities will prosper and develop only in proportion to the prosperity and development that comes to the farming sections which surround them. Realizing this fact, commercial clubs and chambers of commerce have in recent years been devoting as much of their attention to developing the country districts as they have to securing new industries and attracting new residents. They know that as the country about the town becomes more thickly settled and as the farmers become more prosperous the more money will be spent in the towns and the faster these towns will grow. It is largely for this reason that the residents of the towns and cities have been doing more and improving marketing conditions. The towns and cities have contributed more and more liberally toward the building of good roads in the country districts and have paid a large part of the expense of maintaining agricultural experts to assist the farmers in growing bigger crops when they are placed on the market.

Not One-Sided Proposition.

But this is not a one-sided proposition. If the town is dependent upon the country, so is the country dependent upon the town. What the farmer raises is worth absolutely nothing to him unless he can sell it at a price that will pay him a fair return on the money and time invested in its production. The farmer, without market, would be in the same fix as a storekeeper without customers. In almost every case the farmer is dependent upon the nearby town or city for a market for at least his perishable products. In the language of the street, it is a fifty-fifty proposition. The town needs the country and the country needs the town. The farmer needs the assistance of the storekeepers of the town in getting good roads over which he may haul his products without losing more time than the products are worth. He often needs the assistance of the storekeepers in helping him over a period of financial stringency.

Storekeepers Needs Farmer's Trade

On the other hand the storekeeper needs the business of the farmer. He does not ask the farmer to sell him his products on credit even though at the time he may be hard pushed for cash and may need more credit badly. He does not ask the farmer to help him build a sidewalk in front of his store. He does not ask for the business of the farmer provided that he can sell the farmer the goods he needs at as low a price as he can secure them for elsewhere.

But does he always get the farmer's business? Ask the mail order man in the big city or ask the postmaster or the express agent in any town or city in the country. They could, if they would, tell of thousands of dollars sent away to the big cities to pay for goods that could be purchased just as cheaply and much more conveniently in the nearest town or village. The thousands of dollars, when sent to the mail order houses in the big cities, never come back. They do not help to build good roads past the farmers houses. When the next crops are harvested the mail order man won't buy any of the farmers products. The potatoes, the turnips, the apples and other things that the farmer raises may lie and rot upon the ground so far as the mail order man is concerned.

Mr. Ezra Briggs, High County Constable, was here last Friday morning, investigating the recent burglary at Helwig Bros.' store. No definite clue as to identity of the guilty party has been obtained.—Mildmay Gazette.

Port Elgin and Hydro

From fairly good authority the Times is informed that Hydro construction work will begin in Port Elgin within a year. The government is practically pledged to begin construction of public work in order to assist in the plan to employ thousands of men more or less previously engaged in munition making and also to provide returning soldiers with occupations. If this work of building Hydro dams, etc., does go on in Port Elgin it would seem to be in spite of ourselves. Is it not passing strange that all the other town municipalities about Port Elgin have passed snubbing by-laws and we have not moved in that direction?—Port Elgin Times.

Rod and Gun is published by W. J Taylor Limited, Woodstock, Ont.

A Barn de Luxe

The city council was recently asked to vote $50,000 for a barn at the jail farm, says the Toronto World. The proposal was laughed out of court. Now a second request is soon to be trotted out for $25,000, and it is expected it will meet the same fate. The barn would house 40 horses, some hay and oats and farm machinery. A well-known farmer, whose barns are the pride of York County said when he heard of the proposal: "No barn could cost as much but then, I suppose, those city folks reckon on putting hot and cold running water and a separate toilet in each stall and bed the horses down every night with a comfortable spring mattress. They must also intend to provide eiderdown quilts and drape the stalls with velour curtains so as to ensure privacy.

No Credit From the Mail Order Man

The mail order man won't sell the farmer 2 cents' worth of goods on one day's credit no matter how badly the farmer may need the goods or how little ready cash he has to pay for them. If the farmer's house burns down the mail order man is not going to build another home. He will take what cash he can get the farmer to send him and there his interest in the farmer ends. If the farmer has no money to pay for what he needs, the mail order man will find others to help swell the stream of dollars which is building up his great fortune and helping build up the great city in which he lives. Let the home merchant help the farmer when he needs it. And the local merchant does help the farmer as long as he can, but there comes a time when he cannot. He cannot make money without customers. Without the legitimate profit that he makes from his sales he cannot "carry" the farmers over the rough spots, he cannot contribute to the good roads funds, he cannot pay the farmer cash for his products.

ALFALFA AND PROSPERITY

If there is one crop more than another on which the prosperity of a country may be firmly established it is alfalfa—the king of fodder crops. This wonderful crop has been the foundation of successful irrigation agriculture in the United States, and history is now repeating itself in Canada. In Southern Alberta already an important alfalfa growing district—government reports show that there were 30,000 acres in this crop this year—farmers are using more and more of their irrigated lands every year for the growing of this valuable fodder, and it is only a question of time when the irrigable lands of Southern Alberta will rank among the largest alfalfa producing areas on the North American continent. The country is still young. Thousands of acres of irrigable land have not been touched by the plow. Thousands more have been broken during the last two seasons and are not yet ready for this crop, as it does not do well until the sod has been thoroughly integrated — a process which is best accomplished by the growing of one or two other crops beforehand. Then, too, during the last two years the most urgent call has been for wheat.

For the growth of alfalfa Southern Alberta is extremely well favored. Alfalfa requires abundant sunshine and a warm summer temperature. Southern Alberta has both. During the summer months the days are [illegible] farther north, and the [illegible] warmer [illegible] coming nearer to the [illegible] deep, well-drained soil. These are special characteristics of the soil in Southern Alberta. Alfalfa thrives best under irrigation, in arid and semi-arid climates. The climate of Southern Alberta may be said to be semi-arid, and under irrigation alfalfa grows there to its highest perfection.

In the Lethbridge irrigation district, which is the oldest of the irrigated areas of Southern Alberta, alfalfa is beginning to be looked upon as the mainstay of the farmer. Yielding from three to four tons to the acre, and in some cases even more, in two cuttings, and selling at from $25 to $30 a ton, alfalfa has brought farmers returns of $100 an acre and upwards in one season. It is no wonder that a visitor driving through this country recently and seeing the beautiful green alfalfa fields on every hand should pronounce it one of the most prosperous districts in the whole of Western Canada.

But besides these very satisfactory returns from the sale of the hay, alfalfa is of inestimable value on account of the improved condition in which it leaves the soil in which it has been grown. Enormous yields of other crops have been obtained on land previously growing alfalfa. In 1915, which was by no means an extraordinary crop year, 737 bushels of potatoes to the acre were raised at Lethbridge on land which had been in alfalfa the previous year. Wheat on similar land yielded an [illegible] years 50 and 60 bushels to the acre [illegible] acres of land near Lethbridge that were planted to tomatoes this year after being in alfalfa for a few years produced 35,000 pounds of ripe fruit in less than two months after being set out.

And this is not all that can be done with these irrigated lands. To obtain the fullest revenue would require that no roughage be sent from the farms as such, but only in the form of butter, cheese, beef, mutton and pork. The plant food contained in alfalfa hay is often worth more than the money actually received for the hay itself, high though this is. If only manufactured products were sent away this valuable plant food would be left on the farm, giving it every year increasing fertility. It is held that for every acre of irrigable land at least one head of cattle, or a proportionate number of hogs or sheep, can be supported all the year round. This fact is beginning to be appreciated, and it means that many times the number of livestock at present kept can be maintained on these irrigable lands. And as the number of live stock increases, the prosperity of the country will grow correspondingly. There are already signs that the time is not far distant when the irrigable areas of Southern Alberta will become the home of the most closely settled and most prosperous mixed farming and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

EX-REEVE ROBT. RUSSELL

Was Resident Of Walkerton Forty-three Years—Over Thirty Years As Town Constable—A Fearless Officer and Councillor.

Ex-Reeve Robert Russell, whose death on Wednesday, Dec 18th. was reported in last week's Telescope, was a familiar figure on the streets of Walkerton for many years. For upwards of twenty years, he occupied the position of Constable, acting as county and provincial officer also contemporaneously. In 1916 he was elected a member of the Town Council and the following year sat in the County Council as Reeve of Walkerton. Mr. Russell was fearless and outspoken on all public questions and the public always knew where he stood or any matter. All of his four sons were war veterans and one of them now sleeps in Flanders Fields. He was very proud of his boys' fine record and hoped to live for their home-coming.

Mr. Russell was born in Brant Township on January 25th, 1856, being the youngest son of the late Adam Russell, a pioneer of the township. Coming to Walkerton about the age of twenty, he lived here the remaining years of his life being engaged first as constable, later conducting a large dairy business. Ill-health forced him to retire over a year ago.

He was married to Miss Emma Priscilla Benson, daughter of the late James Benson of Walkerton, who predeceased him in March, 1901, leaving a family of four sons, Stanley of Toronto, John and James now Overseas, Leith, killed in action Feb. 1916, and four daughters, (Bertha) Mrs. Ivan Thompson of London, (Ada) Mrs. Harry Shaw of Seattle, Wash., (Fannie) Mrs. Claude Cogan of Los Angeles and (Jean) Mrs. Ray Vogan of town. Mr. Russell was married for the second time in Feb. 1905 to Miss Isabella Murison of town, who survives him with no children.

He also leaves two brothers, John F. of North Bay and James of White Horse Pass, Yukon, and a half brother and sister, Daniel Procter of Owen Sound and Mrs. Hiram Loney of Wiarton.

The funeral took place on Friday afternoon from his late residence, West Ward to Walkerton Cemetery, service being conducted by Rev. R. Perdue pastor of St. Thomas Anglican Church of which the deceased was a member.

LETTER FROM MONS

A member of the Telescope publisher's family received the following letter from one of the Canadian boys who was present at the last dramatic incident of the war, the taking of Mons, the day the armistice was signed. He writes:—

At last of war is over and I am counting the days now till we leave for Canada. It seems almost too good to be true and sometimes I catch myself wondering whether we'll get a rush order to move forward or whether all my equipment is together and ready to put on in a hurry, and a hundred and one other little things a soldier has to think about when the battalion is on the move.

If we had had the choice, we couldn't have chosen a more suitable place to be at the finish, Mons, the place where the "Old Contemptibles" first met the Germans in 1914. The morning of the 11th. of November one of the battalions of our Brigade captured the city after a short fight. The 19th. Battalion following up in supports was the first battalion to march into the City at 9.30 a.m. The whole Brigade was formed up in the city square and we unloaded our rifles there.

At eleven o'clock the Armistice was officially announced and the cheering was deafening.

When we marched into the city first, the people thronged the streets to greet us and the more excited of them threw their arms around our necks as we passed along, and kissed us. They were laughing and crying by turns, overjoyed to be freed from the rule of the barbarous Germans. The streets were decorated up with flags and garlands and all the civilians were out in their best clothes. There have been celebrations nearly every day, so we have "Regroup" shining brass and buttons now. Yesterday I was on a Guard of Honor to General Horne, the Army Commander. The King and Queen of Belgium were supposed to have been here too but didn't show up. To-day I'm on a twenty-four hour Bd. Hdqrs. Guard and I expect there will be something doing every day from now on.

We are billeted in a large school building and although we are sleeping on the floor still we are pretty comfortable. There is hot and cold running water in the building and that is sure a luxury for us.

High School Notes

The fall term is now over. The scholars have all scattered to their various homes to enjoy the Christmas holidays,—the children eagerly awaiting the arrival of Santa Claus with his bag of toys and dolls. It seems difficult to realize that half of the term has slipped away; and some of the erring ones are beginning to worry about the scanty amount of learning they have assimilated. To such, however, the holidays offer plenty of leisure time for study, and they should take advantage of the opportunity to catch up.

The commencement exercises were held last Wednesday and were largely attended. The meeting opened with the chorus, 'O Canada.' Mr. H. M. Lay, who occupied the chair, then called on Mr. Morgan to explain the nature of the meeting. He referred to the High School boys who had enlisted and expressed his great pleasure at having Cadets Gordon Pfohl and Leander Bilger and Capt. Roy Whitehead in the audience. The diplomas were presented next.—Rev. Mr. Rock, Rev. Mr. Greunbach and Mr. Duncan McKerracher making the presentations. Those whose virtues were rewarded were as follows:—William Ramsey, Nelson Lay, B. S. and McCool for matriculation standing;. Admission to the Normal Schools: Minnie Baechler, Cecil Cargill, Jack Chalmers, Arthur Johnston, and Gertrude Young.. Admission to Universities and Normal Schools, Mabel Chalmers, Erma Glave, Gertrude Lewis, Alice Tolton, Vernon Tovell and Leo York. Admission to Faculties of Education, Christopher Thorburn and Jessie Wells..

The next number on the program was a piano solo by Miss Kathleen Oberle. This was followed by the chorus, Rule Britannia. Capt. Roy Whitehead then presented the winners of the championships on Field Day, with their medals; Delia Kenny senior, and Louisa Lippert, junior; for the boys, William Ramsey, senior and Ed. Ramsey junior. Capt. Whitehead then called on for a speech, expressed his delight at being able to return and emphasized the pride he felt in his country and its reputation overseas. Miss Helene Whitehead then rendered a solo which was greatly enjoyed by all present.

The speaker of the occasion, Rev. Mr. W. H. Burgess, gave an address on Education as being, not obtaining of information alone, but the relating of this to life. He paid particular attention to the ignorance on the part of most pupils of the scriptures and the importance of education along this line. The exercises were then closed with the singing of the national ant'em. The school expresses its gratitude to all those whose assistance contributed to the success of the occasion.

Among the boys in R.A.F. uniforms who are to be seen in town are some ex-students of the High School. Les Hibbert, Les McConnell, Les Bryce, Harold Lewis, Norman Vaeck, Gordon Pfohl and Leander Hilger. The boys are all in the pink of condition and are looking fine.

Miss ...ma Jacques, a London girl, has written a poem entitled "In Flanders Now" in answer to the world renowned "In Flanders Fields" by the late Lieut. Co. John McCrae, well known here and son-in-law of Geo. Eckford formerly of this place. The poem which was given out for publication last week is very fine indeed, and speaks well for the young poetess.

SOUTH LINE

The South Line annual Entertainment was held last Wednesday evening and was a real success reflecting credit upon Miss Diebel and all those who took part in the program. Mr. T. H. Tanner filled the chair and as usual was on hand with a good supply of jokes. The school girls performed very creditably in a wreath drill which was given during the program. Miss Sieling from Hanover gave several very much appreciated solos and was encored enthusiastically at every appearance on the platform. Probably the funniest thing on the program was a tableau entitled "A Public Auction," which was an auction sale of dolls and the antics of the auctioneer were very laughable. The program ended by Santa Claus appearing and distributing presents which were on the Christmas tree and by the whole gathering rising and singing the first verse of "God Save the King."

EDEN GROVE

To my knowledge no one has "Flu" in Eden Grove or flew out of it the past week. It hasn't rained, snowed or blowed. No births, marriages nor deaths. Worms are wrestling with one another all over the sidewalk. This place has become rotten—putrified. However it shows good breeding to speak well of the dead. Beautiful, entrancing, fascinating Eden Grove.

Since nothing real has occurred, perforce the writer must - to fill his space —describe a dream.

I dreamt my suggestion of last week of a Christmas tree for all had aroused some latent enthusiasm in the village and most everybody had received a gift. Many visitors from Walkerton, Cargill and Pinkerton were delighted with their timely and suitable gifts.

McBurney received a book written by Dr. Lydia E. Pinkham entitled: "The proper care of the child"

Knox of Pinkerton, a political pamphlet entitled "Union Government—Vote for Borden."

Tom Desmond received a picture of the glorious blue sky and a soft hill entitled "What is Mother without a home."

Mr. Eedy, Editor, was pleased to receive a copy of his own paper.

Mr. Wesley, Editor, a book with quotations from the bible to help out his meagre knowledge thereof.

Mac Scott received a calendar advertising Eaton's Christmas toys.

Robert Chambers smiled out loud on receipt of a registration card.

A little pig was presented to P. O'Reilly. T'was stuffed with real hair and covered with real skin supplied by the Mayor of Walkerton from various patrons.

The firm of Hunstein and Wittich received a telephone bill marked "Paid" twice.

Cameron was given one of his own bargains.

Dr. Bricker received a golden silver mounted on a beautiful reputation.

Jim Cluney was made happy with an E. & D. corset or it may have been an X. & Z. I've got to be careful about that for writing the wrong kind of letters has gotten many a man into trouble.

Mike Connors hugged happily a little baby doll.

A pair of all day suckers were given to F. Baladun and Len MacNamara. As they were different colors, this almost started a riot. Finally Santa exchanged Len's so both had a red one and good nature was restored.

Just as I was being presented with a long row of alarm clocks, the early train whistled and I rolled over, spoiling the dream.

When the Presbyterian Minister walked into the waiting room last Monday, he reminded me of the uncertainties of this mortal life and I said so.

"Get it off your chest," says he.

"Well," I says, "When the Saturday 2.45 p.m. train pulled in next day, I lost my watch. It fell between the track and the platform. On Monday morning Dick Bailey walks into the office, remember Dick is English Church stock, and asked me if the office clock was the right time."

"Give me my watch," said I.

"It's down at the house" he answered, much surprised. "How did you know I had it?"

"What has the English Church to do with that?" asked the minister.

"Because he was English Church, he was surprised and returned it," I replied.

"I'm glad you didn't say Presbyterian," says he.

"If he had been the latter I would never have gotten it" I laughed.

OLD WALKERTON SCHOOL DAYS

Visitors' Book of Sixty Years Ago Gives Interesting Side Lights On the Early Days—Teachers' Black Book Shows Boys and Girls Haven't Changed Much.

A friend of the Telescopes showed us an interesting curiosity the other day. It was the first Visitor's Book used in the old Walkerton School. The date on the first page is Nov. 29th, 1858, just sixty years ago, and the entries cover a period of sixteen years down to 1874. In those early days the Visitors Book was an important feature of the school. No important personage came to town without honoring himself and the school by a visit and writing in the visitors' book. Trustees paid an occasional visit to the school to observe and admire the progress that the pupils were making in the Three R's, and at quarterly examinations the boys and girls exhibited their knowledge to an assembly of trustees, parents and prominent citizens.

For some years Mr. D. Reid was the Principal and judging by the comments made by visitors in the Book he had a great success in "teaching the young idea how to shoot". The school was then located on the present site of Dr. Fortune's house near the C.P.R. Station, the old frame building still stands but has since been removed to a site near the Binder Twine Factory.

Col. McRae's Grandfather

The first visitor to write in the book was Mr. John Eckford, at that time superintendent of schools. If we are not mistaken Mr. Eckford was the grandfather of the late Col. John McRae, author of "In Flanders Fields". Mr. Eckford was happy to record his "high satisfaction" at Mr. Reid's good work.

Work of School Praised

On July 7th., 1860, Trustees Walter Willoughby, Hugh Wilson and Alex McCarter visited the school and expressed their satisfaction "with the progress the pupils have made." Other visitors who called during 1860 were: Rev. I. E. Sanders, Episcopal Minister, Walkerton, Rev. Peter Addison; Rev. Robt. Moffat, Minister of the U.P.C., David Smith, trustee; Miss Sarah Daniels, school teach and phrenologist, of Kincardine.

Mr. William Stitt, a visiting teacher, opined that "the system pursued by the teacher, (Mr. Reid,) is excellent, being adopted to draw out the intelligence of the pupils and bring into exercise their judgment and reasoning faculties." Trustee W. Collins, observed "a want of the requisite text books still exists." Mr. L. A. Appleton was pleased to see that gymnastic exercises were used, the order in prayer good. "Think it would be better," wrote Mr. Appleton, "if more teachers would pray with the children extempore instead of the formal prayer commonly used." Mr. A. Simpson, who visited the school on Oct. 20th., 1865, was pleased with the scholars answering especially in history, with which "they seemed to be perfectly well acquainted." Mr. W. T. Cox, of the Goderich Signal, was "gratified to see that Walkerton was making so much progress in the important work of education." Mr. Alex Shaw visited the school on Feb. 2nd., 1866, and was pleased at the discipline and the "kindly feeling which existed between teacher and pupils."

Public Examinations

At the examinations held on Dec. 21, 1866, the visitors present included:—Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Mrs Wisser, Mr. Willoughby, Mrs. D. Smith, Dr. Caseldy, Mr. Collins, Mr. Short, Mr. Eckford, Mrs. Blair. The following March examinations were again held at which the visitors were:—Messrs. Wm. Brown, W. Collins, David Smith, Henry Bacon, Geo. Kennedy, Charles Stevens, Louis Wisser. Other visitors during the year were:—James Flett, F. Anderson, teacher U.S.S. No. 1, Greenock and Culross; Wm. S. Clendenning, teacher, S.S. No. 7, Saugeen, George Gould, H. P. O'Connor, Alexander Taylor, James Hargreaves, Robert Pinkerton, Mr. J. Lambe, Mr. McCall J. S. Chisholm, A. B. St. John, Wm. Sellery.

At the Christmas Examinations 1868 the visitors included:—Chas. B. Stevens, Simon Wallace, David Smith, Wm. Collins, Mrs. Blair, Miss Wallace, Miss Noble. Other visitors during the year were:—Rev. Wm. Irwin, George Owen, James McAudrew, teacher S.S. No. 2, Carrick, J. W. Anderson, teacher Kinkiklien; James Ferguson, J.P., Jno. Lamb, Robt. Young, S. Roether, A. Stephen, Col. Kingsmill, .

In 1870 the list of names included:—James Eckford, Reeve of Brant, Rev. W. Henderson, T. H. Nelson, David F. Mickle, Peter Dow, Jas. Anderson, Dr. L. Sinclair, H. P. O'Connor, Mrs. John Cosgrove, Mrs. John Burdon, Mrs. Wm. Sutton, John Cosgrove, Richard Rivers, Rev. J. P. Curran, Robt. Young, John A. McGill, F. R. Waugh, H. Langdon, George W. Richardson, Mr. and under W. Clendenninglings principal-Mrs. John Burdon, Wm. Carter, Mrs. E. Kilmer, Mrs. J. Clarke, Mrs. G. Gould, Miss Mann.

Mr. Clendenning Praised

The work of the school in 1871 under W. S. Clendenning's principalship received high praise. One visitor speaks of overcrowding. Mr. C. B. Stevens thought the teachers deserved more encouragement in their good work from trustees and parents.

Teacher's Black Book

Not the least interesting feature are the memos written in pencil at the back of the book, where the short comings of pupils in the early 70s, were noted down by the teacher. Some of them will awake long forgotten memories in the minds of some of our readers:—

Sept. 21—Mag Wallace, Annie and Edward Bell beat Ellz Riley yesterday on the way home from school. Warned them.

Sept. 21—J. Harkley and Wm. Schwartz throwing stones at Nelsons

Sept. 22—C. Reisa played truant.

Sept. 25—F. Gould talked to A. Harkley in class.

Oct. 2—W. Rothwell played truant, Father brought him.

Oct. 2—Wm. Chambers played truant last week—excused by father, punished if occurs again.

Oct. 2—Wm. McCormack played truant. Warned.

Oct. 15—J. Grainger, Jas. Anderson, R. Eby stonethrowing.

Oct. 17—W. Grainger and I. Reichenbach annoying Grasser on the way home.

Oct. 23—A Gould, throwing stones, hit M. A. Morrison to be thrashed next time.

Feb. 6—Angus McGregor fighting James Burrell.

Mar. 5, Alex McGregor slapped Geo. Widdis' face.

Nov. 16—F. Gould, M. Burrell, M. Delaney, abusing F. Richardson.

Dec. 1—W. Gould struck Dan Steele on the nose and made it bleed. Dan forgave him, let go again.

Dec. 5—S. Micklo copying off book at Spelling. Advised.

Dec. 19—W. Sheans wrote trash on slate. Punished. Promised not to repeat.

Jan. 17—W. Ross and C. Nelson quarrelling and fighting on street.

We are glad to know that all the delinquents whose names appear above did not come to a bad end. Not one of them has been hanged and some of them actually grew up to be good citizens. Perhaps the correction meted out them, which we note was well tempted with mercy, did the trick.

News About Town

A Toronto evening paper states that its subscription price of $4 a year does not even cover the cost of the white paper.

North Brant Farmers' Club was represented at the U.F.O. convention at Toronto last week by Messrs. Alex Rae, J. W. Findlay, Herman Monk, Frank Fischer, and Wm. Hirsmith.

Pte. J. T. Coles of Paisley, who enlisted with the 160th., is expected home from Overseas shortly.

Mr. Hugh McKerracher of Paisley visited his brother Mr. D. McKerracher last Thursday.

Look At Your Label

The address label on your Telescope tells the date to which it is paid. See that it reads "Jan. 20", which means that your subscription for the coming year is paid.

Coming News Years Day

There are women—thousands of them—in France, and, in two years have not had a comb, brush or hairpin. D. W. Griffith makes this statement. And Mr. Griffith ought to know, for he spent eighteen months in France producing "Hearts of the World" his greatest achievement, which comes to Walkerton Opera House Wed. Jan. 1st. Reserve seats at McCraim's Book Store

Expected Home Soon

Three years ago Alex Hulk enlisted with the 118th. Batt'n. His brother, John, tried to sign up at the same time but was rejected. Alex has come through the big fray without a scratch, although he has had trench fever and writes his brother, John, who is now living at the old home near Enniskillen, that he expects to be home soon and have a chat with his old neighbor. Alex has been acting as Military Police [illegible].

PLEASANT WAY ALWAYS BEST

Nothing Ever Lost by Effort to Take Sting Out of Request That Must Be Refused.

Do you know how to take the sting out of anything unpleasant you have to do? It is a good plan to learn how to do this.

"She said she couldn't do it, but you know how Effie would say such a thing. She tries so hard to make everybody feel pleasant. Now, when I say no, people understand that I mean no."

Marcia looked as well pleased with herself as if she had announced a more amiable characteristic. She was a girl with a peculiarly blunt and uncompromising manner. If she refused a request, her refusal was as downright as a blow. It was never softened by any little phrase suggesting regret. And Marcia was no well satisfied with herself that she felt something like contempt for the way Effie took the sting out of saying no, and made the people to whom she refused a favor as grateful as if she had granted it.

The girl who starts to go through life with her elbows out is going to find the road hard to travel. If she prides herself on being blunt and outspoken, she may need to use that as consolation for her sore heart many a time. It pays to make even a refusal pleasant. It pays to take out the sting whenever possible, and drop in the honey. One who starts out as Marcia did, priding herself on being blunt, and contemptuous of the little courtesies, is likely to come to old age friendless and embittered. Learn to be pleasant and take out the sting.—Exchange.

ADD COLOR TO THE GARDEN

Goldfinches, Always Attracted by Sunflowers, Make Beauty Spot Especially Attractive.

A very familiar bird in our gardens, especially when there are sunflowers growing there, is the beautiful little American goldfinch.

Their deep black wings and tail and little cap form a striking, though pleasing, contrast to their bright yellow bodies.

Because of their sweet, canary-like notes they are often called wild canaries.

They are very sociable little birds, being found usually in small flocks; they even build their nests in small communities.

When winter approaches the male changes his bright yellow coat for one of a soberer color closely resembling that of the female.

Numbers of them feed upon the sunflowers in my garden every year, and it is a pleasing sight to go in there and see their bright yellow bodies flashing in the sun.

They are hardy little fellows, spending the entire winter with us.—New York Sun.

Moving Pictures for the Home.

A comparatively inexpensive combination moving-picture camera and projector for amateur use is illustrated in Popular Mechanics Magazine. It bears about the same relation to the costly and heavy professional machines as a compact, light camera does to a cumbersome apparatus employed by portrait photographers. Exclusive of its tripod, the new movie camera weighs less than three and a half pounds. It uses standard film and is operated as easily as any simple "still" instrument. The capacity of its magazines, designed for daylight loading, is twenty feet, which, because eight instead of sixteen pictures are taken per second, records as much action as forty feet of film in a professional machine. Sharp, clear pictures capable of reasonable enlargement for "stills" are obtained. By changing the transmitting a light frame with reels of 200-foot capacity, and mounting a small, cylindrical lamphouse, the camera is converted into a projector.

Serbians Great Walkers.

All Serbian peasants are great walkers. A servant, given a short leave, will think nothing of footing it to his home, five and twenty miles off, and walking back after a short day spent with his family.

It is quite in the ordinary way of their business for both men and women to be two days on the road to market.

Owing to their remarkable marching powers Serbian troops are mobilised and moved with surprising rapidity, in spite of the great lack of railway communication. And their they march light.

With little in the bread-bag that hangs at his belt the Serbian soldier is quite content if only he can roll himself a cigarette now and then and look forward perhaps to a tot of plum-cognac.

His Knew.

The Fat Customer—I want half a dozen collars, please.

The Clerk—What size?

The F. C.—Thirteen and a half.

The Clerk—Surely you must take a larger collar than that. What size shirt do you wear?

The F. C.—Sixteen.

The Clerk—Then why do you wish such a small collar?

The F. C.—Why, confound ye, I'm buying them for my boy!

Uplift of Coyote.

The despised coyote has lived to see the day when his pelt is sought in the fur markets of the world as one of the prizes of the trapper's pack. The skin of the prairie wolf today brings a price up to $15, according to the quotations in the fur buyer's list. Up till last year this fur was a drug on the market.—Dawson News.

OUR SOLDIERS' LETTERS

Bombardier Louis Dippell M. M. writes Racy Account of His Experiences in Northern Russia—How Norman Helwig Won Military Cross—Letter from France

SOMEWHERE IN RUSSIA

Bombardier Louis Dippell M.M. who is in Northern Russia with a British, French American Expedition fighting the Bolsheviki, after three years' service in France sends his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Dippell, the spicily written letter which we publish below. Louis landed at Murman a couple of months ago, and the river which he refers to is the Dwina.

Dear folks at home:—

In my last letter written while we were still on the barge, I promised to write again in a few days. Since then though no mail has gone out, which is rather rotten in one way, but then again it is the best excuse yet for not writing every week. On the 10th., of Oct., we were very busy and since then it has been very hard to get the time, inclination, writing material and light together at one time. Lloyd Seamon and his bunch left two weeks ago going up one of the tributaries.

On the barge which is still with us we had a fine time. For the first week about all we did was to put in time. After that we started to unload guns at various points and load them up again, but now I think that we won't revert to the "navy" till Spring, especially as the river is supposed to be frozen up. We also stopped at one point to unload rations from some other barge for some other troops. It is never hard to get a fatigue party to help unload rations etc. belonging to other people. We took out for our own commission. We are up the river back a ways the guns being hauled up by our Russian ponies. Each driver has a team and they are the most willing animals to work I have ever seen. To make them stop you burr-r-r-r. To start them the Russians just shake the lines and all the drivers about much and keep on yelling and the more you yell the harder they pull. On the barge the signalling corporal and I had, I believe, the best bed, as we happened to see a couple of spare Hospital cots on the wharf. We were sorry to leave the barge for we were quite comfortable.

I am writing this in the signal shack, which is not too bad as signal stations go, but has had to be remodelled so often that it has quite a patch work look. First we had the station below a small hill and nearly finished when we had to move it in order to visual signal to another station. First of all the door faced East and were about finished when it had to face West so the enemy wouldn't see so much of our movements. Then the window was put in so we could read the other sections signals without going outside. I forget to mention this shack is double-boarded with earth between, the lumber being obtained from one peasant and the saw to cut it with from another just to show we play no favorites. We made a stove out of a biscuit tin which is O.K. except it eats up an awful lot of wood and is rather small for the wood. We always have a little fire going to make the place comfortable. The other day the other section moved again causing more internal disagreements.

We, i. e. Sub A. and Sub B., are billeted in houses and are not too badly off. The houses are all log and everything is wooden, and also everything is made without nails. I believe there were no nails around until we came. There are no cooking stoves. Every farm is self contained with its own little hand mill to make flour. The people sleep on the floor and never undress but for all that are fairly clean. They are very religious and superstitious, crossing themselves whenever they enter a room, and they do not allow any whistling in the house.

They have nothing we can buy from them. Money is really no value here so do not send any, except a few potatoes, sometimes a few eggs or a little milk. Their bread is very coarse, very brown and often sour, so we prefer hard tack. The Church and the school are the only decent buildings.

All the cooking is done in some kind of a metal clay bowls and everything is very crude. The war itself is very much the same as in France only not so violent and I have had the pleasure of dodging shells and being sniped at. They are very poor riflemen in this country. By joining the Bolsheviki army you sort of get a license to kill, plunder and take what you can at the expense of the other poor people.

Yours as ever, L.

HOW NORMAN HELWIG WON DECORATION

Lieut. Norman Helwig, formerly of Walkerton, tells the thrilling story of his last big fight in Belgium in the following letter to his father, Mr. Helwig of Hanover. Norman has since been decorated by the King for the exploit which he all too modestly describes in this letter.

Rotterdam, Nov. 26, 1918.

Dear Dad:

The reason you have not heard from me before was that I could not write you. We were allowed to write two letters a month but as they had no paper that was impossible. I tried to induce a Major in the German Flying Corps to drop a message on our side saying I was a prisoner but the beggars came our lines so seldom I doubt if he did it. I also smuggled 2 letters across by people who were being repatriated. You may have received those. I'm going on shore this afternoon and will send a cablegram. Would have done this before but had no money. I found a bank that would accept my cheque and succeeded in getting five pounds.

What I really want to tell you in this letter is how I was taken prisoner. I'm heartily ashamed of myself and want you to know that it, or rather we, tried our best to get back. It was on the morning of Sept. 27, the opening day of, perhaps, the battle which ended the war. We anticipated this battle for days and had our job set. On the previous night Bennett, my pilot, and I were warned that we would lead the first bomb-raid in the morning on an enemy bridge about 18 or 20 miles behind, near Cambrai. I was wakened next morning by the sound of our barrage. The battle had commenced. I scrambled out of bed and pulled on my togs, and went into the mess for a cup of tea before starting. I met the others there. The Major was also there and took Bennett and I to a map and pointed out our objective and offered a few words of advice. There were eight machines in the raid and each carried two 112-lb. bombs and four 25-lb. bombs. We arranged to take off the ground separately and meet later over the aerodrome. Bennett tried his engine and I looked over my guns and got started. The others followed on and about twenty minutes later we began to assemble. I fired a light the assembly signal, and two machines hurriedly swung in unto our tail. The other five I could see in the distance. We turned towards them but our engine was not running at all well and we never succeeded in catching up with them. Thinking that we had gone back, they carried on and about an hour later crossed over. We three tolled on and after almost two hours Bennett urged her up to about 11,000 feet. In the meantime one of the two machines with us "wanted out" and returned to the drome. Just before crossing over I called "Benny" up on the phone and asked him what he thought about going the whole way alone, because I knew and he knew there would be swarms of Huns about. We were both anxious to reach our objective and had often gone over alone before under similar conditions. So we decided to go. Perhaps it was wrong going so far over alone and taking the other chap with us but I could see no use in wasting all our time and bombs on anything but the objective.

We reached the objective without seeing a single other machine. I took a good sight and though I did not hit the bridge we got good hits on the road nearby, which was jammed with traffic. We turned around and started homeward, a 40-mile wind blowing against us and making our progress slow. We had hardly turned when Bennett signalled to me and pointed six machines out to be the newest kind of German scout. I told Bennett and got my guns ready, ready for a scrap. They were soon onto us. The first dived and fired a burst. I gave him a short burst and he turned aside. The next came and he too turned aside. After that I can remember very few details of the fight. But I know it was the biggest and longest fight it had ever been in. Our other machine got away from me and the six devoted their attention to us. I happened to turn around and saw Bennett's face in the mirror. He was grinning so I grinned back and went on fighting. I never had so many bullets around my head before. His machines with two guns each and all going at once! They dived and fired, then swung around and dived again. I could only fire a few rounds at each. Bennett got one fellow in his sights and dived. I believe he went down. I only saw five after that. Soon I got one. He went straight down, black and white smoke streaming out behind. Almost at the same time I gave another one a good bullet. He looped and spun down. And just as I thought we were safe I fired my last round. All my ammunition was gone. Soon they realized this and down they came. It was bad before but nothing like this. Almost every bullet was a pit. . Suddenly the machine swerved and I knew Bennett was hit. But he soon had her in control again. At almost the same moment our engine stopped. That, too, had been hit. Our rudder control was gone and down we went. How Bennett ever kept control of it I don't know. The Huns followed, firing all the way. I kept standing and swung my gun, trying to bluff them that it was working. Perhaps I succeeded, because they kept their distance. The ground came nearer and nearer. I didn't know whether we would reach it alive or not. Indeed, I didn't hope for anything so wonderful. I was so sorry for Bennett. He was working splendidly and saved our lives dozens of times by his splendid manoeuvring.

I glanced around once more and saw we almost on the ground. I knew we would crash and braced myself. I have been in three pretty rotten smashes before but never one like this. Thank goodness these are over quickly—the whole thing only lasted five minutes

We just skimmed a telegraph pole and hit the ground. The machine turned completely over and piled up on top of us. I must have been knocked out at first because I seemed to wake up in a daze and found myself under the machine with guns and wires and fabrics piled around my head. I managed to find a hole and crawled out. I was afraid we might catch on fire. Bennett was just loosening himself and I helped him to crawl away and then went back to get her on fire. But a hundred of the beggars were on top of us, yelling and gesticulating. I could not find a flare for the pistol and stood there with the thing dangling in my hands, waiting to be made a prisoner. I walked over to Bennett and began undressing him. He was hit twice, once in the foot and once in the hip. A German officer arrived and I told him Bennett was wounded and he sent for a medical orderly. We were about two hours behind the German line and shells were bursting quite fairly around us. A cart soon arrived and we were put into this and taken to some German headquarters where we were separated, Bennett went to hospital and I to a dungeon to spend the night.

FROM HOSPITAL IN BELGIUM

Trooper Max Wilson, brother of Mrs. Lorne A. Eedy, writes from Belgium:—

I have been back to the battalion and was at Mons but my poor old knee wouldn't stand the marching so they have sent me back to the hospital again. My knee is known in the army as synovitis knee. Can you get that. I also have a few old gun scars broken out again so I am known in hospital as a "chum." My voice is gone too. If you and I were in a small room and I should feel loud and you paid strict attention you might know what I was talking about. However the voice will come back, and the sores will get better but I am afraid I will always have a limp in that knee but it doesn't hurt me only when I exercise it so maybe it will improve with time. That I think is all my trouble except that mail never reaches me anymore and I don't think it need bother writing until I can give you some definite address.

I think that I will ask for a medical board on this knee as soon as I can as if I don't stand some chance of being sent home, now is the time over is over.

You should have seen the people we liberated at Mons. They crowded us and cried over us and kissed us and that great big city was all ours. The 45th., had the honor of being the first in Mons and I understand the 3rd. Division is going to be decorated by the Belgium government for the relief of Mons. They just think we Canadians are the finest people in the world and believe you and me, Sister, we are.

It is hard to realize that the war is over, isn't it? There are hundreds of repatriated prisoners of war returning every day and the poor fellows have a pitiful tale to tell and their looks certainly show what they have been through. The Germans could have been obliged in a short time anyhow without our big offensive on account of the blockade and their food supply. It is only now we can see the result of the navy has done.

Your loving son,

POULTRY MANAGEMENT

To Make the Farm Flock Pay Best Only One Must Have Charge.

Electric Lighting Is a Great Convenience on the Farm—Wiring Costs About $160, While a Small Plant Should Not Exceed $500.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

SUCCESSFUL poultry-keepers are found much more frequently among those who operate what is termed a "one-man plant" than elsewhere. This simply means that poultry require some one person's attention, or that personal attention is so important that it is usually not to be found efficient among the ordinary laborers.

Poultry know the time of day when it is customary to feed them, and, perhaps, equally as well all other daily tasks. They respond fairly well to the kind of sympathy of the feeder. If the feeder rushes into the pen and throws the feed around the poultry usually rush out of the way or out of the doors if they can get there. Fright reduces egg production. Particularly nervous hens, when badly frightened, sometimes cease laying for several days. The person caring for the poultry should be fond of them, and take an interest in them. One's interest usually goes up or down with the production of the flock. To maintain keen interest when the production is low, or when the flock is out of condition, is the real test. If you hold on and study the flock, generally speaking, you will succeed.

A change of attendants, even when both are good at the work, nearly always means a decrease in production for some days. The careful feeder knows just about what this or that flock requires as to quantity of feed, etc., and further, he or she usually goes about the work on a definite plan so that in time the birds know just what to expect, not only as to time and quantity of feed given, but the movements of the attendants in the pen.

The writer ventures to assert that if the poultry on the farms of Ontario were, on each farm, given over to one person to look after, that there would be a very great increase in the success of the undertaking as well as a very large increase in the production; even as much as twenty-five per cent. in many instances.

No line of live stock responds more to careful attention than poultry. The boy or girl on the farm can learn much of how to feed and what to feed. They may learn something of the effects of breeding.

Successful poultry-keepers know that there is a time to hatch and rear, a time to cull, a time to sell, a time to clean and disinfect, as well as a time to feed.

Plenty of farmers are making money from poultry, but they know poultry do that only when given careful and systematic attention.—Prof. W. R. Graham, O. A. College, Guelph.

Principles of Electric Lighting.

In the year 1800, Volta, a famous Italian physicist, discovered that if a plate of copper and one of zinc were placed in weak sulphuric acid, and connected by a wire above the acid, there was transmitted along the wire a certain amount of energy, which transmission we speak of as a current of electricity, comparing it to a current of water. As it requires pressure or head to make water flow, so it requires pressure to make electricity flow. The pressure of the simple cell described above is called a volt, in honor of its discoverer. A dynamo generating 32 volts would have a pressure equal to that of 32 simple cells.

Electric energy passing through fine wires will heat them white hot, hence electricity may be used for lighting. Current for this purpose usually has a pressure of 110 volts, when supplied by light and power companies, but private plants usually generate only about 32 volts. All current generated by dynamos is alternating when made, i.e., it flows in one direction for half a revolution of the dynamo and then in the opposite direction during the other half, but by fitting the dynamo with a commutator (which means changer) these waves of current may all be sent in the same direction along the distribution lines. It is then called direct current or D.C.

Now alternating current, or A.C., may be used for lighting, just as well as D.C. If the alternations are very rapid the light is perfectly steady, but if too slow the lights will fluctuate in brightness, and the light is hard on the eyes. Many light and power companies supply A.C.

However, A.C. cannot be used to charge storage cells and hence private plants which usually have storage batteries must be of the D.C. variety. This is also true of lighting systems for automobiles.

One-horse power will run 30 ordinary tungsten lamps, each giving from 22 to 24 candle-power, while if they are nitrogen filled each lamp will give about 45 c.p., hence it would take only about half a horse power to give the same light as before. As the ordinary farm probably would not require more than, say, four lights on an average of two hours per day, taking the whole year round, it is easy seen that the amount of power required is very small. The outlay for wiring the buildings is a great deal with circumstances, but probably $160 would be a fair average.

Anyone who is not far from the distributing lines of any electric power plant he may install a small plant of his own. The original cost of these will run from $300 to $500, depending on size and type, and the interest on this amount would be the fairest part of the cost of light for the farm, the cost of running the plant being only a few cents a day.—H. R. Graham, B.S.A., O. A. College, Guelph.

UNDERDRAINAGE PAYS

Proven Methods of Draining Low Land, Swamps and Springs.

Mutual Respect and Confidence Are the Keynotes of Successful Co-operation — How These May Be Developed In Any Community.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

IN general the conditions making drains necessary are those where the gravitational or free water is either on the surface of the land or so close to the surface as to interfere with the proper growth of plant roots. The instances where the water is lying on the land, such as in pond holes, sloughs, pockets, swamps, etc., are very common in Ontario, and it is usually an easy matter for these conditions to be remedied. They may be remedied either by means of open ditches or a system of tile drains.

Where there is a large area of low-lying land which is uniformly wet, such as we have in the southwestern counties, namely, Kent, Essex and Lambton, tile drains augmented by open ditches are used, and sometimes when the wet land is the same or possibly lower than the lake level dikes are constructed and pumps installed to remove the water. Other instances where low-lying and flat lands require drainage are those which are occasionally flooded either during the spring freshets or during heavy rains. If no means has been provided for this water to be removed quickly the crops growing on this land will be killed out, and thus cause financial loss to the land owners.

In the case of underground springs we have a condition where the impervious layer of the subsoil has caused the underground water to be blocked and held to such an extent that it eventually comes to the surface. These can be prevented by having a tile drain put in a short distance above the springs so that the water may be cut off and conveyed to a proper outlet.

Another instance is that where irrigation is being carried on. In some of the irrigation districts the water is fairly saturated with alkali salts. When this water is used for irrigation it is spread over the land and eventually is evaporated from the surface of the soil or from the leaves of plants and trees by the sun, the alkali being left on the surface. This alkali accumulates until it becomes so strong as to prevent the growth of plants or trees.

The more this alkali it is necessary to install a system of underdrains, then thoroughly flood the soil which is saturated with alkali, thus dissolving the alkali and allowing the water to pass off through the drains, thereby removing the alkali. After this has been removed it will be necessary to use a greater amount of water for irrigation of this soil, and after each irrigation as soon as the water has been evaporated to such an extent that the remaining water is almost saturated with alkali the free water remaining in the soil and containing this saturated solution of alkali must be allowed to run off through the drains.

Across many Ontario farms we see small creeks flowing at least part of the season. In many instances where this occurs the drain can be placed parallel to this creek, and except during the spring freshets or after very heavy rains the water will flow through this drain, thereby obviating the use of the creek. When this drain is installed the creek banks could be levelled, and instead of being a creek with ragged banks and weeds and small trees growing alongside, could be converted into a scoop ditch. This ditch could be of such a nature as to allow farm machinery to cross back and forth, and would take care of the occasional heavy flows of water.

In all conditions where the ground water comes within two and a half feet of the surface of the soil it is necessary for this to be removed to some distance so that plants may have proper root growth.—W. R. Scott, B.S.A., O. A. College, Guelph.

Philosophy of Having a Good Time.

Take the "I" out of toil and you have oil. You can't take the hard work out of farming as easily as that, but a little run robs it of much of its drudgery. Good times are the oil in the toil of agriculture. That is what a great many sincere persons overlook who study economics more than human nature.

When we attempt to organize a farmers' association, what is done? Why right away a vast amount of talking is committed about education and improvement. Both are good, of course, and the farmer, in common with all humanity, wants to improve — there's a difference between improving and being improved — but he's not always so sure that the association will effect the improving.

To begin with, he is often not too well acquainted with his real neighbors—the men in the inside of the town he knows now and then, when only to kindred spirits. Then after a hard day's work he is prone to stay quietly at home in preference to driving several miles and, under a smoky lamp, the old problems in much the same old way.

But there's one thing everyone welcomes—a good time. Organize a [illegible] in some form — only there's nothing collective about it; each goes his own way in his own time. Really perhaps the neighbors [illegible] have a better time at the club [illegible] and then they can get home [illegible] they'll get without worrying.

[illegible] the logical starting point [illegible] never finds it hard to get [illegible] to meet for pleasure—to have a good time.

And it leads to other things, too. As people become better acquainted [illegible] respect and confidence develops. That is the fundamental and first step to business co-operation.—Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Milt was over the top ten times in the last great offensive and had a part in four big battles coming through without a scratch.

An Old-Timer

One of the real old-timers of Walkerton is Ex-Coun. Con. H. Schnurr. Mr. Schnurr came to this town as a lad of 17 years. At that time Walkerton had not been incorporated and Mr. William Collins, father of our present Town Clerk, was the reeve of Walkerton and Brant Tp. Mr. Schnurr remembers well when Joseph Walker, the founder of Walkerton, was elected first Mayor of the County Town. Few citizens of those early days survive Messrs. R. E. Truax, M.P., Mr. R. H. McKay and Mrs. Louis Wisser about completing the list. Mr. Schnurr kept a butcher shop for years on the corner now occupied by the Bell Telephone Co. When the big fire of 1874 occurred, he was foreman (in the pork packing plant on the property now occupied by Messrs. Stephan Bros. residence. Mr. Schnurr worked like a trojan helping to get the goods out of burning buildings and tells many interesting incidents that happened on that memorable day.
